The young folks of the area who want to learn the game of golf are being offered the opportunity of getting off on the right foot under the watchful eye of Pro Tom Cioffi at Heritage Ridge Country Club.

Cioffi is starting a Junior Golf Clinic at Heritage Saturday with weekly sessions every Saturday at noon. The clinic will include teaching the basic fundamentals of the game and play on the nine hole course under supervision of Cioffi and other known instructors in the area.

Cost for participation in the clinic has been established at $3 per student and will include play on the course.

A Las Vegas lesson

The fire in the MGM Grand in Las Vegas last week has repercussions all the way to St Lucie County

If there was a tragic lesson in the disaster, it was the lack of equipment to handle a high-rise fire and improper planning for fires that saw the top floors of the hotel without even a sprinkler system to retard fire.

Recent zoning change approval of six twenty-story high rises in St Lucie County was made in the face of the fact that the fire department there cannot fight a fire over the tenth floor, and the applicants were not required to install sprinkler systems in the higher floors.

Safety can be costly, but there should be a safety responsibility in every approval granted for construction.

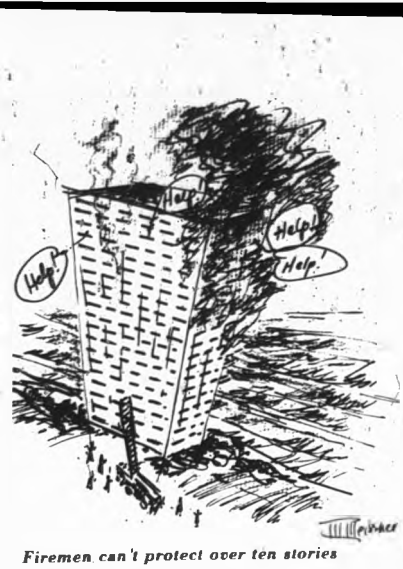
Martin County leads the way with its four-story limitation on buildings

Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano has pointed out the danger of high-rise development again and again, but Luciano does not live in St. Lucie County.

His fire department, however, will have to fight the fires in the southern end of St. Lucie County as it would just be several minutes for his trucks to get over there, while it would take a half-hour or longer for the Ft. Pierce South Beach department to drive down the island to reach a high-rise on fire.

The residents of already constructed high-rises on the island should begin now to plan for fire emergencies. They should install a sprinkler system above the fifth floor, and plan what would be done in the event of a fire.

We need no Las Vegas tragedy in this area. We need proper fire protection, and now.



Firemen can't protect over ten stories

Savannas need cabinet support

It is difficult to compare one good thing with another to endeavor to find which one deserves more support than the other. It must be frustrating to have that kind of responsibility.

The Florida Cabinet has such a choice to make in the disposition of funding for endangered lands. There are just so many dollars available, and the demand for those dollars has all areas of Florida seeking the Cabinet's ear and vote.

We hope that the people will respond to the pleas for letters asking the individual cabinet members to vote for the completion of Savannas purchases so that the beautiful parklands can be saved for the future.

It would be defeating the project if the funding is not forthcoming. Much land has already been purchased. Much more needs to be bought so that the fragile lands can be placed under the protection of the parks department.

We believe that the Savannas have a priority that has been overlooked in the competition for state dollars. The project was started years ago when the lands purchase bond issue was passed by the people of Florida.

There are many projects in a higher position on the endangered lands list that are newcomers.

We can save the Savannas. It will take hard work in the next week, and many letters calling the project to the attention of the members of the Florida Cabinet.

Write now, right now.

BY CONGRESSMAN SKIP BAFALIS

When is an agreement not really an agreement?

When it's an agreement with the Soviet Union.

An agreement, according to Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, is a "contract duly executed and legally binding."

But the SALT I agreement apparently is binding only on the United States; the Soviet Union has violated not only the spirit of that agreement but also the letter. The same holds true of all other arms agreements with the communists.

Example: the SALT I calls for a 150 kiloton limit on underground nuclear tests. Yet, on September 14, the Soviets conducted an underground nuclear test more than twice that size — an undertaking even our State Department admits.

Example: the 1972 ABM treaty calls for limits on anti-ballistic missile systems. Yet, the Soviets recently tested both their SA-10 and SA-5 surface to air missile tracking radars in an anti-ballistic missile mode.

Example: the 1972 biological weapons convention calls for consultations. But the Soviets recently had an outbreak of anthrax at Sverdlovsk which apparently stemmed from germ warfare tests. The Soviets' contention that the outbreak occurred due to 'natural' causes just doesn't wash, given the knowledge U.S. intelligence agencies have.

And these are just a few examples of the manner in which the Soviet Union ignores the provisions of the treaties which it signs.

The United States, on the other hand, has deliberately ruled out nuclear tests over the 150 kiloton limit. Further, we've gone the extra mile to avoid any appearance of violating SALT I by dismantling two Polaris missile submarines even though SALT I didn't require the step until the first new Trident submarine goes on line next summer.

In fact, the U.S. is even adhering strictly to the terms of the SALT II agreement, even though it has never been ratified by the U.S. Senate and therefore isn't legally binding.

The Soviets, on the other hand, have no such qualms.

Congressman Robin Beard of Tennessee revealed recently that the Soviets conducted a five-day test simulating reloads of its SS-18 ICBM silos — a violation of the provisions of SALT II.

In addition, the Soviets have begun camouflaging new submarines, stockpiling SS-16 mobile ICBM's and coding their missile telemetry — all in violation of the provisions of SALT II.

Despite this horrendous record, there are still those in the Congress and the outgoing administration who feel the SALT II treaty should be ratified.

And that's ridiculous!

If the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan was reason enough to put off ratification of the SALT II agreement, the Soviets' long record of ignoring earlier treaties should be reason enough to kill the SALT II entirely.

Instead of talking about ratification, the Congress should be clamoring for treaties with strict provisions for verification — so we can be certain the Soviets live up to their end of the agreements.

It's time for the U.S. to stop being a patsy. It's time for the U.S. to stop unilateral disarmament and insist on rigid quid pro quos from the Soviet Union for every step we take.

It's fine to talk about disarmament. Everyone knows this would be a better world if we could obtain it.

But any steps toward disarmament must be realistic.

And SALT II isn't.

Dick Campbell

You know it's a bad day...

We worked until about midnight and I was pretty pooped when I finally got home. I fell into bed and slept a deep sleep.

When I got up in the morning, I staggered back to let the dogs out. I knew when I stepped into the bathroom there was something wrong.

Little Bennie had had an accident in the night, and I stepped into the accident. I hopped into the shower.

I cut myself while shaving. It was a little nick, but it was there. I stopped it with a piece of toilet tissue.

I put on my blue slacks and dressed, let the dogs in and gave Bennie his pill that cures accidents. Then I made some grapefruit juice and found I was out of my morning 8-1.

When I got to the car, I found that a peacock had left a message on my hood, so I washed down the car and headed out for my morning coffee at the Village Corner, my morning coffee that would make me people.

It was about 7:30 a.m.

When I walked in, the coffee was placed before me, and I savored each drop. It was just a few drops when Peggy walked in and announced that she was going up to get papers for the Corner and would return to have her coffee in a moment.

I had a few more drops of coffee, wondering what else could happen, and if I should turn to the horoscope immediately, instead of waiting until I finished with the comic pages of the Herald.

Suddenly, Sandy rushed up, grabbed my coffee and dumped it in a paper cup, saying, "Peg says hurry. The van is broken down."

I rushed out the door and raced the car up the hill to The Mirror office. There was the van, sitting right in the middle of Sunview Road, a cripple.

I called the station. They would be there as soon as someone else came.

Rather than stand around and worry, I began unloading the newspapers. I got a bunch of them in when the guys came from the station. They found that the van was locked in both first gear and reverse.

I thought it was impossible to be locked in both gears, but there it was.

They tried everything, and finally had to drop the transmission to move the van. In the meantime, I was directing traffic around the van, and enduring the slings and arrows of all the guys that work at Porter and Bandy down the hill.

When the gears were free, they towed the van up to the parking lot and told me to unload it and they would come back and get it. I continued unloading.

When son Rick came to help out, I had just finished unloading all of the newspapers onto the parking lot, and then had to reload them into Rick's pickup for delivery to all the waiting Port St. Lucie carriers.

Off he went with Pam, our circulation director in Port St. Lucie.

In the meantime, the crew had started the mailing process. I was hauling the newspapers into the office when I bent over to put a bundle on the floor.

"Your pants are split," Peg said quietly.

I couldn't hide in the office, but I knew I had better hide somewhere.

It was almost one when the phone rang, and Peg told me that the director of advertising for Eckerd Drug had arrived, and we went out to visit with him. We agreed to meet for dinner and at about 4:30 I suddenly realized that I had not bought a present for Sally. Her birthday was on Thanksgiving day, the following day.

I raced around and found some good things, and walked into the house looking like I had planned it that way.

"Your pants are split," Sally said.

We got through the evening pretty well, with dinner and some music for entertainment, and I was home at 10 p.m.

There's a good movie on," Sally said.

"No I'm going right to bed," I countered. "Nothing else is going to happen to me."

I went straight to bed, put my glasses and a glass of water on the nightstand, and determinedly set about going right to sleep.

Reaching for a sip of water, I knocked the glasses and the water off on the floor.

I just left them there.

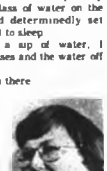
Canned cranberries attack!



Thanksgiving isn't considered to be a holiday full of thrills and dangers. Unless, of course, you're one of those who pursue the wild boar for the feast or insist on fresh-caught rattlesnake for canapes.

And I'm none of the above. I expect a frozen -or even a fresh but dormant-turkey to be layed-back, a passive, participant in the annual eating ritual. I count on the vegetables to do their bit even to keeping their vitamins under control. I look for dessert to have a sweet disposition.

So there was nothing in my experience to alert me to the danger of canned cranberries. In fact, I've been exposed to cranberries in their wild state and while I can't say I escaped without a scratch, they weren't all that vicious.

But on Wednesday night before Turkey Day, while hunting the canned cranberry in its whole and unjelled state, I was viciously attacked by a can of them in a local grocery store. Sixteen ounces of fury encased in metal armor hurtled itself from a top shelf and dashed itself against my toe which was vulnerably thrusting itself out of its toeless shoe. I admired the cranberry can's unerring aim to strike on target when it could have wasted its effort on yards of unoccupied floor space all around me.

But that was later. At the moment of attack I merely reacted to the message coming to me from my toe: "Goldarnit, that hurt! What are you doing up there?" I looked down to say something kind to my toe and there was a fast-spreading pool of red on the floor.

"Aha! Haribari cranberry," I nearly cried out. But that wasn't cranberry juice. It was mine. I retired limping from the field, trailing my life's blood by the spoonful. The aisle behind me looked like Lizzie Borden had replaced Elsie Borden.

For the rest of Wednesday night I directed the kitchen aides from a chair, my foot propped up like King Henry's gouty foot.

By Thursday my toe had forgiven me and I was able to plan a counter attack -you should pardon the pun- on the cranberries -plunging the can opener into its metallic hide with a vengeance. But not before donning my steel-toed safety shoes and clearing the immediate area in case of a cranberry can fall-out.

Time now to think about Christmas. Which is about all I do about it until about the 377th rendition of "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" assails me. "Should that be wassails me"? I'm not like those up-and at-em folks who have their shopping done by Labor Day and then complain about how early the stores start advertising for Christmas.

Come to think of it, it's my kind of put-offing that made the pre-Christmas sellabration a necessity. It takes 15 days of Christmas hoop-la just to get my attention.

In our editorial columns last week, we encouraged one and all to take part in the Vial of Life program which is getting a current boost in St. Lucie County by the Port St. Lucie Kiwanians. But the editorial ended too soon and the Martin County efforts of Pearl Wyse of the American Association of Retired Persons together with Margaret Evans of American Red Cross went unmentioned.

The programs in the two counties differ in details but are essentially the same in the procedure. They are exactly the same in their purpose: to provide medical information and other pertinent data in an emergency.

It's beyond imagination that every resident won't see the lifesaving value of Vial-of-Life programs, especially those who live alone and or are handicapped and those who sometimes leave their children in the care of babysitters.

In Martin County, there is a need for volunteers to assist with the program and donations to provide the vials, decals, and information forms. Give to one or the other. Give to both. But give yourself and your family the Vial-of-Life whatever you give.

Social Security

BY BRUCE FERGUSON
SSA Field Representative

A poll authorized by the National Commission on Social Security and conducted by the firm of Peter D. Hart Research Associates has shown social security to be more popular with the public than many people had assumed.

The commission is an independent nine member body established by the 1977 Amendments to the Social Security Act to examine the relationships between all social insurance and welfare programs, their interaction with other private and public programs, and their influence on the national economy. A final report of the commission's findings is due in January 1981.

However, the findings of the national commission's poll have already been released. The poll's findings are based on a nationwide survey of more than 1,500 persons of all ages, races, and socioeconomic levels.

First of all, the poll uncovered some interesting facts about retirement attitudes in America. About one out of two Americans say they find early retirement (at about age 58) appealing. Early retirement is particularly appealing to blue collar workers, to people covered by pension plans, to people between the ages of 55 and 64, and to people with high family incomes (over $17,500).

Only one-third of Americans find the idea of postponing retirement until age 70 appealing. Four in ten people say they would consider late retirement if they could receive significantly higher benefits as a result. In general, there is a close relationship between income and attitudes toward retirement; those who have or expect greater financial resources are generally more positive about retirement.

Nine out of ten non-retired Americans expect to receive social security in retirement, and 60 percent expect it to be a major source of retirement income. Among those already retired, 75 percent find it to be a major source of income.

More than three-quarters of those polled indicated that if social security were voluntary they would choose to join despite the need to pay social security taxes. About the same number said they would object strenuously to any plan to abolish the program.

Apparently, social security taxes are not as distasteful to most Americans as other forms of taxation. While approximately 20 percent of the people interviewed said they object to paying social security taxes, almost twice as many expressed opposition to the gasoline tax, income and state sales taxes also were less popular than social security taxes.

Tony Romano returns to Outrigger Dec. 15

The talented singer, composer, guitarist, composer and actor, Tony Romano, will return for an engagement at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant on December 15.

Romano was the featured guitarist at the Outrigger from 1961 to 1971, and toured many years with the Bob Hope USO tours during World War Two and the Korean War. During those years and after, he was accompanist to Frances Langford.

Planning two floor shows each evening, Romano will feature many favorite standards that were popular when he was playing at the Outrigger. He will also feature some of his original songs, made famous by Vic Damone, Perry Como, Johny Mathis and others.

This year, Romano released a single record "Christmas in San Francisco," recently recorded by Vic Damone. He also has released an album with famed jazz violinist Joe Venuti. The album is entitled, "Never Before, Never Again."

Romano arrived in Jensen Beach this week, and is presently in Tampa with the Ralph Evinrudes where Frances Langford will be joining Bob Hope in a benefit performance reunion.

Music for dining and dancing will be played by "Fifi Queen and Powers," an organ-drums duo.

God & Country Day participants are being sought

Area churches and organizations are being asked to schedule events in conjunction with God and Country Day to be held Feb. 22 through the cooperative efforts of American Legion Post 138 and All Saints Episcopal Church.

In addition, Martin County Commissioners will be asked to designate the week of Feb. 16 as God and Country Week.

Theme for the seventh annual observance will be "One Nation Under God," and the program will be held at the Florida Institute of Technology auditorium.

Boy Scouts have indicated they will hold a jamboree on the Legion grounds and the Daughters of the American Revolution are preparing a program.

Poster and essay contests are scheduled at the Martin County High School and FIT.

Any suggestions for activities should be submitted to the Rev. Jonathan B. Catley, rector of All Saints Church, or Thomas Flanagan, Commander of American Legion Post 138.

Groups planning to participate should contact Bill Herzog, 878-0310 or Ralph Neblett, 334-3358 and advise them of the planned event so that information will be included in publicity.

Polish Club lists events

The Polish American Social Club will hold a Christmas Party and annual elections at the Port St. Lucie Community Center, 200 S.W. Prima Vista Blv., at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday Dec. 10. This will be a covered dish plus $1.00. Also, an exchange gift. Santa will be there. All members are invited to attend.

A Christmas picnic will be held at the same location Saturday, Dec. 20 at 12:30 until 5:00 pm. Donation is $5 for adults and 2.50 for children 12 years old and under.

Santa will visit. There will be lots of delicious food and free beverages. Also, singing Polish and American Christmas Carols, and dancing. Tickets are limited. Call Julian Recka at 334-4558.

Membership is $10 a year. Anyone interested in joining call 287-4567 or 283-4304.

HOPE FOR HEALTH

By Dr. Jack L. Webb

Backache frequently goes along with tension, fatigue and irritability during premenstrual period. One cause is muscular imbalance due to spinal structural abnormalities. Another is weak muscles in the back and abdomen, many times as a result of previous strains or other injuries long since forgotten.

We at the Webb Clinic frequently use nutritional aids to help reduce premenstrual problems with excellent results. The blood calcium level often drops before menstruation and taking properly balanced calcium-magnesium along with certain other vitamins and minerals reduces backache, cramps and irritability. Examination can reveal any musculoskeletal abnormalities and nutritional deficiences.

A 20th Century saga

BY AILSA DEWING

Tied up at the end of the Jensen Bait & Tackle Co. dock is a big boat — 64 feet long and 25 feet wide with a twin catamaran hull of welded steel. She's called the Eva II.

Eva I is Mrs. Hans Meuche and the Meuches live on the boat. They built the boat — which has been classed by the Coast Guard as a yacht and later as a commercial fishing boat but which is really a very homelike houseboat — on their farm in Indiana.

Next week or the week after, maybe — and maybe not —, the Eva II will move on. Where to? Who knows! Maybe Mexico, then South America. She could even hitch a ride as deck freight on a European-bound freighter. Or maybe she'll stay on here a while longer. The Meuches will move her when the spirit moves them and the spirit that moves the Meuches is to be mightily envied.

It was Hans Meuche's undauntable spirit that allowed him to survive two years in a Russian prisoner of war camp following the Siege of Stalingrad, one of 48 survivors out of thousands of prisoners. And that prompted the Meuches to flee from East Germany after the war to Cologne where they lived for two years in one room in that devastated city. And when the cold war began to warm up in the early '50s, inspired Hans and Eva Meuche to seek refuge by relocating in Australia.

So in 1954 the Meuches set off for Australia on a motorcycle with sidecar and all their earthly belongings packed in a trailer they towed.

It wasn't an ordinary motorcycle. It was a German army surplus Zuendapp with seven forward and two reverse gears that had seen service in the African campaign, and was powerful enough to pull a fully-loaded truck. It took them 48,000 miles on a route that is traced on a world map hanging in the main cabin of the Eva II. Along the way they tarried in such places as Iran and Pakistan to live and work. In Pakistan Hans learned English to add to his knowledge of German, Russian and the Slavic languages. Eva already spoke French and English as well as German.

When they finally reached Australia, the cold war threat was over but the Meuches were enjoying the trip too much to stop there. So they rode and shipped their way to Japan and then to Canada, finally entering the US in 1959, ready for the All-American tour.

But if the Meuches weren't tired of traveling, the Zuendapp was. It was all but worn out. In Sydney, when the bike snapped a differential pinion, the manufacturer sent another. But when the German bike gave out in Chicago, spare parts were no long available.

So the Meuches bought a farm and began raising chickens 40 miles from Chicago. They'd never raised chickens before but then, they'd never ridden a motorcyle 48,000 miles before either, they say.

To buy the farm, Hans worked for awhile for Ford Motor Co., earning and squirreling away enough money

READY FOR LAUNCHING after being built in two sections on the Indiana farm of Hans and Eva Meuche, the Eva II is shown being hoisted onto the waves of Lake Michigan five years ago.

A YEAR LATER the Eva II was complete with cabin and top deck, ready for a maiden cruise down the Mississippi, around the Gulf of Mexico and into the Carribean before docking at Jensen Beach.

for the purchase price. When the farm wasn't profitable he became a welder's apprentice at U.S. Steel at the age of 50.

In 1968 the Meuches began reading books on boat-building. They'd decided to build a boat and sail it around the world. By 1970 the boat building began. Meuche designed it as a two-hull catamaran because they would have to transport it 16 miles to Lake Michigan and 12-feet was the maximum width allowed on the highway.

Since they'd never sailed a boat, they took navigation courses given by the U.S. Power Squadron.

By 1975 the two hulls were at the lakeshore ready to be welded together and launched. Hans lived in the hull much of the year it took to build the deckhouse, commuting to the chicken farm which the Meuches were slowly winding down.

In 1976, the Eva II was ready for her maiden voyage on Lake Michigan, powered by two war surplus diesel engines liberated from a landing craft and bought by Meuche for $3,000.

In July 1976, in time for America's bicentennial, Hans and Eva Meuche set off down the Mississippi, reputedly one of the trickiest rivers of all to navigate because of its shifting deeps and shallows. Sailors traditionally have left the sea to become chicken farmers; the Meuches gave up chicken farming to go to sea.

In New Orleans, Hans apprenticed himself to life as a deckhand on offshore crewboats to learn more about seamanship on the deep.

And now the Meuches are in Jensen Beach. They brought the Eva II in with two-foot seas, and less than a foot clearance between her sides and the pilings — Hans holding her steady while Eva made her fast, all 70 tons.

And if you walk by the Eva II where the Meuches live with Toby, a doberman, and their Siamese cat Abaco (a Bahamian stowaway), you'll likely hear the strains of Hans' accordion from the deckhouse. He taught himself to play when he was 20, before he was an electrician, a world traveler, a welder, a chicken farmer, or a boat builder — and the trip's not over yet.

ON BOARD THE EVA II, Eva and Hans Meuche enjoy all the comforts of home. The mast is decorated with seashells, collected as a hobby and a business venture. The world map on the wall displays a record of the 48,000 mile trip the Meuches took in the 1950s aboard a motorcycle, starting in Cologne and finishing in Chicago.

A MAN'S HOME can be a boat. Hans Meuche stands at the helm located in the living room of the Eva II's main cabin. (Photo by Ailsa Dewing)

Lions pancake day Sunday

The Jensen Beach Lions Club announces Sunday, Dec. 7 will be Pancake Fry Day. Juice, pancakes (all you can eat) sausage and beverage will be available from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. for a donation of $2 per person.

The event will be held at Langford Park fieldhouse, Jensen Beach.

Pancake Day and Christmas Cheer tickets are available from any Jensen Beach Lion in advance or may be obtained at the door Sunday.

Lion Virgil Wilson, general chairman, and Lions Al Walker and Arley Johnson, co-chairmen, will direct preparation, set-up and serving. All Jensen Beach Lions, assisted by visiting "snow-bird" Lions plus Girl Scout leaders and members of troops sponsored by the Lions will participate.

Profits from Pancake Day and Christmas Cheer Project, ending Dec. 13, will be applied to Lions sight and hearing conservation rpgrams. Lions programs include Foundation for the Blind, Camp for Visually Handicapped, Florida Eye Bank, Leader Dog, and eyeglasses, hearing aids and eye-surgery for needy persons.

In addition, funds are allocated for local community programs including Girl Scout troop sponsorship, youth football, baseball and soccer leagues, junior-olympics cheerleading, Jensen Area Samaritans, American Red Cross, and others.

The Club will gratefully accept donations of used eyeglasses-lenses and cancelled USA or foregin postage stamps. Florida Eye Bank Donor Cards for cornea transplants, kidneys or other organs upon death of the donor are available.

Venture Three

BY VIRGINIA SHINSKE

Dear Readers of Venture Three: Arriving just this past week, husband Leonard and I are once more looking forward to a warm winter season and all the activities and friendships of the Park. I will once again be writing my column here for you to enjoy and to see your own and your friends names in the Mirror. Please, call me with all your tidbits of news before Thursday morning every week. My phone number and lot number will be posted in the Venture Three Clubhouse and on the Outdoor Bulletin board.

Al and Jackie Phillips had a beautiful three day excursion into the middle of Florida visiting the all new show at Cypress Gardens. Stopping at Lake Wales for a delightful lunch at Chalet Suzanne they then strolled around Bok Tower and through the lovely gardens.

Home from Eckerd College in St. Petersburg, Florida, Laurie Eddie Kerkbride is enjoying his visit with his mother Jacie and Mimi the poodle. In are med and nursing in marine biology this his first year he spends his extra time diving on the Eckerd College Search and Rescue Team.

Grandparents Ken and Leola Horton are babysitting grandson Jonathon, 18 mo. while their son Jim and wife are sightseeing at Cypress Gardens and Disney World.

Ken and Kathleen Klinge from Ann Arbor, Michigan have been spending their vacation from his Policeman's post and are enjoying the warm tropic weather. Driving here from Pembroke Pines near Fort Lauderdale, Clarence and Evelyn Arnold, parents of Betty, spent the Thanksgiving Day Holidays with the family.

Here from Bradenton, Florida for the Thanksgiving Holidays and vacationing from Cris Craft Corporation with parents Phil and Polly Fort were Ralph and Doris Fort and their three children: Carol 16, Sarah 13, and John 8.

A welcome Snowbirds Cocktail Party will be held December 12, at 4:30 p.m. Friday. It will be chaired by Lynn and Bob Gass. BYOB and a dish of her d'oeuvres. Hopefully there will be piano Music.

A Thanksgiving Day Dinner at Venture Three Club House was attended by 116 of-some residents and guests. Hosting the affair was Paul and d'vonne Wisecke, Tom and Edna Ortolani, and Dan and Naomi Morton. The five turkeys and the large assortment of vegetables brought by the members was quickly consumed and mince and pumpkin pie was served by the menfolk. Fresh daisies picked by the committee graced the tables.

Many of our residents left by bus for Miami last week to embark on a ten day Caribbean Cruise. We shall be anxious to hear of their return and their exciting descripting of the ship and its activities and the wondrous and exotic ports of call that they stopped to tour.

Our weekly Potluck Dinners are again being held at the club house on Monday Evening at 6 p.m. sharp. The Recreation Committee meetings are also resuming, having held the third this past week, with thirty people in attendance.

Two of our residents are, hobbling around on crutches this last week. Dorothy Seelye chipped a bone in her ankle in her haste exciting the K Mart area. Bill Hennessey has an injured knee. Hope you both recover quickly for we expect to see you on the dance floor New Years Eve !!!!

Holiday Outlines

By Ruth Bowes 229-1146
Assisted by Peg Ray and Ginny Stratford

130 persons attended the Pavilion Church on Sunday, Nov. 30. Bob Barton did the Lay Services. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Guest Normal Quillen sung beautiful songs for the Anthem and Offeratory. Doris Sourse, her first visit as a guest organist, accompanied Norma. Burns also did a fine job, we hope she will come back often. Next Sunday we will have the pleasure of a male quartet from Hobe Sound's Bible School to sing for us. Everyone is invited. Service begins at 8:45 a.m. at the Recreation Hall at Holiday Out.

A few highlights of Thanksgiving Holiday, of relatives and friends being together. Winnie and Frank Powers entertained, having as guests Winnie's sister and brother-in-law from Spanish Lakes, Bob and Dot Ingham. Vince and Ginny Stratford, her brother & sister-in-law and the voting Stratfords home from Germany Tim & Margie along with their three children Hal and Maureen Holmes joined the party. Turkey of course was the main attraction and of course everyone ate too much.

Sport activities lessoned because of the holiday but bugs on Friday night. Now 28 a cold rainy one, drew 65 persons. It opened up by singing a Happy Birthday to Dave Riley. The bottle game winner was Ethel Miller, 1st coverall by L. Storch, 2nd by Martha Lewis. A special winner take all, 1st Charlotte Burgess, 2nd Lenard Horbeck, 6 extra prizes were given to winners delight. Committee - Frank & Winnie Powers, Cal & Audrey Jackson, Harry Smith and Dick Sourse was the caller.

Sorry to tell that Janet Anderson wife of Elmer succumbed in a auto accident near Corning, N.Y. She was driving to meet a nephew at the airport, lost control of her car and crashed into a ravine and was killed on or about Thanksgiving Day. Condolences may be sent to Elmer Anderson, R. Route 2, Thurber, Corning, N.Y. 14830.

Good News! Lisbee Smith was released from the hospital in time for Thanksgiving at home. Her arm and elbow are in a sling, though.

A welcome to A. Wakefield, B. McNight, Jean Smith, R. Hare, C. Gramstorff, E. Kay, and E. Lind.

Happy Birthday Wishes to Clarence Ouellette, Peg Fleming, and John Hook, 12-14; Edith Gramstoff, 13-5; Huey Gorman and Margaret McAuliffe, 12-7; Marji McIntyre and Wm. Chamson, 12-8; Lisette Labbe and Penny O'Mare, 13-9; and Peggy Guthrie, 12-10.

Health care increases

This week the seniors got an official confirmation on what they had long suspected. Medicare benefits and dollars won't suffice for the elderly. Senator Lawton Chiles, (Dem. of Special Committee on Aging, had the General Accounting Office (GAO) make a complete survey of Damon Smith, Senator Chile's local representative, left a copy of the findings with us. They show the following.

BY ERNIE CURWEN
Tel. 334-6756

First, it is a routine physician practice of substantially marking up bills for laboratory work performed by outside laboratories, this to the tune of $3 million per year.

Second, medicare beneficiaries are frequently underpaid because of error in processing claims, this runs to $10 million a year.

Third, numerous consumers charge two full fees for dual surgical procedures performed during one operation. This cost the medicare beneficiaries over $50 million per year. (Remember, many physicians don't.)

This is the way the report went, pointing out that these procedures made the present out-of-pocket expense much greater than the total medical expense to seniors before medicare. Something must be done about it, or soon 1980 retirees will have to choose between food and health. And, as this has low priority on the new administration's list it behooves seniors to write to Senators Chiles and Hawkins and Congressman Bafalis.

The above, shall we say 'rip-offs,' greatly contribute to the increases the seniors will have to pay for health care after January 1981. In the first place, the Medicare deductible (and other out of pocket payments) will go up to $204 (13.3 percent) and the Blue Cross Complementary Coverage will go up to $18.48 (12.4 percent). Another try must be made for a health cost containment bill, even though the powerful hospital lobby has been able to defeat it two years in a row. Write your elected officials.

Along with this discouraging news there was an explanation sheet counting some facts and figures that may not have been truly realized.

Did you know that since 1965 (the start of Medicare) that a typical hospital room has gone up 444 percent' along with physicians fees up 205 percent. In fact the total cost of health care is now 10 percent of the total spent in our economy, whereas in 1965 it was only 5 percent of the total.

The total per capita health care cost for the Older American went from $1371 in 1977 to $2026 in 1978, making the out-of pocket costs go from $530 in 1977 to $808 in 1978. The report further stated that since 1970 health care has gone up 155 percent against the 'All Item Consumer Index' increase of only 151 percent.

Now all this is pretty discouraging and unpleasant, but it is something that, unless the seniors face up to it, and 'take-pen in hand' with a vengeance, will only get worse, faster. So, if you folks that have been complaining, do something about it. Write and write again.

Let's have a pleasant item for a change. Will someone tell us just who are senior citizens: 55 and older; 60 years and up; 62 or 56 for Social Security; 70 and 72 for certain cut-off times. AARP often talks about 25 percent of the population and they are counting all above 56, then some of the 'title funding' operation say all those over 60 are entitled to benefits. And so, it goes. It will be interesting to hear your ideas on it.

CHAPTER EVENTS

There were no scheduled capter events last week; so here is a chance to catch up on some odds and ends. Each year about this time the Hunts, Hen and Stel, spruce up their place and as a result, accumulate many 'tidbits' and items that they put and assemble attractively. Them, at the next AARP meeting, from a table in the back of the hall they sell them to the members, giving the proceeds to the Senior Center Building fund. This year they raised $3k. So, it's thank you, Hen and Stel.

Now, that we have a little slack time we can catch up on some of the sick and Ailing AARPers. First, Al Tucker, Director and Bulletin Business manager, is home recovering from a heart attack, perhaps not comfortable but Al says with the help of his 'dynamite' and water pills he is making out OK.

Then, there's Ernie C. who got his neck cut a few weeks ago and is now on a 10 week therapy treatment at the West Palm Good Samaritan. Lots of folks are quite as mystified as he was in regards to what these threatments were all about, so as time and space permit, and interest indicate, something will be told about them.

First, these Radiation treatments are often prescribed when a malignant growth is removed, so any cancer cells in the surrounding area will be killed. The one used in this case is the "Varian Clinac x M. Linear Accelerator, as Department Director Dr. P. Winbush has found it to be the most effective. More details later, but so far it's truly painless, except the mouth feels like it was full of cotton wool while trying to eat a peanut butter corn bread sandwich and next day one is pepless to the do-nothing degree.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY

Thur. Dec. 4: AARP Picnic and Bulletin preparation at 10 a.m. bring a brown bag lunch. MCCA meeting 1 p.m. Stuart Library.

Fri. Dec. 5: Intergency Council, 8 a.m. Sunhose. Swimming, Community pool, Martin County High School, 1 to 2 p.m.

Ocean Breeze

BY ERNIE CURWEN
Tel. 334-6756

Some OBPers were saying "Burrrr" the other morning, then in the next breath remarking that it was sure a lot better than the slipping, sliding and skidding of trying to drive during one of those sleet storms that are frequent up in the northlands at this time of the year. However, due to it being the holiday week only 28 snowbirds blew in to make the total about 375. They were Jeanne and Raymond Gailey, Jean and John Fgard; Frank and Virginia Winterlarger; Al and Annette Spangnolo, John and Audrey Mackey; Charles and Edna Moss, Ada and Raleigh McKibben, Ernest and Marjorie Martinsen; Ethel Rafuse.

Senator Lawton Chile's representative Damon Smith made one of frequent visits to this area and gave 6 or more OBPers a chance to discuss some national government problems with him.

Your reporter asked for briefings similar to those Senator Stone used to send out so that Seniors of this area could be kept up to date. He agreed to do what he could, but with a rueful smile admitted that now being in the minority (democrat) Senator Chiles would no longer be chairman of the "Special Committee on Aging".

However, Smith said he'd quickly reply to any requests for information, just write to him at Room 831, Federal Building, 51 SW 1st Ave., Miami, Fla. 33130, or call him at 305-350-4981.

Now for our local government. There will be an election of 3 aldermen for a 2 year term, Tues. Dec. 16. Candidate list in the park office has the names of Raymond Stewart and William K. Jones, so far.

Ocean Breeze Park is fortunately situated in regards to public services. The other morning, there was a fire in the Dailey Mobile Home on Key Lime Dr. within 3 minutes the fire truck was on hand to put out a bad fire caused by a electrical hot spot. (Daileys were away on a hunting trip). Then, the Samaritan Ambulance services almost beats that, as often it seems that before the telephone receiver is hung up, the ambulance is heard on its way. But, often more time is wasted in contacting these services, as folks have been heard to say, I just couldn't remember the number and had to look everywhere for it. Well now, OBPers only have to remember, CALL 911, for any type of emergency service. If you don't have one of the '911' decals for your phone put on your own label, for when minutes count, quick action could save a life.

PARK EVENTS

Shufflers undaunted by chilly drizzle kept to schedule as much as possible with the Buckaroos posting these results: 7 game winners, Ken Smith and Charles Fair; 6 game winners, Elston Lehnng, Bun Miller, Peanuts Cunningham, Cyril Stevens, Carl Huggins, and George LeBon; 5 game winners, Ray Stewart, Bob Wilson, B Pingar, F. Powell.

Golfers, 21 hardy golf addicts braved the icy winds, 10 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 29 for their usual OBP round of golf at the Holiday Gold Club. The winners were Bob Carlson and Steve Zegen. An election of officers was held during the week, with Herb Leuffgen being elected president, Ray Sutton, vice president and Libby Leuffgen, Secr./Treas.

Bowlers were also doing their thing last week, 1:00 p.m. Thurs. now 25 at the Jensen Lanes. There are now 5 official teams, as follows: Tail Enders with Capt. Carl Huggins; Yankees, with Sam Bono, Capt.; Snowbirds, Ray Miller, Dandy's, Libby Leuffgen, and the Doodlers, Dorothy Levitt. One more team needed, interested see officers, or be at lanes 12:45.

Here's the way it went last week: High Men, Steven Gegan 243 and Carol Huggins 210; High Ladies, Kay Miller 180 and Terry Lasser 180. Best Shots: Evelyn Dandy with a 6-7-10 and Elsie Battle, 3-4-10.

THANK YOU

The family of Elinor G. Martin wish to express their thanks to all Elinor's friends and neighbors of Ocean Breeze Park for their kind expression of sympathy.

Samaritans Calling

BY NELLIE D. COOK

The annual Christmas Party of the Jensen Area Samaritans will be held in the Squad Building December 6, beginning with a Social Hour at 5 to 6 p.m. Dinner promptly at 6 p.m. A photographer will be in attendance. The party is limited to members and invited guests.

Since the resignation of two of the Squads Officers, both of whom were also Directors, President Steven appointed Ray LaFaso to fill out the unexpired term of Director George Krauss, and Garry Gabriel, night supervisor, to fill out the unexpired term of Bob Vytlacil.

We want to thank all you nice people for your response to our pleas to return equipment borrowed from our Supply Closet. Many items have been returned, and we have promises of more. A lady who called to say she has a wheel chair which she borrowed four years ago, but was still in need of it. Please advise us of your need. We do not want to deprive anyone of any physical aid we have lent to them. We just want to get back items no longer needed.

I must add the Lady previously mentioned later called to say she was being moved to a Nursing Home. One of our good Samaritans called and picked the chair up.

At the last regular monthly meeting of the Samaritans arrangements were made for the disposal of our two old rigs. Maxine Bailey took charge of the sales. The bid to Don Servicing Industries and Old 612 has a new home in Tri-Area. We did receive two more for both vehicles. They were not given away.

A hearty Welcome Back to Richard Morale. Richard has been away for a few months but decided Jensen Beach is the best place to be in the winter at least.

We are most grateful to the members of the Samaritans Auxiliary for volunteering their help with the Christmas Party. The Auxiliary is to be congratulated on the many ways they are helping us.

The third meeting of the Samaritans Auxiliary was held at the Squad Building Nov. 25, with 46 present. There are 51 members paid up to date. A number of ladies from Ocean Breeze were among those present. They attended for the first time. A number of interesting projects are in the future. The Stuart Cloggers have offered to entertain March 21. Sharyon Tilton has graciously offered the Pine Lake Village Clubhouse for this event. Thank you Cloggers and Sharyon for your thoughtfulness.

Roy Whitney of Pinelake thanked his crew of men who cleaned our vehicles. Oh by the way Roy is the Chairman of the Cleaning Committee for P.L.V.

Orville Mertz, chairman of the Ocean Breeze Cleaning Committee, also added his thanks to the Ocean Breezers.

Madelyn Ball, chairman of the Ladies Interior Cleaning, announced 22 ladies have volunteered to take their turn with the work.

Dot Michna president and Mary Coulette are mailing out thank you letters to the local business people for their wonderful response of help with gifts for door prizes, and other items to be used for the party. Following the business we were treated to a very good talk by David Rothdaum, Samaritan E.M.T., who spoke on Risk factors in heart attacks. The next meeting of the Samaritans Auxiliary will be Tuesday, December 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Squad building. See you there. Nellie.

Sailfish Pt. adds ecosystem

More than 5,000 black and red mangroves have been planted along the intense shorelines at Sailfish Point, a luxury yacht and country club community on the southern tip of Hutchinson Island.

The planting of intertidal vegetation is being done at the recommendation of Gee & Jenson Engineers-Architects-Planners, Inc., consultants for the development, to protect the shoreline of the man-made harbor, create a feeding and spawning ground for marine life and improve the water quality of the 60 acre sheltered harbor formed on the St. Lucie Inlet.

Although the harbor is closed to the St. Lucie Inlet by a small strip of land, plans call for opening of the harbor. Mullen said water quality is monitored regularly. Once the mangrove marsh grasses stabilize, the land will be removed and the harbor opened. Monitoring of the system, periodic water sampling, will continue through December 1981.

The South Florida Water Management District, which issues permits for surface water management systems, has indicated the system will be effective in protecting the environment and in some cases improving it.

Mary Morgans son and family from Delaware spent the past week visiting Mary and Wayne.

Good to have Wayne Morgan home from the hospital. Glad also he is able to play bingo again.

Ken and Irene Bigham spent Thanksgiving with Irene's sister and brother at Lake Worth.

Gert Hume used the occasion of a birthday in unterim Monday night. Her guest included Irene and Ken Bigham, her daughter and her husband, Betty and D.L. White. D.L. had the birthday.

Gert also spent Thanksgiving with her daughter's family, the D.L. Whites.

Henry Johnson's have had their granddaughter visiting them on weekends. Kim is attending school in the Kissimmee area.

Carl and Lena McClintoch are back also M. Comstock. The Brynilsen's have been back for some time (I missed them last week). Also Uncle Charlie and wife and the Tracy's are back, waiting for the wind to stop and they can start fishing.

We have a new resident on 5th street who it inconvenced in driving just a little bit beyond the 10 mile limit when he or she enteres or exits the park. Slow down please, we don't wish any of our residents to be hurt.

Sunday was the first day of advent. Is it possible Christmas will soon be here and another year to become memories? The newspaper people know it is Christmas season, the papers are growing fatter and fatter. Compare the ads you can find three different prices in three different stores on the same item, advertising pays for you also if you compare.

See the gas truck made it around the park so no one would run out of gas cooking their Thanksgiving dinners. With this cold spell it was also needed for heat.

Don't forget the association meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the hall tonight (Wednesday).

Mary and Romeo Richer took the Jupiter cruise on Saturday.

We know Lena is back and up to her 'old tricks' in bingo. Tues. and Friday night she won the first games then Friday night she won five games I believe. How's that for a welcome back Carl and Lena? Glad you're back. Ken Bigham isn't doing too bad in Bingo either. Tuesday and Friday night he was cover all winner.

Elks plan hoop shoot

Stuart-Jensen Elks announce the local competition for the ninth annual "Hoop Shoot," the national basketball free throw contest for all youngsters age eight through 18. The contest will be held at the Martin County High School gymnasium Dec. 13 at 10 a.m.

Almost three million youngsters from throughout the country entered last year's competition for boys and girls in age categories 8-9; 10-11; and 12-13. Each contestant has 25 shots at the hoop. The boy and girl in each age group with the best scores advance through four tiers of competition to qualify for the national finals at Market Square Arena in Indianapolis.

Local winners will compete against other contestants in the district event at West Palm Beach in January. Names of the national winners will be inscribed on the Elks National "Hoop Shoot" plaques, on permanent display in the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

In last year's competition, ten year old Mike Wallen represented Stuart-Jensen in winning the local, district and state contests. He represented the entire state of Florida at the Southeast Regional, losing by a narrow margin to Alabama's state champion.

All interested contestants should be at the MCHS gymnasium, Dec. 11, at 7:00 p.m. Contestants must bring tennis shoes and a birth certificate for proof of age.

For further information contact Lee Hall at 286-4386 or Stuart-Jensen Elks Lodge No. 1870.

HOW TAXABLE GAIN IS FIGURED

QUESTION: I understand that the depreciation deduction I am able to take on the small apartment building I own saves me taxes each year. However, I would like a simple explanation of how these deductions "catch up" with me when I sell. In other words, how do the depreciation deductions I take now affect the capital gain that I report when I sell my property?

ANSWER: The depreciation deductions you are allowed to take on your apartment building help to "shelter" the income you derive from the property from taxation.

Some people say that these deductions "catch up" with you when you sell the property, since your capital gain is calculated by taking the difference between your net sale price and your adjusted cost basis.

Your adjusted cost basis is arrived at by taking your original purchase price and reducing that amount by any depreciation taken during your holding period. Your adjusted cost basis can also be increased by the cost of any capital improvements which you make during that holding period.

However, provided you are an investor and have held the property for 12 months or longer, depreciation doesn't really "catch up" with you. When you report the capital gain, you are allowed to exclude 60 percent of that gain from taxation.

Therefore, only 40 percent of the long-term capital gain is taxable. This is one of the many reasons that a real estate investment provides tax relief currently and again when the property is sold.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 286-6161, or stop by:

Harper and Louis pace mates to tie

"That's Incredible", were remarks from the viewers and participants in the Early Winter Members-Guest Tournament staged at Martin Downs' Crane Creek golf course Wednesday when a pair of two man teams finished in a deadlock for first place with like tallies of 18-under par 54's.

Lee Harper a 20 handicap shooter carded the best round of his life, posting a 70 to pace his partner Chuck Hill of Martin County C.C. to the tie with a combo of Retiree Joe Louis a 24 handicap player and his guest Fleming Edgar, a visitor from Ontario, Canada.

With six two-man teams in action, much of the day's play progressed despite intermittent showers. Both winning teams won $160 in merchandise prizes. Another tie existed for the next slot at a score of 17 under par 55 with Cliff Maddox member, teaming with Herb Spencer of Teopesta Country Club and Member Tom Gallagher pairing with guest Charlie Molitar. Each team garnered $116 in merchandise.

Another tie was produced at 16-under par with member Al Afford paired with guest Bernie Ludwig of Indian River Plantation and Jerry Daniels, member, and his guest Jim McCadie of Michigan's Western Golf Club.

Hanukkah, is Festival of Lights

BY AILSA DEWING

At sundown Tuesday, Sam and Maxine Graber of Pine Lakes Village lighted the first of the eight candles of a candelabra known as a menorah, thus joining Jews the world over in ushering in Hanukkah.

On each of the eight days during the Jewish festival, an additional candle will be lighted. A prayer precedes the candle lighting and in many families, especially where there are children, gifts are exchanged each evening, followed by gorging orgys of joy.

In some homes the prayer will be said in Hebrew, which in English translates: "Praised be Thou, O Lord our God, Ruler of the World, who has granted us life and permitted us to celebrate this joyous festival."

We visited the Grabers at the start of Hanukkah when Maxine described the nightly ritual and Sam Graber explained the meaning of the Jewish observance.

The traditional Jewish ceremony commemorates the dedication of the temple around 165 BC after Judah Maccabee had driven the Syrian king, Antiochus, out of the city of Jerusalem. During the Syrian occupation of Palestine, idols were placed in the temple and Jews were not allowed to worship in the one God, Graber explained.

After the Jews had cleansed the temple, only one cruse of holy oil could be found to relight the everlasting light which burns perpetually before the ark containing the sacred scrolls of Torah.

But one cruse would keep the light burning for only one day and the purification of more oil would take eight days. Miraculously, the everlasting light stayed burning for eight days, the event which is celebrated by the eight days of Hanukkah.

The festival is set by the Hebrew calendar which consists of 12 months of 28 days each, and although Hanukkah always falls on the 24th day of the Jewish month Kislev, the date varies according to the Gregorian calendar, although it always falls within the month of December.

The Grabers are active members of the Beth El congregation in Ft. Pierce and among the members helping to build the new synagogue in Port St. Lucie. Maxine also serves as head of the temple's Sunday School.

Former residents of Buffalo, the Grabers are also active in the Martin County Historical Society and were among the volunteers who completed the recently-opened Gracious Living Wing at the Elliott Museum.

There are no children at home to celebrate Hanukkah now with the Grabers but they will keep the festival including serving the traditional latke — potato pancakes — and applesauce. And lying beside the menorah is a dreidle constructed by Sam Graber. The dreidle (dray-del) is a top which children spin to win prizes of fruits and nuts, he explains.

But if Sam and Maxine Graber aren't able to enjoy Hanukkah with their sons and granddaughter they are comforted by the knowledge that in their children's homes the Hanukkah traditions are being carried on by succeeding generations as it has been for centuries past.

FESTIVAL OF LIGHTS began Tuesday night and Sam and Maxine Graber of Pine Lakes Village marked the beginning of the eight-day Jewish Hanukkah observance by lighting the first of the candles in a menorah which is a family heirloom. (Photo by Ailsa Dewing)

Firemen douse kitchen blaze

Prompt action by Jensen Beach Volunteer Fire Department Tuesday night kept a mobile home fire at Ocean Breeze Park confined to the kitchen area but heat and smoke damage was extensive, according to Fire Chief Joe Luciano.

Firemen were summoned around 9:45 p.m. to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dailey, 30 Key Lime Dr., by neighbors, who said Daileys were out of town at the time.

Cause of the fire was traced to a short circuit in the dishwasher, Luciano said. The windows were closed in the mobile home which kept air from feeding the fire but the intense heat burned a hole through the mobile home shell and melted plastic fixtures inside, as well as destroying kitchen cabinets and one wall.

Crossroads blues and surf whiting brighten Jensen area fishing

BY DICK LUNDIN

FISHING STILL isn't that great but there are a few bright spots here and there. Probably the best action in the area is on bluefish from Marker 19 to the Crossroads in the St Lucie River, and in the surf at Normandy Beach below the power plant and at the Studhole below the Oceana condo for those succulent little whiting.

Offshore, it's been a little rough and the current's really too strong for any effective bottom fishing, but there are sailfish to some 170 ft. of water northeast of the St. Lucie Inlet, king mackerel from 40 to 100 ft a little south of the inlet, and dolphins scattered wherever you find sails. This is a good time to troll for sails with ballyhoo and if you don't have a boat or a friend with one, check out one of the several charter boatmen at the Sailfish and Manatee Marinas.

With that strong current, bottom fishermen are finding that they move across the reefs too fast for any effective bottom fishing. However, if you've a mind to go bottom fishing offshore, consider going half days with the party boat Lady Stuart out of the Sailfish Marina (288-1888), or full days with the party boat Miss Fort Pierce out of the Fort Pierce Marina (464-8938).

Snook fishing should be picking up this time of the year but hasn't so far. Trout fishing is fair on the grass flats from Herman's Bay to Little Mud Creek above the power plant and around Walton Road over on the west side of the Indian River. Live shrimp are taking most of the seatrout right now.

Bridge fishing is desultory with scattered mangroves snappers, sheepshead, founder, croakers and other bottom species being taken on cut and live shrimp and clams. An incoming tide seems to be best for bridge fishing.

FRESHWATER FISHING for specks (black crappies) is getting a little better week by week at such nearby lakes as Marian (Kenansville) Blue Cypress, Kissimmee and Okeechobee, but action on Florida largemouth bass hasn't been too good of late. From Okeechobee Fish Camp on SR78 at the Kissimmee River Bridge on the north side of Lake Okeechobee (813-763-4987), Harold Russell: "Fishing's poor generally. It's been too windy over here, Dick. They're catching some really big crappies, not too many, but big, like maybe 15 or 20 per boat, fishing up the river three or four miles with live minnows or jigs. I think we're going to catch specks pretty good right here in the river this winter. Those specs boats caught, to stay out there where they belong. There are still some scalefish traps on the southwest side of King's Bar. They're still setting there and nobody picks them up. About the only thing the Game Commission is interested in, at present, is to check fishing licenses of tourists."

FROM JENSEN BAIT AND TACKLE, Dave Lamb: "Fishing is on the upswing. Trout fishing has really taken a nosedive, but showed a little improvement yesterday." Dave's log: Jon Lazeri, 11 blues, cut mullet and mackerel, north of power plant; Wes Blanton, 4 blues and 3 whiting, cut mackerel and shrimp; Jensen surf, Dave Smid, 9 blues to 6-8, cut mullet and mackerel; Normandy Beach, J.J. Shank, 14 blues, cut mullet, near the Holiday Inn in the surf; Roger Bailey, 4 blues and a Lane snapper, cut mullet, north of the power plant in the surf.

TOM STEWART, from the Snook Nook in Jensen: "Seatrout fishing has picked up a little bit, mostly on the east bank of the Indian River from Herman's Bay to Little Mud, and around Walton Road on the west bank. Live shrimp is best for trout now. Blues are just so-so. You have to get 'way, way out to reach them. There are some nice whiting at the Studhole below the Oceana condo taking live shrimp. There are a few small snook in the river, some mangrove snappers and a few flounder. There's nothing great at the bridges. Blues continue to be good on sea trout and cut mackerel from Marker 19 to the Crossroads. There are a few sails and dolphin offshore in 170 ft. of water northeast of the St. Lucie Inlet. It's been too rough out in the Stream most of the time."

The Nook's log: Joe Bean, 3 trout and a 5-0 (5lb.) snook, live shrimp, Walton Road; Marilyn and George Landman, 18 trout, cut bait, bosting under the power lines; Reggie Whitney, 3 snook to 15-0, live mullet, Evans Crary (18 cent) Bridge, Morgan West, 23 whiting, cut shrimp, Mudhole; Audrey Stout and Renee Blackwood, 36 whiting, Oceana, cut shrimp; Bill Ditzel, 10 trout and 2 channel bass (redfish), live shrimp, Big Mud Creek; Jack Prell, 2 trout, TM18 mirrolure, Herman's Bay; Sandy Adair, 4 trout to 3-0, trout touts, just above Walton Road; Scott Gallivan, 2 flounder, 2 mangrove snappers, live shrimp on a troll rite hook, Frank Wacha Bridge on the Jensen Causeway; Mike Freitag, a 7 ft. 3-inch sail and 2 dolphin to 13-0, 170 ft., N.E. of the SL Inlet trolling ballyhoo; Bill Reinhelz and Bill Albright, 8 blues, cut mackerel, surf; Miles Jenkins, Rocky Costarcio and Jes Brusic, 38 blues to 9-0, cut mackerel, Crossroads.

FROM D-M BAIT AND TACKLE, at the south end of the Roosevelt Bridge on U.S. 1, Muriel Weideman: "The bridge is absolutely dead, Dick. There's only one car there now (Tuesday morning). It was too cold and rainy last weekend. It's a beautiful day today but guess everyone's fishing the surf. They've been catching some blues at the Coast Guard station near that old railroad bridge on the east side of the river. A few have been caught from the bridge too, on cut mackerel. Clarence Manderville of Pahokee had a bucket full of jacks, drum and croakers, and a 2-0 pompano, on shrimp and clams. Bob Thomas Jr., a string of black drum, sheepshead and mangrove snappers, live and cut shrimp; Connie Bateman, cut shrimp, a sandperch, 6, whiting and a pompano in the surf, George and Bill Dohman lost two wahoo to sharks but caught 2 kings and a 20-0 dolphin, all on D-M rigged ballyhoo. Dick..."

FROM MANATEE BAIT AND TACKLE, J.D. Sachs: "There are lots of Spanish mackerel off the Hutchinson Island condos and also south of the SL inlet. There are kings in 40 to 100 ft. of water a little south of the inlet, taking live bait, strips and ballyhoo, but no really big ones. Sailfish action is picking up. Ronnie Griggs of the Lisa Ann had 3 sailfish mounts this week. There are dolphin from 100 ft. on out, in with sails. Off the jetty, there are channel bass, mangrove snappers, snook and flounder taking live finger mullet and shrimp. Blues are good at Marker 19 with ribbonfish as bait. The current's strong offshore and that hurts bottom fishing because you can't hold bottom as you move too fast across the reefs. Offshore trolling is pretty good now that the inlet's calmed down."

CHUCK SHEPHERD, from the Bait Box in Jensen: "Blues are still kinda slow. They're getting some whiting and a few small trout on the flats. I hope this bluefishing picks up. I don't know where they've gone. Bob Churchill got a 12-0 grouper fishing with live pinfish off the Stuart Causeway; Robert Rudisz, 3 snook to 6-0, vellow bucktail, river near the House of Refuge. Gib Dourgherty, 3 trout, live-shrimp, Jensen Causeway. Bill Sadusky, 10 trout, 7M21 mirrshare, grass flats in Herman's Bay."

NOS. 2 AND 3. Little Wade Lundin of Casselberry had caught but one fish before, a little mangrove snapper some weeks ago, but Thanksgiving morning, fishing from the east catwalk of the Frank Wacha Bridge, he caught two nice river spots without any help from either father or grandfather. It looks like another fisherman's morning. (Dick Lundin photo)

Nathan's fumble Miami's playoff doom

BY DICK LUNDIN

MIAMI'S DOLPHINS showed that they have come a long way since that horrendous 34-14 defeat a year ago in Three Rivers Stadium, but couldn't survive three costly fumbles by running back Tony Nathan in bowing out of the 1980 playoffs Sunday up in Pittsburgh, 33-10.

The Dolphins, fighting for their playoff lives, were in this one all the way and could easily have won it if Nathan hadn't fumbled the ball over to the Steelers when the Dolphins had a second and two at the Pittsburgh goal line in the fourth quarter, and the Steelers clinging to a narrow 16-10 lead. Tony had earlier set up Pittsburgh's first touchdown with a fumble and stopped a Miami drive with a third turnover in the third quarter. All in all, Nathan had another woeful day carrying the football, and, despite the fact that he caught six passes for 80 yards, it seems most unlikely that he fits into Coach Don Shula's plans for 1981. Coach Shula has a history of unloading fumble-prone backs (Larry Harris and Benny Malone) and Nathan seems to be more "prone" than most.

With their record now a sagging 6-7 and a Monday night date in the Orange Bowl Dec. 8 with the New England Patriots up front, about all the Dolphins can do now is to axe the playoff hopes of the stumbling 8-5 Pats. After New England, they go to Baltimore for a 4 p.m. Dec. 14 game with the Colts, before returning home for the 1980 season finale with the New York Jets, Saturday, Dec. 20, at 12:30 p.m.

It's possible for Miami to finish 9-7 but that won't be enough to make the playoffs, no way.

The game against the revitalized Steelers proved once more Miami's crying need for a quality running back with power. Delvin Williams led Miami rushers with only 31 yards in nine carries Sunday. For the impotent Miamians, 23 pushing plays could muster but a paltry 81 yards. Pittsburgh dented Miami's defense for 168, Franco Harris leading the way with 118.

LSU rookie David Woodley had a sub par day against Pittsburgh completing 14 of 36 attempts for 143 yards, with one touchdown and one interception. Young Woodley wasn't as sharp as he's been of late, but showed some outstanding ballet form at times against a formidable Steeler rush.

MIAMI'S ONLY TOUCHDOWN was a thing of beauty, a 31-yarder from Woodley to wide receiver Nat Moore leaping high in the corner of the end zone. A 42-yard field goal by Uwe von Schamann in the second quarter provided Miami's only first half points, and the Dolphins trailed 13-3 on two Chris Bahr field goals, and a 10-yard touchdown pass from Terry Bradshaw to Lynn Swann.

The playoff picture looks pretty much like this on the NFL after 13 of 16 regular season games.

In the AFC, Buffalo (9-4), New England (8-5), Cleveland (9-4), Houston (8-5), Pittsburgh (8-5), San Diego (9-4) and Oakland (9-4) definitely have the inside track. There are five spots open, the three divisional championships and two Wild Card slots. From here, it looks like San Diego, Cleveland and Buffalo will win their divisions, and that Oakland and Houston will be the Wild Card teams. Of course, with three games to go, anything can happen in the NFL, so don't bet the butter and egg money on it.

Over in the NFC, the playoff rating is much easier. Atlanta (10-3) and Philadelphia (11-2) should win their divisions, and Los Angeles (9-4) and Dallas (10-3) have a lock on the two Wild Card berths. One way or another, those four will make the playoffs in the NFC Central, it's a horse of another color. Detroit (7-6), and Minnesota will fight it out for the division but there is no Wild Card segment in the Central Division this year.

Jenny Beach is athlete of week

A Martin County High School volleyball player, Jenny Beach, has been selected as Athlete of the Week for her consistent team leadership that helped the women's team capture the Suncoast Eastern Division champion ship.

A first-year player, Jenny was a leading centerdurving season play that netted the MCHS team 15 wins and only three losses.

"She's real steady and a consistent team leader," Gary Jones, MCHS head coach, said in recommending Beach for selection as the Ft Pierce Tal-Alai Athlete of the Week.

The competition honors the best high school player in sports each week in Martin and St. Lucie counties with weekly winners competing for the Athlete of the Month title. A year-end winner will pick up a trophy and a $500 scholarship to be awarded by the Ft. Pierce fronton.

BOTTOM FISH. He just came along for the ride and wouldn't you know who caught the most fish last Thanksgiving morning? Barry Lundin doesn't fish and couldn't remember the last time he did, but he caught several river spots and a flounder from the east catwalk of the Jensen Causeway's Frank Wacha Bridge, more than either of his companions. Ducks, coots get hunting respite Dec. 7

TO THOSE WHO REMEMBER President Franklin D. Roosevelt's solemn commentary on the Japanese air strike at Pearl Harbor in 1941, Dec. 7 is a "day that will live in infamy," but for the harried ducks and coots on Florida's waters it'll be the start of a week-long respite from being shot at by hunters.

That's when the first phase of the duck and coot season will close statewide, according to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Actually, the one week break in the shooting starts at sunset on Sunday, Dec. 7.

Not so for the wily little woodcock. The statewide woodcock season opens Saturday, Dec. 6 and continues through Feb. 8. Shooting hours for woodcock will be one-half hour before sunrise until sunset. The daily limit on woodcock is five, with a possession limit of 10 established.

Those ducks and coots will have to go back on the qui vive, however, at sunrise on Saturday, Dec. 13, when the second phase of the duck and coot season opens statewide and continues until sunset on Monday, Jan. 19.

Area waterfowl hunters, take note!

A PROPOSED CLOSED SEASON on commercial fishing on Lake Okeechobee will be one of the main topics for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission at its meeting Thursday, Dec. 4, in Melbourne.

Other topics to be discussed will be the use of revenue from the sale of the first Florida waterfowl stamp; some options for consideration to enhance the wildlife habitat in Everglades Conservation Area 3; discussion of the water management plan currently being considered by the St. Johns River Water Management District; the status of the suits filed against the state by the Miccosukee and Seminole Indians; the Commission's proposed legislative budget package for the next two years.

THE HARVESTING of furbearing animals in Florida is of considerable importance to some 1,600 licensed Florida trappers who last season sold 54,760 pelts from six species of furbears, receiving nearly $700,000 for their efforts. Raccoons topped the list, followed by otter, bobcat, opossum, beaver and mink.

A publication available from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, entitled "Guidelines for the taking of furbearing animals in Florida," outlines the legal methods and season for harvesting these animals, Tom Goodwin, chief of the Bureau of Wildlife Resources for the Commission, explained.

"Persons wishing to take furbearing animals need one of two kinds of license. The first is a regular hunting license which is for those persons attempting to take furbearers with guns or dogs for sporting purposes. It does not authorize the use of traps or other devices or the sale of hides for commercial purposes. The other license is a furbearer license and is required for persons using live traps, snares or guns to take furbearers for commercial purposes," Goodwin said.

No hunting license is required for those under 15 or for residents over 65, or for residents totally and permanently disabled, although a furbearer license is required for anyone to sell a pelt.

Raccoons, opossum, skunk, civet cat, nutria and beaver may be live-trapped, hunted with dogs and taken with snares or guns the year-round, Goodwin pointed out, but added that otter, bobcat and mink may be live-trapped or taken with snares or guns only from Dec. 1 through March 1. He emphasized that fox may not be killed!

Copies of the publication on trapping may be obtained from any regional office of the Commission. Hunting and furbearer licenses are issued from the office of county tax collectors.

72 pairs play Divorce Open

The final round of the St. Lucie Country Club Homeowners Association fourth annual "Divorce Open" was held Sunday with 72 couples competing in the 36 hole event.

The basis of competition was best ball of partners measured on a stableford formula.

Don McConnell was ably assisted by his wife and partner Dip McConnell. General chairwoman Jerry Bowrosen and her assistants Dorie Beckman and Wilman Leary made the arrangements, including the final luncheon at the Sandpiper Convention Center.

Eighteen couples shared the prize money, with the only unmarried pair, Silva Barnwell and Frank Rathburn, taking first position. Nancy and Russ Horsley were second and trophy winners for the best married couple.

Fran and Chuck Heiden, Emily and Bill Griffin were in third and fourth positions. Fifth spot resulted in a tie between Jean and Roy Fox and Honey and Will Ferrara.

A special "Perfect Couple" award was won by Joan and Bob Oliver with a "hole-in-one" shared by the couple.

Sandtrap

BY MIKE SANDY

Three of the area's outstanding golf courses, Crane Creek, Mariner Sands and Jonathan's Landing will be the lite of PGA Club Professional tournaments during this month. This is the fourth season of the Club Professional Series which has gained in popularity each year. Reports have it that more than 140 will be eligible to compete in the Series 3 competition which gets under way Dec. 4-5 at Martin Downs Crane Creek course followed by another event at Mariner Sands in Stuart, Dec. 8-9 and then to Jonathon's Landing Dec. 11-12.

Reports from PGA headquarters have it that more than $600,000 awaits the tourney series players who will be coming from all sections of the country with many area club professionals competing for the "gold". It is told that golfers at each of the area courses will be shooting for a total of $90,000 with $30,000 up for grabs at each course.

Many golfers familiar to area followers will find many who have competed regularly at Sandpiper Bay during Florida Open play during the past three years. They include Laurie Hamner of Delray Dunes, Dean Refram, Wesley Chapel, Fla.; Roger Kennedy, Pompano Beach; Gary Wintz, Orlando; Gary Baker, Kendall Lakes; Jay Overton, Tarpon Springs; Adolf Popp of Melbourne. It is likely that several area club pros will take a shot in the event although we have failed to get confirmation at this writing.

Arrangements have been made at both Crane Creek, Mariner Sands and Jonathons Landing to accommodate the many spectators who will be on hand to view the competition.

Martin County Country Club in Stuart has the distinction of having identical twins serving as assistant pros. They are Dan and Dave Gower, natives of Mississippi who are looking for their pot-of-gold with golf clubs.

Wendy Fleisher, wife of Bruce Fleisher who won the Florida Open last August here at Sandpiper Bay, is reported to be recovering nicely after surgery. Mrs. Fleisher was reported to have been in oxygen for three months prior to surgery.

Now there will be a pair of identical twins on the pro golf tour with brothers Curtis and Alan Strange taking their shots. Alan qualified for the national tour circuit in the final test at Fresno, California last month.

All American nine-year old Chris Dvorak of Port St. Lucie, captured additional honors during the week when he finished second among nine year olds and under golfers in the World Series of Junior Golf played at Indigo in Daytona. Reports have it that 152 juniors from all sections of the country competed in the event which inaugurated the 1981 series of junior golf. A student at Faith Baptist School, Chris will require help to show the trophy awarded him which stands more than four feet tall. Chris was also awarded a gold plated Ping Putter from the tournament's sponsor and he was also fitted to an All-American jacket which should be forthcoming together with a monogramed golf bag also from the Ping people.

Coming back from his $8,000 consolation winnings in the Texas Dolly tournament in Las Vegas, Larry Rinker of Stuart, brushed up a couple of days around Orlando, Fla., and went on to win the top $5,000 award for his first place finish in J.C. Goosie's Space Coast Mini event played at Royal Oak C.C. in Titusville last week. Larry had rounds of 68-70 to edge out Russ Cochran and Dick Mast, each with 139 tallies. Larry Mowry who copped the Florida Open title at Sandpiper Bay two years ago, finished with a two-day total of 140 which put him in the top slot in money winnings having amassed $15,297 in the Series 1 competition.

It's no secret that Jackie Gleason wants his own PGA Golf Tournament and that he is looking for the right site to stage such an event, after getting the "shuffle" at Inverarry. What could be nicer for all concerned if Gleason looked with interest at the great facilities the Treasure Coast has to offer? Such courses at Sandpiper Bay, Saints and Sinners, Crane Creek and Mariner Sands are of championship caliber and we're sure folks along the Coast will support such an event, especially with the Gleason charisma attached. Would like to know that powers-that-be of each of the named courses make overtures to the guy who coined the phrase of "How Sweet It Is"....

Leonard awarded title in welterweight fiasco

BY MIKE SANDY

What was promoted to be the "Fight of the Century", turned out to be another "dud" with the two principals doing everything in their power to downgrade the fight game which has had its many pitfalls over the last twenty years. Leonard was awarded a TKO verdict when Roberto Duran threw up his arms late in the eighth round signalling that he had enough... enough of what?

It was much to the bewilderment of the "suckers" who paid hard cash to see two men in a squared ring put on such a disgraceful exhibition of what was to be a fight. When we saw Duran lift his arms in that final round, we were of the opinion that he had decided to quit because he just didn't want to chase Leonard all around the ring. We thought he had given up in disgust.

Leonard was more intent on showing his foot work that he was in putting his fast "dukes" to work. Duran reported that he had quit because of severe stomach pains. Can't understand why the pains, "cause he wasn't hit there. However, that is the reason he offered for quitting.

For a man who has earned the respect of the entire sports world for his outstanding career, which included some 75 fights, Duran, left the ring anything but a champion. With only a few seconds remaining in the round, a champion who is suffering could have lasted the round and reported his pains to the seconds and the referee. But to call it quits, as he did, certainly taints his record.

It perhaps could have been that he was thinking of the 8 million he was to get and must have figured, "What do I care for glory when I know I have a real "bundle".

The first eight rounds were anything but interesting or exciting to the viewers. It was Sugarman showing how well he can tippytoe and dance around the entire ring with Duran on the chase. The only blows which landed were those when Duran cornered Leonard and that was on only rare occassions. Only those died-in-the-wool Leonard followers could have been pleased with the so-called fight because their man had won his title back (as cheap as the victory was). Those who paid hard cash to see the fight who didn't care who won or lost but who attended to see a fight, certainly walked away disgruntled and unhappy in what they had seen. We've seen better fights between curtain raiser amateurs. It's a wonder the State of Louisiana Boxing Commission doesn't hold up the purses of both contestants. The public was fleeced once again and that fight like the Ali-Holmes fiasco must certainly set back the fight game another 20 years. Wonder what kind of ballyhoo they'll come up with that attracts the suckers to another closed circuit TV showing. For those who saw this fight, it certainly could make them disbelievers in the fight game and many would shy away from their TV sets, if such future fights are offered to the networks. We were among those who paid $20 to watch the dance. The fight was bad enough, but to add more displeasures to the viewers was the audio reception which was "muffled" throughout the festivities and at one time when it was silenced, it drew a loud approval from the audience. While the picture transmission was in color, the reception could have been improved upon to a great degree.

Jack and Nancy Parthums Easy Fruitcake.

Try it...you'll like it!

1½ cup water
½cup brandy
2 pkg date or nutbread mix
1 cup cherries (cut in ½) 8oz. = 1 cup
2 cups mixed (fruitcake mix) 1# = 2 cups
1 cup dates (cut in pieces) 1 8-oz. pkg = 1 cup
1 cup raisins
½ cup nuts (½ to 1 cup cut up pecans or walnuts)
2 oz. pineapple

Mix eggs, water, and brandy together in bowl. Add remaining ingredients, mix together, put in greased containers, makes 8 10-oz. round pyrex bowls; put cherry on top. Bake all 8 at 350° for 40 to 45 min. (two 9x5 loaf pan for 60-70 min.; 18-24 muffens 20-25 min.; one bundt or angel food pan, 65-75 min.). Cool, pour 1 tablespoon brandy over top, seal in aluminum foil, keep in refrigerator. Freezes well for 6-12 mos.

INFLATION	?
WHO KNOWS WHAT IT WILL COST IN THE FUTURE?	$0000000

Then, there are other possible hidden problems to consider:
(1) If you are using a family lot, do you hold clear land to do means?
(2) If the ground is frozen, will the funeral be delayed until warmer weather?
(3) Does the survivor usually continues to live in Florida, wouldn't visitation become almost impossible?

Doesn't it make good sense to make your Cemetery Arrangements in South Florida where you live? Local Cemetery Property selected in Advance-of-Need not only saves you hundreds of dollars, but protects your family from the additional burdens, problems and uncertainties of shipping a loved one back North.

COUPON

Without obligation, I would like to receive information on your Living Offer for two burial spaces. In addition, I would like to receive your Family Emergency Record File Free.

B-1 ZONING
Located close to one of Stuart's major intersections. This nearly one and one-third acre parcel of land has many possibilities. And presently has a commercial building with over 5000 sq. ft.
of floor space — plus a beautifully decorated 1 bedroom, 1 bath home and a 2 bedroom, 2 bath home. Ideal for an owner who wants an elegant home to live in and have his business in a portion, or in all, of the commercial building — or the homes could be removed and a strip store or other commercial operation established. All buildings are in excellent condition
with the whole area being beautifully landscaped. One of Stuart's fastest growing areas, which will surely continue to be most desirable.
$550,000. List No. 138. Please call

'Hello Dolly' celebrates the dedication of McAlpin

Dedication

Ira M. McAlpin, Jr. Fine Arts Center

Indian River Community College

Fort Pierce, Florida

Monday, December 1, 1980

Half past seven o'clock

HONORED—During a recent dedication of the Ira M. McAlpin, Jr., Fine Arts Center of Indian River Community College, Ira M. McAlpin Jr., chairman of the IRCC board of trustees and for whom the newly built theater was named, receives a note of appreciation from Herman A. Heise, president of IRCC.

HELLO, DOLLY!

It was a beautiful gift to the area the production of "Hello Dolly" by the Indian River Community College Music Department was a splendid show, designed to spark the dedication of the new McAlpin Fine Arts Center on campus.

It was a fitting opening night presentation, with colorful costumes, entertaining dialogue and enchanting music.

Musical Director Robert Allo and Orchestra Director Anthony Allo gave a terrific production in the fine arts center showcase.

The audience was enchanted.

BY DICK LUNDIN

A SURE-FIRE STEP hunters can take to help prevent hunting accidents is to wear hunter orange, according to the National Shooting Sport Foundation.

The NSSF points out that statistics from the nearly 20 years since hunter orange or fluorescent "Orange" was first introduced show dramatic decreases in the number of hunting accidents, especially those in the "mistaken for game" category, when hunter orange is worn.

Because deer and other game animals lack color vision the use of hunter orange will not adversely affect the success of the sportsman in the field, the NSSF explains.

There are other safe benefits to wearing the orange by hunters. It helps the sportsman keep track of his fellow hunters, and — because it provides an extra margin of safety, it can make the hunt an even more enjoyable experience.

Wear that orange!

ROLAND MARTIN, veteran of many a bassing tournament over the years, out of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, won the recent $75,000 Florida Invitational B A S A Tournament held at Clewiston on the southeast shore of Lake Okeechobee. Martin's 46-lb. 2-oz bag of Florida largemouth bass brought him from behind on the final day to win the $11,700 first prize in cash and merchandise.

Martin is the all-time money winner in B A S S tournament history with $141,400 and 12 career wins, including three in Florida. Guy Eaker of Cherryville, N.C., finished second, just six ounces behind Martin.

THE 1981 BASS MASTERS CLASSIC, perhaps the most lucrative and prestigious tournament in freshwater fishing, will be held Oct. 14-16, 1981 at Montgomery Lake on the scenic Alabama River, near Montgomery, Ala.

This early announcement is a break with B A S S tradition in the previous 10 years. The Classic site was not divulged until a few weeks before the event, but this time, according to B A S S president Ray Scott, "the secret was just too good to keep."

There will be 41 anglers qualifying for the Classic through a series of tournaments to be held throughout the country on the heralded $645,000 B A S S circuit. This year, Bo Dowden of Natchitoches, La. won the Classic at Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence River between the U.S. and Canada.

FISHING TACKLE CATALOGS are always avidly read by anglers both young and old, new and experienced, and the latest edition of Shakespeare's is no exception to the rule. It is packed with the latest in Shakespeare's complete line of rods, reels, lines and accessories. You'll enjoy perusing it even if you don't buy a single foot of line.

As a matter of fact, it is so intriguing that I succumbed and ordered a new boron 2001 bait casting rod and a Sigma 0001 bait casting reel with a spool of new Sigma clear blue fluorescent 12 lb. test monofilament line.

Sure, I've already got several bait casting reels but you like to keep up with the state of the art. That one's Shakespeare's best and with all of the years they've been in the business, that should be really something. More about the outfit after it has had some extensive work over at Lake Okeechobee.

Oh yes, the catalog. You can get one by sending one dollar off to the Shakespeare Fishing Tackle Group, Drawer S, Columbia, South Carolina 29260.

METEOR AFICIONADOS, keep in mind that the Geminid meteor shower, producing up to 50 per hour after midnight, will appear Dec. 13-14.

Also, don't forget that the moon is new again on Dec. 7, with the first quarter coming up a week later, on Dec. 14.

At two p.m. Evan Sax blew the whistle and 40 men and women started a three hour round-robin. No one wanted to quit. The weather was perfect for tennis. It was divided into two groups, and in one group, Dan and Janet Trimper had the high score, and Sally Snow and Ed Bell were the winners in the other group. Winners received fanny money; spendable in the pro shop.

All in all, this was a very busy Thanksgiving weekend. It started, at noon Thursday, with a wedding for my friend Mike Wood and Michele Minnard at the Jensen Beach Community Church. Reception at the Tennis Villas, dinner in the Inlet Room for 20, more turkey that evening at the Burt Reynolds Theater, Friday A.M. owners round robin, dinner dance, wine and cheese party and awards presentation Saturday evening, Sunday the exhibition and mixed round-robin.

Quotes-of-the-month: Don Budge, who completed the first Grand Slam in 1938: "Many people say to me that it was easier for a player to win the Grand Slam in my day. I always reply, 'Well, if that is do, why couldn't some one else do it?'"

The beauty of the land is a joy forever...

At Piper's Landing great care is being exercised in maintaining the natural beauty of the area.

By preserving the ecological areas and utilizing them as nature intended, a unique golf and yachting community is being created in Stuart, Florida.

Piper's Landing has integrated the raw beauty of the area with prestigious golf course villas, garden apartments and custom home sites to provide an atmosphere of total exclusivity. Whether your preference is a picturesque view of natural waterways enhanced by wildlife sanctuaries, or a golfside view of manicured fairways framed by wet prairies, Piper's Landing has a villa or garden apartment to suit your pleasure. Custom home sites of up to 2/3 of an acre are situated overlooking the south fork of the St. Lucie River or directly on the championship 18-hole golf course designed by Joe Lee. All residences are energy efficient, fully computerized for maximum security and surrounded by convenient boat docks, a driving range and putting green, tennis courts, swimming pools and bike trails.

In order to preserve nature at Piper's Landing, we must limit the presence of mankind ... this masterpiece community of 585 acres is planned to provide a maximum of 307 residences and a golf club limited to 275 members.

If you inquire soon, perhaps the beauty of Piper's Landing can be your joy forever.

BY DICK LUNDIN

A SURE-FIRE STEP hunters can take to help prevent hunting accidents is to wear hunter orange, according to the National Shooting Sport Foundation.

The NSSF points out that statistics from the nearly 20 years since hunter or fluorescent orange was first introduced show dramatic decreases in the number of hunting accidents, especially those in the "mistaken for game" category, when hunter orange is worn.

Because deer and other game animals lack color vision, the use of hunter orange will not adversely affect the success of the sportsman in the field, the NSSF explains.

There are other side benefits to wearing the orange by hunters. It helps the sportsman keep track of his fellow hunters, and , because it provides an extra margin of safety, it can make the hunt even more enjoyable experience.

Wear that orange!

ROLAND MARTIN, veteran of many a bassing tournament over the years, out of Broken Arrow, Oklahoma, won the recent $75,000 Florida Invitational B A S A Tournament held at Clewiston on the southeast shore of Lake Okeechobee. Martin's 48-lb. 2-oz bag of Florida largemouth bass brought him from behind on the final day to win the $11,700 first prize in cash and merchandise.

Martin is the all-time money winner in B A S S tournament history with $141,400 and 12 career wins, including three in Florida. Guy Eaker of Cherryville, N C., finished second, just six ounces behind Martin.

THE 1981 BASS MASTERS CLASSIC perhaps the most lucrative and prestigious tournament in freshwater fishing, will be held Oct. 14-16, 1981 at Montgomery Lake on the scenic Alabama River, near Montgomery, Ala.

This early announcement is a break with B A S S. tradition. In the previous 10 years, the Classic site was not divulged until a few weeks before the event, but this time, according to B A S S. president Ray Scott, "the secret was just too good to keep."

There will be 41 anglers qualifying for the Classic through a series of tournaments to be held throughout the country on the heralded $645,000 B A S S. circuit. This year, Bo Dearden of Natchitoches, La. won the Classic at Thousand Islands on the St. Lawrence River between the U.S. and Canada.

FISHING TACKLE CATALOGS are always avidly read by anglers both young and old, new and experienced, and the latest edition of Shakespeare's is no exception to the rule. It is packed with the latest in Shakespeare's complete line of rods, reels, lines and accessories. You'll enjoy perusing it even if you don't buy a single foot of line.

As a matter of fact, it is so intriguing that I succumbed and ordered a new boron 2001 bait casting rod and a Sigma 0001 bait casting reel with a spool of new Sigma clear blue fluorescent 12 lb. test monofilament line.

Sure, I've already got several bait casting reels but you like to keep up with the state of the art. That's Shakespeare's best and with all of the years they've been in the business, that should be really something. More about the outfit after it has had some extensive work over at Lake Okeechobee.

Oh yes, the catalog. You can get one by sending one dollar off to the Shakespeare Fishing Tackle Group, Drawer S, Columbia, South Carolina 29260.

METEOR AFICIONADOS, keep in mind that the Geminid meteor shower, producing up to 50 per hour after midnight, will appear Dec. 13-14.

Also, don't forget that the moon is new again on Dec. 7 with the first quarter coming up a week later, on Dec. 14.

Tennis

BY TOM FALKENBURG
Director of Tennis — Indian River Plantation

BY TOM FALKENBURG

For most top young amateur players, any chance of earning a national ranking used to end when they reached their 22nd birthdays. They were ineligible to play in the 18-and-under division and a place on the national men's or women's ranking list, dominated by professional players, was out of reach.

But now there's hope. Early this year, U.S. tennis officials did away with the five-year-old, 21 and under ranking category and, in its place, organized a National Amateur Division. It will be open to amateur players of all ages. Most of the better players in this division will be college players.

This new format includes a schedule of about 12 tournaments around the country, such as the Texas U.St.A. Amateur, and right here in Stuart, the first tournament of the new National Amateur series will be held at I.R.P. The dates June 1-7. The official name will be, U.S.T.A. Florida Amateur Championship. Then a few weeks later, I.R.P. will host the 5th Annual Martin County Championships during National Tennis Week, June 22 to 28.

Speaking of tournaments, this past weekend saw the Australian Women's Championship, in Melbourne. The International Championships of my birthplace, Chile. South African Open Men's Championship. The finals of the Men's, in Milan, Italy. And about 100 more championships of some level or other.

But for many people, the most important tennis event was at I.R.P. The Owners mixed doubles tourney was rained out Friday, but played Saturday morning with 22 people competing. Don & Evelyn Holt edged out F. L. Brengel & James Sutter for first place and a prize featured in the Miami Herald, a cartoon by Robert Erikson. The runners-up received a set of four I.R.P. pineapple goblets each. The owners also enjoyed a golf tourney, dinner dance with one of the best orchestras in Palm Beach, and a wine and cheese party where the awards were made Saturday evening.

Sunday, at one p.m. featured a men's doubles exhibition with Carey Powell, Sandpiper Bay, Terry Vanderbrook, arizona College, Joe Harvey, Y.C.C.S. and Toni Falkenburg, host pro. At two p.m. Evan Sax blew the whistle and 40 men and women started a three hour round-robin. No one wanted to quit. The weather was perfect for tennis. It was divided into two groups, and in one group, Dan and Janet Trimper had the high score, and Sally Snow and Ed Bell were the winners in the other group. Winners received 'funny money', spendable in the pro slop.

All in all, this was a very busy Thanksgiving weekend. It started, at noon Thursday, with a wedding for my friend Mike Wood and Michele Minnard at the Jensen Beach Community Church. Reception at the Tennis Villas, dinner in the Inlet Room for 20, more turkey that evening at the Burt Reynolds Theater, Friday A.M. owners round robin, dinner dance, wine and cheese party and awards presentation Saturday evening, Sunday the exhibition and mixed round-robin.

Quotes-of-the-month. Don Budge, who completed the first Grand Slam in 1938: "Many people say to me that it was easier for a player to win the Grand Slam in my day. I always reply, 'Well, if that is do, why couldn't someone else do it?'"

Northport Men's golf scores

Clyde Stottlemeyer again topped flight A with a net score of 58 at Northport Men's Golf Association play Tuesday. Fred Sheets had a 58 in flight B it was Tom Cole with a 56. Al Gerhardt with a 58. Bob Tew won flight C with a 59; Carl Barton had a 62. It was Ed Beswick in flight D with a 63. Mike Farrelly had a 54.

Closest to the hole on the third hole was Stan Kazan. George Baser was winner on the 12th hole.

Holiday Woman's Golf Association played a low gross, low net, low putts tourney last week. Winners are: Flight A 1. Low Gross, Stella Jankowski, 74; 2. Low Net, Alys Scott, and 3. Low Putts, Jimmy White, 28. Flight B 1. Low Gross, Doris Petersen, 82; 2. Low Net, Kay Bishop, and 3. Low Putts, Ann Hunter, 31. Flight C 1. Low Gross, Jerre Jackson, 2. Low Net, Mary Kendall, 64, and Low Putts, Alice Zucker, 31.

PSL Women's golf scores

The Port St. Lucie Women's Golf Assoc. played on November 28 at the Saints Course, Sandpiper Bay for "Guess Your Score" Tournament.

The winners are: A Flight, Dotty Denton. First Flight, Bertha Doty. Second Flight, Helen Conklin. Third Flight, Lillian Gradubar. Fourth Flight, Anne Fisher.

There were three Clup-Ins, Vi Blankenship, Anne Hayes, Carol Orientz.

Sandpiper Bay woman's golf

The rain delayed second round of the President's Cup Tournament was played Tuesday on the Saints Championship Course at Sandpiper Bay. With a few stunning upsets, 32 players survived and will meet head to head next week in the third round.

Low scores in the daily play, "Drop The Two Worst Holes," substituting par for those holes, found ladies in the second, fourth, fifth, and sixth flights tied at 63. Winners and their scores were:

First Flight — Larry Martell 66, Ginny Hickman 69, Angie LoBrutto 69, Diva Pilotto 70, Roz Vroman 70;

Second Flight: Emily Griffin 63, Mary Maney 64, Nancy Horsley 65, Jane Farnsworth 68, Lorraine Swift 69;

Third Flight: Bea Jahn 64, Fran Heiden 65, Sunny Leybourne 66, Doris Harvey 67, Max Rutherford 67;

Fourth Flight: Dot Giesey 63, Mary Kuhn 64, Sylva Barnwell 65, Jerry Bowreson 67, Cora Hudock 67;

Fifth Flight: Doris Hickman 63, Libby Webster 65, Linda Mood 69, Helen Porteous 69;

Sixth Flight: Jackie Fiscus 63, Kay LaFlair 67, Nona Johnston 69, and Lee Reeb 69.

Club Pro Tournament set

The first PGA Club Pro Series to take place in Martin County this year will be held at the Crane Creek Golf Club at Martin Downs on Thursday and Friday, December 4th & 5th.

Crane Creek, a private golfing facility, will be open to the general public during the course of this tournament. Activities will include the unveiling of the plans for Martin Downs' new golf course, a fashion show on Thursday afternoon at 4:30 featuring ladies' evening wear, and the awarding of $1,500 in prize money upon the tallying of scores on Friday afternoon.

Spring training camp is rumored for PSL

BY NINA BARANSKI

A major league baseball team is considering developing a spring training camp in Port St Lucie.

However, it will take more than a letter to Santa to make the dream a reality

Otis Wragg, spokesman for General Development (GDC), confirmed that his undisclosed team has made an inquiry and that negotiations are only in the very early stages

According to Wragg, the team is also considering at least two other areas and others would like to have them

"We thought this was a wonderful idea, and would be a tremendous boost for the entire community," said Wragg "We are willing to help in any way and have done so by investigating potential sites There has been a great deal of speculation as to what sites but I know for a fact that we are the only ones who are aware of what sites have been considered and I have not told anyone

The speculation thus far is simply "pie in the sky" The same goes for the name of the team, the one thing that was stressed by the officials was confidentiality and we have not broken our word I have heard the name of at least eight teams thus far As a matter of fact I don't even know which league this team belongs to"

Wragg said the team would need a minimum of 50 acres for a facility which would include a stadium, practice fields, housing for team members, and, minimal recreation facilities for the team

Following the initial inquiry Wragg said GDC officials spoke to individual members of the city government, civic leaders and business persons in the community to get their reactions

"Without the support of the city officials residents and business people, this can't possibly come about I am sure GDC will be delighted to donate the needed parcel of land, but it will be up to the city to finance the building of the facility The city would own the facility but the club would sign a long term lease with the city which would pay for" explained Wragg

Speculation regarding one or more football clubs joining in the project has also run rampant according to Wragg "No offer or inquiry from any football team has been made that we are aware of It would certainly stand to reason that should such a facility come about it may be beneficial to even solicit such a team That is far down the road

"I don't want the community misled into thinking there is something there is not As soon as we are in the position to give out any further information we will certainly do so Right now it is entirely up to the team officials and there is nothing more we can do," concluded Wragg

City officials have viewed the project with favor up to this point "I was approached some time ago about the prospect and felt that it would be a tremendous asset to the city, to finance the building of the facility The city would own the facility but the club would sign a long term lease with the city which would pay for it," explained Wragg

Dear Governor Graham,

Please purchase the Savannas, because if you don't someone is going to buy them and make a mall or some condominiums and believe me - we have enough of them!

I also think you should consider all of the plants and animals that live there. They will all lose their homes.

My best friend Kerry had some nice woods next to her house, which people tore down and made into 4-story condominiums. Also, my friends Leah & Dara had some woods which were torn down to make some apartments. And, by my house, the woods have already started being torn down to make some condominiums. Wouldn't you agree we have enough of them?

The Savannas are pretty, I've been there before & hope the state buys them.

Sincerely,
Tania Tate.

Youngsters write to save the Jensen Beach Savannas

In an effort to save the Savannas, area children have written pleas to Governor Graham.

Youngsters from Jensen Beach Elementary not only wrote letters to the governor but took part in a school project to save the Savannas by putting together a brochure on various plants and wildlife found in the woods. In addition, seminars and lectures concerning the Savannas were given throughout the school.

Time is running out for not only the students but for the residents of the area as well. On Wednesday, (today), cabinet member aides will meet to prepare the priority list for the Dec. 16 meeting. $30 million in conservation funds will be distributed at that time. The Savanna properties, which could he bought for approximately 3.3 million, ranks 11th on the list for funding by the Conservation and Recreation Lands Selection Committee.

To the students of Jensen Beach Elementary, the survival of the Savannas is of paramount importance and it is their intention to show that by their letters to Governor Graham

Jensen Estates to pay impact fees

Jensen Park Estates, a Coy & Segeller development, has agreed to pay a recreational impact fee of $100 for every lot sold in its Savanna Road housing project.

In a resolution adopted Tuesday by Martin County Commissioners, County Attorney Stephen Fry called for a "recreational lien" which would provide the Special Taxing District A with funds for parks supplied by the developer.

The firm voluntarily agreed to the conditions, Fry said. The county has no ordinance requiring developers to pay impact fees yet.

A 32-unit multi-family development in Hutchinson Island to be built on the Bartolino Club moved a step closer to construction Tuesday when the developer, Philip Pearlman, agreed to meet county planner and zoning recommendations.

On one recommendation, however, commissioners agreed to reach a compromise with Pearlman. Asked to donate a 6½-acre parcel on the west side of A1A to the county with a 50-foot right-of-way, Pearlman requested a 20-foot right-of-way.

Pearlman has also agreed to provide guaranteed water pressure for fire fighting and to meet other specified regulations before submitting preliminary plans.

An effort by Chairman Maggy Hurchalla to commit Pearlman to preserving wetlands in an additional section of the westside A1A parcel failed when Pearlman insisted that he had already donated 6½ acres to the county.

Office condo to be built

BY AILSA DEWING

Construction is expected to begin early next year on an office condominium on East Ocean Boulevard opposite the Benihana of Tokyo Steak House in Sewall's Point.

The office condominium is a fairly new concept, according to the architect, Richard Granfield, of Stuart, in that office space within the building is sold rather than rented.

Plans call for a three-story building to face on the St. Lucie River. The ground floor will be occupied by the realty firm of Dutcher, Higginbotham & Bass, developers of the project.

Granfield, a former Sewall's Point commissioner, said the building will consist only of a shell, landscaping and parking. Space will be sold by the square-foot with buyers, limited to professional services, contracting on their own for completion of interior space. Only professional offices will be permitted to locate in the building, Granfield said, and will not include shops or other retail outlets.

The condominium, located at 1 East Ocean Boulevard, is tentatively named the St. Lucie Condominium Office Building until a permanent name is selected.

Ocean Breeze elections slated

More than 300 voters of Ocean Breeze Park will go to the polls Tuesday to elect a mayor and three aldermen.

Polls will be open at Clement Hall from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m., Mayor Gene Hoke said.

Four candidates are seeking the aldermen's seats. They are incumbent William Jones, William Weaver, Luther Weeks, and Ray Stewart. Mayor Hoke is unopposed.

Two of the aldermen will succeed to vacated posts, those of Ruth Bowden, who is not seeking re-election and Betty McNab, who died while in office.

N. Y. Mets officials to inspect PSL site

BY MIKE SANDY

Reports have it that officials of the New York Mets National Baseball League team and possibly one or two National Football League club officials will confer with General Development people and visit the area to view the 86 acre parcel of land off Walton Road that might attract them to utilize the area for Spring Training and Summer Training It is likely that GDC will be very receptive to assist in planning a facility in this area similar to that at Vero Beach; winter home of the Los Angeles Dodgers and the NFL New Orleans Saints

There is a tract some 50 acres adjacent to the Village Green shopping center now under construction, that could be developed, complete with baseball diamonds, football fields, athletic houses, bleachers, running track, tennis courts to compliment one of the finest facilities of its kind in the south While all of this is in the "rumor" stage, it is a fact that baseball and football club officials will be coming here to look over the area Otis Wragg, GDC communications director confirmed that representatives of a major league baseball team are considering Port St Lucie as its spring training grounds

Chamber installs Thursday

Members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce will celebrate the installation of officers and present the second annual award for community service at Frances Langford's Outrigger Restaurant Thursday evening.

The evening will begin with a social reception at 6 p.m. on the Outrigger deck. Members will pick up their badges and tickets on the marina side entrance to the deck.

Then, the party will move into the Bamboo Room of the Outrigger for a banquet dinner, followed by the installation by past president Frank A. Wachs.

The officers to be installed include Dick Campbell, president, Jayne Petersen, vice president, Art Hansen, treasurer, and William Keele III, secretary.

Directors include Art Roberts, Bob Gorman and Peg Meissner, two years, and Gene Greenwood, Richard Zurich, Fred Meeker; Barbara Torow, Ron Mitchell, Charles Otto and Marge Paris, one year.

The community service award will follow. It is presented to someone who has contributed to the community in an exemplary way over the years. The selection is made by a Chamber committee, and the recipient announced at the banquet.

County may cooperate to see causeway light

Signal lights at the A1A and Indian River Drive junctions of the Jensen Beach Causeway may be installed through cooperative efforts of Martin County Commissioners and the Florida Department of Transportation.

District One Commissioner Alex Haynes sought county assistance during Tuesday's session when he relayed information that a recent DOT study of traffic entering and exiting the causeway showed a need for signal lights but that DOT reportedly lacked funds to install them

County Engineer Ed Greenawyer reported that the county had signal lights that might be used.

Commissioners voted to investigate the possibility of a cooperative effort with DOT to install the needed lights. While A1A and Indian River Drive are state roads, the Causeway is a county road.

In other action instigated by Commissioner Haynes, a study of traffic over the eastern section of the causeway was ordered by commissioners to establish a practical load limit for vehicles.

Heavy trucks are grooving the muck-based road, Haynes reported, particularly when braking.

County to fight for island bridge

Martin County Commissioners have elected to continue efforts to obtain another bridge to Hutchinson Island in view of St. Lucie County permitting high-rise construction on the island.

A resolution proposed by Martin Commission Chairman Maggy Hurchalla Tuesday asks the state Department of Transportation to study the effects of traffic over the Jensen Beach Causeway during the months of January and February when it is at its peak.

At the same time, she called for applying for Coastal Energy Impact Funds to study the Hutchinson Island traffic problems. Both proposals were passed by the commissioners.

Commissioners also agreed to seek the support of the Department of Community Affairs and requested County Attorney Stephen Fry to contact any state agencies that could take action on the Hollingsworth project which will build six 20 story highrises on the island in St. Lucie County.

The UFO that wasn't

Those who've been ogling the sky for the past few nights waiting for the strange colored lights in the sky to zoom off into infinity as an unidentified flying object can give their aching necks a rest.

Eglin Air Force Base has identified the flying objects as bariun rockets being fired into the atmosphere in connection with communication tests being made.

The glow has appeared in the northwest sky in the Martin-St. Lucie area just after sundown

Local printer honored in church celebration

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

Horace Hurst deals with the printed word.

A printer by trade, he has spent the better part of his life setting on type the events, large or small, that shape the lives of many.

Although Horace has been retired for a number of years, he has never quite given up practicing the trade that has carried him throughout the world during his many years in the business.

Every Thursday, Horace travels from his home in Jensen Beach, to the Jensen Beach Community Church. There, he leads his experience by printing weekly church newsletters. Through his efforts, members of the congregation are informed of the many events that take place.

In addition to printing, Horace is an expert at photography and shares his wealth of knowledge with the church by taking pictures of new church members.

Recently, congregational members decided to return the favor by hosting a celebration in honor of Horace's 90th birthday. More than 50 people gathered at the church to show their appreciation for his many contributions throughout the years.

Although Horace has turned 90, he says "I feel as spry as a chicken."

Aside from keeping active with his church obligations, he counts on mowing his own lawn and walking a considerable distance each day to keep fit.

Horace is a firm believer in keeping busy. To that end he has a number of projects to occupy his time. One such project is the tracing of his ancestral genealogy. Although it requires months of research, he says he enjoys looking back through his family tree.

He recalls the field of printing with similar interest. Until 1956 he owned and operated Palmetto Publishing Co. Back then, the printing presses looked considerably different than those of today. He became interested in the updating of printing equipment that he finally travelled to Mainz, Germany, to see the Gutenberg Press.

According to Horace, Gutenberg was the inventor of the movable type and made continuous improvements to type molds.

After Germany, Horace travelled to London, Switzerland, and finally returned to the United States.

Fortunately for the members of the Jensen Beach Community Church, Horace has returned to Jensen Beach to stay.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY was wished to Horace Hurst by the members of the Jensen Beach Community Church in appreciation for the many contributions he has given to the church throughout the years. members helped him celebrate his 90th birthday with cakes and candles. Pictured with him is Mrs. Hurst.

Blood drive sets record at nuke plant

Recently, the Martin branch of the Hutchinson Island, and set a blood drive record.

Thursday and Friday, over 500 pints of blood were donated by workers at the Florida Power and Light Nuclear Power Plant.

This is the biggest drive ever held," said Sara Timon, head nurse of the Martin Branch. For two days, the six volunteers worked feverishly to ensure that blood doners were efficiently routed through the appropriate channels.

All went smoothly for the duration of the drive and the Palm Beach Blood Bank came away with 510 pints of blood, representing the largest drive ever in Florida.

HOME AND INVESTMENT RULES DIFFER

QUESTION: My problem is this: My husband and I inherited some land many years ago. We now have been offered a price which will give us a profit of about 680,000. Both of us will turn 55 next year, and I have heard that there is a provision of the tax laws which lets you exclude up to $100,000 in capital gains on real estate sales if you are 55 or older. Is this correct? If so, should I we wait until next year so that we can save taxes through this exclusion?

ANSWER: Unfortunately, the exclusion that you have heard about only applies to the sale of your primary residence—your home.

The exclusion provides that $100,000 of the gain from the sale of your principal residence will be forgiven from taxation if you are 55 years or older and have owned and lived in it for at least three of the five years before the sale. This exemption applies only once in your lifetime and, unfortunately for you, the sale of investment properties is not covered by this exclusion. This means that, if you sell your property, you must report 40 percent of the profit as a long-term capital gain and pay taxes on that amount.

One way to legally avoid paying the tax on the transaction is by arranging a tax-deferred exchange.

If the party purchasing your land will cooperate, you can find a property which suits your needs better than your present property. Your purchaser buys that property from the owner, and you then exchange your land for the more desired property.

I would be happy to discuss such an exchange with you at your convenience.

Let's discuss your investment program. Call me at 334-0717, or stop by:

Newlyweds on their honeymoon, Georgeanna and Jim Lachy from Anderson, Indiana spent three days here on the island in Venture Three. They were guests of her sister Fern and husband Bud Knoebel and then continued on their journey to Miami.

Having a gay time of laughter and joking, a joint Birthday Party was hosted by Pat Bell and Betty Drinkard at the Bell residence on Friday. A lovely Italian Dinner was served. The honored Sagittarians were Lester Shaver, Jan Dedaker, Penny Bacon, Bell and Hazel (Pete) Lee. Attending the birthday party were Scott and Pete Lee of Tampa, Jan and Bob Dedaker of Port St. Lucie, Pat and Larry Bell, Jessie and Lester Shaver and Betty and Paul Drinkard.

A Welcome Back to Floyd Reynolds and wife Alice, who is keeping a short rein on hubby Floyd as recuperating from a double by-pass heart surgery done in October and is doing fine.

Marion and Cap Uldricks have just arrived from Battle Creek, Michigan, having spent their Thanksgiving Holidays with their daughter and her family in Roanoke, Virginia.

Residents of Anderson, Indiana, daughter of Virginia and Gene Glaze, Sandy and husband Bill Christman were guests this week past. Two grandsons, Brian 9 and Gregory 5 enjoyed the Ocean and fishing and were delighted to see Disney World. From Sanibel, Florida the Richard Friemans arrived for a short stay with Pat and Larry Bell. Our old friend and neighbor Doris Day arrived by plane this week from Syracuse, New York.

Shinske with their friends from the North, Battyanne Javorka from Southgate, Michigan and Dan Weaver of Mellvindale, Michigan and Nettlen Island Battyanne was winding up her 10 day Thanksgiving vacation and was very reluctant to leave our balmy shores for the snow and ice of Michigan On leaving the restaurant they stopped to chat with Thelma Dickey of Venture Harbor and her college friend of many years from Lafayette, Indiana, Mrs Mary Hadley

We are glad to see our old buddy Bill Hennessey is finally venturing forth missing his cruises

From Oshawa, Ontario, the Neil Jilkenson family enjoyed their stay with Lloyd and Lenore McGahee. While here the young folks visited Disney World. Neil is an antique dealer in the North and spent some time looking around the area for a site to buy.

Lynn and Bob Gass are hosting our Friday Welcome Snowbird Cocktail Party at 4:30. See you all there, with your best! (minus snacks to most of us!) and B Y O B. There will be live music so bring your dancing shoes and stay til 7:30.

Allen and Lorene Sachs of Lantana and former residents of St. Lucie stopped in for a short chat with members and friends of the Park last week. They also picked up Rose Curth who was returning with them for the Thanksgiving Day Holiday.

Who was that beautiful red headed girl seen on Sting Ray Drive this past week???? None other than 4½ month old Kelly Hennessey who, with her mother Wendy, flew in Monday from Seattle for a visit with her doting grandma and grandpa (Ruth and Bill). They will be leaving for Connecticut to see the rest of the Hennessey tummy and then returning to Washington for Christmas with her daddy Patrick.

Happily we welcome back all of our friends who sailed on the Caribbean Cruise recently. A total of 38. A detailed account will be forthcoming here later in this column.

Riverside Village

Ladies of the park held a mini Christmas Bazaar Saturday afternoon at the hall and were well pleased with the response received. Plans are to make the Bazaar an annual affair.

Plans are to have a pot luck dinner inmate at the hall. Bring a dish, couples 4-4 servings, singles 3-3 servings. Coffee will be furnished.

Ruth Webster and Vi Walker are the new co-chairman of our potluck dinners. Bring your own dishes and silverware. See you at 6:00 p.m. at the hall.

Received word that Edith White is in a nursing home. Here is her address: Fairport Baptist Home, 4646 Nine Mile Point Road, Room 208 Fairport, New York 14450. A Christmas card would brighten her day.

Gerald and Sally Harris of Fraser, Mich., have been visiting the Shapton's. While here they tried all the golf courses and really enjoyed playing at the Plantation.

Their daughter Sherri visited here also. She enjoyed 3 days at Disney World. Sherri just graduated from nursing school and enjoyed a little vacation before going to work as a nurse.

Ruthie Webster spent Thanksgiving and the five following days with friend in Freeport, Grand Bahama. Ruth is a new resident of our park and enjoys many crafts and playing Bingo. Welcome Ruth.

Bingo cover all winners were Ethel Noggle on Tuesday and Betty Frantz on Friday.

Fishermen watch your pails and bags while tending to your poles. You don't know what people will pick up while your back is turned.

To shell brazil nuts freeze them first. They will crack more readily and usually come out whole. Work for meat nuts.

Some residents of the park witnessed the "shot" the other night.

Carl and Betty Fritz have arrived back in the park after spending several days visiting their daughter and family in Myrtle Beach, S. C.

Former neighbors, Anthony and Ruth Christopher, of Conneaut, Ohio stopped to visit Carl and Betty Fritz. They were on their way to Pompano Beach.

Clint Shelburne, a former resident, has flown back to Boston, Mass. He is entering a Convalescent home there so he will be near his daughter.

Kermit and Katie Brown of Haines City spent the Thanksgiving Holiday with his sister Orpha Woodring.

Lets all send a Christmas card to Al, his address is Alfred Baumgartner, VA Hospital, 1201 NW 16th st., Room 9 A B., Miami, Fla. 33125.

The public welfare demands DOT action

The Florida Department of Transportation notes that the east and west ends of Jensen Causeway Blvd. need traffic lights and redesign, but officials say that there is no money to do the work.

The public welfare demands that the money be found somehow to lessen the traffic congestion at the two intersections. Too much time and money is wasted, and there is a possibility of tragic accidents at the dangerous entrance into A-1-A and Indian River Drive.

We thank the DOT for accepting the Mirror request for another traffic count. That count showed what we know to be true: both intersections have more than enough traffic on them to warrant more control.

With the DOT deferring to the county for the money, we can hope that Martin commissioners will somehow find funding for traffic lights.

It has been done before. The county pays for the lights and waits until the DOT can reimburse the funds.

The redesign of the intersection at Indian River Drive is another matter. It would be expensive, and should be budgeted for action as soon as possible. However, an interim solution could be achieved by having stop signs placed on Indian River Drive for north and south bound vehicles with the right-of-way access to the drive given to vehicles that age westbound on the causeway.

In that way, heavy traffic periods would allow the greatest number of vehicles to exit into the north and south bound lanes of the drive with a minimum of delay to the lesser traveled drive vehicles.

Of course, there is always a bit of humor in every event. When the DOT reported that traffic counts showed the need for signalization, the DOT said that if the county decided to spend the money for the signals, DOT permission would be needed and another traffic count would have to be made.

That is bureaucracy at its best.

Open for business

Merchants in Jensen Beach spent a quiet night last Friday as they opened their stores for Christmas shoppers. Many participating stores are following the leadership of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce in trying to get residents to "Try Jensen Beach First," a merchandising campaign sponsored by local banks and savings and loan associations.

The kickoff of the event, with carol singing by local choirs on the steps of First Federal Savings in downtown Jensen, was sparsely attended, but it was held, and it was beautiful.

The encouraging thing about this is that the merchants are actually working together. It is the first time that hours have been planned for those who are participating in the Christmas promotion. hours that they themselves decided upon.

Those merchants are also planning to be open until 9 p.m. this Friday, and then on Thursday and Friday, December 18 and 19, and on Monday and Tuesday before Christmas.

We believe that this organized merchant effort deserves community support. We urge local residents to follow the theme to "Try Jensen Beach First."

Mariners (mermen) found a glut on the market caused prices to drop to eight cents a pound, so they went out on strike, putting their nets on the racks to wait for prices to go back up.

"No Parking" signs went up on the south side of Commercial Street to relieve the traffic congestion in downtown Jensen Beach.

Working the Lions Pancake breakfast were Virgil Wilson, Gene Kasper, and Lefty Panuzio.

Mirror Editor Dick Campbell was named neighborhood commissioner of the Boy Scouts to form the first scout troop in Jensen Beach. The Jensen Beach Community Church agreed to sponsor the troop.

J. Fred Rivers was membership drive chairman of the Jensen Chamber of Commerce and kicked off a drive to raise membership to over 300.

The incorporation committee of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce began considering a proposed city budget after completing studies on the formation of the city.

The Department of Transportation erased the center line of Commercial Street in preparation for making the street one-way. A protest by the Jensen Chamber of Commerce stopped the project, and the DOT promised that a public hearing would be held before any other action was taken.

The grand opening of the St. Lucie Hilton Hotel (Sandpiper Bay) was held in Port St. Lucie featured a ski show, regatta, fireworks and the music of "Beats" Randolph.

The Jensen Beach VFW held a "like a bike" campaign for Jensen youth at Langford Park.

Trinity United Methodist Church held its tenth anniversary celebration.

The newly repainted sign on the Jensen Arch read "Jensen Beach—happy, healthful living and playing."

The purchase of the environmentally endangered Jensen Savannas still has a high priority, it was announced by Ney Landrum of the Florida division of recreation and parks. (Five years ago!)

Oversight is needed

BY CONGRESSMAN SKIP RAFALES

The biggest failing of Congress has been its reluctance to follow up on the programs it creates.

Program after program is launched with a big fanfare, but no effort is made to see whether the programs are properly carried out by the agencies responsible for administering them.

Nor is there any effort to determine whether programs have outlived their usefulness — or been supplanted by a later, more sweeping concept.

In fact, the Congress blithely appropriates billions upon billions of taxpayers' dollars, without ever making an effort to see if the money is spent wisely.

This lack of oversight on the part of the Congress is, to a great extent, responsible for the problems in our economy.

Bureaucrats all too often take a reasonably simple Congressionally approved program; stretch it, revamp it, and so mutilate it, that it becomes virtually impossible to recognize the original idea. In fact, it sometimes appears the bureaucrats don't even bother to read the laws they are supposed to administer; they just use them as launching pads for their own pet programs.

The end result has been a government growing out of control, and its taxes into every facet of our lives.

The American people, and Congress, are fed up with this. The results of November's general election prove this. They are fed up with ineffective and duplicative programs eliminated. They want an end to excessive regulation of our business and private lives.

Fortunately, there is a growing determination in the Congress to provide the oversight which has been so sadly lacking over the past few decades.

As a matter of fact, a report was recently wrote Tennes Speaker O'Neill requesting no new legislation be scheduled for consideration during the first three months of the 97th Congress.

Instead, we urged the Speaker to instruct us to devote that time to oversight hearings on those programs already in effect and those programs already created.

The purpose of these hearings wouldn't be to hone the programs or appeals for continued funding — or more funding. Rather, we would at that time to make the agencies themselves — to examine Members of Congress that they deserve to be allowed to continue operation; that their programs are doing the job intended and have outlived their usefulness.

Believe me, the first three months of next year would be more well spent developing legislation to streamline and improve useful programs and abolish the obsolete and ineffective ones, than it would be developing new programs.

Granted, it wouldn't provide the opportunities for headlines that the introduction of some new program designed to cure a particular ill would. But since so few of the programs introduced to cure an ill really do, the headline would be better spent.

More important, such an effort would restore the people's faith in the Congress as a viable institution, one with the best interests of all the people at heart.

Right now, many Americans simply look upon the Congress as a tool which takes money from them and tosses it away to harebrained, wasteful, monstrous programs which do no good.

And they're right. Because Congress has for all practical purposes, abandoned its responsibilities as the keeper of the nation's purse-strings, the wise and thoughtful spender.

The Christmas tree

It all goes back to about 1958. When we bought the big house on the hill, we wanted to have a beautiful home. It was just that.

The home was built in 1921. It was a Mediterranean classic that I swore would be the newspaper of the future, the home of The Mirror in future years.

It took a bunch of years to make it that. Only three years ago, we moved The Mirror to the top of Skyline Drive and Sunview Road, and the staff found out what a place it could be. It was the showplace of Jensen Beach.

In the early twenties, it was the place to be married, and the place to hold receptions and social events. It was known as the big house on the hill.

I bought it in 1958 from Bill Weiss, a local Realtor who offered me several other lots in the area that he kept his promise on and gave me when I had the money to buy them.

All through those years, I watched that house leak when it rained. No matter what I did, the leaks would not cease. We had the roof blow off on the main building, the Florida room, and the garage in Hurricane David. It took from the hurricane to January to get it fixed.

It still leaks.

Everytime that the rains come, we all run out and get buckets to hang on the nails we have in the moldings so that the water doesn't fall on our heads as we walk into the layout room.

For all those years, I have always had an idea. The building is about sixty feet above the hill, making it possible to have slightest Christmas tree scene 70 feet high if I was able to use the CB antenna as an anchor for Christmas lights that would be tied to the tower.

With the help of Evans Electric, I got the materials to put together the lights. Rick helped me put the lines up.

We now have a Christmas tree that is 70 feet high, on the hill overlooking the Indian River Rick, my son, built a star that is on the CB tower, above the lights, as the star on the tree.

It is really interesting how the tree looks. In the daylight, it is nothing more than seven strands of colored lights. However, as evening falls, the seven strands of light turn into a beautiful Christmas tree, with Rick's star on top.

I drive out to the Jensen Causeway, and the tree was a sight to behold. I continued on to Hutchinson Island, and in that little stretch where you can see the mainland, the tree was there, in all its glory, shining from tree hill.

I always thought that the sight would be magnificent, but I didn't know just how beautiful it could be.

Christmas, to me, is a time to reflect on what has been, and what might be.

While I am reflecting, I think of what we could have been when I got the building on which to put the Christmas lights and what can be in the future as I add more lights.

However, as I think that I have finally achieved the goal of being able to buy the Christmas lighting, I also think of what might be in the future, and what lights could be added to make the birth of Jesus much more beautiful.

That is, after all, what it is all about. Our Christmas trees are a symbol of the story of the light of the Eastern Star, bringing the Wise Men to the stable.

To me, my dream has always been to have that Christmas tree be the light that would reach out across the Indian River, across Hutchinson Island, and out the broad reaches of the Atlantic Ocean to offer the light of hope to anyone who would be in that ocean, on that island, or on that river.

This year, with the help of Evans Electric, Rick Campbell, and The Mirror staff, we finally have that tree.

As you drive down Indian River Drive, go to the postoffice, or to the bank, or motor down the Indian River, or drive down A-1-A, or boat in the Atlantic, within eyesight range of the Mirror building on the hill in Jensen Beach, take a look at our Christmas tree, a lighted celebration of the birth of the Son of God.

It is the result of 21 years of hope that we might be able to do what we wanted to do.

And, I'm very proud of it...our Christmas tree.

To The Editor:

Recently Mobil advertised in papers for an "architect planner" with practical experience for a proposed development in the area. This is a welcome and healthy trend in public info.

"Planners" not teamed up with practical and experienced professionals from architectural engineering firms are usually too theoretical and unrealistic.

I found "Planners" as a class are very elitist, impractical and inclined to be dictatorial. They are prone to use dictates, fiats, and generalities and have not been really tested in the market place or survived close scrutiny.

I noted the following inadequacies and deficiencies:

1. They were not cost conscious.

2. They really didn't relate their beautiful plans to the feral means of the community or the tax base present and future.

3. Whether the community could really afford their beautiful plans did not disclose them.

4. They usually were unaware of or ignored or failed to keep abreast of Court decisions and other comparable rulings. Personal and property rights were cast aside and not balanced.

5. They would not or could not tell us where or how the money to implement their plan was to come from. Could the community afford assessed immaterial to them.

6. And they would relate to other "planners" as their authority precedents and their actual experience was usually "nil."

Many municipalities in Florida and elsewhere would profit when hiring "experts" like "planners" to prepare them. Don't follow blindly but ascertain what they come up with to be practicalities always present and the compromises and adjustments necessary.

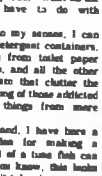
Jolly Christmas gifts



Ailsa Dewing

With the jolly season on its way though you might like some hints for jolly gifts. Away with shirts, ties and underwear for holiday gift giving. Put a little ho-ho in somebody's stocking.

How about an Energy Saving Machine? This is a battery-powered gizmo replete with dials, an electric cord and a lever, that sits on your desk just begging some curious visitor to pick it up and ask, "What's this?"

On my way through Belle Glade last week, I stopped to see Friend Dean Jones at the Herald-Observer who had a what's this on his desk.

"Push the lever," he said.

So I did.

A small trap door at the top opened. A small hand crept out, pushed the lever back, disappeared into its lair and the trap door shut itself.

While I was still giggling, Dean whipped out another bit of tomfoolery. It was an aid for a complete rig to set up as a turn-of-the-century sundries vendor replete with horse, buggy, a year's supply of carrots and sugar cubes, a small pail and shovel, and other items I don't recall. Except one: a tiny hankie. Dean says he's been assured that the aid is no go-on — it really can be bought.

Which led me to recall a gift I'd heard of. A belly dancer who brings her own cake in burst out of abing with a fumble-fingered accordionist with an off-key nasal voice to accompany her in a unique rendition of "On a Little Street in Singapore."

Or how about a weather rock? You put it outside on a window sill. If the rock is wet, you know it's raining. If it's white, it's snowing, and so on. Does anyone need a weather rock to go with it, though, to tell which direction the wind is blowing. If the rope is totally horizontal, it's either a tornado or a hurricane.

How about a brass band and banner to greet a friend at the airport or serenade your loved-one with an oompah mariachi sound? Or the low-budget version: one tuba player with a sandwich board.

If these items are not available at your local gift shop, contact the nearest distributor who can be located lord only knows where.

For the artsy-craftsy, this is the season to go completely bonkers, creating decorations out of everything from old car parts to cooked spaghetti.

Amid the fluttering sound of cookie recipes flying through the air there's the steady click-click of knitting needles. Every macramaniac has hung out a "Do Not Disturb" sign, and days are measured by the yard.

I'm among the undoit. My knitting elicits cries of, "Is that for me?" and deep sighs of relief when I say, "no." They just don't build people to fit my knit goods. Unless you know someone with one arm that trails on the ground but the other is regulation length. Whose waist is a 77 but has a 3½ inch neckline and who's shorter in front than in back. For that one I have a sweater already completed.

How come nobody ever makes the old-fashioned kind of presents I mean at? Bad dolls with crepe paper skirts and door stops made from telephone directories?

But I have added my share of mirth to Christmases past with my decorations. There was the year I joined the crowd in making stained glass panels from greased butcher paper and wax crayons. I titled mine, "Gift of the Magi." The family dubbed it, "Don't stay out in the sun" till your henchrocks melts."

Or my table centerpiece of paper-mache, a miniature Santa that I had to keep explaining, "He's laying a finger along side his nose."

I finally gave up when my three wise men on the mantle, made from flour clay, were generally referred to as the three wise guys with head bandages and somebody suggested, "What do the Marx Brothers have to do with Christmas?"

Having come to my senses, I can now discard all detergent containers, cardboard spines from toilet paper and paper towels, and all the other flotsam and jetsam that clutter the households year long of those addicted to making cute things from mere nothings.

On the other hand, I have here a really simple idea for making a drummer boy out of a tuna fish can and Hessian. You know, this looks easy enough? All it takes is...

Willpower. That's all it takes.

Dear Governor Graham:

The Savannas are a natural wilderness produced by Nature over time.

In their native state they represent a unique condition that is not present in any other section of our country. Once destroyed they can never be replaced by any act of man. Once lost they will be lost forever.

There is now an opportunity to save the Savannas into the future. Their [illegible] these parcels now be the property of the State will assure possible a continuous area that can be maintained as a natural wilderness preserve to be observed and enjoyed by visitors to Florida and those who now and shall live here.

Here is an opportunity to preserve this precious of nature to compare with those wonders now preserved in some of our Western States.

Shall we grasp this opportunity? Shall we allow it to slip through our fingers to be gone forever, to be spoiled by man?

Two Island high-rises for St. Lucie

BY NINA BARANSKI

financial problems plaguing build- of two-story condominium just s of the Martin County line on Hutchinson Island have apparently ted up as developer Ira Pardick, nancing both projects, appeared before the St. Lucie County Commis- sion Tuesday, Dec. 9, for reapproval.

Both projects had been approved in May 1979 but because construction did not begin within one year site plan approval was once again required.

Included in the proposals is a 12-story condominium called Sand Dollar Tower located approximately one mile north of the Martin County line. The 96 units in the project will be built on 5.88 acres with a density of 17.5 units per acre, the allowable density being 18 units per acre.

In response to Commissioner Maurice Snyder's query regarding water and sewer, Tony Sotolongo, Pardick's partner, said an existing water plant at Ocean Towers can serve the project.

A 40,000 gallon sewage treatment plant will be built to accommodate Sand Dollar Tower.

The second project calls for a 28 unit condominium structure and a 100-unit motel one-fourth of a mile north of the Martin County line.

The eight story building will sit on 4.7 acres at a 14.8 unit density per acre. All the units in the condominium priced in the $75,000 to $110,000 range, have been sold said Sotolongo.

Sotolongo said water for this project will be obtained from Southern Gulf Utilities and sewage service from Windmill Village.

Island residents have been expressing deep concern over the availability of water, sewage and fire protection for the increasing numbers of inland high-rises proposed.

HOPE FOR HEALTH

By Dr. Jack L. Webb

Very rarely does a patient come to us initially unless they are in pain. Pain is a warning. It is nature's way of letting you know that your condition is severe and that nature can no longer cope with your health problem without help. Pain is nature's "Red Flag" system within the body. In many severe spinal conditions pain is the last thing to appear. Pain is the last thing to appear. Pain is the first thing to leave.

However, when your pain is gone this does not mean your spinal condition has been corrected.

Do not be misled just because your pain is better or gone. You are only safe and your health secure when your spinal condition causing your pain has been corrected.

Any pain will come back again, and again and again each time getting worse and more severe, sometimes reaching the point where it cannot be corrected if your spinal condition which is causing the pain has not been corrected.

Do not barter carelessly with your health care simply because you pain is gone. Listen to our doctor and follow his advice. Only he knows what the internal spinal condition which caused your pain is has been corrected.

Tri-County Rehabilitation Center:

BY AILSA DEWING

"This is our world. Twenty years ago we lived in a closet. There was no reason to get up in the morning."

Joe Foley's arm swept an arc indicating that the world he refers to is the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center. Within its vast warehouse interior are clusters of people some bent over work tables, others working at machines, but most of them busily occupied at something. And all of them handicapped in one way or another for competing in a fast-paced society, which sets its own norms.

Joe Foley can no longer see the world. Beside him, on a carpet-covered box, lies "Mr. Jones," Foley's leader dog, provided him through the services to the blind carried on by the Lions Club, specifically the Jensen Beach Lions Club of which Foley is a member. Mr. Jones gives Foley confidence and mobility, he says. The mobility to walk to work, which includes crossing heavily trafficked South Federal Highway, to ride a bus, and the confidence to go anywhere he chooses.

Foley wears a braille wristwatch, also provided by the Lions, which enables him to make and keep appointments on time. And of late, he carries a talking clock, also furnished by the Lions, which not only "tells" him the time, but counts off seconds, rings a pre-set alarm, and can serve as a timer.

And the acquisition of these items has coverted Foley's life from being a client for 20 years at the rehab center — one who is provided help, to that of a staff member, a counsellor for the blind and a public relations man, promoting the interests of the center on behalf of those who find both employment and companionship there.

It has also returned him to an active life in the community, serving on the board of the Martin County Council on Aging, as a member of the Stuart-Jensen Beach Elks Lodge and its community welfare committee, as the Florida representative for Leader Dogs program, becoming around the state, and most recently as the Lions's appointee to during the UN International Year Disabled Persons.

And to become one of the lead spokesmen seeking funds for manufacturing projects that provide employment for 38 clients at the center which serves handicapped of Martin, St. Lucie Indian River counties.

The product[illegible] nows as a "[illegible] Better," is a magnifying lens [illegible] and patented by Myron Tschetter, RN, of Jensen Beac[illegible], which attaches to the hypodermic syringe used

MR. JONES is coy and playful when he's not on duty. Once harnessed, he's all serious, uncannily aware that a life is in his hands.

A TALKING CLOCK literally tells Joe Foley what time it is, will wake him to music, and count down seconds and minutes out loud. The special clock for blind is provided by the Jensen Beach Lions Club as one of its projects.

A reason to get up in the morning diabetics for insulin. Because failing eyesight is sometimes with diabetes, many patients are unable to read the small figures on the syringe which indicate the dosage measurement.

As designed by Nurse Tschechack, the See Better is attached by fine wire clips which are threaded through the ends of the plexiglass lens. Since being designed the patent by Tschechack, the rehab center has been able to produce only limited quantities for a retail market because of the level of skill required in the assembly.

Under the supervision of Mike Capps, production manager for Tri-County, the See Better has been redesigned to attach with molded plastic clips which clamp on the ends of the lens in a single snap-on motion. With this simplification, far more handicapped workers can be employed and the device, which Capps says is "the best for quality of magnification on the market," can be produced in wholesale quantities.

But the bottom line of the proposed project is the need for capital funding. Capps and Foley point out. About $7,000 is needed to purchase equipment, train workers, and merchandise the product.

"The biggest expense," says Capps, "is the $5,000 needed to purchase a four-cavity die for molding the liquid plastic." The other $2,000 would handle most of the other expenses, he believes.

The center has tried to obtain a grant but Capps explains that "Florida Housing and Rehabilitative Services has a freeze on state funding so we don't have the discretionary funding we had to go into production."

"The problem is," added Foley, "that people think this is a center for stringing beads. It's amazing what can be accomplished here."

A tour of the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center confirms Foley's words. Among the production jobs going on are an off set full-color printing plant, a ceramics department currently producing personalized tree ornaments, an IBM Corp. sub-contracted job of breaking down and sorting computer component parts, and a coffee shop operation.

"And these workers aren't just waiting for Friday payday," Foley asserts. "They take pride in their work."

"Remember," says Foley, "that 20 years ago most of these people lived in a closet. They didn't have any reason to get up in the morning. Now they're happy, productive people and growing within their range of capabilities."

Publication lists top-ranked college students

A total of eight students from Jensen Beach and Port St. Lucie have been included in the third annual edition of The National Dean's List, the largest recognition publication honoring college students.

Students are selected for recognition by their deans or registrars if they are in the upper 10 percent of their class or on their school's Dean's List. The 55,000 students included in the current edition are from 1,300 colleges and universities nation-wide and represent one half of one percent of the more than 8,000,000 college students in the country.

The publisher is Educational Communications, Inc., Northbrook, Ill.

Port St. Lucie students included are Ileana Delgado enrolled at Palm Beach Junior College; John Liccesse, Florida Atlantic University; Randi Chervony, Georgia Institute of Technology; and Patrick Kelly, University of Florida.

Jensen Beach students are Cynthia Strait, who attends Palm Beach Junior College; Lisa Hales, Liberty Baptist College; Thomas "Hoss" University of Florida; and Leslie Lawrence, Florida Atlantic University.

1st Annual Heart gala is a success

Story and photos by Ailsa Dewing

It was an affair of the heart Martin County Unit's first annual gala dinner, dance and reception Sunday night at the Crane Creek Country Club for the benefit of the American Heart Association.

Guests gathered under an outdoor silken canopy decorated with a Christmas theme to both listen and dance to the music of the WDBF Big Band, enjoy cocktails and gourmet canapes followed by a luau barbecue and a buffet supper.

Planners acclaimed the affair a success with some 140 tickets sold for $50 each despite the fact that two other benefits were scheduled the same weekend. Mrs. Robert J. Haas and Mrs. William E. Owens served as co-chairmen with E. C. Wareheim as honorary chairman.

Also contributing their time and efforts to make the evening enjoyable were Klas Tuschmann who sheired the Underwriting Committee; Mrs. Lester M. Combs, Publicity Chairman; Mrs. William A. Oughterson and Mrs. William A. Pittman, co-chairmen of the Guest List Commitee.

Also, Mrs. Richard J. Dungey, chairman of the Invitation Committee.

Also, Mrs. Richard J. Dungey, chairman of the Invitation Committee; Mrs. Robert N. Blews, who took charge of the decorating, and Mrs. Paul M. McGill, Jr., who chaired the ticket committee.

Adding their support were members of the Martin County Unit Steering Committee headed by Dr. Richard Q. Penick and including Miss Virginia McVey, executive director; Donn Duffy, Mrs. Haas, Ronald Mitchell, William Owens, William Scott, and Dr. John E. Wright.

BEFORE THE BALL Dr. Richard Penick, chairman of the Martin County Unit steering committee; Robert Haas and Mrs. Haas, who served as co-chairman of the gala, had a chance to talk with Vic Knight, leader of the Big Band, which provided the music for the occasion.

RECEPTIONISTS at the Martin County Unit American Heart Association gala included Mary Dungey, left, of Stuart, and Joan McGill of Sewall's Point.

TAKING FIVE, vocalists with the WDBF Big Band, Elliott Harris and Ginny Stephens, seemed to enjoy themselves at the Heart Association gala. Stephens formerly toured with Arthur Godfrey. Both are now employees of the Delary radio station.

AMONG THE GUESTS who enjoyed the music, food, and dancing were Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam Pittman of Stuart. Mrs. Pittman served as co-chairman of the guest list committee.

Police officer saves life with CPR

Sewall's Point Police Officer Florence (Flossie) Kegley is the pride of the town's police department and she has the commendation to prove it.

At last week's town council meeting Police Chief Francis J. Matuszewski publicly commended the officer for her role in saving the life of a Texas visitor who collapsed while dining at the Reenhane of Tokyo restaurant.

Summoned to the restaurant around 6:30 p.m. Nov. 28, Officer Kegley first attempted to revive the man, identified as Louis Nesman, by administering oxygen. When his heart stopped beating and she was unable to continue with the oxygen because his jaws had clamped shut, Officer Kegley began applying cardiopulmonary resuscitation, continuing until an ambulance crew arrived.

The officer then accompanied the ambulance to Martin Memorial Hospital and was able to advise emergency room staff of the events preceding his arrival. Within five minutes, doctors had restored Nesman's heartbeat and he was breathing regularly. The following day Nesman was released from the hospital.

"As a result of your performance on the above date," Chief Matuszewski noted, "I wish to commend you officially and personally for your conscientious attention to duty, your preparedness and alertness, your immediate response to an emergency, and your quick and efficient action — all of which contributed significantly to the saving of a man's life.

"The Town of Sewall's Point is proud that you are a member of its police department," the chief's commendation concluded.

Kegley has been with the Sewall's Point department for seven months.

Nesman allegedly suffered an allergic reaction to fumes from shrimp being cooked on an open grill at the table. His throat had reportedly swollen shut, cutting off his respiration. Kegley reports that medics at Martin Memorial provided Nesman with an emergency medication kit in the event of any future attack.

Island fire house planners to meet

A meeting is scheduled Wednesday morning of Indian River Plantation representatives, County Commissioner Alex Hayden and the county attorney and engineer to finalize plans for building the Hutchinson Island fire station.

A $100,000 contribution from the Indian River Plantation developers, Dutcher, Higginbotham and Bass, Inc., will provide seed money for the proposed fire station with the county to provide the remaining funds.

The station will be built on land south of the House of Refuge and will come under the jurisdiction of the Rio Fire Department.

Commissioner Haynes said he will meet next week with Rio Fire Chief Bill Gass to discuss volunteer manning of the station.

Hutchinson Island residents may be asked to contribute funds toward the purchase of an aerial fire truck if a proposed door-to-door canvass is approved. The truck would be housed at the Hutchinson Island fire station.

Skate party to raise funds distressed family

A skate party at Super Skate in Stuart is planned for 7 to 9:30 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 14.

Proceeds from the evening will go to help Carol Hewis, 32, who was left a widow when her husband and son died as their boat capsized in the stormy St. Lucie inlet in August.

Mrs. Hewis and her ten year old son survived the accident.

The event is sponsored by the Martin County Medical Society Auxiliary. Tickets are available in advance from auxiliary members and at Jack and Jills in the Monterey Plaza. This will also be sold at the door.

For more information call Marie AMann at 287-3200 or Sara McLain at 286-4570.

Stuart Women plan a party

The Woman's Club of Stuart will have a Christmas Treat on Wednesday, December 17 at the clubhouse on E. Ocean Boulevard. Light lunch will be served at 12:30 p.m. Reservations are required. Call 283-5101.

The Christmas message will be given by Rev. Donald Nichols, Dean of the Theology School of Emory University, Atlanta. The program will also feature Jan Nichols, a popular soloist at the First United Methodist Church of Stuart.

Cause of fire is unknown

[illegible] of a fire which demolished an aluminum storage trailer Friday night on Savanna Road is still under investigation, according to Jensen Beach Fire Chief Joe Luciano.

Firemen responded to the call at 7:50 p.m. but were unable to save the trailer owned by Coy and Degeller and used to store paint and building supplies.

Christmas is in the air, as the high costs of presents, especially toys was a major subject of discussion with many remembering when a night before Christmas trip to Woolworths and a few bucks took care of Santa's duties. Now, sophisticated electronic toys can cost a hundred dollars -But, soon the talk turned to their grandchildren and their hopes for the future, -which quickly led to these comments.

"My latest copy of 'Community Health Notes' mentioned something that should be of vital concern to us, if we want a good future for our grandchildren," remarked Mable, an ardent magazine reader, "it pointed out that second hand smoke in an indoor area can be detrimental to the health of smokers and non-smokers, alike. Palm Beach County has an ordinance on it. Let's work for one here, too."

"That's right," pipes up Ralph, who survived the Great Depression, but now has an emphysema problem "I believe smoking is more insidious than dope or booze, as in the case of dope, you know very soon that you have a problem and maybe can do something about it, but with the smoking it's generally too late when the trouble is noted."

Gumpy Pete wasn't to be left out, as he thump-thumped his cane for attention and barked, "Here's what I'd like to do. Have every Congressman who voted for tobacco growing subsidies and every tobacco lobbyist who worked for it, be required to attend in someone dying of cancer, emphysema or heart disease, that had been caused by smoking After watching the months and years of agony, I bet they'd change their vote."

Pete, for once, you're only too right," adds Mille, the gal who writes all those letters, "I'm going to write the new administraton, quoting your remarks."

Some copies of the Kingston, Ont Seniors Citizen publication "Vista" came across my desk the other day, it had these interesting articles articles

1. Why not a 'Senior Ombudsman' at State level"
2. They don't distribute their 'Vials of Life' They have a pick up spot in their Senior Center
3. A good Christmas gift - Membership in the Senior Citizen Council

There were many others, but those are something to think about right now.

Martin County Council on Aging held its regular monthly meeting Thursday, Dec. 4, at the Martin County Library. It was announced that Leta Williams will be the new Executive Director, and she will have administrative assistants in training to take over at a later date. You know Leta has been the very active president for the past 5 years, but now those duties will be taken over by newly elected president, Robert Schoonmaker. The Log Cabin Senior Center was mentioned and there are hopes for a 1981 completion

CHAPTER EVENTS

It was reported that the regular AARP Chapter picnic was just about normal in all respects, even though some of the key personnel are still on the sick list. The bulletin mailing crew did their stuff on the December issue of the Golden Eagle was received right on schedule. Did you notice something, it's getting better by the issue. Boyd, you and your staff are doing a darn good job; it's interesting, informative and eNjoyable. What more could anyone ask?"

There will be a Memorial Service for Wendy Morris, a chapter director who died last September, on Dec. 28, at 2:30 p.m. in the Jensen Beach Community Church. Wendy was supporting a Korean boy by donations to the Christian Children's Fund, so anyone interested in making a donation see the secretary at the church Next on the schedule will be our Christmas party and installation of officials, Thur. Dec. 18. There'll be skits and eats so be sure to attend and have a jolly time.

The latest chapter official to be placed on the injured list was Third Vice President Pearl Wyse, who had some further hip surgery. It was reported that she is now taking short walks down the hospital corridors. Get well quickly Pearl, you're needed on the 'Vial-of-Life'.

Then there's Ernie C. still making his 3 a week trips to the Good Samaritan Hospital. This was mentioned last week to see if folks were interested in this somewhat mysterious Radiation Therapy that so many of the seniors have to undergo. Well, it seems there were, as many wondered about the corn bread-peanut butter sandwich so a little more will be told.

The trip down and back, so far is a breeze, taking A1A, US 1, etc all the way and just following the flow of traffic, takes 1½ hours. Many offers to drive me have been put off, rather, do it myself, while able, but thank you all and you may get called one of these days.

First lets mention the technicians who operated the big brute. They are great gals, competent, pleasant, attractive and cheerful, and they make the ordeal almost enjoyable. They get you placed just right on a movable table and by remote control bring the big serpent head down into position with jaws open and teeth bared. Then, they make measurements to the millimeter of where the radiation will strike and with broad sweeps of a marking pencil give you a clowns face, that must be kept intact until the next treatment. That's for the first time only, after that they use a small tatoo mark for exact alignment.

I can only talk about a neck treatment, other parts of the body may be altogether different. But, for the therapy, after the technicians have everything exactly right, they leave the room and watch by remote TV while the 45 second radiation is made I get it front and side, but the whole operation is so smoothly worked out, it doesn't take 10 minutes. YOU FEEL NOTHING AT THE TIME, BUT THERE ARE SOME SIDE EFFECTS LATER. Dry mouth, no pep, all food - blah, etc. More, next week, if there's still an interest.

Scouting ...the better life

HAROLD KEMNITZER - As Scoutmaster for Boy Scout Troop 811, Harold Kemnitzer was recently given a plaque for his many contributions to troop members. Over the years, he has been a constant source of inspiration for the young boys.

MICHAEL KARL WEGLER recently received the highest honor in scouting. In a Boy Scout Troop 811 ceremony, Michael was presented with the eagle badge by scoutmaster Harold Kemnitzer.

AWARDS were given to Boy Scout member John Patterson during a ceremony held in the First Federal Savings and Loan building of Jensen Beach. Fred Kahl, assistant scoutmaster, proudly hands John the merit badges that he has worked for over the past months.

MICHAEL GREZELKA listens as Troop 811 Assistant Scoutmaster Fred Kahl reads the list of accomplishments that earned Michael his merit badges.

GENE VAN CUREN, chairman of the Sailfish District, was one of the honored guests at the recent ceremony held at the First Federal Savings and Loan of Jensen Beach. The Boy Scouts of Troop 811 were honored for their achievements during the past months.

Jensen Beach youth receives eagle badge

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

Michael Karl Wegler was recently presented the highest award in scouting, the eagle badge.

It is an honor not easily achieved, especially for one of such a young age. Michael is 13 years old and has been a boy scout for over two and a half years. During that time he has earned 38 merit badges as well as having earned the "arr of light" badge in cub scouts.

Although Michael set out to earn the eagle badge and needed a certain amount of merits to achieve it, the process means more than just collecting badges to pin on his uniform. He said he enjoys participating in the many different events that are required.

Some of his projects have taken him down the Peace River in a canoe where he an other scouts found petrified shark's teeth by sifting the silt through old converted cans.

Another trip found Michael at the Boy Scout Camp in Jupiter where he joined in what is called an ordeal. In addition to doing several projects around the area, the boys camped out in total silence.

The troop has been to Disneyworld and just recently came back from a camping trip in the Savannas.

"You learn a lot scouting," said Michael. He added that although troop members occasionally get snickers from classmates about their uniforms, scouting is something that is too much fun to miss out on.

Michael is as active in school as he is in scouting. Aside from being on the soccer team and the bowling league, he took first place in the Martin County Elementary Schools Chess tournament.

And wat of the future? Michael wants to be a lawyer. To save money for his college education he is cutting grass and putting his earnings into a special savings account.

With Michael's track record, he will make a top notch lawyer, for he is a boy who achieves his goals.

Scouting today's a lot more than you think.

TIM COTE received his award during the recent ceremony of the Jensen Beach Boy Scout Troop 811 court of honor ceremony. Merit badges and rankings were given to scout members as family and friends proudly looked on.

Scouts honored for achievements

Boy Scouts of Jensen Beach Troop 811 were recently honored for their achievements during a court of awards ceremony held at First Federal Savings of Martin County in Jensen Beach.

The troop members were in attendance with their family and friends to receive recognition for the various projects completed during the past few months.

Presenting the awards were Fred Kahl, assistant scoutmaster and Harold Kemnitzer, scoutmaster.

Included in the ceremony was a special award given to Michael Karl Wegler. Michael, age 13 years, was presented the eagle badge, which is the highest award in scouting. A tenderfoot investure service was staged by his fellow scouts to renew the purposeof scouting. As the different candles were lighted, the oaths were recited in chorus.

Gene Van Curen, chairman of the Sailfish District, spoke about Michael and of the many achievements he had merited during the past years as a scout. After Michael and his parents were escorted to the stage, Harold Kemnitzer made the presentation of eagle.

For Michael and other members of Troop 811, it was an evening filled with awards that resulted from months of diligent effort.

ED KILLER presents his mother with a pin during the recent ceremony that was held in honor of Boy Scout troop members of Jensen Beach. The court of honor was attended by friends and family who came to watch the various honors bestowed to the scouts.

Elks pay tribute to Ralph Neblett

Ralph H. Neblett of Jensen Beach is December's Veteran of the Month selected by Stuart-Jensen Elks Lodge 1870.

The lodge paid tribute to Neblett Saturday night at a dinner dance acknowledging his "outstanding service to veterans, the community and country."

Neblett is a member of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, and Veterans of Foreign Wars. A World War Two veteran, he served in the China Burma India Theatre.

A life member of American Legion Post 126, Jensen Beach, Neblett is service officer and on the Children and Youth and Boys State Committee. Earlier this year he was awarded a citation for meritorious service from the Legion's National Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation Commission.

He is 12th District Oratorical Chairman and a past commander of American Legion Post 1 in Richmond, Va.

Neblett has served 1,800 hours of volunteer service with the VAVS. He is a life member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10666, Post Judge Advocate, and a life member of Martin County Chapter 116 DAV.

Jensen Area Samaritans celebrate with annual Christmas party

BY NELLIE D. COOK

Although the Samaritans have held their annual Christmas parties for years, this will be the fourth such party in the building given us by the County, and on the property given by our good friend, Realtor Ransom Tilton.

At five p.m. December 6, a large crowd of members and guests were waiting for the doors to open. During the wait each person was asked to sign the guest book. There were 175 signatures, a record crowd. This year we were joined by the newly organized group, The Samaritans Auxiliary.

The Auxiliary along with regular Squad members, under the supervision of our President, Barbara Stevens, and always willing, and ready, member Betty Schlerf, did a super beautiful job of decorating the squad room and garage, which was turned into a huge dining room for the dinner. The men who did the initial cleaning of the garage must not be forgotten, they too worked hard and long.

When all were seated President Stevens gave a hearty welcome, with the wish everyone have a happy evening and a good dinner.

Some of friends and benefactors past and present were introduced: Martha Moore, The Samaritans Angel, and Jim Haynes, a representative from the people of Vista Del Lago. Jim brought us a message of appreciation from the residents, and 38 envelopes with personal donations. Vista Del Lago has been canvassing during the past week. I believe in all 60 donations have been received to date.

Dr. Richard Penick, one of the founders of the Samaritans dating back to 1957, is and has been our medical advisor for years. At the microphone he was brief, extending good wishes, and reminding us that in ten minutes, the largest missile ever launched should be visible to us in the northern sky.

Many took a quick look only to be disappointed since their view was mostly covered by a cloud screen.

Next introduced was our newly elected commissioner of Martin County who, President Stevens had asked to give the Blessing of the food. Commissioner Haynes introduced himself as a "budding politician," who hopes to serve Martin County well, and especially the samaritans. He then blessed the food. We then displayed gifts donated by business people in the area.

Each table was directed to serve themselves from the tables set up in the squad room which were heavily groaning under their load of food.

I had better add for those who have asked. The next meeting of the Auxiliary will be December 30, at 7:30 p.m.

GOOD CHEER, flowing bowl and all, opened the Jensen Area Samaritans Christmas party Saturday after which dinner was served at the Samaritans headquarters.

HONOR GUESTS included District One County Commissioner Alex and Mrs. Haynes.

Early music consort at FIT Friday

The Early Music Consort, a professional ensemble devoted to the performance of Medieval, Renaissance, and Baroque music, will perform with authentic period instruments this Friday evening, December 12, at 8:00 p.m. in the Frances Langford Evinrude Little Theatre at the Florida Institute of Technology, Jensen Beach. This is the second concert of the current performing arts series, sponsored by the F.I.T. Committee for the Performing Arts, the Student Government Association, and area contributors. The concert is open to the public free of charge.

The ensemble consists of Arnold Grayson, Director; Ann Dale Stierli, flautist; Mik Groninger, bassist; and Michael Braz, Guest Harpsichordist, who will perform works from the twelfth through seventeenth centuries including selections by Bach and Teleman.

Arnold Grayson is known internationally for his work in early music. A former member of New York's Pro Musica, he toured the Soviet Union under a U.S. State Department grant.

Ann Stierli graduated from the Eastman School of Music where she studied flute with Joseph Mariano. She is a member of the Miami Opera Orchestra, Miami Ballet Orchestra, and former member of the Florida Philharmonic.

Mik Groninger studied at the Manhattan School of Music and was a member of the National Training Orchestra at Carnegie Hall and Kansas City Philharmonic. He has been principal bassist for the Aspen Chamber Symphony the last three summers. First prize winner of the Florida Atlantic String Competition, he is known for his jazz and classical recordings and his work with the Miami Chamber Trio.

Michael Braz is well known as a performer, educator, composer, and adjudicator.

Plans for future concerts of the series include Juan Mercadal, classical guitarist, January 23, and the Ars Nova Woodwind Quintet, February 20.

BEACHED FOREVER, the Albert Blaisdell, a replica of the rescue boats used by the House of Refuge, rests in a cradle on shore, completing the renovation of the Martin County Historical Society museum on Hutchinson Island. (Photo by Dewing)

he blues are back d fishing's better

BY DICK LUNDEN

EFISH are one more the name game in the Hutchinson Island en the Mud Hole south of the condo down to the Martin Park-N-Fish access area.

best time for blues in the surf is 10-11 a.m. and the most popular seem to be cut mackerel or ile spoons. If you'd rather fish on in the river, try cut bait at the ands where the St. Lucie and Rivers converge.

ng fishing in the clearing River is pretty good again. Herman's Bay to Little Mud with some really big gator eight pounds being taken on ump in the deep holes in the two (Little and Big Mud).

n fishing has picked up all the area, but some of the best on black drum, sheepshead ve snappers, flounder and bottom species is at the Jensen ay and its wooden pier. Frank Bridge catwalks and the little to Bridge just east of the big

SHORE FISHING has been difficult because of the heavy ut there are kings and sails in 90 ft. of water just north of the St. Inlet, some scattered dolphin ccasional wahoo. Bottom fishing Mile Reef for mutton, Lane and ove snapper has been good the current hasn't been too

SHWATER FISHING is tradi- slow in December and that's pert from Darryl Kehoe at Oasis Camp on SR 60 some 20 miles of Yeehaw Junction, at the lower Lake Kissimmee and adjacent Kissimmee River. "Fishing's a little on the slow side. The fishing's best in the river right They've been catching some bass lake on live shiners, but it's slow ificials. Lake fishing for spucks een slow but should improve just as we have a little cold Yes, Dick, we have some and large efficiencies here and few camper hookups (813-692

The kings and sails are in ft of water a little north of the Roonie Griggs on the Lisa Ann ght a 40-0 140 lb.) wahoo. We've quite a few sailfish releases this ROM THE SNOOK NOOK in en, Tom Stewart: "Fishing's good and the river's clear once more. ve got lots of blues up and down the hes in the surf, from the Mud Hole ark N-Fish. The blues are best in morning when the tides have been , like from 7-11 a.m. In the rnoon, surfcasters have been ing a ball catching big jack elles on heavy Krocodile spoons re are not too many whiting in the now that the blues are up again blues seem to be going for cut kerel and Krocs, about equally fishing is good and there is a variety of bottom fish being caught, like seatrout, channel bass and even an occasional tripletail. Seatrout are being taken on live shrimp from Herman's Bay to Little Mud Creek, with some good fishing for big gator trout in the deep holes in Big and Little Mud Creeks. Morning fishing is the best now, and some of the best is at the Jensen Causeway where they're catching lots of sheepshead, drum, mangrove snappers and other bottom species. The big blues are still taking cut mackerel down at the Crossroads and some of them are working the river as far up as the power plant.

The Nook's log: John Habig, a 15-8 tripletail, live shrimp, Jensen Causeway wooden pier. Tony Longo, an 8-0 snook, red tail hawk jig, Frank Wachs Bridge catwalk. Charlie Kessler, 3 trout to 8-4, live shrimp, Big Mud; Ed Wagner and Sandy Adair, 8 to 10 trout daily on gold Tony Accetta spoons and trout louis. Ron Ellis and Scott Gallivan, 25 mangrove snapper, live shrimp, Frank Wachs. Fred Hein, 15 blues, cut mackerel surf. Phil Fort and Jack Snowden, 14 blues, Krocs, Normandy Beach. Frank Filvent, 12 blues, cut mackerel, Mud Hole. Tony Battaglia, 8 to 10 blues daily, cut mackerel, Holiday Inn surf. Bob Haines and Ray Distel, 12 trout to 5-8, live shrimp, under the power lines in the Indian River across from the power plant. Bill Sills, 8 jacks and 4 blues, Krocs, Park-N-Fish.

FROM THE BAIT BOX in Jensen, Chuck Shepherd: "Nothing too much to report this week, Dick. Fishing seems to have picked up a little. There are some small trout hitting series 18 and 21 mirrolures in Herman's Bay. It looks like things are packing up in the surf and that's the best spot right now." Chuck's log: Henry Johnson, 22 whiting, sand fleas, Jensen surf. A.D. Rodrigues' family, a total of 108 pompano river spots, blues and panfish on live shrimp fishing from the Jensen Causeway. Mark Zalanski, 2 snook to 5-8, live shrimp, the Roosevelt Bridge.

DAVE LAMB, from Jensen Bait and Tackle: "Fishing is pretty fair now and seems to be picking up every day." Dave's Log: Joe Ianers, 7 blues, cut mullet, north of the power plant. Charlie Krow, a 5-0 blue and a 7-0 trout, live shrimp, north of power plant in the river. Bill Steele, 9 blues, cut mullet, Jensen surf. John Dinton, 12 blues and 2 whiting, cut bait and frozen shrimp, Jensen surf. Don Gilmore, 4 trout to 5-0, 7 mangrove snapper to 7-0, 3 sheepshead and several other bottom fish, live shrimp, boating south of the Evans Crary (10 cent) Bridge. Stan Fenton, 2 blues, 2 trout and 4-0 snook, cut bait and live shrimp St. Lucie River; Bob James, 8 whiting, live shrimp, Park-N-Fish; Ian Smutz, 8 blues to 4-0, cut bait, Jensen surf.

FROM D & M BAIT AND TACKLE, at the south end of the Roosevelt Bridge on U.S. 1, Muriel Weideman: "There's nothing going on at the bridge. Dick. Fishing's been pretty slow on the Roosevelt this week. Everybody's fishing the surf these days. They're just catching a few small bottom species and some catfish here now." Muriel's log: Bill Morrey, a 25-0 king offshore; George Dohman, a 70-inch sail and a 13-0 dolphin, also 2 king mackerel, trolling offshore with some of that D — M double-rigged ballyhoo; Gene Davis 14 blues to 5-0, cut mackerel, fishing the surf down at the House of Refuge.

NICE SEATROUT—Charlie Kessler holds two trout of 5 and 7 lbs. that he caught on live shrimp while wading in the Indian River. Charlie's an inveterate fisherman, one of the 10 per cent who catch 90 per cent of the fish because they do 90 per cent of the fishing. You have to keep a line in the water if you intend to catch the fish when they're ready, and Charlie's one who does just that.

That 'shortest day' is almost upon us

BY DICK LUNDEN

THE WINTER SOLSTICE of the sun takes place on Dec. 21, traditionally the start of winter in the northern hemisphere, and that day is also the shortest day of the year.

For daylight buffs, it's all downhill after that as the days will grow longer and longer until next June.

We had a new moon on Dec. 7. The first quarter will be on Dec. 14. The moon will be full on the 21st. Watch out for the "crazies!" The last-quarter appears on the 29th, a week ahead of the new moon on Jan. 6. The apogee moon (farthest from earth) is on Dec. 30, and perigee (nearest) is on Dec. 18 and Jan. 14.

So, get your moon house in order and make plans to put in your crops according to the moon phases. Don't plant radishes when you should be putting in lettuce!

That full moon on Dec. 21st just could triggey the start of the mid winter spawning season for speckled perch (black crappies). Give it a go!

Keep in mind that you should be able to see those Geminid meteor showers after midnight on Dec. 13-14. Following this display, the Ursid meteor shower is expected in the wee small hours of the morning on Dec. 22.

If you've been worried about any tiff between Jupiter and Saturn, be comforted. They will be much closer to each other on Dec. 28-29 than earlier in the month. The moon will pass them again then.

Decembe goes out in a blaze of glory as Mercury aligns itself with the sun in superior conjunction (beyond the sun), entering the evening sky. How about that, skywatchers!

On Jan. 1, bowl games notwithstanding, earth will be nearest the sun (perihelion), about 91 million miles from it, however, so don't go rushing out for any sunscreen lotion. If you're interested in late sunrises, we'll have a real late one on Jan. 6, the latest of the year hereabouts.

AN "UN ENDANGERED SPECIES" BOOKLET is now available from the National Shooting Sports Foundation, 1075 Post Road, Riverside, Conn. 06878. You can get a copy by sending fifty cents to the NSSF at Riverside, Conn.

The booklet, "Un Endangered Species, The Success of Wildlife Management in North America," was prepared in cooperation with, and carefully reviewed by (according to NSSF), the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies and the Wildlife Management Institute.

It follows the evolution of America's early conservation efforts and how the science of wildlife management evolved. Concluding chapters focus on the fundamentals of wildlife management and the hunter's role in conservation. A separate back section includes a series of individual case histories of species, including beaver, pronghorn antelope, elk, wild turkey, wood duck and white-tailed deer, that have been returned to healthy and abundant numbers as a result of wild life management programs.

The booklet should be of interest to all sportsmen, both adult and youth readers.

IF SAILS TURN YOU ON, hustle down to the nearest newsstand for your copy ($2.00) of the December issue of Cruising World, that fascinating sailing publication put out monthly by Cruising World Publications, Inc., 524 Thames St., Newport, RI (02840).

This one, like all of them, is jampacked with sailing lore, but I liked best of all Sandra Hart's "Islands At The Beginning of Time."

Sandra takes you on a sailing junket through the Galapagos Islands 600 miles west of Ecuador where the Humboldt Current from the southeast and the South Equatorial Current from the east, swirl and cross in the open Pacific Ocean.

She points out that unless you have your own yacht, the best way to see the ageless animal and bird life on the Galapagos is by booking passage aboard the Santa Cruz, which is operated by the Metropolitan Touring Company. Usually, Sandra says, the Santa Cruz hosts 90 international passengers on a schedule that offers four, five and eight-day itineraries. Passage cost begins at $300 for a double cabin for the four-day trips, and a very efficient crew includes the top naturalist guides which all ships operating in the islands must carry, according to Sandra.

It makes you yearn for a sight of the Galapagos. If you're interested, write to Metropolitan Touring, P.O. Box 2542, Quito, Ecuador. As most know, the famed "Origin of the Species" resulted principally from a five-year voyage by Charles Darwin as official naturalist aboard the Beagle (1831-36). The bird and animal life on the isolated Galapagos, far out in the Pacific, played a major role in Darwin's theory of evolution.

NFL playoffs coming into focus

BY DICK LUNDEN

THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE season of 16 games is winding to a close with only two games left to play and probably 15 of the 28 teams already eliminated from playoff consideration.

The major interest centers in the stronger American Conference of the NFL where there are 10 teams with .500 or better records, as against only six in the National Conference.

The NFL has an involved tie-breaking formula to decide which teams will win the coveted 10 playoff spots, but suffice it here to say that primarily it's head-to-head competition, divisional records and conference records that have the most bearing on the tie-breaking process.

IN THE AFC CENTRAL, the 10-4 Cleveland Browns are in the driver's seat, over 9-5 Houston and 8-6 Pittsburgh. If the Browns beat Minnesota in Bloomington and the Bengals in Cincinnati, they'll make the playoffs as AFC Central champions. If the Oilers can beat the Packers in Green Bay and the Vikings in the Astrodome, they'll finish second and be assured of one of the two AFC Wild Card spots. Pittsburgh's chances are slim. The Steelers are just about out of it now. They have to beat Kansas City in Three Rivers and then take the Chargers out in San Diego to have any kind of a chance for one of the two Wild Card slots. The Steelers aren't out of it, yet!

IN THE AFC WEST, only Oakland and San Diego, both 9-5 are still playoff contenders. The Raiders play at Denver and in the New York Giants to wrap up their season. San Diego finishes with home games against Seattle and Pittsburgh. It seems likely that Oakland will win the division and San Diego one of the two Wild Card positions in the playoffs.

IN THE AFC EAST, Buffalo has only to win one of its final two games against New England (there) and the 49ers out in San Francisco to clinch the AFC Division East title. The 8-6 Patriots, upset by the 7-7 Miami Dolphins Monday night, would have to beat Buffalo at home and then finish with a victory at New Orleans while the Bills lose their finale to San Francisco to have a chance at the playoffs.

From here, it looks with Oakland, Buffalo and Cleveland will be division winners, and Houston and San Diego Wild Carders.

OVER IN THE NFC, things are much easier to picture.

In the NFC West, Atlanta has clinched a playoff spot but can win its division by winning one of its two final games against the 49ers in Atlanta and the Rams in L.A. It looks like Atlanta will win the Division and the Rams one of the NFC's Wild Card entries.

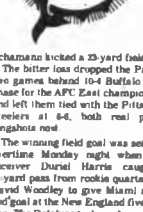
In the NFC East, at all holes down to who wins that encounter between the Eagles and Cowboys in Dallas this Sunday. One will be division champion and the other will be an NFC Wild Carder.

In the NFC Central, the Vikings will be division champions if they win one of their final two games against the Browns in Bloomington or the Oilers in Houston, and the Detroit Lions loss one of their last two against Tampa Bay and Green Bay, both in the Silverdome in Detroit. The only hope Detroit has is to up its record to 9-7 while the Vikings wind up at 8-6. There can be no Wild Card teams from the jack-luster NFC Central this year, if we read the tie-breaking formula correctly.

From here, it looks like the NFC Division winners will be Atlanta, Philadelphia and Minnesota, with Dallas and Los Angeles the Wild Card teams.

Spoiler Dolphins upset New England

MIAMI now 7-7 for the season, virtually dealt a death blow to the playoff hopes of the New England Patriots Monday night in the Orange Bowl. Miami won the contest 3-20 into overtime, 16-13, when Uwe von Schamann kicked a 23-yard field goal.



The bitter loss dropped the Patriots two games behind 10-4 Buffalo in the chase for the AFC East championship, and left them tied with the Pittsburgh Steelers at 8-6, both real playoff longshots now.

The winning field goal was set up in overtime Monday night when wide receiver Duriel Harris caught a 54-yard pass from rookie quarterback David Woodley to give Miami a first and goal at the New England five-yard line. The Dolphins took no chances and kicked the winning field goal on the next play.

It was New England's 13th straight defeat in the Orange Bowl where they've won only once since 1966.

The Dolphins had a little help from Lady Luck in forcing the game into overtime with 2:28 left in the fourth quarter. Rookie tight end Don Hasselbeck put an eight-yard pass from Woodley into the hands of wide receiver Nat Moore in the end zone to complete a 14-play, 78-yard drive that featured two 21-yard passes from Woodley to wide receiver Harris.

Miami's other points came on 22 and 24-yard field goals by von Schamann. New England led at the end of the first quarter on 23 and 33-yarders by John Smith, but von Schamann's pair in the second quarter tied at halftime, 6-6. New England tight end Russ Francis caught a 28-yard pass from Matt Cavanaugh to give the Patriots a 13-6 lead in the fourth quarter, but Rose's and Moore's heroics erased that and sent the game into the overtime and near oblivion for New England's playoff aspirations.

The Dolphins now trek up to Baltimore's Memorial Stadium next Sunday for a 4 p.m. kickoff against the also 7-7 Colts. They will close out the 1980 season against the New York Jets in the Orange Bowl a week later.

PGA Pros at Mariner, Johnathan's

BY MIKE SANDY

More than 120 of the top club professionals from an area east of the Mississippi River put the Mariner Sands championship 18 hole course to a rigid test this week when tournament 3 of the PGA Club Professional Tournament Series No. 3 was played on the plush Stuart layout.

The final segment of the Series will be played on the Jonathan's Landing course Dec. 11-12 with $80,000 up for grabs for the contestants in both series.

Bruce Fleisher, 1980 Florida Open champ, who once represented Sandpiper Bay on the pro circuit, lost out to Peter Oakley of Delaware in a three way sudden death playoff for the lion's share of Tournament 2 event staged at Crane Creek Wednesday and Thursday. Oakley collected top money of $3,500 of the $30,000 total purse while Fleisher fattened his money account by $1,750 a like amount also garnered by Terry McDowell of Pompano Beach, all three finishing 36 holes with like cards of 144, necessitating a playoff. Fleisher, however, did produce the lowest round of the two day Crane Creek event with a closing score of 68.

Bret Upper, now making his home with his father Mac Upper at Sandpiper Bay, earned $600 when he finished as a five way tie for the next slot with Wes Smith, Miami; Bobby Heins, Monticello, N.Y.; Dan Reese, Clearwater, Fla. and Jim Alban of Rochester N.Y., who won the big one two weeks ago worth $30,000.

Pair of Pro-Ams on tap Friday

With interest running at a high pitch for Treasure Coast golfers to vie in Pro Am competition, area luminaries have their choice of participating in either of two Pro Am events scheduled for Friday December 12 at both Crane Creek and Sandpiper Bay resort.

Entries continue to be taken at both courses with many vacationing pros visiting the area being lined up for the tournament. Tournament pro-am fields alternated at three area courses, Mariner Sands, Crane Creek and Sandpiper Bay. However, the sudden surge of pros in the area interests both Jay Pyle, of Crane Creek, and Chuck Johnson, of Sandpiper, as adequate number of Professionals to participate. The many amateur handicap golfers throughout the area will find the competition to their pleasure and advantage.

Amateurs seeking a spot to play with the pros may call Crane Creek 286-3062 or Sandpiper Bay 334-4400.

Baseball's winter meetings

BY DICK LUNDIN

A BLOCKBUSTER TRADE between the St Louis Cardinals and the San Diego Padres highlighted the opening of major league baseball's annual winter meetings being held in Dallas.

San Diego sent 3rd reliever Rollie Fingers, first baseman-catcher Gene Tenace, pitcher Bob Shirley and a minor league player to be named later, to St. Louis for catchers Terry Kennedy and Steve Swisher, infielder Mike Phillips and pitchers John Urrea, John Littlefield, Al Olmstead and Kim Seaman. Kennedy and Fingers were the key figures in the 11-player trade.

The Houston Astros traded third baseman Enos Cabell and a player to be named later to the San Francisco Giants for left-handed starting pitcher Bob Knepper and outfielder Chris Bourjos. Houston's strong pitching staff lacked a southpaw starter and the Giants want to use Cabell at third and move Darrell Evans to first.

Cardinal general manager and field manager Whitey Herzog said that the deal for Fingers didn't mean that St. Louis is through in the trade market. He indicated that a deal is still in the works, that could bring Bruce Sutter, ace reliever of the Chicago Cubs, to St. Louis.

The Cubs are reportedly still trying to deal 1980 NL batting champion Bill Buckner, first baseman, to the Giants for Mike Ivie.

More deals are expected before the winter meetings close at the end of the week.

An old driver is worth $1450

To the guy who hit that white pellet around the course, most golf clubs look alike, feel alike and the ones they choose to keep in their bag are those which produce the best results. However, little did Duane Ash of upstate New York realize when he he paid $12.00 for a used MacGregor driver several years ago that the club would be worth more than its weight in gold.

The model is a Deep Face MacGregor MT Model manufactured in 1968. While only a few were made the club sold for approximately $36.00 new. But Duane, who has been around golf for many years, showed his brother Don Ash the club.

It was his brother, a noted club maker and reconditioner in Stuart, who advised brother Duane that his club was among the "Classics" and that he could get as much as $450 for it. Duane brought the driver to Tom Claffi, head pro at Heritage Ridge, who in turn displayed the "treasure" to various knowledgeable authorities and was astonished to learn from pro Jeff Hughes of Stuart that that club Tom is holding is worth $1,450. It is now display during daylike hours at the Heritage Ridge pro shop.

Sandpiper bay woman's golf

The Sandpiper Bay Ladies played a "Low Gross-Low Net" tournament Tuesday on the Saints golf course. One Hundred Thirteen players participated in the event which produced the following winners in flights.

Leading the first flight with a gross 77, was Jan Werges while 16 strokes back at 93 was Rae Vroman. Larry Martell and Diva Pulsito both shot 72 to take net honors.

Second flight gross winner was Fannie Brodie with a 97, followed closely by Mary Massey with a 98. Low net winner was Edith Shear with 72, just beating out Emily Griffin who carded a 73.

Bunny Leyhourne led the third flight with her gross score of 94. Bobby Furguson was next at 100. Ruth Neighbors shot a sizzling 67 to take low net honors of the day, five strokes ahead of Fran Heiden at 72.

Mary Kuhn shot a 101 to take fourth flight gross. In second place, was Celeste Lake at 103. Dot Giesey posted a net 72, followed by Helen Monty with 74.

Gross winners in the fifth flight were Linda Mood with 105 and Iva Dean Bouck at 106. Net winners were Doris Muller with 74 and Marian Brandon at 75.

Jackie Fiscus was gross winner in the sixth flight with 108. Tied at second with 110 were Ruby Mock, Kay LaFlair and Gussie Leyda. Nona Johnston and Fran Conne each shot 73 for low net scores.

Play continues in the President's Cup Tournament with a few sudden death playoffs. Next weeks winners will move into the quarter finals.

Brisky, LaFlair and Ranich share Pro-Am

Posting like 18 hole rounds of three under par 69 s the top rung in the pro segment of the weekly Pro Am tournament staged Friday on the Saint's Sandpiper Course was crowded with three area pay-for-play golfers' B Rich Brisky of Seminole C C C. in Jupiter, J J LaFlair of the home course and Ron Ranich, unattached now making his home in N Palm Beach. Each of the three collected $120 in their test against 29 other pros in competition.

Pro Mike Martina led the way for his four-man team s top award in the two best ball of a foursome test against a field of 22 teams. The winners compiled a blistering card of 23 under par card of 121 and included amateurs Marty Morbeck, Vic Georgeff and Bert Rudolph.

A pair of teams led by Chuck Knebels of Mariner Sands and Bill Eldridge shared second spot with like figures of 22 under par 122 and included Stuart and Ft. Pierce amateurs Buck Randle, Doug Rader (former Houston Astro third baseman) Paul Reed, John Smith, Moose Bergonzi and Walt Wesneski.

Dave Turner, Stuart pro and Eddie DesHaus of Ns Palm brought their amateur partners into a fourth place tie of 123 and included handicap golfers- Augie Argiro, Skip Schlippers, Dutch King, Gary Wirth, Ned Bowers and Jim Furst.

Jim Buchanan, a vacationing pro from the Rochester N.Y. area ended in the money again with a 71 score followed by other money earners Bruce Harrison, Sandpiper Bay, Ralph Bond, Cleveland, Ohio, Sandy Scharlau, Stuart, Rob Crume, Sandpiper and Dick Newmann.

Other amateurs who shared in the prize loot for their efforts included area residents Mike Ebetino, Jay Cohen, John Draper, Squire Shaw, Kenny Snow and Ozzie Kirkby.

Lake Okeechobee netters get setback

BY DICK LUNDIN

THE HARVEST AND SALE of scalefish (black crappies, bluegills and shellcrackers) by commercial netters at Lake Okeechobee has been halted for the two-month period from Jan. 1 through Feb. 28, 1981. The action to close the established commercial season on Lake Okeechobee was taken by the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission at a meeting in Melbourne on Dec. 4.

Coming at the height of the speckled perch (black crappies) spawning season, the moratorium should undoubtedly ease some of the pressure on the big lake's speck population. Reports from the lake in past months indicate that the specks are running much larger this season but aren't too plentiful. Considerable pressure has been put on the GFWFC by area sportsmen and fish camp operators for a cessation of speck spearing, or at least a moratorium such as this during the prime egg months of the spawning season.

IN SOME OTHER ACTIONS TAKEN by the Commission:

The Tosohatchee Preserve was established as a wildlife management area and regulations adopted for limited hunting in the area.

A recommendation from Commission biologists that only 120 deer be harvested during the current hunting season through special hunts limiting the number of hunters by quota, was accepted.

The type hunts and dates set for the new management area are for 18 continuous days of hunting beginning with archery hunting, Jan. 19-22 and 23-27.

There will be only 150 hunters to receive the quota permits per hunt during each of the special hunts.

A draft of the proposed "Florida Fish and Wildlife Coordination Act," now ready for presentation to the 1980-81 legislative session, was endorsed. The act requires the involved state agencies to take into consideration impacts on aquatic, marine or wetland fish and wildlife resources when construction projects are being planned or considered for permitting, though no veto power is involved.

A special archery season on the Hillsborough Wildlife Management Area was established, limiting the number of hunters by quota to 150 participants per hunt: 6 Jan. 3-4, 10-11, 17-18, 24-25, 31 and Feb. 1.

Certain lands were deleted from the Lykes Wildlife Refuge in Glades County at the request of the landowner.

Flag football for men to start

An organizational meeting for the Martin County Men's Flag Football League will be held Wednesday, December 10, 7:00 P.M. at the Stuart Recreation Center on Flagler Ave. Teams interested in participating in the league must have a manager or representative at the meeting with a team roster including name and street address of each player.

Flag Football is a non-contact sport played with seven men on the field per team. The league is tentatively scheduled to begin the week following Christmas.

Manatee brochures, stickers are available free from FPL

Florida manatees have looks that could only be loved by other manatees, environmentalists or power company people.

And the plight of the less-than-lovely-looking creatures, an endangered species, has prompted stepped up activities by environmentalists and Florida Power & Light Company to protect the 1,000 or so remaining manatees in Florida.

In consultation with the Florida Audubon Society and the Florida Department of Natural Resources, FPL is making two new items available free to the public in a program to help save the manatee. These items are available to FPL district offices.

"I Slow For Manatees" reads the message on a decal, designed by FPL as a story sticker, or "bumper sticker for boats." Also available is a "Boaters Guide to Manatees," a pamphlet, detailing the 13 areas in Florida where boaters are required by law to go slow and be careful not to injure manatees. The two items are timely and have been issued to reinforce the state manatee protection law, which is in effect November 15 through March 31 each year.

In the Martin-St. Lucie County areas, slow zones are on both sides of the Intracoastal Waterway channel from the Jupiter Inlet to the St. Lucie Inlet, in the hole in the wall, and Great Pocket at Long Island, and in the area of the Hutchinson Island nuclear power plant. Also, the "area surrounding the municipal yacht basin in Ft. Pierce is a manatee protection zone.

Five of the sanctuaries set by state law are at FPL power plants. Manatees congregate near power plants to take advantage of the warm water they expel. The manatees' affinity for the waters around power plants stimulated FPL's interest in the big mammals. The Company has conducted a serial census of the mammals that is conducted by the Florida Audubon Society.

The manatees, sometimes called sea cows, reproduce slowly, add to the danger from boat collisions. Human beings slashing propeller blades. That has led to the state law designed to protect the mammals from such boats.

FREE MATERIALS—Florida Power and Light Company is offering free bumper boat stickers and a booklet on the manatee protection areas. The materials can be picked up at the FPL offices in Stuart or Ft. Pierce.

Hoffman to lead men in 81

The nominating committee of the Sandpiper Bay Men's Golf Association will present a slate which names Elmer Hoffman as president for the ensuing year. Highlights of Thursday's festivities will include the annual dinner meeting for the members, preceded by a "Texas" event on the Sinner's course with "shotgun" start at 8:30.

Other officers whose names will be presented at the meeting include Gordon Ferguson, vice president; Jack Early, secretary and Jim Schultz, treasurer. Bob Wilson will turn the gavel over to Hoffman, who served this year as vice president.

A limit of 144 will participate in the "scramble" event, which will be followed by award presentations. Trophy winners of major events through 1980. All players who have signed to compete in the scramble are urged to leave their golf clubs at the pro shop course no later than Wednesday.

Members of the nominating committee are Tom Naughton, Jack Maney and Schulte.

In Thursday's action in which all members participated, money went to the following Flight leaders: A-Bill Healy, 76, (A); Bob Roberts, 79 (B); Drew Farnsworth, 90, (C) and Jack Hendron, 92 (D).

CANDIES—Lois Sherrard and Mary Meissner pose with some of the delicious chocolate candies made by Lois. With the entire Mirror staff ready to dig in, the candies remained in the boxes no longer than 30 seconds after the shot was taken. (Macaulay photo)

Lois Sherrard says....

Say it with chocolate!

With the holiday season so close at hand with all the yummy home-made fruit cakes and cookies who not add your own chocolate creations.

I was first introduced to making chocolates by a friend last year just before the holidays so I made up several assorted boxes for my husband to plant around the area where he did business. He came home and told me the candy was a smash, some of the ladies who hadn't spoken all year are now smiling and asking where they can get some more of that candy.

Since my candy brought about some love as well as good taste I think I should share it with everyone. Below is a recipe for making Carmel Pecan Turtles in just three easy steps and ingredience.

1 can Eagle Brand milk
1 cup chopped pecans
1 lb. chocolate wafers

Simply put unopened can of Eagle Brand in pan of water. Water must cover the can. This will cook into a light brown carmel.

Spoon one teaspoon of carmel and cover with pecans onto waxed paper. Spread chocolate over carmel and nuts and place in freezer for two minutes.

You can also make your own peanut butter cups and after dinner mints. Your friends are in for a treat and they'll think you've spent all day in the kitchen.

For further information contact the Jensen Mirror.

Merry Chocolate Making!

Exceptional child workshop is set

"Do You Know Your Rights?" is the title of a workshop to be conducted for parents of exceptional students by the Florida Diagnostic and Learning Resources System.

The workshop will be held on December 9, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Stuart Middle School. For further information, call Mrs. Joyce Holmes in the Martin County Exceptional Student office at 287-6400, or call the FDLRS office at 465-4020.

B-1 ZONING
Located close to one of Stuart's major intersections. This nearly one and one third acre parcel of land has many possibilities. And presently has a commercial building with over 5000 sq. ft. of floor space — plus a beautifully decorated 1 bedroom, 1 bath home and a 3 bedroom, 2 bath home. Ideal for an owner who wants an elegant home to live in and have his business in a portion, or in all, of the commercial building — or the homes could be remodeled and a strip store or other commercial operation established. All buildings are in excellent condition with the whole area being beautifully landscaped. One of Stuart's fastest growing areas which will surely continue to be most desirable. $258,000. List No. 110. Please call Joseph J. Bazzano, Broker-Salesman, for an appointment to receive further details. Aft. Hrs. 283-6888.

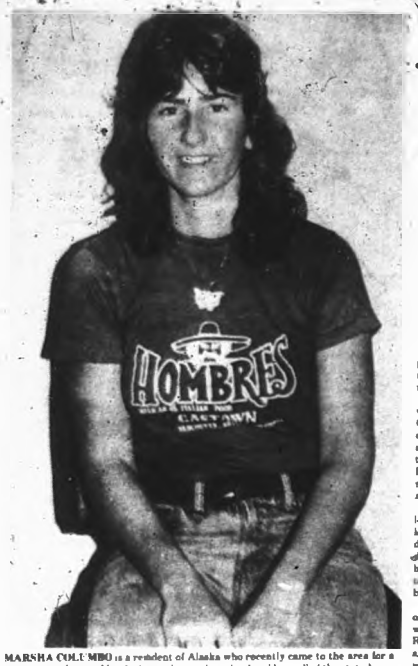
PIPER'S LANDING
A golf and yachting community in Stuart, Florida.



MARSHA COLUMBO is a resident of Alaska who recently came to the area for a visit with relatives. Marsha loves the northern land and has called the state home for six years.

Warm thoughts from a cold climate

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

It does not take much to get a Floridian cold. The very sight of a picture filled with snow capped mountains can send chills of ice running through veins.

Marsha Columbo is a woman who lives in those cold mountains and says she would not trade her life in Alaska for all the pineapples in Florida.

Recently, however, she put her snow shoes on the shelf, packed a swim suit, and came to the area to visit with relatives and friends. One of those relations is Jeanice Morgan, a Mirror staff member of many years, and a bonafied Floridian.

During Marsha's stay, she related some of her experiences about the snow covered state she calls home.

Home to her is a little town called Dyea that boasts a population of 30 people. The nearest town is ten miles away and while larger, has only 750 residents.

Marsha has lived in this out-of-the-way environment for nearly six years. Originally from Pennsylvania, she decided to make the long journey northward for the sake of "adventure." To that end, she has remained faithful, travelling throughout the state to gain exciting experiences along her way.

While she lived in Skagway, she learned the art of ivory carving from a local man called Ron Ekimo. The delicate process takes patience and a deft hand, but under the tutelage of her expert instructor, Marsha learned to carve three dimensional bears, birds, and other Alaskan animals.

Marsha also spent some of her time on the Alaskan coastline where she worked as a longshoreman. The Russian car boats would pull into port and wait to be unloaded. Marsha's job was to monitor the conveyor belt that carried coal to the dock and pick up white-ver pieces fell to the ground. It was an experience that Marsha admits was not only fun but lucrative.

When Marsha decided to travel through the state she did not do it by standard roads. Many times she and friends would take to the mountains to reach an isolated town.

One such trip was taken through Chilkoot Pass. During the summer months, the valley is filled with hundreds of tourists, but in winter, there are few travelers who dare to cross the ice-covered trails. Naturally, Marsha was one who dared.

Armed with back packs and snow shoes, she and a few friends made the difficult seven day journey across the mountains. At times the climb was too steep for snow shoes so they strapped them to their backs. With hiking boots and sheer determination, they eventually arrived at their destination.

"I'd do it again," said Marsha with a grin.

In the meantime, she calls home a log cabin, not unlike those built by early settlers. Her lifestyle may be a 20th century one, but her home, while beautifully rustic, has anything but modern-day conveniences. She lives with wood-burning stoves and propane gas lamps. Plumbing is as near as the outhouse, which she says is a two story building. When asked how she copes with some of these inconveniences, she replies "It's absolutely great."

She does not consider certain hardships of her lifestyle a problem. To her, they are all part of a daily challenge that is met with resourcefulness and adventure.

Marsha admits that at times, she misses the fashions that are lacking in Alaska. People dress more important to keep warm, and the few small stores in the area are not known for their inventory of designer fashions.

People in Alaska dress to keep warm with good reason. When winter comes, temperatures drop, leaving residents to fend off the cold the best way they know how.

"People are hearty up there," says Marsha. She adds that while towns have excellent equipment to help keep winter snows off the streets, the only way to get in and out of Skagway is by either boat or plane. Perhaps dog sleds are a romantic notion of transportation, but most of the residents in Alaska prefer to take to the skies. Marsha has a car, but finds her snow shoes a much more reliable way to get around.

Although the winter also brings darkness for the better part of each day, she says "It's eerie, but anything but scary." Everyone accepts the change in daylight as part of the season and goes about their normal routines.

Marsha, like her contemporaries, maintains regular working hours. However, life in Alaska can be called anything but routine. One day might find her fishing in a nearby river, and yet another will bring her to a mountainside where she can watch over 100 eagles in flight.

While Marsha enjoyed her stay in Florida, she was ready to return home to her town of Dyea. The land she calls the "last frontier" was waiting. She will return with a dark tan, but for those in Florida who enjoyed the opportunity of her visit, she left behind some very warm thoughts from a cold climate.

ALASKA—The snow capped mountains of Alaska are a source of beauty to those who venture past its icy boundaries. For Marsha Columbo, Alaska is her home. One that she would not leave for anything.

HOME SWEET HOME—The log cabin is called home for Marsha Columbo who she takes to the Alaskan trails. Marsha was recently vacationing in Florida with her relative Jeannie Morgan and took the opportunity to enjoy the sun weather and sun.

NRS- FEMA define nuclear emergency roles

Two federal agencies have outlined areas of concern in the event of nuclear plant emergencies.

In a "memorandum of agreement," the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and the Federal Emergency Management Agency have defined the two agencies responsibilities.

Under the agreement, the NRC will take charge of on-site hazards, overseeing protective actions, and FEMA will oversee off-site operations.

In event of a radiological emergency, NRC will notify FEMA, monitor the situation and supply information and recommendations to off-site agencies, meanwhile feeding data to FEMA and other agencies of on-site decisions that may affect their operations.

NRC will also keep federal agencies, the President and Congress, news media and the public informed on radiological conditions.

FEMA, for its part will supply all agencies with information on federal assistance that is available and being provided as well as coordinating information on support activities taking place off-site.

Emergency notification procedures will enable NRC to use the Civil Defense National Radio System and National Warning System to relay information along with any other warning network systems available.

NRC and FEMA have also renewed an earlier agreement which expired last month, setting forth each agency's responsibilities in reviewing licensee and off-site authority emergency plans and preparedness for commercial nuclear facilities.

IRCC Basketball Classic this weekend

Indian River Community College's annual Christmas basketball tournament, the IRCC Classic, will be held this weekend at the school in Fort Pierce. Indian River with a record of 3-4 this year won last year's tournament. The tournament is scheduled for Friday and Saturday nights December 12 & 13. Games are at 6 p.m. and 8 p.m. each night.

The Pioneers won last year's tournament by defeating Florida Bible College and then topping Seminole Junior College 98-88 in the finals.

Broward Central and Daytona Beach will meet in the opening game Friday. IRCC will take on Miami-Dade New World Center in the second game. The consolation game will be held Saturday at 8 with the finals at 8 p.m.

Indian River will be faced with some fine squads in what looks to be one of the most competitive Classics of memory. Daytona Beach has split its two games with Indian River thus far this season and the Seals are led by Levi Reed, a fine shooting guard from Orlando. Broward Central and Miami-Dade New World Center both have tall front lines and will be tough in the running for the title.

The Pioneers will be entering the Classic averaging nearly 104 points per game rolled, guaranteeing some high scoring basketball action this weekend.

Ed Bagley (Very Beach, Fl), the Pioneer's high scoring sophomore forward, is averaging 22.4 points per game and is one of the top scorers in the state. Another local player, Eric Carithers (Ft. Pierce, Fl) is second in scoring with a 17.0 average. Sophomore guard Amp Bush (Deland, Fl) is scoring at a 15.4 ppg clip.

Pioneer coach Mike Leatherwood is getting an average of 22 points per game from his centers as James Culmer (Freeport, Bahamas) is averaging 13.0 ppg and Ron Baillargeon (Lafayette, Louisiana) is scoring an even ten points a game. Freshman Harry Colon (E. Orange, NJ) is averaging over nine points per game in a starting role while sixth-man Bill Haas (Hamden, Connecticut) is averaging 6.3 points per contest.

IRCC dropped a pair of close contests as its record fell to 3-4. The Pioneers lost to Seminole at home, 116-108, in an overtime game on Tuesday night. Thursday, Indian River traveled to Broward and lost to the Titans 106-104 on a last second basket.

Pioneers up record

Indian River Community College's women's basketball team upped its record to 5-1 with a pair of lopsided wins over Manatee Junior College and SEMINOLE Junior College last week.

The Pioneers and head coach Henry Anderson will break for the Christmas holidays and return to action on January 5 when Indian River will host Mont Mercy College.

The Pioneers defeated Seminole Wednesday night at Sanford as Dorine Van Tongeren, Paramaribo, Surname and Karen Jackson (Opa Locka, Fla.) combined for 28 points. Joanne Williams (Miami, Fl.) and Tangela Paul (Miami, Fl.) each scored 12 points as IRCC had four players in double figures.

Williams, who leads Indian River with a 15.5 points per game scoring average, set an IRCC scoring record Saturday night during the Pioneer's 77-41 win over Manatee. Williams scored 41 points surpassing Tracey Archer's record of 28, which was set last year. Jackson also turned in a season's high 22 points against Manatee.

Anderson, in his third season as Pioneer head coach, has assembled a powerful ball club that looks to have as good a chance as any team to take this year's state title. Depth is Indian River's strength as Anderson has played every woman in every game, saving games missed by injury. His substitution style allows every woman to contribute and each player to be fresh in what can only be described as a total team effort.

Trailing Williams in the scoring parade are Jackson at 10.3 points per game and Van Tongeren at 8.5. Paul is averaging 7.3 points each contest and freshman forward Anitra Ivey (Hobe Sound, Fl.) is scoring at a 7.0 clip. In addition, Ivey is one of the top rebounders in Florida with an average of 10.3 caroms per game.

The Lady Pioneers return to action against Mount Mercy College in the first half of a men's-women's doubleheader on January 3. Game time is 5:00 p.m.

Free admission to pioneer basketball with toy

Indian River Community College basketball action this weekend at the IRCC Classic tournament.

Any fan bringing a toy or article of clothing to the IRCC Classic will gain free admission to the game. This offer is good for both tournament nights.

The gifts will be donated to the WIRA Christmas Kids program which aids needy children during the holiday season in the Fort Pierce area.

IRCC and WIRA ask that used toys be in good condition. New toys will also be accepted.

Friday night of the tournament will also be "IRCC Press BumperSticker Night," when the first 500 fans entering the gymnasium will receive a free "IRCC Proud" bumper sticker.

In addition, the Pioneers will continue with their time-out give aways of free meals, prizes and gift certificates from local merchants.

Santa coming to IRCC Dec. 11

Rumor has it that Santa Claus will be arriving in front of the Koblegard Student Union on the Indian River Community College Main Campus at 12:40 p.m. on Thursday, December 11. Another rumor: Santa will arrive in a police car with much flashing of lights and sounding of sirens. All young children are invited to come to IRCC to see Santa and to tell him how good they've been this year.

Come to the IRCC Christmas dance

Catch the Christmas spirit at Indian River Community College Friday, December 12 with a Christmas Dance immediately following the Indian River Classic basketball tournament. Start the evening off with the games at 6, and 8 p.m. in the IRCC Gym, and then swing by the Koblegard Student Union for the dance, featuring the band "Calaro" from Gainesville, at 9:30. Admission is free with a college ID, $1 without, and all are welcome.

Association to meet

The Port St. Lucie Ambulance Association will have a meeting on Thursday, Dec. 11 at the home of Eason G. Pritchard on 285 S.W. Kentwood Road.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m.

Nurse assistant program offered

Nurse Assistant Program Offered

Four months is all it takes to train for a challenging, rewarding career as a Nurse Assistant. Beginning January 14, IRCC will offer a Nurse Assistant Program in Room J122 on the Main Campus and at the Lawnwood Medical Center. Classes will meet each Tuesday and Thursday from 6 to 10 p.m. and from 7 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Saturdays. This non-credit program is sponsored by the Continuing Education Division, and certificates will be awarded to those who successfully complete the course. Applications to the program will be accepted and interviews conducted on Friday, January 9, in Room J128, and all interested persons should attend. Only 15 applicants will be selected for the program, and anyone interested in applying should stop by the IMTS Health Lab on the Main Campus prior to the interview date to take a pre-admission test. For more information, call the college, ext. 350.

Legality of prohibiting Martin County development pondered by PSL council

BY NINA BARANSKI

Whether the City of Port St. Lucie can legally extend its ordinances beyond its borders was pondered by city councilmen during the Tuesday, Dec. 16 Sharfet Development hearing.

Incorporated in the first draft of a council resolution for development approval is a requirement that no further Development of Regional Impact Applications (DRIs) may be filed by General Development Corporation (GDC), following its Sharret application unless a comprehensive water resource study has been completed and filed with the Treasure Coast Regional Planning Council (TCRPC), the city and the South Florida Water Management District.

Another study demonstrating the availability of water resources to the Sharret development will also be required.

The comprehensive water resource study is not opposed by the city or GDC, however, the possibility of GDC's next development being in Martin County posed questions.

"I fail to see how we have the right to hold up a DRI filed in Martin County," said Councilman Mike Reeb.

"I certainly have some questions regarding this," said Councilman Gerald Girard, "I have been known to be hardnosed at times but I think fair. It looked to me as if GDC is being singled out and asked to do far more and expend more monies than any other developer submitting comparable DRIs".

Howard Miuse, DRI coordinator for the TCRPC, said other developers such as Martin Downs have submitted detailed and expensive studies regarding water resources for their developments.

"The situation is not the same in this case," said Muise. "In the Sharret development the water will be obtained off site. GDC has not demonstrated an availability of adequate water supply for this project.

"We thought we were being fair by allowing a separate study pertaining to Sharret be submitted. It is not our attention to hold up Sharret because of the comprehensive water study. We feel the present water system is already committed to the existing 80,000 platted lots in Port St. Lucie. We want to know whether the present General Development Utilities (GDU) system can accommodate an additional 50,000 users.

"Under state law we must take action on all DRIs within 50 days of filing. Rather than have to just deny future DRIs from GDC we thought it would be better to stipulate no further DRIs be filed before the study is completed. This seemed the only way to ensure the study is done and submitted for our review," said Miuse.

Ralph "Cap" Cain, assistant vice president and general manager of Port St. Lucie, told the council GDC has agreed to fund the study to be conducted by an independant consulting firm agreed upon by all parties.

"The study is not at issue," stressed Cain. "What we object to is the condition that we are unable to file a DRI on land owned in Martin County. We are the only developer being required to do this study. We are doing all the work and footing the bill. Other developers should be treated the same and not ride in on our coat tails."

Cain referred to the fact that the TCRPC plans to use this study to review future developments in the surrounding south county area.

The study, which will take an estimated year to complete, calls for sufficient information to establish that the water resources of the shallow aquifer are adequate to safely serve the demand for water in the year 1995 for: all existing water users, including those on private wells; all water service commitments by GDU within and outside the city; and all expected development on private wells within the city on property previously owned and sold by GDC or currently owned by GDC or any of its subsidiaries.

The question will be held in abeyance pending further discussion by the council.

Jensen businesses say cautious spending is felt

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

Christmas is a time for giving. According to the business barometer in Jensen Beach, the spirit of the holidays has been maintained by shoppers but the amount of gift-giving has decreased slightly from last year.

Some members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce have noticed a difference in their books, and attribute the cautious spending to various causes.

According to Marge Paris of the Paris Inn Shoppe, "There is the trade, but it is not like it should be." She added last year during this time, more people were in the store. While shoppers are not dickering about prices, "They are being more cautious," she said.

Robert Gorman of Mac's Bike Shop also believed buying to be slightly off. He said some people see the prices and decide to wait before spending.

Paul Groendyke of P & P Patio said his business is about even with last year. He added customers are not buying the larger items but are sticking to smaller Christmas gifts. Groendyke said he has noticed the condominiums and parks on Hutchinson Island are not as full this year as they have been in the past. He reasoned that with higher air fares and gasoline prices, residents are staying up north until after the holidays.

Betty Aderholdt of Jensen Beach Travel Service said that while Christmas is their busy time of year, the volume of business is parallel to 1979. Few reservations have been made overseas due to the high inflation rate in other countries, however, she does not believe spiraling air fares will have a large impact on air travel because gasoline prices are making other forms of transportation equally expensive.

"There are not too many bargains anymore," said Aderholdt. For last minute Atlanta residents who decide to spend their holiday in Florida, a round trip ticket would cost $250.

Fred Meeker of Tara Trailers has noticed an upward trend in his business. This year, sales have increased ten percent from 1979. With interest rates approaching 20 percent, he said all his customers in the past few months have been paying cash for their trailers to eliminate financing.

According to Dormin Tittman of Lil'l Bit of Beauty business has been consistent with last year. As in the past, women have been coming into have their hair done for the many parties throughout the holidays.

Jim Love of A to Z Realty said the Real Estate resales have been down from last year.

"The market has been choking to death," during the past seven months he added. Love also said the lowest interest rate he found available was at 14 ¾ percent and generally, the rates ran around 16½ percent. At 16½ percent, a $35,000 home would cost an owner $484.81 per month over a 30 year period. In comparison to last year's rate of 11 percent, a purchaser is now paying an additional $151.49 per month. Over the life of a mortgage, that monthly difference would amount to $54,546.

Jane Petersen of Stained Glass Antiques said her business was about the same this year. "Try to be optimistic," she said. However, she added people are waiting to see what is going to happen with the new administration.

Robert W. Mayer of Tiger Touch noted sales were lower than last year by about 30 percent. He said that while customers do not hesitate to spend money, the number of people coming into the store has decreased.

The Holiday Inn on Hutchinson Island is fairly well booked, according to its manager. Christmas week for the hotel is routinely one of the busiest in the year.

Carol Miller of Miller's Refinishing Shop said "Business is about the same as last year." She added that customers have been coming into the store in large numbers during the holidays to have their furniture restored.

Chuck Tilton of J & J Rentals reflected a different view from many Jensen Beach retailers. His business is up 80 percent from last year. The majority of rentals are for cribs and rollaways. He said a few people are renting rotor tillers to plant their gardens during the holidays.

Dennis Doyle of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce said sales were off for many businesses in the area. His general consensus from local retailers was that "people are playing a wait and see game" with the new administration to determine its effect on the economy.

Bike path priorities countywide

Construction has been scheduled for mid-April for the bike path on SR 707 in the area of Waverland and Hillcrest.

According to Martin County Engineer Edwin Greenamyer, commissioners have approved a list of priorities set for the various county districts.

"The program is going to be set where everybody will get their turn," said Martin County Commissioner Alex Haynes.

Currently, county crews are working in Stuart on a path on St. Lucie Boulevard that will extend north to the golf course. Upon completion, workers will then begin construction on the top bike path project designated from each district.

The first area designated for construction is in Palm City. The Golden Gate and the Port Salerno area is second followed by the south portion of the county, Jensen Beach and North River Shores. Once construction has been completed for the first set of proposed bike paths of each district, county crews will begin work on the second project in line for each area.

Greenamyer said that by constructing paths in a rotating method, no district will have to wait two years before seeing construction of any sidewalks.

Greenamyer said that while the construction schedule for paths in the districts could change, it was based under the direction of what the board of County Commissioners presented last September.

To date, $50,000 has been set aside for bike path sidewalks in the Jensen-Rio area to be used during the coming fiscal year.

"We've got the start on bike paths. Now, others want their turn," said Haynes. He believed other taxing districts are badly in need of paths, and added "Jensen Beach has had pretty good service so far."

To date, construction of a path along Indian River Drive has been completed from the Crossroads to Riverside Trailer Park. Additionally, that segment of path along SR 707 from Langford Park to Fisherman's Haven is also finished.

The ultimate goal is to have a path running the entire length of SR 707 from Stuart to Sewall's Point Road and to have a sidewalk from Florida Institute of Technology to the causeway.

Early this year, the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce set a high priority for construction of a bike path from FIT to the causeway. Chamber officials obtained easements for the path in a number of places, but the process was slow.

Sewall's Point councilmen have recently completed the town's bike path that runs from AIA to the north town limit allowing bicyclists to ride safely alongside the heavily travelled road.

Last May, a FIT student from Venezuela was killed while riding his bike along SR 707. He was the third bicyclist in a six month period to die in a traffic accident in the Jensen-Rio area.

Give little get a little

For those residents in the Jensen Beach who would like to give a little during the holidays, the Palm Beach Blood Bank mobile unit will be on hand Dec. 23 to accept blood donations.

In return, Hardees, in conjunction with the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce, is sponsoring a program to give a free hamburger to any person who gives blood to the cause.

The mobile unit will be in front of Hardees on Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

According to Sara Timon, head nurse of the Martin County Branch of the Palm Beach Blood Bank, area blood drives are being held to determine the response the mobile unit receives from Jensen Beach residents. She added that if a good turnout is achieved, there is the possibility of adding another mobile unit to the Martin County Branch to service the area more continuously.

All blood donations will be greatly appreciated throughout the holidays since it is a time when many emergency requests for blood are received.

Officers installed at Chamber party

Amidst a festive Christmas celebration at the Outrigger Restaurant, members of the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce held their annual installation of officers.

Those installed included Dick Campbell, president, Jayne Peterson, vice-president, Art Hansen, treasurer, William Keele III, secretary, and F. Dennis Doyle, executive director.

The directors include Art Roberts, Bob Gorman, and Peg Meissner, two years, and Gene Greenwood, Richard Zurich, Fred Meeker, Barbara Turow, Ron Mitchell, Charles Otto and Marge Paris, one year.

During the evening, the annual chamber "Founder's Award was made to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Evenrude for their many contributions to the community over the years.

The award presented by William Keele III, was an original design of crystals, each representing a contribution to the community created by Stained Glass and Antiques by Jayne.

A social hour started off the evening in the Bamboo Room of the Outrigger followed by a banquet dinner.

After the meal, Dick Campbell welcomed all those in attendance and turned the program over to Art Roberts, who acted as master of ceremonies. Later, Fred Meeker installed the newly elected officers and spoke of their upcoming responsibilities for the new year.

The evening proved to be an enjoyable one as members of the Jensen Beach family welcomed in their new officers and the holiday season.

Falkenburg-Mulloy defy age, win 35s

Tom Falkenburg, 56, and Gardner Mulloy, 67, performed the unprecedented feat of winning the 35-year division of Florida Professional Tennis Association in Boca Raton last weekend. Falkenburg and Mulloy spotted John Williams and Jorge Benal 40 years in age and defeated them 7-6 7-5.

Falkenburg entered three events, the 55 singles and doubles, and the 35 doubles. He ended up in the finals of all three.

In the 55 singles, Mulloy defeated Falkenburg in the finals, 6-4, 6-3. In the 55 doubles, Falkenburg and Ernie Spiller, winners of the division last year, lost to Bob Stubbs and Jack Cook of Miami, 6-3, 6-4.

Falkenburg added the trophies to his already long list of achievements. He is the only man to win a national championship in every age division, including interscholastic, intercollegiate, 21s, 35s, 45s, and 55s. His next goal is to win another national title in 1983, which will enable him to beat the 50 year winning record of Alphonso Smith.

Mulloy has won 52 national championships, more than any other tennis player in history.

Minton heads Lucie GO Team

O.R. "Rick" Minton, Jr., has been elected president of the G.O Team for 1981. He succeeds Ernest E. Settle who will become Immediate Past President. Other officers elected at the regular board meeting were: David Stuart, president-elect; Dixon McCain secretary; and David Neumann, treasurer.

Five new directors were elected by a mail ballot among the membership to serve three year terms beginning January 1, 1981. The new directors are: Dale Cassens, C. William McQuagge, Richard V. Neill, Harry Schindelette and Jack Scott. Robert L. Seeley was appointed by the board to fill the unexpired term of Thomas E. Mundy who is moving to Miami.

Minton has served on the G.O. Team Board of Directors for two years and was co-chairman of the Phase II fund drive last year. He is President of the St. Lucie County Cattlemans Association and Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Agribusiness Committee.

rea fire stations progress

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

e two proposed fire stations for Jensen Beach and Hutchinson d areas are making progress.

e Hutchinson Island Fire Station, ch is to be located near the Elliott eum, should be under way soon January said County Engineer, n Greenamyer.

st week, officials from Indian r Plantation, along with Rio and en Beach Fire Chiefs met with enamyer to finalize plans which, if pleted, will be submitted to the in County Commission for the Dec. 23 meeting.

evelopers of Indian River tation donated $100,000 to the ty as part of their planned unit lopment in 1976. Greenamyer the 1980 estimate of the 3,000 sq. ft. fire station is approximately $256,000. Due to the high cost, officials are looking to trim edges and hopefully, bring the construction cost down to around $200,000.

"The idea is to cut back the project so we can go ahead with it," said Greenamyer. To achieve that, extra inside fixtures will be eliminated as well as a kitchen, air conditioning in certain rooms, and additional rest-room facilities. The parking lot adjacent to the building will not be paved until a later date. Greenamyer said that while various fixtures will be taken out of the plans, the intent is to keep the size of the building the same.

The Jensen-Savanna Community Center on Savanna Road is also making progress.

According to Joe Luciano, Jensen Beach Fire Chief, the fire station will be ready for its first fire truck within 30 to 60 days.

Luciano said the reason for the fire station on Savanna Road was to provide service to the Lelaini Heights area. In the past, when a fire call from that region came into the Jensen station, firemen were at the mercy of passing trains.

Luciano said three fourths of his volunteers had to cross the railroad tracks each time they answered a fire call. Additionally, any fire runs made to the Lelaini Heights region dictated yet another crossing by fire trucks.

Included in the new fire station will be two fire trucks. One is a class A pumper which can hold up to 1,000 gallons of water. The other truck is called a cherry picker and has a 500 gallon capacity. Luciano said the latter had the ability to cross rough terrain to fight woods fires and with its ladder, can reach a height of two stories.

He said the new fire station will be a needed relief in helping to control the areas west of the train tracks.

T LEASES FOR EXCHANGE

ESTION: My wife and I own a eel of land which is not producing ome for us, although it has appre-ted greatly in value over the years. ill be retiring next year, and would e like some current income. ly inclination is to sell the land and est the proceeds in a safe vehicle, h as a savings account or perhaps ds. However, it appears that I will e to pay a big tax on the property s. I have heard that there is a way me to "exchange" my land for er, income-producing real estate hout paying taxes. However, at stage I certainly don't want land, prefer not to be bothered with rating an apartment building. Any as?

SWER: You might consider a perty which is not leased to a or tenant. This type of property is erally leased on a long-term basis , because the leases are net, the ant pays all of the operating enses. This is as close to investing bonds as you can get in the real ate market. With a tenant who oys a top notch credit rating, the arity for your equity can be just as od on a net lease arrangement as it uld be in a bond with that company. t is important that you work closely h your real estate, tax, and legal isors in structuring this type of change. School kids spoke well on Savannas

It was rewarding and enriching to see the school children of Jensen Beach Elementary School write their governor asking him and the Florida Cabinet to save the Jensen Savannas by approving funding for land purchases.

Their letters were written from the heart, and were not form letters.

"I also think you should consider all of the plants and animals that live there. They will all lose their homes," one wrote.

The letters were a touching display of youthful innocence and intellect. "From the mouths of children . . ." took new meaning.

We congratulate the youngsters who wrote, and the teachers who encouraged them to write their governor.

Whoops...don't blow up carmel pecans

Occasionally, we get some wrong information, and when we do, we can pretty well bank on our readers to set us right.

In our recent recipe for carmel pecans, the directions asked that an unopened can of Eagle Brand milk be put into a pan of water and cooked to a light brown carmel.

Manufacturers have, for years, warned that such treatment of an unopened can invites the can to blow up from expansion due to the heat.

The directions should have stated that the can be opened, and the contents poured into a pie plate, covered with aluminum foil, placed in a shallow pan of hot water and baked in a pre-heated oven for one hour.

The shortcut of heating in an unopened can can be hazardous to the kitchen, and to yourself.

(Thanks to our reader for the correction.)

Keep the heat on

Efforts to find solutions to present and future traffic problems should be continued. Martin County Commissioners, faced with the lackadaisical attitudes of St. Lucie County Commissioners, should keep the heat on the Department of Transportation and all other agencies.

The county has already asked for a regional impact study of the effect of six twenty-story high-rises that have received the approval of the St. Lucie commission for the southern end of Hutchinson Island.

Last week the county also applied for federal funds to study traffic problems, sought the support of the Florida Department of Community Affairs and is contacting other state agencies to see if they can take any action to lessen the impact on roads that are already overloaded by St. Lucie County projects.

By dumping high density of fifteen to eighteen units an acre in the southern part of the county on Hutchinson Island, St. Lucie gets the taxes, and Martin the traffic. Residents of the island prefer to use the Martin County access to the mainland, as the nearest bridge at Ft. Pierce is seventeen miles away.

The issue should not be allowed to go away. St. Lucie County must assume some responsibility for its impact on Martin County.

In old Jensen Town

'Twas the night before Christmas in old Jensen town.
No noses were frozen, no snow fluttered down.
In front of the houses were Daddys and Moms,
Admiring the holly trees and coconut palms.
The crew at The Mirror were out on the pier,
All laughing and happy, so glad to be here.

No children in flannels were tucked into bed.
They had on their shorty-pajamas instead.
The slumbering kiddies were dreaming with glee and hoped to find water skiis under the tree.
They all knew that Santa was well on his way,
In a Mercedes Benz, instead of a sleigh.

And soon he arrived and he started to work,
He hadn't a thought to linger and shirk.
He whizzed o're the highways, and zoomed up the roads
In his shiny new sports car, delivering the loads.
The tropical moon gave our Jensen a glow and lighted the way for Santa below.

As he jumped from the car, he gave a wee chuckle.
He was dressed in bermudas, with an Ivy League buckle.
He looked at the chimney (there wasn't the room)
So Santa came in through the Florida room.
He stopped at each house and stayed but a minute to empty his sack of the gifts that were in it.

Then he turned with a jerk and bounced back to his car
Remembering that he still had to go very far.
He stepped on the gas and set car in gear, and drove by The Mirror, singing with cheer.
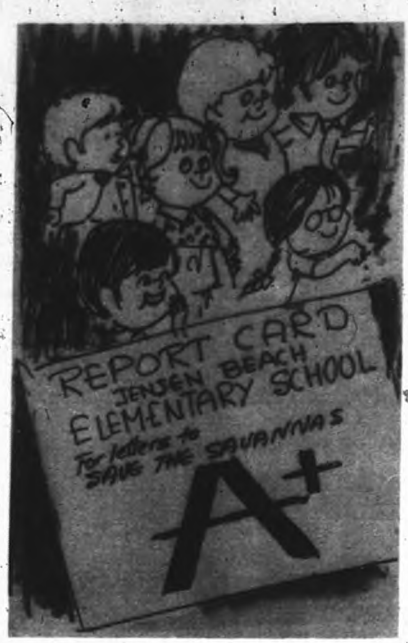
We heard him exclaim as he went on his way,
"Merry Christmas to all, I wish I could stay."



Ailsa Dewing

One man's friend

Close your eyes for a few moments and try to imagine yourself crossing the intersection of US1 and Colorado Avenue; unable to see, and guided only by sounds and your trust in a dog at your side.

The total sensation of such an experience didn't overwhelm me until last week when talking with Joe Foley at the Tri-County Rehabilitation Center. Joe has been sightless for the past 20 years.

"Would you like to know what it's like?" Joe asked. He handed me some wrap-around eyeglasses and I put them on. The lenses were painted over. I couldn't see a thing.

Linking my fingers through his belt, I followed Joe on a tour of the center, both of us guided solely by Mr. Jones, a Golden Labrador that is Foley's leader dog.

"Men's room, Mr. Jones," said Joe to the dog. And the three of us started off. "Relax, relax," Foley kept saying to me.

How could I relax? At any second I could smack my head against a door jamb, trip over a chair, fall down some stairs.

"Will Mr. Jones compensate for having two people to guide?" I asked Foley. He assured me the dog would. I couldn't believe it.

We progressed through a series of commands that took us to the water fountain, the office, and the "side door." Each time Mr. Jones responded merely to the spoken words. The animal understands words and that is indisputable.

How long did this grim parade go on before I tore off the blinders? My best guess is three to five minutes. The tension mounted within me and panic struck. Oh ye of little faith. But I simply could not follow along blindly with implicit trust.

With me watching where I was going and Joe following the leader dog, we put Mr. Jones to one final task. Joe told me that it was three or four months since he'd last lunched in the dining room but when he did eat there he always sat at the first chair at the first table on the right. "Let's see if Mr. Jones remembers," Joe said.

"Dining room, Mr. Jones."

At the double doors leading into the dining room, Mr. Jones guided Joe very slowly. "Is there something in my way?" asked Joe.

I told him there were about 30 blooming poinsettia plants lined up on the floor that he and the dog were skirting around.

"Would I have discovered them with my cane?" Joe asked.

"If you'd swung a cane you'd have wiped them out," said I.

By this time we'd arrived at the first chair of the first table on the right side of the dining room.

Mr. Jones is four years old, Foley told me, and that's halfway through a leader dog's career life. Unharnessed, a leader dog is a frisky, friendly pet but when it's on duty, the animal works at the peak of its efforts and it's a telling strain.

A leader dog cannot make a single mistake. Not ever. That's a burden few humans could carry for even eight hours. Occasionally, however, a leader dog may suffer a momentary distraction, throwing it off guard. The owner's only recourse is to humiliate the animal, Foley explained, because it is only through infinite trust that the blind can, for example, cross Colorado and US 1 with full confidence.

Bystanders often cringe when the owner reprimands a leader dog and they accuse owners of being cruel to their faithful friends, Foley said.

During our conversation I asked Joe if he should drop something whether Mr. Jones would retrieve it.

Joe Foley broke into a smile. "Let me tell you a story about that," he said.

Leader dogs are not taught to retrieve because the trainers say it requires too cruel a course of training, Foley explained. But one day when Joe and Mr. Jones were walking through a park, Joe happened to drop his wallet. Mr. Jones retrieved it and, to Joe's delight. To test Mr. Jones, Joe dropped the wallet again. And again the dog retrieved it.

When Joe dropped it for a third time, Mr. Jones sat down. Maybe he was tired of the game. Maybe he'd accepted it as a fact that Joe was trying to get rid of the wallet. Or maybe Mr. Jones was saying, "I don't do retrieving."

Whatever the reason, Mr. Jones was content to leave the wallet wherever it was lying. So Joe was forced to get down on all fours and, keeping one hand on the dog's lead, to feel around the grass with the other hand for the lost wallet.

Joe heard a passerby comment, "Would you look at that! That man's pretending to be a dog."

An hour with Joe Foley is one of life's memorable experiences as those who've heard his presentation on the leader dog program will agree. And although this column didn't start off as a testimonial to the work done by the Lions Club for the sightless, it couldn't come to better conclusion.

Joe Foley lost his sight 20 years ago, bringing his way of life to an abrupt halt. His work in building construction was finished and his community activities severely restricted. He had to depend on someone with eyesight for every move he made, even to know what the time was. As we've previously quoted Joe's words. "There wasn't anything to get up for in the morning."

Through the Lions Club fund-raising projects which provide Joe and others like him with all the aids available to make the sightless independent, functioning, purposeful people, the Lions bring light where there is no light. God bless them.

An opening and a reunion

Tohy Romano returned to Jensen Beach last week, and his opening night was a reunion of old friends and good music.

The nine years he has been gone have not diminished the power of his voice, his timing, or the many nuances in his fingering of that classic guitar.

The guitar, and the first show, were both classics.

Frances Langford Evinrude's introduction was simple and warm. She has known him for so long, through the millions of miles traveled with the Bob Hope USO shows, entertaining millions of troops overseas in two wars, and the Langford USO tour during the Viet Nam War.

She remembered the ten years that Tony played at the Outrigger from 1961 to 1971, when his rich voice was a mainstay in the lounge.

Tony is back, and he came on with all the passion and humor each song possessed.

In the show, Romano sang several original songs, including the lilting "If you were my girl," and the Vic Damone recorded "Christmas in San Francisco."

He held the audience well, in a simple barstool setting under powerful spotlights that commanded attention.

Toward the end of the first show, he was joined by Frances Langford, who sang the song she made famous, "I'm in the mood for love."

I must note that the two had been practicing the week before.

Romano and his family joined the Evinrudes, the Roland Merrells and Chi-Chi Gonsalus on the Evinrude yacht Chantcleer for a trip to Tampa for the 40th anniversary of the U.S.O. That was another reunion of old friends, with Bob Hope, Frances and Tony doing their bits together for the hundreds attending in magical Busch Gardens.

A friend at the Tampa Tribune was kind enough to send me clips of materials published on the show, including a full page feature on Frances Langford and her memories of experiences during the wars.

As Fran began to sing "I'm in the mood for love," two phrases into the song, she turned away from the microphone and said to Tony, "That is too high, Tony. We're older now." Romano lowered the key, and away they went.

Tony plans to do two shows a night during his engagement at the Outrigger. He'll need those, and more, to cover all of the great tunes that those of us who were around in the '61-'71 period remember.

The dynamite "Maria" is certain to be one of them, and that cute Chinese number that he wrote for a show that never did get off the ground, "Ling Chi," will be another.

One of the potentials, of the occasional special appearances of Frances Langford (when she is "in the mood" for song), is another bonus for fans.

There were some wet eyes in the audience that opening night. I know I felt thrilled to hear Tony again, wanting him to continue to sing all night until I got to hear those old favorites mixed with the new ones.

I also saw some slightly damp eyes of Fran's five grandchildren who were at a table. For some, it was the first time they had heard her sing on a show.

While I could have listened to Tony all night, might I add that the dance music and entertainment of the two beautiful and talented entertainers, "Fifi Queen Plus Powers" had everyone on their feet for a twirl around the dance floor. Their music is excellent.

It was a great night, and it's good to have Tony Romano back in Jensen

"Don't tell me about none of your doubts," a sage one said. "I got enough doubts of my own. Tell me about something you BELIEVE in! Glory! Hallelujah! Amen!"

And that was the message coming across Friday night down in Fort Lquordale, just before the Glades Central Raiders hit the field against a bunch of counterfeits calling themselves the St. Thomas Aquinas Raiders. Myself, I could've been the original Doubting Cracker but there's one gent I think I've seen at every game I've covered for Glades Central over the past eight years and I don't think he's ever said a single word before a game that didn't just ooze confidence.

Friday was no different and before the game started, there he was in the stands, hollering out for all the doubters to trot right up with their money, because he had his in his hand. So far as I know, he didn't have any takers.

Now, I don't know that guy's name. Like I said, I've seen him about once a week during eight football seasons now, and I still wouldn't be able to say his name if I met him on the street...which probably speaks reams about the difference between the two of us...and why he didn't have any takers.

Personally, if I had the kind of confidence that Raider booster has, I could probably lick the world and sip a cup of coffee with my free hand. What the hey! If I had his kind of confidence, I'd probably know his name by now because I'd have asked during any one of a number of conversations I've had with him.

Rolling craps for instance, doesn't do a thing for me and I've never done it for money.

Now, when you're in the service, that kind of statement's the kind of heresay that would've gotten you burned at the stake a few centuries ago and I was in the constant position of having to explain myself.

"No, it ain't that gambling's against my religion. I've read the Bible pretty thoroughly and the only thing I've ever seen concerning gambling were a few references that it took place, not that it was condemned. It just doesn't do anything for me."

But that was a copout too, I guess. In a way, gambling, whether it's for poker or craps or most of the things you run into in life, is against the religion of doubters like myself.

You see, I'm a devout coward.

Which is probably why I've always been working for someone else instead of for myself. Not that it means that's the way you'd naturally go.

I have an uncle, for instance, who needed a job pretty badly and when he was applying at one place, they asked him if he could operate a crane and he shot right back, "You're darned right. I'm the best crane operator in the state of Florida.

Got himself the job, he did, and learned how to operate that crane the first day. Heck, he'd never been in a crane's cab in his life but there were only so many levers, pedals and other controls and he figured he could pick up and he did.

Then, there was the woman I knew who applied for, and got a job as a reporter, saying she had a master's degree in journalism, and all kinds of experience including editing a small daily. Turned out, she'd attended a junior college and hadn't graduated from there, and she did have some experience as a reporter but that didn't matter. She got the job and then pushed for, and got, one raise after another.

Trouble is, if I ever tried that, they'd probably not only check things out and catch me in the lie but then, they'd turn around and sue...or I'd climb up in the cab of that crane and promptly drop a load of angle iron on someone and catch 20 years in the slammer for premeditated carelessness.

So, what the heck, there's always the chance to play it safe...and watch someone else take on all comers, losing once in awhile and stuffing their billfolds with some else's greenbacks at others.

On the other hand, tomorrow's a new day, and who knows what kind of madness can take control over a play-it-safer's mind?s

HOPE FOR HEALTH

By Dr. Jack L. Webb

Very rarely does a patient come to us initially unless they are in pain. Pain is a warning. It is nature's way of letting you know that your condition is severe and that nature can no longer cope with your health problem without help. Pain is nature's "Red Flag" system within the body. In many severe spinal conditions pain is the last thing to appear.

Pain is the last thing to appear. Pain is the first thing to leave.

However, when your pain is gone this does not mean your spinal condition has been corrected.

Do not be misled just because your pain is better or gone. You are only safe and your health secure when your spinal condition causing your pain has been corrected.

Any pain will come back again, and again, and again... each time getting worse and more severe; sometimes reaching the point where it cannot be corrected if your spinal condition which is causing the pain has not been corrected.

Do not become careless with your health care simply because your pain is gone. Listen to your doctor and follow his advice. Only he knows when the internal spinal condition which caused your pain has been corrected.

Harbor Branch—a joint venture

BY CATHIE MACAULAY

What happens when two successful businessmen join forces in a research organization?

The result is Harbor Branch. Located on the Indian River mid-way between Fort Pierce and Vero Beach, the 300-acre complex teams in the country.

Harbor Branch is a non-profit corporation that was established by inventor Edwin Link and J. Seaward Johnson, director of the Johnson and Johnson Company. It was established in 1970 primarily for research in the marine sciences and for the development of tools and systems for underwater oceanographic research.

Since inception, the organization has continually expanded to where it now houses general offices, chemistry laboratories, computer facilities, and an assembly area that gives Harbor Branch the capability of constructing and maintaining its own ships.

Included in the fleet of ships are two submersible vessels. These plastic bubbles with steel tentacles are used in many projects.

One such expedition took place in 1977 off the coast of Cape Hatteras, North Carolina, on the site of the wreck of the Civil War ship Monitor. Although visibility was poor, and currents strong, two original artifacts were collected, the original distress lantern and a steel hull plate.

One member of the 1977 team of divers on the wreck was Don Liberatore, a Port St. Lucie resident. According to him, the purpose of the expedition was to do a photo survey of the ship. Over 2,500 photographs were taken.

Don has had an opportunity to witness first hand the outcome of a number of expeditions taken on by Harbor Branch, first as a diver and now as pilot of a submersible vessel.

Don got started in the business of underwater operations purely by accident. Although he had been a sport diver for many years, it wasn't until he saw an ad in the paper for a newly offered underwater technology degree from Florida Institute of Technology that he became interested in the field. Two years after entering in the course, he emerged with his degree and went to work for Harbor Branch.

Don is in charge of operating the four inch thick plastic bubble known as the submersible. Although its size and shape looks perhaps a bit awkward, Don says "you can get fine maneuvering with the sub." Battery operated, the sub has a life-support system of five days. It is equipped with large mechanical arms and eight thrusters for forward or reverse direction.

During operations, the submersible is placed on one of the larger ships and taken to its destination. Don says that he does a great deal of work in the Bahamas because it's such a short distance from the island coast to deep water. He compared it to the Fort Pierce inlet where it takes three to four hours to get to 1,000 feet of water.

Although many of the studies have to do with complicated research topics such as Foraminiferal studies or benthic ecology, the findings are published both nationally and internationally for scientists to read.

ELROY HULL is one of the design engineers at Harbor Branch Foundation. The operation is located mid-way between Fort Pierce and Vero Beach and concerns itself with preserving the environment.

The coral reefs that are being studied in the keys, the Bahamas and off the Florida east coast will eventually give information as to not only the growth of the coral but the types of marine animals that live there.

scientist for a tremendous environmentalist, he believes that the research being done has a strong impact on the science arena. He adds that constant studies are being done by the design department to further modernise technical equipment.

Projects such as remote sensing have been tested since 1977. After completing a map of the seagrass beds of the Indian River from Melbourne to the St. Lucie Inlet, scientists have been able to monitor the changing structure of the beds and the species that live there.

Harbor Branch researchers have also been working with the larger oil companies in what is called base line studies. They have studied and charted the marine environment off the coast of New England and the coast of South America. Before any offshore drilling for oil wells can begin, the impact on the ecology must first be determined.

Don Liberatore is one of five pilots who operate the submersibles on their long journeys. At times, his work has taken him away from his home for as long as a month, but fortunately for him and his wife, Maria, the long trips are infrequent.

When he isn't beneath the surface of the water, Don says he spends most of his time around their home in Port St. Lucie. Although he still enjoys scuba diving, he adds there is not much time for that anymore.

Don is one of 145 employees at Harbor Branch. He, like most of his co-workers take special pride and interest in their careers, for they are one of the few privileged to work in a research foundation that plays an integral part in not only Florida, but in the world.

The miniature collectors

PAUL ENTLER is a bonsai horticulturist who lives in Port St. Lucie. For years, he has enjoyed working with the miniature trees and bushes and turning them into a work of art.

Story and photos
by Cathie Macaulay

Paul Entler is a man who appreciates the smaller things in life.

Since he retired to Port St. Lucie, he spends much of his time making miniaturized trees and houses.

As a Bonsai horticulturist, Paul is in the business of taking tree plantings and dwarfing them. While some people work in back yard gardens, he spends his time working in a miniature forest. In his greenhouse, Maples, Junipers and Banyan trees stand in natural dignity — only they are 15 inches rather than 50 feet tall. Walking through the rows of trees one get the feeling of being a Gulliver in Lilliput.

"It is fascinating," said Paul. He added the trees change with the seasons. Maple leaves turn bright red and fall with the winter while other plantings bear fruit the same way larger members of their tree family do.

While Paul said most trees can be bonsais, palms are one of the few that do not take well. Instead, he has Ficus, Ebenopsis, Junipers and a variety of other plantings he cares for.

Bonsai trees require both time and care to succeed. Each day, he waters the plants that are kept in very thin soil to allow for adequate drainage. He added that during the summer months, watering is needed twice a day so that the plants don't burn out.

Paul has occasionally bought a Bonsai but many times he goes out into the woods near his home and takes cuttings. For the first year or two he allows the tree to grow naturally in a pot. Once the tree has a large enough size trunk, he cuts the roots and prunes back the leaves.

"You strive to make a planting look old," said Paul. Since actual age is not important, the art of creating the look of a 100 year old tree is paramount. The different means of achieving the appearance of age includes peeling off trunk bark, branches, or exposing roots to make dead wood.

"I would like to see young people get interested in Bonsais; I will never get to see these plants old," he said, adding that many trees have a life expectancy of 300 to 400 years.

Although Bonsai trees are replicas of trees growing in the wild they represent an artist's version of nature. While some bonsai enthusiasts prefer to show dwarfed trees sprouting from a crack in a boulder, there are others who enjoy the serenity of a miniature forest.

Entler pointed out that a cluster of trees is always planted in odd numbers according to Japanese tradition. By pre-shaping the trunks and leaves with wire strands, the trees can be shaped in a number of styles.

The word Bonsai comes from the Japanese term "planted in a tray." Paul has made all his oriental trays by hand out of ceramic molds. Not only is it something he enjoys making, but considering the number of miniature trees he has it saves money.

Although Bonsai is an ancient Japanese art form it has been carried on by many throughout the years. Paul Entler is one of those artists who continues to refine and experiment with new techniques to keep the old tradition alive.

When Paul is not outside with his plantings, he is inside with his dollhouse. Currently, he is working on his third house. The miniature colonial mansion is complete with an ornate facade and a winding staircase in the great hall. Paul has duplicated the construction of a standard sized home down to the smallest detail. The kitchen comes complete with running water in its sink. A fishtank made out of metal from a coffee can stands in the den and light switches and outlets are in every room. The doors are intricately hand-carved from redwood and on the veranda, a porch swing awaits a future doll.

Paul takes over a year to complete each of his doll houses. "I prefer to make things myself," he said. Although he has spent a lifetime working with his hands as a tool and die maker for Ford Motor Company, it wasn't until a friend asked him to make a doll house three years ago that he started in woodworking.

Aside from crafting miniature houses, and furniture, Paul also carves life-sized chairs and tables. "I don't regret to this day retiring," he said.

There are any number of projects that he is involved with, but his favorites are his bonsai trees and his doll houses.

DOLL HOUSE—This colonial mansion that looks as though it belongs on the set of "Gone With the Wind," is a miniature version of southern architecture. It was built by Paul Entler and has taken close to a year to complete.

MINIATURE FOREST—Swamp Maples in miniature form depict the fall season as leaves turn bright colors and gently fall. Paul Entler has been working with bonsai trees and plants for over seven years and has a wide collection of beautiful bonsais to show for it.

FICUS NERIFOLIA is a member of the Banyon family and one of the prize treasures of Paul Entler. This and many other miniature trees are diligently cared for and enjoyed by Paul.

Open House at Elliot

Christmas Eve 1980 will see Open House at the Elliott Museum looking unlike any of the previous 15, but the sounds inside and outside of the building will be the same: the skirl of Pat Kenny's bagpipes on the lawn; and Christmas Carols in the art gallery. As for the looks of things, there'll be the familiar candy-cane stripes around the front porch pillars, the usual tree with old-fashioned toys in the lobby, the handsome red sleigh filled with packages, and costumed "people" in the gallery...but there are also the brand new Gracious Living Wing and the 1914-style "garage" to see this year.

Those visiting the Elliott for the first time since the summer-long "restoration" will be astonished to know that almost all of the artifacts now on display have been in the Historical Society's collection for many years.... some since its establishment in 1955, a quarter of a century ago. Some have been in storage, some packed away carefully in the museum itself, although Director Janet Hutchinson says there's been a shortage of nooks and crannies for storing things ever since she came to the post shortly before Christmas 1965.

NAMED—Nancy Oliver, a lifelong resident of Palm Beach County, has been named Director of Public Relations for Martin Downs. She will maintain an office in the new on-site Administrative Center and will be responsible for all special events and club activities at Crane Creek, the estate section of Martin County's largest planned community. Additionally, she will coordinate all communication with the media and local community organizations.

Ms. Oliver assisted in the community relations effort during the recent approval process of Martin Downs and therefore brings to her new position extensive knowledge of the project.

Skippers Needed for Holiday Flotilla

At least 25 skippers have entered their vessels in the Marine Industries Association of Martin Countys lighted Christmas boat parade and competitionSaturday, Dec. 20 at 7 p.m.

According to association president, Jean Carbia, more skippers are welcome and urged to enter. "It will be a full moon night and there will be a lead boat from the Marine Industries Association carrying the upcoming boat show queens," said Mrs. Carbia.

"Some of the skippers have expressed concern about running at night," explained Mrs. Carbia. "Prpcedures have been worked out to overcome the main points of hesitation. Coast Guard Auxiliary and Marine Patrol boats will be on the scene to assure boaters and spectators safety.

"All the skipper has to do is follow the boat ahead at a safe interval. The pace will be slow, to reduce wakes and give shoreside onlookers a good view", Mr. Carbia said.

According to Mrs. Carbia boaters will light their boats in many different manners. "I even heard someone was going to use flashlights." Most boaters, however, will probably use their own generators or available power to light colorful strings of Christmas decorations.

Trophies will be awarded to the organizations and the individual skipper whose entries are judged best decorated. To be eligible for judging, skippers must register with parade chairman Orlando Carbia by noon on Saturday. Informaiton on registration may be obtained by calling Carbia at 283-2100.

Skippers just wishing to participate in the parade may do so by having their craft at Red Marker 4 off Coconut Point, by 6 p.m.

The parade route will be circular so that spectators may view it from many vantage points. Judges Maggie Hurchalla, Martin County Commissioner, Pete Walson, Stuart City Commissioner, and Ted Burrows, features editor of the Stuart News, will be on the East Chop. Spectators are also invited to board the East Chop free of charge to view the parade.

Art Associates December Shows

Art Associates of Martin County announce new and fresh exhibits for the month of December.

Martin County Library will show the works of Klaus Schuler. He received his Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Alabama, studying under Richard Brough, noted Water Colorist. Schuler's realistic water colors depict Florida marinescapes, wildlife and human interest subjects and has won numerous awards in local and state-wide shows. His work is now in several private collections here, in Canada and Europe.

Florida National Bank of Stuart, East Ocean Branch, displays the water colors of Dorothy Hill Rabowski. Formerly from New York City, the artist studied at Pratt Institute and Brooklyn Museum School, and also with William Fisher and Edgar A. Whitney. She is particularly known for her Landmark Collection paintings of Stuart and Jensen Beach. She teaches water color in the Martin County Adult Education Program.

Florida National Bank of Stuart, main office, shows the paintings of Melba Lee.

Cedar Point Branch of First Federal of Fort Pierce will exhibit the work of Ruth Bowm an, and will include studies in Landscape and Floral Subjects. Stw has an imaginative style using both brush and painting knife. She has received many awards state wide and has been an instructor for the Martin County Adult Education for six years.

First Federal of Martin County, Jensen Beach branch, will exhibit paintings by Jane Black.

East Ocean Interiors will show work by Isabel McElroy.

Construction on $500,000 home

STARTED—Under construction for British buyers, this one-half million dollar custom home at Sailfish Point was designed to focus on the water and will overlook the half-mile long, 300-foot wide marina. Gladwin - Bassett, Inc. of Jupiter is in the process of creating this Country French style residence.

Skip Gladwin and Jim Ottesen took a firm grip on the handle, drove the spade into the soil, and construction was formally under way on a $500,000 single-family residence at Sailfish Point.

According to Gladwin, the buyers, who are from England, asked Stephen A. Yerkes and Richard M. Kimbrough, the architects, to design their home to focus on the water.

"They chose a home site on the marina," Gladwin stated, "because they wanted something capable of handling their 53-foot Hatteras."

The 236-foot by 115-foot site is located near the mouth of Sailfish Point's half-mile long marina. Opening into the mile-wide Indian River and over 300 feet wide, the marina will include a ship's chandlery and fuel docks and will be capable of handling a flotilla of boats of over 100 feet in length.

Ottesen pointed out that just across the street from the house, homes border the sixth tee of the par 72 gold

□ Ottesen pointed out that just across the street from the house, homes border the sixth tee of the par 72 golf course designed by Jack Nicklaus. "In addition to the marina and the golf course," Ottesen added, "our custom homes, townhouses and condominium residences overlook the ocean, inlet, Indian River and our 60-acre sheltered harbor."

Condominium residences at Sailfish Point begin at $350,000, while townhouses will be priced over $375,000. Custom homes will be priced from one-half million dollars.

The Country French style home Gladwin-Basset is building is distinguished by separate chimneys, twin gables and two Paladium windows in the front elevations. Stucco with a wood shake roof, this three-bedroom, four-bath residence encompass 4,900 square feet, including two garages.

Outside, an L-shaped pool and Jacuzzi bask in the warm Florida sun, while inside, two fireplaces provide a cheery setting for cool winder evenings.

An English flavor is maintained throughout, as two of the bedrooms open into sun gardens where six-foot walls surround the plants, and one can relax on a lounge in roofless privacy.

Outside, though, the atmosphere will highlight the South Florida environment. "THE LANDSCAPING WILL BE BEAUTIFUL" Gladwin stated. "BUT IT WILL BE NATURAL AND BLEND IN WITH THE SURROUNDINGS. We want this stunning residence to appear as though it has always been here."

The interior, which includes a game room complete with billiards, ping-pong and pinball, incorporates an extremely large living room with a 12-foot cathedral ceiling.

Developer's impact grows to $20.1 million

Port St. Lucie General Development Corporation's Port St. Lucie operations contributed $20.1 million to the area's economy last year, according to a study released today by the Miami-based home building and community development firm.

The impact of company operations more than doubled from $9.7 million in 1977, according to the study. It included figures for the smaller General Development communities of Vero Shores and Vero Beach Highlands five miles south of Vero Beach.

Home construction contractors and subcontractors accounted for 873 jobs and wages of $7.3 million.

The company's Port St. Lucie region employees spend $9.2 million for retail goods and services in the region last year, creating 241 jobs in an economic ripple effect.

The firm spend $5.6 million locally in 1979 on goods and services and paid $1.3 million in taxes, compared to $726,000 for goods and services and $870,000 for taxes in 1977.

In St. Lucie County, General Development paid $489,000 in school taxes, $288,000 in county general taxes, $127,000 in franchise taxes, and $95,000 in City of Port St. Lucie taxes for a total of $995,000. Martin County received $62,000 in taxes and Indian River County $224,000.

School seeks campbell labels

Students at First Baptist Christian School are currently conducting a label collection drive that promises to bring valuable educational equipment for the school. As part of a program called Labels for Education, Campbell Soup Company is offering various items of equipment to elementary schools in exchange for labels from the company's products.

According to Mrs. Alley, teacher, schools may redeem the labels for audio visual equipment, athletic equipment, reference books and teaching aids. "We hope to collect 11,000 labels visual equipment, athletic equipment, reference books and teaching aids.

"We hope to collect 11,000 labels before the drive ends on February 20," said Mrs. Vicki Alley. "That's how many we'll need for new tape recorders and listening centers."

Labels from Campbell's Soups, Beans, Tomatoe Juice, "V-8", Swanson Canned Foods and Franco-American products are all redeemable. "We know we have many friends in the community who will want to help," said Mrs. Alley. "They can do so by saving the Campbell's labels and giving them to our students. Or, simply drop them off at the school."

Bank closes for holiday

Jensen Beach Bank and all its facilities will close at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 24.

SUNSET - over the Indian River can be dramatic at times, as is evidenced by the photo above. This and many other beautiful area sights draw thousands of northerners to the Florida region each year.

County, City Officials to Speak at Meet

St. Lucie County Commissioners Bill Palmer and Maurice Snyder and Port St. Lucie Police Chief Ed Werder will speak at the annual meeting of the Port St. Lucie Civic League Tuesday, January 13.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the Club Room at Sandpiper Bay.

In addition to the talks of the three officials and their responses to questions from the audience, members of the league will elect three directors to replace those whose terms expire this year. The three candidates named by the nominating committee are John Linabury, Dr. Joseph Monty and Al Seidman. Mike Farrelly and John Kapusta have been elected by the board to fill vacancies caused by resignations.

Frank Alexander, chairman of the program said the appearance of Palmer and Snyder at the meeting should stir interest.

"The election of these two men to the commission reflects the shifting of political power to the southern part of the county, and a trend that we believe will accelerate as the population grows," said Alexander. "For the first time, the southern part of the county now has representative voices speaking for it at the county level."

Present league members may renew their membership and new members may join during the meeting. Dues are $2.00 per person per year.

Disney film set for Dec. 23

Parents with any last minute Christmas shopping to do should come to St. Lucie County Library on North Indian River Drive. They will be showing the Disney film "Perri" on December 23rd beginning at 2:00 p.m.

"Perri" is about a young squirrel and his many adventures, plus there will be two Disney cartoons.

So let your children have an afternoon of entertainment.

For more information contact the children's department at the library, 461-5708.

Witnesses hear speech

"Never before in human history have adversities so plagued mankind. More and more, amid increasing dangers the cry for refuge and security is being heard."

Joseph Saia, special representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society from Brooklyn, New York, made that statement Sunday afternoon at the St. Lucie County Civic Center as 3,293 packed out the auditorium to hear the principal lecture of the two-day seminar of Jehovah's Witnesses, "Our Refuge Amid Increasing Dangers".

Saia focused on rampant nationalism and claimed that it was a primary cause for people trusting in men more than trusting in God. "Look at the adversities nationalism has spawned for mankind - nationalistic dictators, fanatical patriotism, national prejudices, burdensome taxation, international rivalries, insistance on national sovereignties and bloody wars. All these are part and parcel of a world of mankind alienated from a life that belongs to God," observed Saia.

Delegates from 22 congregations of the witnesses from Cocoa to Riviera Beach were there along with several hundred interested persons.

CHAPTER NOTES

President John Vance reports that there was a quorum at ExCom-Board meeting, Thursday, December 11, and it was a good lively meeting that accomplished a lot. Here are some of the highlights.

John reported on a recent four chapter summit meeting (Martin Co., Port St. Lucie, Ft. Pierce and Vero Beach) that decided to have a questionnaire poll, to find out what problems were bothering the seniors the most, and then send the results to Paula Hawkins, the new Senator.

Last week, this column pointed out that the chapter had a darn good bulletin that was interesting, informative and enjoyable and what more could anyone ask? Well, Editor Boyd went us one better, by pointing out that it is financially sound, to boot. So, in spite of inflation, hell and high water, with no increase in rates, Boyd was able to donate $400 to the Chapter. Congratulations, Al Tucker and Boyd Smith on running a 'tight ship.'

The chapter then, donated $300 to the Vial-of-Life project that will be going full tilt in 1981. Then, there was a mention of a 'Paper Drive' now the newspapers are worth $1.50 per 100 lbs., but a collection point was needed first (too bad we never went through with Al Tucker's mobile home office idea on some vacant land).

Remember, Thur. Dec. 18, Christmas Party with 'Night Before Christmas' skits.

There was some comment on the 'serpents head' that Ernie C. encountered at the Good Samaritan end of his '3-a week' trips to West Palm. Well, it can be safely said that the 'serpents head' doesn't snap at you or spit venom as the technicians have it under control at all times, even to illuminating its tonsils to prove its peaceful intentions. But, oh me, oh my, there are some things the unwary should know about.

Two or three weeks after the start of the treatments, you better keep an eye on 'the little woman' as it seems she gives up all her great cooking skills and buys the cheapest food as everything begins to taste from 'blah' to 'ugh' and worse. It's quite discouraging, as everybody else still raves about how wonderful everything is.

Then, along about this same time, chicken, hamburg, bake potato, and chocolate layer cake will look so good, you'll heap your plate, only to find you can chew but you can't swallow, except if jello is chewed very fine, it'll do down OK. Also, every morning, after coffee (that tastes like aluminum fillings) you'll feel quite frisky and bushy-tailed, already for a big day, only to peter-out by 10 a.m. to the ol' rocking chair.

All this is to be expected and carefully explained by the doctor and I'll go into the interesting reason 'why,' next week. By-the-way, I forgot to mention the pictures. Well, as soon as you are examined, they take pictures of area to be treated (before and after) and when they get you 'clown-face' marked with magic markers a picture is taken of areas outlined and before each treatment, these photos are referred to, and measurements are made.

Busy, Busy Yuletide Activities!

The Pavilion Church at the Recreation Hall was well attended Sunday 14th by 150 persons. Martha Lewis did the Lay Services, Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Dee Brink was the organist. The Jr. High School Choral, directed by Mr. Petersen, were wonderful, singing three Christmas songs and two hymns. Next week we will have as guests Tina Van Raay, always a pleasure to hear.

Our Christmas Happy Hour was held on Saturday at the Rec Hall December 13. Ninety-two present. The party was hosted by Carl and Helen Eury, Dick & Doris Nourse, Peg and Reg Turner, and Sam and Nina Wooten. Everyone had a good time. Singing and dancing by organ music. The organ was played by Beryle Roy & Doris Nourse. A Xmas solo was sung by Tina Van Raay. A drawing for a fruitbasket was won by Bill Chaisson. Second and third prizes by Isla Smith & Beverly Doyle. Mary Cammack in the mail room joined us after work. Said the fun will make her Xmas mail rush more bearable!

Bingo on Friday night was well attended by 110 persons. Bottle game was won by Vicki McKeever, first cover all was won by Bertha Lehman, second coverall won by Martha Lewis. Winner take all game there was three winners of the first, and second there was three winners. Six free gifts given to lucky lucked holders. Committee Dave Riley, Spec Clinger & Frank Powers were card runners. Steve Pointon and Dick Nourse were callers, Verne Clinger, Winnie Powers and Jean Riley on refreshments.

The tree lighting at the Rec Hall was a beautiful affair.. Was well attended we all gave gifts of food and money, that will be given to the Martin County Council on Aging to be distributed to those less fortunate. Martha Lewis was our Mistress of Ceremonies. Jean Taylor was pianist, Dee Brink & Irene Hamm, organists. Harry Smith led the singing of Xmas Caroles, the first "O Come All Ye Faithful and First Noel." The tree was turned on to the tune of, "Xmas Tree" very beautifully decorated. A tableau of "Away in the Manger." Norma Quillen sang, "What Child is This & Holy Night." Harry Smith, Vance Neugebauer & Lloyd Nelson in the three kings. Solo on a violin by Irene Hamm "The Rosary & Ava Marie by Bach Guro" was excellent. Irene told us she had played her violin for 19 years, really no one believes that. Norma Quillen sang" I'm Dreaming of a White Xmas & I saw Monny kissing Santa Claus. To the tune of Jingle Bells & Santa is coming to town, Santa & Mrs. Santa (Mr. & Mrs. W. J. Coleman) gave bags of candy to children were great. Martha thanked all of her committee workers for a job well done. Then off to a laden table with punch, cookies and coffee.

Shuffleboard news: H.Out were guests at Ocean Breeze on Dec. 10 and won four points. Players were Rita Dobson & Bob Barton, Jim & Martha Lewis, Roy Lamon & Ed Lally, Irv Ringer & Chas Ullmann. H.Out ends the year in first place in the southern division of the East Coast Central League with 13 points, Spanish Lakes, 11.

The H.Out mixed bowling team at Jensen Lanes won three points on Wed. and is still tied for first place. Bob Leister was high with 224.

Monday night cards: Had five tables Gene Riley 5100, Mary Sumser 5040, Dave Riley 5820, Audrey Jackson 4230. Come and join the fun, everyone welcome.

Wes Arbo has returned home from the hospital.

Twenty-three H.Outers enjoyed living Christmas Tree program at the Baptist Church in Stuart Thursday evening.

Millie & Frank Pine celebrated their 39th anniversary Saturday at a local restaurant with several of their friends.

The St. Louis returned from Cozumel, Mexico and enoyed all the sightseeing they did all in seven days.

Harold & Jean Messier arrived in H.Out for the winter after visiting all their family in Hartford, Conn.

Someone will be knocking on your door to give you your candles & bags for the Christmas Eve luminaries. It's a custom that started in Mexico and is very impreisive.

Ellen Freeman's quick thinking saved a young man's arm from being scarred. The young man fell off the bank head first and his arm to the elbow went into a hot bucket of tar. Ellen called to everyone to bring ice and a bucket of water to put the boy's arm in to relieve the pain. He must have skin graft on back of his hand.

We have two in the hospital. Merle Steele is at Martin Memorial and Russ Wells Home, 304-S, Nelson St. Smethport, Pa. 16749. The Robert Packer Hospital, Sayre, Pa. 18840 if you care to send cards.

A few more late arrivals, Wm. Millers, R. Gardners, W. Parkers, L. Vickers, Polloks, Binns, Messiers, Higgins, Westmans.

Ocean Breeze

Letters from our friends still up there in the northlands confirm what we've known for years; the weather up there at this time of the year is horrible, near zero temperatures while you slip and slide in the snow and sleet. So, come on down, we are having our usual sunny skies, balmy breezes and 75 degree temperatures.

A few more did just that last week, making the season total about 425. They were:

Fern and Edwin Smith; Ed and Rhoda Pettit; Ken and Kathleen Cooley; Stanley and Mary Petersen; Ed and Mary Marshall; Getrude Cochrane; Walter and Viola Small; J. E. and Nellie Shockley; David and Florence Lloyd.

When we encounter the traffic on Indian River Drive and have trouble finding a parking place within walking distance of the supermart entrance, we kind-of wish some of the snow birds would hold off for awhile, or TOOT would install the traffic signals at the park entrance and Publix would build in Jensen, as it has been rumored for a long time. But, all in all, we are delighted to welcome back all those folks we have not seen for many months.

The Christmas lights are coming on now, more each night and folks are strolling around the park to admire the displays. There is a very bright spot on Center St. for the Nixons have gone all out this year on making their place joyfully brilliant. Let us know about other outstanding displays, so they can be mentioned here, letting OBPers know where look.

PARK EVENTS

Kids' Christmas Party will be held in the club house, 11:30 a.m. on Wednesday, December 24. There will be: the games; the picture taking; Santa and presents for each child; and a nice luncheon served at a Christmas decorated table. All kids 10 years old and under are invited, but their names must be recorded on a sign-up list in the park office.

So far a dozen or so have signed up, ages 3 to 10 with more girls listed than boys.

Camera Club had a dandy meeting, 7 p.m. Thursday, December 11 in the club house. There were 65 attending according to 'nose counter' Freda Peterkin. Charlie Claus showed his Yellowstone National Park slides and they were excellent, and so was the commentary. Those who'd been there enjoyed seeing their favorite gysers and those planning to go made notes on things not to miss. Pres. Fran Gum announced that V. P. Sperry Garside will take over for the Dec. 18 meeting and show his slides of Bermuda and Florida. Also, Fran announced that the next meeting would be Jan. 8, as both Christmas and New Years fall on the next two meeting dates.

Shufflers are now out in full force and often all 10 courts are busy. Pres. President Elmer Lenning urges all new comers to join the fun, there is always room for more. Beginners classes 9 a.m. every Wednesday.

The Park Men and Women Singles tournament was held smoothly last week with the following trophy winners: Men, Main Event, Bill Jones, first; Pete Hillman, second; Guy Fusco, third; and Jim Gum fourth. Women, Main Event: Evelyn Grove, first; Fran Anderson, second; Evelyn Hillman, third; and Terry Lesley, fourth. Consolation, Men: Sparky Garside, first; Cliff Ogle, second; Carl Huggins, third; and Barney Chase, fourth. Consolation, Women: Kathy Schillace, first; Dorothy Elliott, second; Kit Garside, third; and Dorothy Glazier, fourth.

The Indian River League standings were posted and OBP is getting back near the top where they belong, here are the standings: Ft. Pierce 28; OBP 25; Stuart 24; Port St. Lucie 21; Vero Beach 18; Whispering Creek13, and Plantation 11.

Golfers had this to say for themselves, according to a note from their secretary, Libby Leuffgen. It was a great day, at the Holiday Golf Club and there were some great scores too. Cov Miller came in with 66 (2 under par) and Jean Frye had low score for the 'gals.' The group raked up 4 'birdies' and Steve Gegen had 2 of them. The winners, this week were: Jack Faust; Cov Miller; and Herb Leuffgen. A T&O Iron was found, call Herb at 334-0870.

Christmas Carols at shuffle courts, Sunday, December 21, 7 p.m. to John Leybeck's recordings and 'Hi-Fi' PA system.

Paul Allen with 2 blond daughters Terra Lynn 6 and Tracey Blair 4, from Lindsay, Ontario. Bonnie and Ralph Steele with Gregory 3 and one year old Lindsey, all the way from Dryden Ontario. They have already in their first week caught and had fresh ocean fish for breakfast. The sisters have not been together since last Christmas and all are enjoying their visit here together on the Island.

Exercise Class is looking for new members for a new semester starting after the first of January. The Sewing Class is winding up its Fall Semester next week.

Georgia and Charle Ray from Hialeah stopped in for a chat with Bud and Liz Frey, the Prices and the Al Rays of Holiday Out.

Lee and Harriet Price were travelling around Florida about ten days over the Thanksgiving Holidays, visiting many old friends and relatives. Having Thanksgiving with old time Miami friends Margaret and Frank Colboch and family, then staying at Ocala National Forest with sister-in-law Myrt Switzer. They then spent two days at Deland with Betty and Bill Beattie and Roland, Mildred and Ada Voight. Harriet and the Wade Barker family of Daytona Beach are childhood friends whom they also stopped for a visit. Stopping at Eustis Lee and Harriet attended a Goog Sam Rally winding up their prehoiday journey.

Since when do we allow Dumping of wood on front lawns??? Blame Kitty and Ernie... The Hufnagels ordered railroad ties which were delivered in their absence. And now they have all been rearranged and placed decoratively in the yard with dock pilings and cedar trim and shutters on the home. It looks so pretty now. You all come and See!!! Ya' Hear????

Open House at the new home, on Indian River Drive, of Betty and Edsel Pfabe was held Saturday afternoon for friends and neighbors of Venture Harbor. Their lovely new home and grounds was admired by everyone. One and all had fun picking fruit from their hosts' lemon and calamondia trees for all their Holiday Cocktails.

Lynn and Bob Goss are proud new trandparents of a six pound one ounce baby boy with beautiful dark hair. The father Greg Schwartz, son of Lynn Goss, and his wife Sheri of East Greenbusch, New York are happily anticipating the coming Christmas Holidays with their new son Gregory, Jr., and nine year old Stephanie.

THANK YOU

The family of Edna Strominger wishes to express their thanks to all their friends and neighbors of Ocean Breeze Park for their kind expression of sympathy.

Lena McClintock and Mary Richer were co-hostesses at Hobby Monday. Plans are being made for the Christmas Dinner. Fray Johnson and Mary Richer are co-chairmen of the Christmas dinner.

Al Baumgartner has returned from the V.A. Hospital. He was greeted with several signs of welcome back taped to his door, Welcome back Al.

Henry and Fray Johnson, Irene and Ken Bigham and Leslie and Marion Johnson attended the Indian River UAW Retiree Christmas dinner at the Foxfire Inn on Thursday.

You have to be an early riser to see Mr. Anthony raising the United States Flag every morning. It proudly waves over his home everyday.

Severina and Salvatore Calabrese of Long Branch, N. J., have purchased on third street and are busy getting everything in order. Welcome Sal and Severina.

Lee Tiffany and friend Laureen Raye are back with us. They make the long trip from Canada.

Jo Marano is also back with us. Joe is a busy working girl and we don't see as much of her as we would like.

Bill and Pauline Hay arrived on Thursday and are busy getting settled. Hope we get warm weather so Pauline can enjoy her ocean.

Norma Brown and her father Albert Judy enjoyed playing Bingo with Riverside Resident on Tuesday night.

Jean and Evelyn had visitors from New York also on Tuesday.

Fray Johnson finally won a cover all on Tuesday night. Lucky No. 2. Friday night Bingo started out to be Lena's night again, after winning five games I stopped counting. Cover all Friday night was shared by Orpha Woodring, Ray Schumate and Laureen Raye.

Millie Knuth had a happy afternoon when her granddaughter Laureen Drake and friend "Chas" Naylor drove up from Fort Lauderdale for dinner and catching up on family news. Lauren expects her parents down for the Christmas holiday.

Theresa Rothy and Betty Frantz drove to Fort Myers and spent three days with Theresa's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shaffer. They had a good time, but decided the traffic is much heavier there than in the Jensen Beach area. They also visited Theresa's sister and her husband, the Doyle's of Cape Coral.

Our pot luck supper on Wednesday was a success. The dishes were many, varied and delicious. Plans are for another on the second Wednesday in January.

Kitchen hint - to double the amount of your whipping cream add one white egg white to the whipping cream.

I'm looking forward to using one or two of the new special fluorescent tubes designed to fit into ordinary light bulb sockets. When they come on the 1981 market claims are you'll get better light and save money. A 25 watte may provide as much illumination as a standard 100 watt bulb.

Did you know that the paper boy in the park, Steven Martin, enjoys math and took part in the recent math contest held in Decatur, Ala? Steve belongs to the Martin County Geometry Team which placed fourth in the contest. Steve is in the ninth grade and a fine boy.

SUN BANK'S LEAD IN CONVENIENCE GROWS WITH INTEREST PAID ON CHECKING.

*Sun Checking Plus Interest is effective January 1, 1981.

Sun Bank became Florida's leader in convenience banking by offering the most 24-hour tellers and the most new branches. And now,* Sun Bank introduces another new convenience service called Sun Checking Plus Interest. It combines the benefits of saving and checking into a single, interest-paying checking account.

Sun Checking Plus Interest pays interest on checking funds and saves you checking charges.

The money in a Sun Checking Plus Interest account earns 5½% interest. And you can enjoy no-service-charge checking by keeping a minimum monthly balance of $1300, or an average monthly balance of $2000. Even if you're not used to keeping this much money in your checking account, it will now pay you to. One good way to raise your balance is to transfer in money from a savings account. The money will still earn interest. And the amount you save on service charges can be substantial. (The normal monthly service charge is $3.00 plus 25¢ per item paid.) Now instead of paying money for checking, your checking can pay money to you.

Sun Checking Plus Interest is as simple to use as a regular checking account.

You use regular Sun Bank checks and receive a regular monthly statement. The interest is figured on your average monthly balance and automatically added to your account at the end of the month.

Sun Checking Plus Interest works 24 hours a day.

No other account of this type gives you so much convenience. Sun Checking Plus Interest provides 'round-the-clock access to your money through over 100 SunBank 24 automated tellers statewide. That's far more than any other financial institution in Florida.

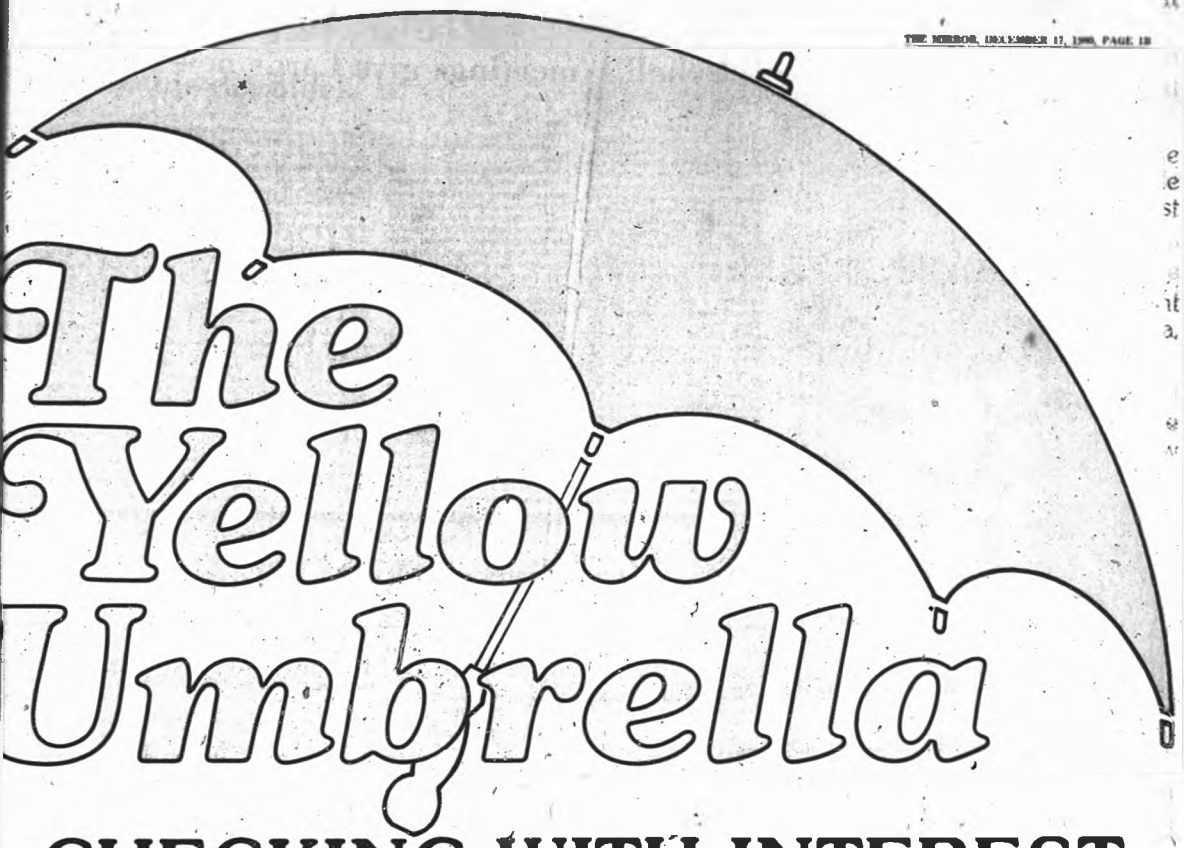
Sun Checking Plus Interest is backed by years of checking know-how.

You'll be seeing advertising for this type of account from other financial institutions, including savings and loans. And while all these accounts are designed to work in essentially the same way, they won't necessarily perform in the same way. Checking expertise has to be earned, not just advertised. And the savings and loans in Florida have never offered checking before. It's a complicated business. And Sun Bank has years of experience making it work.

Come in and discuss Sun Checking Plus Interest with your Sun Banker.

Sun Checking Plus Interest can be an exceptional value, depending on your checking situation. Your Sun Banker will help you determine how this exciting new Sun Bank service can work for you.

Sun Checking Plus Interest. One more reason why Sun Bank is Florida's leader in convenience.



CHECKING WITH INTEREST

Baseball's meetings give Cards new look

BY DICK LUNDIN

THOSE WINTER BASEBALL MEETINGS in Dallas, Texas provided major league baseball fans with a real first for the hot stove league mill. There were 18 trades made involving 68 major league players, and Whitey Herzog, general and field manager of the St. Louis Cardinals was busiest of all as he rebuilt his house of Cards from the top to the bottom.

Herzog traded away 12 and acquired nine players in restructuring the St. Louis entry that now must be considered a strong contender for National League East honors in 1981.

There were some trades that weren't made but might be before the curtain goes up on the 1981 season next April. They involve the possible trade of Boston Red Sox slugger for New York Yankee pitcher Ron Guidry and outfielder Ruppert Jones, the trade of dreadnaught Ken Forsch by pitching rich Houston, the trade of National League batting champ Bill Buckner of the Chicago Cubs and the trade of outfielder Greg Luzinski by the Philadelphia Phillies – probably to an American League team as a designated hitter during the spring interleague trading season. The winter interleague season ended Friday in Dallas.

Recapping the deals made in Dallas:

ON MONDAY, Dec. 8, San Francisco sent pitcher Bob Knepper and outfielder Chris Bourjos to Houston for 3rd baseman Enos Cabell and a player to be named later. St. Louis traded catchers Terry Kennedy and Steve Swisher, infielder Mike Phillips and catchers Al Olmstead, Kim Seaman, John Littlefield and John Urrea to San Diego for ace reliever Rollie Fingers, catcher first baseman Gene Tenace, pitcher Bob Shirley and catcher Bob Geren. Minnesota traded outfielder Dave Edwards to San Diego for infielder Chuck Baker.

ON TUESDAY, St. Louis traded third baseman Ken Reitz, outfielder first baseman Leon Durham and a player to be named later to the Chicago Cubs for ace reliever Bruce Sutter. Cleveland traded pitchers Victor Cruz, Bob Owchinko and Rafael Vasquez and catcher Gary Alexander to Pittsburgh for pitcher Bert Blyleven and catcher Manny Sanguillen.

ON WEDNESDAY, Detroit traded shortstop Mark Wagner to Texas for pitcher Kevin Saucier. California traded third baseman Carney Lansford, outfielder Rick Miller and reliever Mark Clear to Boston for shortstop Rick Burleson and third baseman Butch Hobson.

ON THURSDAY, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher infielder Cliff Johnson to Oakland for pitcher Mike King and minor league infielder Keith Drumright.

ON FRIDAY, Seattle traded pitcher Byron McLaughlin to Minnesota for outfielder Willie Norwood. Atlanta traded outfielder Jeff Burroughs to Seattle for a minor leaguer to be named. San Francisco traded pitcher John Montefusco and outfielder Craig Landis to Atlanta for pitcher Doyle Alexander. The Chicago Cubs traded outfielders Jerry Martin and Jesus Figueroa and a player to be named to San Francisco for pitcher Phil Nastu and infielder Jose Strain. Cincinnati traded outfielder Hector Cruz to the Cubs for outfielder Mike Vail.

Also on Friday, Milwaukee traded outfielder Sixto Lezcano, pitcher Larry Sorenson, minor league outfielder David Green and pitcher David LaPointe to St. Louis for catcher Ted Simmons and pitchers Rollie Fingers and Pete Vuckovich. Oakland traded shortstop Mario Guerrero to Seattle for a player to be named. Montreal traded infielder Tony Bernazard to Chicago White Sox for infielder Wayne Wortham. Detroit traded outfielder Dave Stegman to San Diego for pitcher Dennis Kinney. The New York Mets traded pitcher Lee Ray Jones to Toronto for utility infielder Jerry Morales or Bob Bailor.

AND FINALLY, ON SATURDAY, after the close of the baseball trading session, the A.L. Texas Rangers traded outfielder Richie Zisk and pitchers Steve Foucault, Ken Clay, Jerry Don Gleaton and Bruce Abbott to the A.L. Seattle Mariners for outfielder Rick Honeycutt, reserve outfielder Leon Roberts, backup catcher Jerry Narron, minor league pitcher Mario Mendoza, a player to be named, and cash.

Mull those over, baseball fans, it was a week to remember!

The familiar names involved: Terry Kennedy, Rollie Fingers, Ken Reitz, Leon Durham, Bruce Sutter, Bert Blyleven, Carney Lansford, Rick Miller, Mark Clear, Rich Gossage, Butch Hobson, Jeff Burroughs, John Montefusco, Doyle Alexander, Jerry Martin, Sixto Lezcano, Lary Sorenson.

EAST CATWALK ANGLERS. That east catwalk of the Frank Wachs Bridge onto the Jensen Causeway was filled with anglers fishing on an incoming tide last Thursday morning, Thanksgiving Day. In little flurries, fishing was pretty good for river spots, puffers, mangrove snappers and flounder. Live shrimp and fresh or frozen shrimp were the popular baits. (Dick Lundin photo)

MOSQUITO BRIDGERS. These anglers are hoping for some action on bottom fish or snook at that little bridge just east of the Frank Wachs Bridge on the Jensen Causeway. That's father and son, Barry and Wade (6) Lundin, of Casselberry, fishing on the bridge. (Dick Lundin photo)

The Mirror Sports

Larry Rinker edges Cerulli, Sharlau and Nunes in Pro-Am

Competing in a field of a mixture of 36 pros from the Treasure coast area and those who hail from northern golf courses, Larry Rinker of Stuart continued his winning ways by garnering top money with a low card of 71 at the Sandpiper Bay's Pro-Am event Friday.

Added $1060 to his bank account, Rinker edged out three young area pros by a single shot with Greg Cerulli and Mark Nunes, Sandpiper Bay, and Sandy Scharlau of Stuart taking home $103 each. Ron Raimsch of Indiana and Dave Turner, Stuart, finished with 73s good for $65 while Milon Marturet, another visitor and Ed Kroll, of Cooperstown, N.Y., took away $40 each with their 74's.

Kroll, who makes his winter home in the Jupiter Tequesta area, led his four man team to first place in two best ball segment of the weekly event when they combo posted a 21-under card of 123. The winning foursome included Ken Snow and Roy Chandley of Stuart and Lou Meriano, Sandpiper.

Four teams deadlocked for second place and included pros Mike Norton, Ed Ribus, Crane Cregh's Phil Campoli and Jim Tuller. Eastpointe Amateurs on second place finishers were: Cam Harlan, Roger VanSaveen and Jack High of Stuart; Mike Myers, Leo Galeoti, Ray Lunceford, Ed Yaeger, Bill Zipp and Tom Sullivan. Crane Creek – Steve Menard Harold Goldman and Jim Furst, Sandpiper Bay.

Zeno Rawley, formerly of Sandpiper Bay and now head pro at Tam O Shanter in Pompano paved the way for his team to the next pay off de with a 19 under par of 125 in unlimited amateurs. Wayne Sandland, Guy Scatchel and Bill Opp while Nunes and Pro Tom Sands brought their mates into a deadlock for the next money rung and unlimited amateurs Earl Hunsader, Cr Aspenburg, George Fearnsight, Cr Walters, Henry Schippers and H Reed.

The next scheduled Pro Am event will be staged at the Martin Downs Crane Creek course Friday, Dec. 19 followed by another at Sandpiper Bay Jan. 2.

Spanish mackerel tearing it up offshore; trout better

BY DICK LUNDIN

FISHING IS A LITTLE BETTER and the best of it is for Spanish mackerel just off the beaches south of the House of Refuge, for tasty whiting in the surf, and for spotted seatrout above the Hutchinson Island power plant.

There are still blues in the surf but not so many as last week. Snook are not plentiful and most of those being taken are quite small. Some pompano have been caught in the surf just above the new north jetty at the St. Lucie Inlet.

Offshore fishing has featured boatmen cleaning up on Spanish mackerel with Clarkspoons, but there are sails, dolphin and king mackerel being taken.

Reportedly, the 44 boats partaking in the recent Stuart Sailfish Club's Light Tackle Tournament (20 lb. test line), hooked up with 124 sailfish released during the three days of the event. That's a lot of sails, looking at it one way, but not so many when you compute the number of man hours of fishing involved. The individual anglers participating in the tournament reportedly caught and released 46 of the 124. The rest were taken by tough fishermen.

Bottom fishing has been extremely good on Six and Eight Mile Reefs off the St. Lucie Inlet where big grouper and a variety of snapper are being caught daily.

CAPT. MARLIN MOUDY of the Lady Stuart (286-1860), a party boat going half days and full days Sailfish Marina just east of Port Salerno off A1A below Stuart: "Fishing's just fantastic, loads of snappers, some big grouper, and some kings to 25 lb. The ones have been nice and we're getting out twice a day now. His Mate is really good and he is Eight Mile. We're catching a lot of nice, thus average mutton snappers, to 20-0. All in all, it's a great time to go party boat fishing, Dick."

FROM MANATEE BAIT AND TACKLE, J.D. Sachs: "Fishing's pretty good. There are plenty of Spanish mackerel south of the inlet, right off the beach, ranging up to nine pounds. There are kings in 60 to 100 ft. of water, mostly off the power plant. There are some smaller kings to 40-0 in the Kingfish Hole south of the inlet. Any bait with a bright shirt is good with kings. There are some sails around but the tournament only did 20 a day for 44 boats. There are a few pompano in the surf north of the St. Lucie's North Jetty. There are some snook around the Hole-in-the-Wall on the south side of the inlet. They're getting flounder on the flats in the river, with night riggers doing well on them. Some grouper in the 10-20 lb. class are being caught out at Six and Eight Mile Reefs. There are lots of snappers on the reefs but they are small at this time of the year. There are lots of dolphin in 100 ft. and deeper, out past the color change."

TOM STEWART from the Snook Nook in Jensen: "We've still got blues in the surf, but they aren't so plentiful and are not too big. There are quite a few whiting in the surf however, and some nice catches are being made, like 30 and 40 on fresh shrimp or sand fleas. Incidentally, Dick, one good way to keep your shrimp alive us to put them on top of some ice in a styrofoam bucket and cover them with a piece of a bath towel soaked with salt water. They'll stay alive that way for hours and be fresh and firm for use even if they do die. Seatrout are pretty darned good now and there are a lot of nice channel bass, red drum or redfish in with them from Herman's Bay to Little Mud Creek on the east side of the Indian River, and around Walton Road on the west side of the river across from the power plant. The really big gator trout are in the deep holes in Big Mud just north of the plant and in Little Mud some three miles farther north. No snook now. Bottom fishing for sand perch, drum and sheepshead is good with shrimp or clams from the Jensen Causeway. The sailfish tournament was pretty good but they lost a lot of fish on that 20 lb. test line. Spanish mackerel are plentiful and we're selling a lot of Clarkspoons. The best fishing now is for trout. Most are being caught on live shrimp but a surprising number on mirrolures too."

The Neak's log: B. W. Bray, 4 blues, cut mackerel, surf; Bill Mariner, 7 blues, same; Cathy and Amy Jorgensen, 41 whiting, fresh cut shrimp, Normandy Beach below the power plant; Sam Heckman, 6 channel bass to 7-0, live shrimp, Herman's Bay; Earl Russell, 5 trout to 5-0, 7M21 mirrolure, power plant; Ray Greenwald and Jack Prell, 9 trout to 5-0, 7M18 mirrolure, west bank at Walton Road.

Tim Lynch, a 5 ft. 10-inch and, ballyhoo, off St. Inlet; Lester Whipple and Ron Ellis, a 9-0 king, a bonita and 34 Spanish mackerel, ballyhoo and Clarkspoons; George White, an 8-0 channel bass, live shrimp, south of the power plant; Willie and Lee Cathel, 14 whiting and 16 blues on cut shrimp and mackerel, Mud Hole just south of the Ocean's condo.

FROM D & M BAIT AND TACKLE, Muriel Weidman: "Nothing doing on the Roseate Bridge today, Dick. Fishing here on S 1 is very poor. Vel Sampson fished from a boat just west of the Roseate, caught 12 trout and 25 assorted bottom fish on shrimp Sunday. Was out of live shrimp this morning (Tuesday)."

CHUCK SHEPHERD from the Bait Box in Jensen: "Not too much to talk about today, Dick. The usual kinds slow right now. The best fishing is in the surf for big blues and snook for Spanish mackerel." Chuck's log: Francis - Reeves, 6 whiting, fresh shrimp, Mud Hole. Fred Bailey, 9 whiting weighing 35 lbs., sand trout.

FROM JENSEN BAIT AND TACKLE, Joe Varino: "Trout are a little better. There are many small being caught from the bridges, but they're small." Lamb's log: Jim Shelton, a 7-0 trout, live shrimp, Indian the power plant; Dave Lamb, 3 trout to 2-0, live shrimp, Big Mud Creek; George Horst, 81 Spanish mackerel, Clarkspoons, House of Refuge.

Christmas presents for sportsmen

BY DICK LUNDIN

SPORTSMEN dearly love to receive gifts of hunting or fishing equipment at Christmastime but all too often what they get and what they want are two different things. The giver needs to give a lot of thought to the matter before making a purchase.

If the gift is for a hunter the spectrum is wide but it takes some careful unobtrusive questioning to disclose what will really turn him or her on when they open that package on Christmas Day.

The same applies to the fisherman or fisherwoman, and in both cases if at all possible nothing beats a gift certificate from one of the many sporting goods stores and fishing tackle shops around the area.

Your best bet is to zero in on his or her favorite hunting or fishing emporium and get the certificate there. That way you can be sure the recipient will be right at home selecting the wanted merchandise.

On the other hand, if you dote on wrapping gifts and shy away from merchandise certificates as being too impersonal, again shop where he or she shops and let the salesman or operator help you make a selection, being careful to keep the sales slip so that you can produce it in case your selection fails to make the hit you hoped it would.

Whatever you do, remember that this is 1980, going into 1981, all too rapidly. Things cost a pretty penny now. If you want your sportsman to have a new rod and reel for surf fishing, be prepared to spend close to $100 if you want to get the job done right. You might find a nice fishing tackle box for $30 to $50 but won't get too much for your money if you spend less than $20.

One woman, practical to the end, gave her husband a gift certificate for $30 worth of live shrimp, knowing that he was an avid live shrimp fisherman.

Perhaps one of the best mainstream budget items would be some high quality monofilament fishing line, like 250-yard spool of 20 lb. test Stren or Ande, to name just two. Fishing line wears out rather quickly for fishermen and they can always use some fresh spools of good line. Check a bit to see what pound tests he or she uses the most and buy those.

Of course, it's a whole new ball game if you're buying for a young fisherman just starting out. An inexpensive rod and reel outfit complete with line is a good gift and an equally inexpensive tackle box would really top it off. Have the tackle shop operator put in the box some of the bare necessities, like hooks, snaps, swivels and sinkers.

If your fisherman's a surf caster consider buying him a few of the heavy spoons bluefishermen use so freely. They're costly, nearly $3 each, and they never have enough. There are Krocodile, Gator and other varieties. Try to find out which he likes to use. A half dozen one and one-half ounce Krocodiles, as a for instance, would make any surfcaster happy.

Make this a memorable Christmas for your sportsman or sportswoman.

Apply now for special hunts

APPLICATIONS for special hunts on the Tosohatchee and Hillsborough Wildlife Management Areas are being accepted by regional offices of the Orlando field office of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission. Full instructions are contained on the application which must be received by mail in Tallahassee no later than 5 p.m., Dec. 19, according to Fred Stanberry, director of the Commission's Division of Wildlife.

Four hunts have been set for Tosohatchee. They are archery, Jan 10-13, muzzleloading firearm, Jan 14-18, modern gun, Jan 19-23 and Jan 23-27. Hunters will be limited to one deer of each sex but there will be no limit on the number of wild hogs which may be taken. The area will close after 120 deer have been taken, Stanberry said.

The Hillsborough hunts are slated for Jan 3-4, 10-11, 17-18, 24-25 and Jan 31-Feb 1. Deer of either sex (except spotted fawn) and wild hog with a shoulder height of 15 inches or more will be legal game and no other wildlife species may be taken during the hunts. The bag limit is one deer and two wild hogs per hunter. The area will close after 30 deer have been harvested, Stanberry explained.

Further information on the Tosohatchee and Hillsborough hunts can be obtained by contacting the Division of Wildlife at 904-488-8574. A random drawing will be conducted on Dec. 30 to select successful applicants, with quota of 150 hunters set for each area. Stanberry, emphasized that applications will be required from all participants, including those residents over 65 and those residents possessing disability certification.

Three teams deadlock at magic' 68 in Sandpiper Annual

The magic number was 68 in the nual Sandpiper Bay Scramble event ich preceded the annual dinner meeting and election of officers Thursday.

The trio of teams which ended the season in a blaze of glory included Jim Healy, Bill Flanagan, Howard Hightman and Larry Rummell (in one crowd with another consisting of Don McConnell, Dave Kennedy, Les Appel and Larry Huber. Ironically, all three of the top teams were paced by retired colonels. Healy, McConnell and the other led by Sam Dewhurst with mates Warren Thorpe, Cruies Bess and Bob Downing.

The limit of 144 players competed and later in the day the group elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Elmer Hoffman, president; Gordon Ferguson, Vice Pres. Jack Early, secretary and Joe Schulte, treasurer. In accepting his office, Hoffman named these committees Tournament — Cal Grosser, Chuck Henden and Sid Maven Handicap- Don McConnell and Jim Waldie Publicity— John Maney Rules- Ken Beckman and as reps for Indian River League, activity E. Bob Wilson who is president of the group and Sam Dewhurst as Sandpiper Bay captain.

New golf in Ft. Pierce

If the rumors which have been ulating among knowledgeable s are true then golfers in the Fort rce area will much to rejoice over. eports are that the Florida Gas Co. is dying plans for a championship ble golf course somewhere in the inity of the Orange Avenue nsion.

Reports have been made that the rse will include an elaborate club plete with men and women locker m facilities.

This will certainly come as an unexpected Christmas wish-come-true for the many who play at Indian Hills C.C. in Fort Pierce. They have been hearing a lot of wattlebut that the family which owns a great portion of the land on which the Indian Hill course is situated may offer that land for sale to a developer of homes and apartment buildings, and that the Florida East Coast R.R., to which the City of Fort Pierce deeded much of the land included in Ind. Hills golf, has been raising fees annually to the golf club for the use of that parcel.

Larry Rinker invited to play in 'Crosby'

Pride of the Treasure Coast, hart's Larry Rinker, continues to press many in the golf world with shot-making expertise and his able personality. The latest tribute received was a personal invitation n Nathaniel Crosby, son of the late g Crosby, to participate in the ual Bing Crosby National Pro-Am 29 to Feb. 1.

Larry missed out by one shot in qualifying for the PGA pro tour and recently came away from that disheartening experience to win the consolation top prize of $8,000 in the Texas Daily Invitation tournament in Las Vegas and followed that with a $5,000 first place in a Space Coast Mini event in Florida.

Sandtrap

BY MIKE SANDY

By this time ole Chris Kringle must have all those goodies wrapped and ready to make his deliveries for those who have been so good and those who have not been really so good. Christmas greetings at this time of the year speak of peace on earth -but don't say where.

We are aware that many have sent their little notes to Santa asking for their very special gifts. The ideal Christmas gift is money but the trouble is you can't charge it. We made some notes for gifts which Santa might bring to some special people. Such as:

A repaired back and knee for Frank Nestor that he might be back playing golf again. A new optic for Don Lasher who wants to see better. GDC to build the added nine holes to the Wilderness course. Major league baseball and NFL football teams to select Port St. Lucie as a site for training quarters. A municipal swimming pool for the folks in North Port St. Lucie. The folks of Rose Bakery and Pastry, an early completion to their new building in Port St. Lucie. Those two new golf club groups to join the Indian River Golf League for next summer's competition. A few more pair of knee socks for Pat Lepore...a new lunch pail for Frank O'Bierne. Another hole-in-one for Sam Davis so he may have 10 to his credit. The new nine holes at Heritage Ridge. Jim Oram, a new razor. Terry Pullis, a lower handicap after eye surgery. Henry Ferraro to score her first natural "eagle". Larry Rosene more help from Bart McDonnel in Over the Hill play.

Danny Senosanek to hurry back from Montana cause Doc Oscar Rozett needs a partner. Harold Nettley, head lights for his E-Go cart so he may travel in twilight hours. Norm Nardone, a new side-wheeling putter. Evan Phillips a score to match his age. Bill Peach, more time to play golf. Elmer Hoffman, new president of the Sandpiper men, a good working committee force. Bob Wilson to keep his pacemaker on charge...the same for Marv Waldbillig...a megaphone for Archie Gates. Roy Rutherford, more birds to feed. Harley Schearer, relief to his pains that he may play golf again. Denny Long, a quick return home by wife Mary and for Diva Pilloto more visits from hubby Al. For Warren Thorpe, no more lightning victims cause he's been out of breath. Carl Starluch, a faster back swing. Sid Tanner a qualified pharmacist that he might be able to spend more time golfing. Charley Schwarz immunization to red ants. Eldon and Rose Soetje, more parties. Rick Vernois, some one to buy the Embers. Frank and Babe Volgstadt, more visits from their children. Roz Vroman to show her poses in more photos. Eric Webster, more visits from old friends. Gerty O'Grady to have friends stop calling him "Rosie".....For Al Lorenzo, to build a third unit at his Forest Hills Facility. Frank Micale to open his new law office soon.... Folks in the area to recognize David Moses as an authority on municipal law. For Jay Pyle and Tom Cioffi, to receive their PGA class cards soon...a new popcorn popper for Harry Hendron. That Jackie Gleason selects one of our Treasure Coast courses for his planned tour event.

The greatest Christmas crisis occurs when a family mixes up the list of those who sent cards last year and those who didn't...If you really want your friends to remember you next Christmas, give them a very expensive gift - or a very cheap one.

Joe Monis who gives out with the big band sound of the 30's and 40's with his 17 piece band would like to see the Civic Auditorium jammed for the annual Christmas dance. Christmas came early for Monis whose band is graced with the famed Ellis Fairchild former vocalist with Les Brown's 'band of renown' and Trumpeter Tom Justice of Jack Teagarden fame...

Gene Burgette wants his new addition completed by Christmas.... Mary Jacklin wants to break 80 on the front side of the Saints while Dorothy Stark wants hubby Jim to get her a contour chair for relaxing (only costs $900)...Bill Pullen, another successful year at the helm of Sandpiper and Santa please keep Don Smith and Jerry Gould at the Saints. They make life so much more understanding. Ed Feenal wants another Prince Valiant hands...Ginny Ellsworth, a cure for her back problems...A new pipe for Mark Vasey...A Super Bowl victory for Earl Baugher's friend Sam Rutigliano of the Cleveland Browns.

New paint brushes for John Guidemond ...Ed and Tom Sarkesian another visit from their friend, noted trombonist, Flip Phillips... Spanse Palmer a restaurant he can "buy rite"... A package of red man chaw for Bill Coane. The prune rate to decline...Ronald Regan, a big hand from the Lord and Congress that the country might rebound from its dilemmas...A tournament here to benefit Junior Golfers the area. More recognition for those scoring aces... Rocco Piccirilly, more ago work. The Florida PGA to continue play at the Hutchison contest...a bear rug for the Dancing Bear Frank Hulpch.

Some red paint for Charley Brown and more clocks to repair ...Have ABC dump Howard Roberts Duran to return the 8 million loss "ballyhoo" for lousy fights...Bill Jahn to stop "electrifying" his friends...Bill Conklin another ace with his 4 iron...A full entry for the International Junior tourney here named in honor of William Dvorak ...Ken Snow a just award for his expertise as a "wind jammer". Herman Scharis noted golf pro and father of Sandy, to take his retirement with us.. More golf clinics by the Sandpiper trio of Rob Crum, Bruce Harrison and Greg Cerulli...added prestige for the Crane Creek trio of Jay Pyle, Phil Campoli and Nevin Nutcliffe...No more mistaken identity in future Art McDaniel photos...More white hair dye for Joe Wildman...Russ Miller and Art Sprague, more time at the 19th hole...

Playoff races heat up, Dolphins whip Colts

BY DICK LINDEN

MIAMI'S DOLPHINS achieved a measure of respectability and promise for 1981 by upending the Colts 24-14 up in Baltimore last Sunday, but the big interest now is in the NFL battle for the 10 coveted playoff spots.

The Dolphins, soundly thrashed by Bert Jones and the Colts on Oct. 5 in the Orange Bowl, 30-17, turned on their tormentors just as they did after embarrassing losses to Buffalo and New England. As a number of Colts reportedly commented after the game: "This isn't the same team we played earlier."

The victory was sweet for the Dolphins who upped their season record to 8-7 and dropped Baltimore's to 7-8. Their rookies who stumbled often in the early going are coming on fast now, their offensive line is playing with coordination and confidence at long last, Woody Bennett ran tough with 86 yards in 20 carries Sunday, and cool, poised LSU rookie David Woodley continues to flash potential superstar form.

Winning Sunday makes a third place finish possible in the AFC East if the Dolphins can find the key to victory over the troublesome New York Jets next Saturday afternoon in the Orange Bowl (12:30 p.m.). By finishing third they'll only have to play one divisional champion (outside the AFC East) next year, otherwise, they play three. The Jets have whipped Miami five straight times and so there's all kinds of incentive for Coach Don Shula's new look Dolphins to take their measure on Saturday.

WOODLEY threw three touchdown passes against Baltimore, despite completing only nine of 20 passes in the cold, 18 MPH wind that was a decided factor in the game. In addition, five catchable throws were dropped by Delvin Williams (another poor day rushing with 21 yards), Elmer Bailey and Nat Moore. The LSU youngster showed his mettle by driving the Dolphins to 10 points in the fourth quarter as the Dolphins showed for the second straight game that they have learned how to win the close ones late in the game.

Miami touchdowns were scored on passes caught by Bennett (75 yards), Jimmy Cefalo (37) and Moore (26). Uwe von Schamann accounted for the other points with a tie-breaking 34-yard field goal in the fourth quarter after Baltimore had deadlocked the game at 14-14.

Bert Jones, long a Miami nemesis, was held well in check this time by a stubborn Dolphin defense that even intercepted two of his throws, breaking a Jones' string of 253 attempts without an interception against the Miamians. Baltimore's touchdowns came on a 38-yard first quarter run by Curtis Dickey and a 16-yard third quarter pass from Jones to Reese McCall.

LOOKING AT THE PLAYOFFS, those still in contention with one game left on the 1980 regular season schedule are Buffalo and New England in the AFC East; Cleveland, Houston and Pittsburgh in the AFC Central; Oakland and San Diego in the AFC West; Philadelphia and Dallas in the NFC East; Minnesota in the NFC Central; Atlanta and Los Angeles in the NFC West.

Atlanta and Minnesota have won divisional titles, and Dallas has clinched a playoff spot. Buffalo, Cleveland, Houston, Oakland and San Diego, all 10-5, can clinch playoff spots by winning next Sunday or Monday night. Philadelphia and Dallas meet in Dallas to end the season with the NFC East title on the line.

Pittsburgh is a longshot. The only way the Steelers can make the playoffs as a Wild Card is if 9-6 New England loses to the 1-14 Saints in New Orleans next Sunday (that would get the Steelers in if they beat San Diego out there next week).

THE OLD CRYSTAL BALL, sometimes infallible, sees the final outcome thusly: Atlanta, Minnesota and Philadelphia as division champions and Los Angeles and Dallas as Wild Card teams in the NFC. In the AFC, the divisions will be won by San Diego, Cleveland and Buffalo, with Houston and Oakland the Wild Card entries.

Super Bowl XV begins to look more and more like Philadelphia against San Diego. If either stumbles, it could be Houston or Atlanta.

B-1 ZONING
Located close to one of Stuart's major intersections. This nearly one and one-third acre parcel of land has many possibilities. And presently has a commercial building with over 5000 sq. ft.
of floor space — plus a beautifully decorated 3 bedroom, 2 bath home and a 3 bedroom, 2 bath home. Ideal for an owner who wants an elegant home to live in and have his business in a portion, or in all, of the commercial building — or the homes could be removed and a strip store or other commercial operation established. All buildings are in excellent condition
with the whole area being beautifully landscaped. One of Stuart's fastest growing areas which will surely continue to be most desirable.

Now there is a truly distinctive country club community

Stuart is now the place to be in South Florida. And Mariner Sands in Stuart has already established itself as the truly distinctive country club community. We have transformed 720 acres of natural woodlands, winding creeks and sparkling lakes into the Mariner Sands Country Club Community . . . with its 6,800 yard championship golf course and 5 lighted Har-Tru competition tennis courts.

Then we built an elegantly appointed Clubhouse to provide the finest dining, entertainment and pro shop facilities. And, as you would expect, membership in the Country Club is contingent upon approval.

Add to this beautifully designed single-family homes, golf cottages, condominium townhomes and villas — and you begin to see the distinctive quality of life that is Mariner Sands.

For further information, please call (305) 283-7500. Or drive 6 miles south of Stuart on U.S. 1 for a personally conducted tour.

The Skyways of Stuart

BY PEGGY MEISSNER

It was Pat Villa's first flight . . . and he was nervous. I was to take pictures . . . and delighted to be invited for a flight, so I got to the airport about 3:30 and was met by Randy Leslie . . . Skyway's "super charter pilot . . . who escorted me to the office where Pat Villa, The Mirror's star Saleslady and Charles Zeran, president of Skyways were waiting. As we sat in his office, Charles answered questions about the shop . . . St. Lucie Skyways charter service, flight training and ground school operation based at Witham Field.

The training program is complete and affiliated with Indian River Community College. They have a complete maintenance facility, and a helicopter service is available as well as an air ambulance. Pilots may rent St. Lucie Skyway planes, and Zeran reported that while they act as agents for many brands, they are principally a Piper dealership.

As we walked to the plane, Pat and I were impressed with the number of planes at Witham and were informed that about 200 are based there . . . " and the number doubles in the season" said Randy.

The men escorted us to a sleek Piper Lance II . . . a six passenger model equipped for all types of weather. Our pilot calmed us with a thorough pre-flight inspection . . . that Zeran remarked "was routine practice for any and every flight!"

Randy Leslie opened the door for Charles and me, and he and Pat went to the front seats . . . the plane's elegant interior boasted blue velour seats . . . most comfortable, fastened our safety belts for takeoff.

As our pilot checked the tower for takeoff, Charles mentioned that, "We're the envy of the east coast with the tower facilities here at Witham Field" Then we rolled out on the runway and headed for the sky! It was a tremendous experience, as anyone can see from the photographs . . . a view of Stuart, Jensen Beach and Hutchinson Island, the islands and waterways . . . is a visual treat that everyone would enjoy.

Our flight went to the coast . . . we watched the boats returning from the Sailfish tournament . . . headed north over Hutchinson, when Pat excitedly told me "I'm flying the plane" . . . then returned to the coast over Jensen Beach, and flew south to Witham over Stuart.

The landing was smooth, and I couldn't resist taking a photo of one of the planes Charles had for sale

Only $6,000 for a lovely plane, you can fly yourself . . . (less than the price of many automobiles, right? . . . and talk to St. Lucie Skyways about lessons you need to operate it!)

SAILFISH POINT shows up beautifully as the wing of our plane covers the tip of the point

RANDY LESLIE invites us to enter the plane...

SAILFISH TOURNAMENT boats divide the picture as they head for home after a successful fishing expedition.

JENSEN BEACH and Hutchinson Island show up like patchwork in the distance

CHRYSANTHEMUM CAPITOL of the world...Stuart, Florida, and the black and white photo really doesn't do justice to the view.

WITHAM FIELD is a welcome sight, with over two hundred planes calling it home.

FOR SALE...Cessna 150, a pre-owned model only $6,000, and St. Lucie Skyways, Inc., will teach you to fly!.

HARDY SOULS—Anglers Jim Keith (L) and Earl Warner of Golf Village admitted that it was colder than blue blazes out at the end of the wooden pier on the north side of the Jensen Causeway, with the wind sweeping down the Indian River, but said it was still better than trying to fish the surf. They said they couldn't hold bottom in the surf with seven ounces of lead. Also, Keith said ruefully that he had his rod broken when a diving seagull had its wings caught in his line as he cast out into the stormy surf. (Dick Landin photo)

Women Play "mutt & Jeff" Tournament

Sandpiper Bay's Saints Course was the site of the Port St. Lucie Women's Golf Association's Wednesday, Dec. 10 "Mutt & Jeff" Tournament.

Taking the A Flight" was Marge West. Other flight winners were: Hazel Kennedy, first flight; Barbara Briese, second flight; Anne Bozarth, third flight and Anne Fisher, fourth flight.

Chip-ins were made by Mildred Hotte, Dora Kelso, Louise Kennedy, Dorothy Link and Marge Rowland. Helen Conklin scored a birdie.

The customs of Christmas

BY ALLEN F. BREWER

When the Maji on that midnight clear brought gifts to affirm their believing,
They set the stage for the future, - custom of CHRISTMAS GIVING.

Early Christians in Rome, Decorated with HOLLY,
To match saturnalia, - the time to be jolly.
MISTLETOE became popular when the Druids at Stonehenge gave its healing power veneration,
In our age it is favored because it suggests osculation.

The WASSAIL BOWL, a festive drink, dates back to a "Merrie England" spree,
When bird-watchers, (?) for a lark, found a partridge in a pear tree.

The CHRISTMAS TREE started in Germany, 'tis said,
It came over to England when Victoria and Albert were wed.

The YULE LOG was dragged in to burn on the hearth,
Tradition was, it banned evils, by Christmas good-will on earth.

German children HUNG STOCKINGS, by the hearthstone, 'tis said,
For St. Nicholas to fill, after they'd gone to bed.

He CAME DOWN THE CHIMNEY like the Domesticity Goddess,
Through the smoke, to encourage good fortune and progress.

Today, with due piety, it's called CHRISTMAS TIME,
With honor and love for the child of Bethlehem enshrined.

Knitting course is offered

An "Advanced Knitting" class that offers to teach the student howto turn "goals" into "character", will be offered by the Jensen Beach Community Education Center on Thursday mornings from 9 am. noon, beginning January 22 at the Jensen Lanes Community Room.

Teaching the class will be Gladys Burnett who operated a knitting supply store and offered instruction in Jensen Beach for a number of years prior to her recent retirement from the business.

Advance registration and further information is available by calling Jay Jarrett, 334-1263 weekdays starting Jan. 5. A $5 registration fee is charged for the course.

Mary Ann Brown to speak at women's aglow

The evening banquet of Stuart Women's Aglow Fellowship will be on Saturday, January 3, 1981, at the Holiday Inn Oceanside, at 6:00 p.m. Men and women are invited.

Special guest speaker will be Mary Ann Brown of Henderson, Texas. Since 1972, Mrs. Brown has been teaching and sharing in retreats, churches, home study groups, Full Gospel and Aglow meetings throughout the U. S. and overseas. She was licensed to the ministry of the Gospel of Jesus by a Southern Baptist Church in Dallas, Texas, in 1971, and in 1980, she and her husband, Buddy, were ordained as ministers by a nondenominational church in Amarillo. They have experienced the power and reality of God when their daughter was healed of cystic fibrosis, and since then have been sharing the good news that "He is alive".

For reservations call Joe Marie Parkhise at 334-2021 between 9:00 and 5:00 P.M. or the Christian Book Store at 283-4535.

Talent returns to arts and crafts festival

Area residents will recognize many familiar names at the 8th Annual Arts and Crafts Festival, January 9 and 10 at Stuart's Monterey Plaza. The past success of this annual showcase of national and local talent has resulted in the return of many exhibitors. The event provides the public with a tremendous opportunity to see and buy original artwork and many unique crafts.

Works in oil will be featured by such popular Treasure Coast artists as Friday Stevens, Jean Ahrens, Eleanor Caron, Elmer Toman, and Dorothy Ross.

Watercolors will be exhibited by Dorothy Hill-Rabowski, Ruth Hanley, Millie Briggs and Klaus Schuler.

Shirley Manley, Frank Lloyd and Ginger Wilson will display acrylics.

Those who enjoyed Anna-Lisa Ostland's weaving display last year will be happy to know she is returning and will be working at her loom in the plaza. This exhibit attracted particular interest from children, many of whom had never seen the weaving process in action.

A wide variety of other fascinating crafts will also be featured, including stained glass by Lloyd Linscott, porcelain birds by Ann Storm, sterling spoon and fork jewelry by William Pearl, pottery by Liz Girard and hand-painted china by Anna Ludlow.

In addition to these well-known area artists and craftsmen, the festival will also feature the talents of entrants from as far away as Ohio and Canada.

Exhibitors will be at the Plaza from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. both days. Make plans to attend now and enjoy one of the finest shows the Treasure Coast has to offer.

Tennis in Martin County

The Florida Tennis Association recently reported that Martin County has grown from two courts in 1970 to 170 in 1980, and from a handful of players to 5,000 now. The growth was attributed to Tom Falkenburg, tennis pro at Indian River Plantation. Falkenburg, writing exclusively for The Mirror on tennis, has prepared his story on the history of tennis in this area. It will be in three installments, beginning this week in The Mirror sports section.

"With a budget the size DOT has to operate on, $30,000 can certainly be found for this project," Nergard told the DOT.

The St. Lucie County Commissioners have made improvements to the intersection in anticipation of the signal.

Nergard's protest did not fall on deaf ears and a letter from DOT's Rick Chesser, district traffic operations engineer said a request for "authorization to advertise" had been resubmitted to the DOT central office.

Chesser said he expects approval within days from Tallahassee and will then advertise for bids during the next few weeks, with bid openings in mid-January.

"Upon opening the bids, we will then request approval to award the contract and anticipate issuing a notice to proceed by early February, 1981," said Chesser.

Parvo-virus is a deadly dog killer

BY SUSAN BURGESS

Parvo virus, a deadly killer of dogs, is here to stay. The canine virus has reached epidemic proportions in some parts of the United States.

According to Dr. Harvey Rubin, director of the Kissimmee Diagnostic Laboratory, 21 cases of the virus have been confirmed in this area since July.

The virus is nearly impossible to kill, according to Dr. Stanley Wampler of the Jensen Beach Animal Hospital. "We've come to the realization that this virus is here to stay," Wampler's best advice is to have your dog vaccinated against it, particularly if he is going to be around other dogs, will be traveling, or is on the show circuit. Persons planning to kennel their dogs during their vacation are also advised to consider the shots. They should be given at least one week before the dog goes to the kennel.

The first year, the dog must have two shots, two to four weeks apart. Thereafter, once a year is sufficient for most dogs. However, those dogs who are routinely exposed to a lot of other dogs should probably have the vaccinations every six months.

Last spring, there was an extremely serious outbreak in the Miami to North Palm Beach region, which lasted from April until July. In Jensen Beach, there were quite a few cases this summer. Four or five more cases were reported in October, and now Dr. Wampler says he sees about one or two cases of parvo a month.

"It mostly strikes very young puppies, or older dogs," he said. It is almost impossible to save the pups. They die of myocarditis, or infection of the heart muscle, in 24 hours. The older dogs can be saved, but only if they are brought to a veterinarian immediately. They have about 48 hours before death by dehydration and vomiting. However, the dogs should be taken to the vet within the first 24 hours because the chance for saving them decreases rapidly as the hours go on.

There are no readily visible symptoms in puppies. Older dogs appear depressed, sometimes refuse food, and usually show either a bloody diarrhea or bloody vomit. "Blood in the stool can also come from hookworms or coccidiosis," Dr. Wampler said, "but the best advice is, if in doubt, take your dog to your vet immediately." Other veterinarians have said that most people wait until it is too late.

The virus is transmitted through saliva and feces. People can bring it home to their dogs on their shoes. "The best way to try to kill it is with one cup of Clorox diluted in one gallon of water," Wampler said. Some kennels require visitors to dip the soles of their shoes in a Clorox solution.

This particular strain of parvo virus only attacks dogs. There are other strains which attack cats and pigs, but are not fatal. The vaccine currently in use is actually a killed feline parvo virus, but it is a stronger version than that used to protect cats. Dr. Wampler said there has also been some success with a modified live virus vaccine usually used for feline distemper.

Time nears for bridge height recommendations

The recommendation of R. T. Carpenter of the Department of Administrative Hearings in Tallahassee regarding the height of a bridge across the C-24 Canal in Port St. Lucie is expected to be forwarded to Department of Environmental Regulation Secretary Jacob D. Vare early next month.

The bridge, with a 17-foot vertical clearance, is proposed to span the canal approximately one mile east of the existing turnpike bridge and about one half mile west of where the C24 and the North Fork of the St. Lucie River meet.

General Development (GDC) requested a permit for the bridge and the DER was ready to approve the permit when a petition objecting to the 17 foot height was filed by property owners residing along the canal west of the turnpike bridge.

During a lengthy hearing that resulted from the petition, the homeowners maintained that the 17 foot vertical clearance would restrict larger boats and requested a higher clearance be required by the DER.

According to Joe Fleming, attorney for GDC, the site of the bridge is not at issue, only the height.

"While I am an advocate, and do not agree with the petitioners reasoning, it is fortunate that state law gives these people the right to be heard," said Fleming.

"Experts have testified that up to a 36 foot boat can get under a 17 foot clearance," explained Fleming.

GDC's Preston Hix, assistant general manager of Port St. Lucie, said that a survey of the local Sants and Sinners Yacht Club showed that of the 35 boats owned by club members, only five exceeded 36 feet in length.

Fleming also pointed out that GDC also owns land west of the turnpike bridge and would not propose a bridge that would in anyway devalue the property.

All post hearing briefs to be filed by the parties involved must be in Carpenter's possession by today.

Following receipt of the hearing officers recommendations the secretary must allow 10 days for the filing of exceptions to the recommended order.

Property owners residing in Viking's Landing, who will have a clear view of the bridge from their yards, have said they will file an exception should a 25 foot vertical height be recommended.

The great housing hunt

The great housing hunt is a little-recognized phenomenon which goes on in resort areas all over the United States at various times of year. Up north it begins in the spring; down south it starts in late fall or early winter.

My husband, Don, and I moved down to the Jensen Beach area in late November. We were already familiar with the great hunt, but as landlords, not as prospective tenants.

Ours was a famed resort area in northern New York State. Like most of the residents there, we had rental cabins for summer tourists. After a few years, tired of the weekly tourist trade, we began to rent to seasonal employees instead.

Each spring, the college students would come in droves seeking housing and employment for the summer. For a long time they just had to come and find their own way. It wasn't easy for these kids because most were college students with little money and even less idea of how to go about looking for jobs and housing at the same time. As a result, many young people ended up sleeping in the woods or turning to the police or churches for food and shelter until they could get settled somewhere.

About 10 years ago one of the churches, recognizing that there was a genuine problem, opened a drop-in center called "Utopia," where counselors assisted the youth in their search. If the young people were stranded, they could sleep there, get loans or outright gifts of money for food, uniforms or other necessities were common.

Eventually, Utopia became the Housing Center, which gathered listings of housing available for seasonal people. The state Job Service moved an office into town to handle the huge number of job listings during the summer. Staffed by people with incredible memories, a student could return to the office the following summer and find he was not only remembered, but greeted warmly. It took away the strangeness, and the unsettling feeling of not knowing what to do next.

During our years as landlords to the young people, Don and I rented hundreds of them. Although we had no formal connection with the Housing Center or Job Service, we found ourselves handing out advice and answering questions by the hour. One memorable day last spring I had shown a cabin and, as the girl was leaving, the tailpipe on her car fell apart. The next thing I knew, I was under the car wiring the thing back together so she could get to a garage.

We arrived here in late November just after dark. Cousin Jack had given us excellent directions to his trailer at D & M Mobile Park except for one thing. On the little map he drew, the park was on the wrong side of the road. We drove down Port St. Lucie Boulevard, crossed U. S. 1 unknowingly passed the park and kept going. The dirt road got narrower and bumpier and pitch black. Then we began to see street signs on the corners of dirt lanes that went nowhere.

With nearly treadless tires and an overloaded station wagon, we were sure we'd blow a tire or end up sinking in a swamp someplace. I had mental pictures of hideous snakes and alligators lying in wait for us in some bottomless ditch.

Finally, we managed to turn around, prepared to head for a motel if we couldn't find the park. Just before we reached Route 1, we swung into a driveway to check it out. We found a tiny sign which announced that we had reached the end of an 1,800-mile journey: D & M Mobile Park.

Using the trailer as a base, we set out on the great housing hunt. Nothing in our price range turned up. Jack and Lin were due for their two-week vacation before Christmas and I began to get very worried. "Well," said my husband, "You'd better get a job too."

Since my last job was managing editor of a weekly newspaper, I immediately figured I'd better start hunting for work on a weekly. I called The Mirror...and was welcomed with open arms. I wasn't there 10 minutes before I was asking everyone is right if they could help in the great housing hunt. People I didn't even know offered to help look.

Don and I went to the staff Christmas party held by Dick and Salli on Thursday. I had spent the day packing, not knowing where we were going to move on Sunday. We were relaxing, enjoying some conversation and looking out at the spectacular view when Peggy Meissner came over and told us to come meet Charlie and Mary Fracapane.

It seems that Dick Lundin, Peg and the Fracapanes had gotten their heads together over our housing plight. The next thing we knew, the Fracapanes were offering to open their home to us for two weeks while Jack and Lin were their trailer. "You can have your own bedroom, your own bathroom and the den, plus the use of the kitchen," Mary was saying.

We accepted with gratitude. Most prices had been far beyond our reach, and we had begun to get pretty upset.

Now, thanks to Charlie and Mary, we'll be able to spend our two weeks with them and return to the trailer at the end of January when the new tenants arrive. In the meantime, the great housing hunt can continue.

Getting ready for Christmas

It happens every year. I just can't help it. I can't seem to get ready for Christmas. I did more work setting up the poker party that I did for Christmas.

Everyone I saw told me that the presents were bought, they were wrapped, the cards were sent, and all...back in November.

"I can't stand the rush," they would tell me.

I must admit that I felt guilty planning the "Try Jensen Beach First" campaign in October. Christmas is in December. And, when we put together the choirs singing on the steps of First Federal early in December, I still felt guilty.

Now, two days before Christmas, I still feel guilty...for not preparing in advance for the big day.

As usual, I'll head out tomorrow in panic.

There is no chance that I'll be able to do any shopping today. It's Tuesday, and the paper is put to bed, and we work late into the night, and I'll be answering phones, writing news, (late writing my column, too), making up pages, taking photos, reading and editing copy, dumping the garbage cans in the Dumpster, washing dishes, and other such important jobs that every weekly editor does.

So, it is left for tomorrow.

I can't stand organized people.

Last June, Salli asked me how I liked her brother Tom's present that she had made by hand. In September, she started on five macrame Christmas trees. She finished them around Thanksgiving. There was one for the kids, one for her parents, one for us, one for the office and one for Jensen Travel.

Her dad's present is a macrame cocktail table.

It seems I spent a lifetime watching her twist those strands of yarn around and tie knots that descended from the ceiling of the apartment in three different places. I even got tired watching her. Every once in awhile I would help by moving one tree from one place to another.

For Christmas I decided to start wearing socks again. That was my resolution about a month ago. I went into a shop and bought twelve pairs of socks, endeavoring to match the color of clothes I have.

"My, you certainly have a bunch of friends you're buying presents for," the salesman said, thinking I should be giving at least shirts for gifts.

"They're for me," I snapped.

Do you know what socks cost these days? A buck-ninety five, and that's for the cheap ones. A buck-ninety five. Imagine. With tax, that's over two bucks for socks. Robbery.

I had to pick up the proof of the Jensen Guide from Southeastern Monday, and found myself wending (or crawling) my way out East Ocean Boulevard. Murder. We were bumper to bumper from Confusion Corner to the turnoff at Sewall's Point.

Imagine what the traffic will be like during the rush of the season. Imagine what it will be like tomorrow when I go Christmas shopping.

I'll make up my list in the morning, not today. It's too busy a day today. Today is Dick Lundin's birthday. He is 69, and looks 60. No one should have a birthday on Tuesday. There's just too much to do.

Yes, I'll make up my Christmas list tomorrow and go out and get all the presents and deliver them to everyone, just like Santa, or like Scarlett O'Hara

I'll do it tomorrow.

Peace on earth through strength

BY CONGRESSMAN
SKIP BAFALIS

"Peace on Earth to men of good will."

That 2,000 year old prayer for mankind is no closer to reality than when it was first uttered.

As the holiday season comes upon us once again, we have a war in the Middle East, the threat of war surrounding Poland, and the grim spectre of Americans still held hostage by a tyrannical religious despot.

There are Russian troops fighting in Afghanistan, Cuban troops serving as occupation forces in Africa, and war-created starvation in the Far East.

No, we are no closer to realizing that eternal dream than we were when Roman Legions occupied Jerusalem so many years ago.

In fact, we may even be further from it because of the advances in military power through the centuries.

But that shouldn't stop us from seeking the goal, from aspiring for peace and freedom for all mankind.

The first step, unfortunately, in working toward peace is realizing that all men are not men of good will.

There are those in power in the Kremlin who want not peace, but world subjugation.

There are those in power in the Middle East who want only to spread hate; hatred of all whose religious beliefs are different or who refuse to accept their dogma.

To survive in such an unsettled world, peaceful nations must be strong, strong enough to protect themselves no matter who the adversary or where he seeks to strike.

And, if our allies question our ability and our resolve, what must our potential adversaries think? How does it affect their longrange planning, their determination to spread either hate or world domination?

It is all too apparent from events of the past year or so that our declining strength has lead our adversaries to take steps they once wouldn't have dared.

Would Soviet troops have invaded Afghanistan if the United States were still the premier military power? Would the Poles feel so threatened if they thought there was a chance of help from the Western Alliance?

Would the Ayatolla have dared to invade our Teheran Embassy and hold our personnel captive?

No one can be sure, of course, but chances are these events wouldn't have occurred if our adversaries were as certain of our strength as they once were.

But, how can they be certain of our strength when we aren't - when secret Pentagon documents raise extremely serious doubts about the capability of our supposedly most combat-ready units to actually stand up to the Soviet Union and its Warsaw Pact allies?

It's time to restore our military forces to their former position of superiority. For that, and only that, will help insure what is always mankind's greatest dream - particularly at this time of year - world peace.

Ten Years ago in The Mirror

A Christmas feature story told of "people who make Christmas happier for others." Those who work on Christmas day included Jack Cammack, life guard, Bill Chen, chef, Kenny Barthosh, golf, Rev. Don Johnson, pastor, Jack Roberts, bartender, and Dr. Richard Penick.

Only 43 persons went to the polls in Ocean Breeze Park, and they reelected Harry Hoke mayor.

Support for a shopping center to be located on Commercial Street between the FEC tracks and Skyline Drive was evenly divided between pro and con at a public hearing.

Commissioner Frank Wacha announced that a public hearing on solutions to traffic problems on Commercial Street would be held, featuring Arnold Ramos, district engineer of the Florida DOT.

Jensen Beach Bank officials opened their new drive-in facility. At the opening were E. C. Wareheim, chairman of the board, Ron Mitchell, president, and all directors of the bank.

Mark Sawusch received his Eagle scout badge in ceremonies at First Federal's Hoke Hall. He was pictured with his proud parents.

TO THE EDITOR:

I want to avoid adding to the "canned milk" confusion, but as a retired science teacher I am compelled to set the record straight.

Although I missed your original publication of the recipe, I recognize it as the original promoted by Eagle Brand some 40 years ago.

Rest assured, it is perfectly safe to heat an unopened can of condensed milk as long as it is immersed in boiling water.

Water boils at 212 degrees f. (100 degrees c.) Condensed milk boils at a somewhat higher temperature. Condensed milk immersed in boiling water will gradually carmelize, but it will not boil to create pressure within the can. Be sure to allow the can to cool before opening.

Your well intentioned advice in Dec. 17th's edition refers to heating closed cans over a burner or flame. I once visited a cabin in which a former occupant had heated a closed can of beans in the fireplace. The explosion had blown beams throughout the whole place - walls - ceiling - floor - everywhere. Could be extremely dangerous.

Sincerely,
Peter Van Ben

Salvation Army aids needy

Salvation Army preparations for assuring needy people of the community a happy Christmas are in full swing and the prospects are very encouraging, according to Lieut. Charles J. Noel, commanding officer of the St. Lucie-Martin County unit.

"In fact, Army headquarters at Orange avenue and Seventh street have taken on the appearance of Santa's headquarters," Lieut. Noel observed.

Assembled there are several truckloads of canned foods collected through the schools, plus a large and assorted collection of toys for youngsters and various other articles.

Distribution of the canned goods and toys is scheduled for Monday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., for parents who have made application for same.

Meanwhile, the Salvation Army's traditional kettle campaign is in full swing, with some 16 or 17 kettles being manned at strategic places in Port St. Lucie and Stuart. An estimated $7,000 to $8,000 has already been contributed by well wishers, and collection is expected to pick up as Christmas eve, the final day of collection nears.

Additional bellringers can be used, Lieut. Noel said. Organizations or individuals willing to help out with this project for a few hours should telephone S.A. headquarters, phone 464-4648, for assignment.

The annual mail appeal is also under way and likewise is meeting with a good response, the lieutenant said. It likewise, will pack up as Christmas nears. Checks may be sent to P. O. Box 3131, Fort Pierce.

Lieut. Noel stressed that all funds and goods that may be left over from the cash and food collections will be used to carry on Salvation Army work for the balance of the year as long as they are available.

"These contributions," he said, form a most important reserve to tide us over the lean months, and we would have a difficult time in carrying on our work for the community if they were not available. we appreciate beyond expression the generosity of the communities that we serve. Without such generosity, our services to the needy would of necessity be quite limited."

Meanwhile, as [illegible] in the earth, the Army's regular cans load shows a monthly increase. Nearly 3,000 meals were served during November alone, including Thanksgiving meals; and some sort of assistance was extended to 49 in 41 families.

All of this, of course, was in addition to the regular religious, recreational and other activities of the Army.

At Thursday's monthly meeting of the S. A. Advisory board, Robert Bertha, 318 Azalea Ave., and William C. Meade, 2033 St. Lucie Blvd., were elected board members to fill existing vacancies.

The board's next meeting, it was announced, will be on January 15.

...hat time of the year again — ...ble hassle of the holiday season ... up are a flurry of activities ...ng entertaining at home, ...for gifts and holiday parties. ...erage person spends more time ...feet during these few weeks ...y other time all year. This ...increase in activity tends to ...the slightest existing foot ... This may also, in itself, ...ough added trauma to initiate ...knee and low back pain, even ...person with normal feet, thus ...tension. When your feet hurt, ...rt all over.

...f people suffer from the effects ...imbalance. This is a condition in which the foot structures are not in a proper position to support the body weight. Poor body posture, weak ankles, limb length discrepancies, abnormalities in any of the foot bones or contracted toes may cause foot imbalance.

Foot imbalance and the related abnormal "wear and tear" as seen in joints of the feet may lead to arthritic changes with severely painful, red, warm and swollen joints. Other conditions seen may include the presence of so-called corns on the top of or between toes, calluses on the soles of feet and even ingrown toenails due to abnormal shoe pressure.

It is very important during these shopping days to wear properly fitted shoes. Feet should not be constricted or allowed to slide within a shoe.

High heeled shoes cause excessive weight to be thrown on the ball of the foot, or the forefoot, which becomes irritated quickly. With the constant contact on a hard walking surface, a thin sole offers no shock absorption and can aid callous build up. A good shoe can be a great aid to foot and callous problems, but once functional damage has been done, shoes alone will not correct the problem.

Wearing support hose or stockings is also a great aid in relieving leg stress.

If corns and calluses are already present, don't cut them yourself. The podiatrist sees the disabling results of "bathroom surgery" each day in his office, many times with infection resulting. What should you do? Visit a podiatrist.

Your foot doctor is best qualified to furnish immediate relief. By careful diagnosis, he will discover the cause of your trouble and he is best qualified to suggest measures to correct your condition. Don't neglect your feet now. You don't want to spoil your celebrations before they ever begin.

FRÖHLICHE WEIHNACHTEN—Members of the German American Club got into the Christmas spirit Saturday evening at their annual Yule dinner in the Port St. Lucie Community Center. Sharing in the festivities were: from left, Walter Krauss and chairwomen Peggy Krauss of Jensen Beach; Amy Freifag and club president Joseph Freifag of Jensen Beach; Lydia Goenner of Port St. Lucie; and Judy Winkler and Rev. W. H. Winkler of Port St. Lucie.

German American Club Hosts Gala

The public is invited to enjoy their New Year's Eve festivities close to home as the German - American Club will host a dance at the Port St. Lucie Community Center.

Party favors, snacks, ice, set-ups and dancing to the music of the "One Man Band" is included in the $10 per person ticket price. The evening starts at 8 p.m. ending at 1 a.m.

Society to feature four evenings

"Great Evenings of Music," a series of four concerts by noted entertainers, will begin in January and continue throughout the winter season, sponsored by the Performing Arts Society of Stuart, there will be one concert in January, one in February and two in March at First United Methodist Church on Colorado Avenue, in Stuart.

Duo pianists and twin brothers Jeffry and Ronald Marlowe will perform on two seven-foot Baldwin grand pianos at 8 p.m. Friday, January 9. Leaders of the young generation of duo-pianists, the brothers have consistently won top press acclaim. They have appeared with numerous orchestras and featured on top-rated television programs.

American violinist Guy Lumia will present a highly-polished musical evening at 8 p.m. Friday, February 6. A frequent soloist with major orchestras, as well as in recital, he has performed throughout the United States, Mexico, Canada and in the major cities of Europe. A former Fullbright scholar, he studied with Nadia Boulanger and Menuhin.

David Perry is a tenor guitarist lutenist. His extraordinary talents have brought him acclaim throughout the musical world. Perry will appear as a guest of the performing arts society at 8 p.m. Friday, March 6. Because of his mastery of the voice, the lute and the classical guitar, he is able to perform works usually requiring the collaboration of a duo. He has performed frequently at prestigious festivals, concerts and recitals.

On Friday, March 27 at 8 p.m., the New England Conservatory Chorus will bring the best of their music to Stuart. The chorus has appeared annually with the Boston Symphony Orchestra since 1951, and has made 17 recordings with the orchestra. They have performed under the baton of many famous and respected conductors, including Seiji Ozawa, Colin Davis, Leonard Bernstein, Aaron Copland and Robert Shaw.

Persons who would like to purchase season tickets will have their names printed in the program. The tax-deductible tickets are $20 for adults, $12 for youths aged 18 and under, and $50 for families. Checks may be mailed to the Performing Arts Society of Stuart, Inc. POB 539, Stuart 33494.

Sportive sailfish Christmas gift for offshore anglers

BY DICK LUNDIN

FISHING IN GENERAL isn't any thing to write home about around here these blustery December days but the sailfish have arrived on schedule and are out there off the St. Lucie Inlet accommodating trollers offering gifts of ballyhoo or deboned mullet to the hungry spindlebeaks Inshore, fishing is really slow. The surf is dirty and fishing there for blues and whiting has hit the skids the past few days. The Indian River is dirty too, and bottom and trout fishing is anywhere from slow to dead slow.

The siege of bad weather hasn't helped any, but fortunately most fishermen have been concentrating on getting ready for Christmas and not too many have been wetting a line of late. Area tackle shops have been doing a land office business selling fishing tackle to holiday gift givers, but haven't been selling much live bait as a consequence.

One caveat! All that will be history come Friday morning. If the day dawns fair and it isn't too cold, look for just about every fisherman in the area to be out making up for lost time. It could be a good time to just rest up from Christmas, unless you don't mind fishing in a crowd.

FRESHWATER FISHING is improving and Tommy Tindell from Big Bass Lodge on SR 721 about 20 miles west of the Kissimmee River on the north shore of the big lake had this to report Tuesday morning: "Fishing for largemouth bass with live shiners is good now. They're catching them mostly along the North Shore of the lake and on the inside of the reef. Speck fishing's still a little slow but some folks fishing in the Harney Pond area yesterday came in with a nice string of good sized specks that they caught on live minnows."

FROM THE LADY STUART, party boat going half days from the Sailfish Marina just east of Port Salerno and A1A below Stuart, Capt Phil Sherman: "We're taking a Christmas break today and won't be going out Christmas Day, but the offshore bottom fishing's been really super around Six Mile and on the inshore reefs. We've been just killing the mutton, yellow tail and Lane snappers and an occasional true red snapper too. We've got 15 foot seas in the inlet this morning (Tuesday) and it's really hazardous there. Friday, we expect a full boat load."

TOM STEWART, from the Snook Nook in Jensen: "Fishing generally is poor right now, Dick. The surf is dirty and there's nothing much in it but catfish. The blues are hit and miss and there are few whiting being caught. In the river, it's the same story. The river's plain dirty and only a few seatrout are being caught now. Not too many are fishing. Most are shopping. Our bait sales are way down. Bridge fishing is slow but over at the Evans Crary (10 cents) and Ernest Lyons (25 cents) Bridges they are catching some big blues on cut bait. I wish I could give you a better report, Dick, but Merry Christmas anyway."

Fishing seminar series repeated

The Martin County Anglers Club will expand its lecture series, "Local Fish, Catch 'n' Cook," to seven sessions when it conducts the popular seminar for the third time starting January 20 at the Environmental Studies Center.

A half-dozen local expert fishermen will share their secrets to success in both fresh and salt water fishing in the series sponsored by the Jensen Beach Community Education Center.

Pre registration is required for the series, scheduled for 7:30 pm on six consecutive Tuesday evenings as well as one on-site demonstration of surf fishing for bluefish to be held on Saturday, Jan 31. Registration can be made by calling Jay Jarrett at 334-1263. A $5 registration fee is charged.

Subject to be covered in the series include Jan 20 "Bridge Fishing" with Ron Ellis. Jan 27 "Surf Fishing for Blues" by Tom Battaglia. Jan 31, on-site demonstration by Battaglia. Feb 3 "Bass Fishing in the Savannas" with Dr. Walter Stokes. Feb 10 "Fishing the Indian River for Trout" with Robert Hemfberger. Feb 17 "Off-shore Angling" with Lou Smitten. A wrap-up session will be held on Feb. 24 in which basic rigging will be covered along with cooking and smoking the catch maintaining gear in good working order and other things.

Racquet Club to host tournament

The Racquet Club at Martin Downs will host a Celebrity Pro-Am Tennis Tournament Saturday, Jan. 31, 1981, for the benefit of the Association for Retarded Citizens.

All boys between the ages of 10 and 18 wishing to participate in this tournament as ball boys, must sign up in person at the Racquet Club at Martin Downs on Saturday, Jan. 10, between 1 and 4 p.m. (see Bob Grossman or Mike Baldwin).

Yoga for health course offered

A 10 week yoga class will be offered for adults who are interested in improving their health and adding a new dimension to their lives.

Students will learn the pranayama breathing technique, asanas which are static positions will concentrating, and sava sana, the technique of learning how to relax all organs of the body. Proper breathing and developing the ability to relax will be emphasized.

This popular class taught by Pat Thuman will begin at 7:30 pm on Wednesday January 7 at the Stuart Community Education Center. Interested students may enroll by paying the $5 registration fee at the first class meeting.

The center is located at 525 Georgia Avenue on the Stuart Middle School campus. For more information call Dick Sievinen at 287-4111 between 6 - 9 pm Monday - Thursday.

Sandpiper Bay woman's golf

The Sandpiper Bay Woman's Golf Association continued their 18-hole match play President's Cup tournament this week on the Saints golf course with Janse Hoffman, Doris Hickman, Loriane Swift and Fran Heiden advancing to the Semi-final round.

Number of 4's or Better in the daily play produced the following winners in flights.

First Flight: Jane Wergan, Kay Boaz, Larry Martiell, and Edythe Vertanes.

Second Flight: Marge Kennedy, Millie Canestine, Nancy Horsley, and Alberta Crafoot.

Third Flight: Bea Jahn, Eran Haskins, Janse Hoffman and Rose Pedersen.

Fourth Flight: Sylva Barnwell, Dot Glenny, Max Rutherford, and Irene Heimer.

Fifth Flight: Doris Hickman, Doris Muller, Lil O'Bierne, and Louise Johnston.

Sixth Flight: Betty McDonnell, Edris Kessler, Terry Skinker and Ginna Leyda.

The Nook's log: Bill Maley, 7 blues, 4 trout, Oceana condo surf; Walter Hall, 4 blues, Bathtub area just north of the St. Lucie Inlet, 4 crocs; Charlie Neff 6 blues and 6 jack crevalles, 4 crocs, Oceana condo; the Frank Silvestri's, 8 blues, etc. mackerel, near the old Sheraton Inn; Bob Hames and Ray Dittel, 3 trout and 4 channel bass, live shrimp St. Mud Creek; Clarence Fraser, an 8-9 snook, mirrolure, N. Fork of St. Lucie River at the C 24 canal; Ed Ahrens, 7 trout, 7M22S mirrolure, west shore near Walton Road; Lamar Lewis, a keeper snook on a plug on the St. Lucie River.

FROM THE MANATEE BAIT AND TACKLE . Ed Donaldson: "There are sailfish all over out there, Dick. Trollers are making three to five hookups every day now. Capt. Ed Haley of the Sugar Bull had 3 sailfish mounts on Friday. Capt. Jim Frost on Follow the Sun had one mounted and two released. Capt Kidd Crawford of the Lora K had one and 5 dolphin. King mackerel to 30-4 (30 lbs.) are fairly plentiful from 120 to 300 ft. of water off the St. Lucie Inlet. Everyone's getting sails, mostly in the 85-50 pound class. They're trolling ballyhoo, mullet strips or deboned mullet."

CHUCK SHEPHERD from the Bait Box in Jensen: "The weather's been bad and we have little to report this week, Dick. Happy holidays though. They have brought in a few blues and some small weakfish this week. That's about all. Some nice pompano have been caught off the Evans Crary this week by anglers using nylure jigs. There are a few seatrout around. The blues must be farther out now. The commercial netters are getting there but there aren't too many in the surf. There are still a lot of Spanish mackerel offshore hitting Clarkspoons. Steve Varno and his dad caught some but there the other day."

FROM JENSEN BAIT AND TACKLE Joe Varno: "There're some blues in the surf. It's been slow but it was nice to catch some fish Sunday instead of putting a lot of just fish in the boat." Dave's log: Ernie Hauth, 2 trout to 8-0, live shrimp east shore of the Indian River across from the Holiday Inn; Nick Malfi and Doug Hall, a 4-0 channel bass incident, some sheepshead to 2-0, 3 trout to 2-4 and a string of mangrove snappers, live shrimp, near the Jensen Causeway on the east shore. Joe Varno and buddy(Glenn, 6 trout to 3-4, live shrimp, grass flats behind Jensen Bait and Tackle. Wayne Kendall, 1 blues to 5-0, cut mackerel Crossroads below Marker 19.

MURIEL WEIDEMAN from the D & M Bait and Tackle Shop at the south end of the Roosevelt Bridge on U.S. 1: "Bridge fishing isn't doing a thing, Dick. It's been very quiet. There were some drum caught Sunday but nothing since. There are blues in the surf at the House of Refuge and also some at the Park N Fish area off A1A below the Jensen Causeway. I think the fishermen are getting ready for Christmas. We're mostly selling tackle and not too much bait."

MERRY CHRISTMAS to all and to all some better fishing soon!

Bocchino resigns

Vincent Bocchino is retiring from his job as recreation director of Langford Park in Jensen Beach. Citing a growing construction business, Bocchino said there is just "too much pressure" to continue wearing both hats.

The park will carry on just fine," Bocchino said. "The volunteers, just too numerous to mention will continue to help out. They deserve the credit for what has been done over there. Bocchino did add that he would like to see the gym project completed at the park.

The park was a family affair for the Bocchinos. His wife and children all helped with the various projects. Now his son, Mike, would like to take over where his father left off.

County Commissioner Alex Haynes has confirmed that officials are now in the process of negotiating with Mike Bocchino. Echoing Bocchino's feelings, Haynes also said the park should continue on as it has in the past. The job of recreation director probably will not be full time, he added.

Former County Commissioner Frank Wacha had only good to say about the work Vince Bocchino has done.

"He did a tremendous job. He brought the park from one field to three, plus the football-soccer field. He supervised the construction of the field house, the layout and format of the playgrounds, tennis and racquetball courts, and supervised the maintenance of all of it."

It has been the best recreation program in the county," Wacha stressed. "The whole family was involved. The three boys grew up helping to maintain the park, and Vince's wife Rosemary was the perfect helpmate. And there was a lot of dedicated volunteer help."

One of the ball fields at Langford Park is named for Bocchino, who not only ran the operations of the park but also promoted the many donations of materials and labor for the various projects.

He and Wacha were the keys to the construction of the park field house which was built with all donated labor and materials.

Elks basketball winners

The finals of Stuart Jensen Elk's local "Hoop Shoot" basketball free throw contest were held Thursday evening, December 11 at the Martin County High School Gymnasium.

Local contest winners in their age groups were as follows: Girls: Jackie Donaldson, Port Salerno Elementary School; LaRonda Abrams, Murray Middle School and Dorothy Coleman, Indiantown Middle School. The winning boys were John Topolka, Hobe Sound Elementary School, Mike Wallen, Stuart Middle School, Patrick Brogan, St. Joseph's School.

These winners went to Palm Beach Junior College on Saturday, December for the Florida Southeast District Contest. First place was won by Jackie, LaRonda and Dorothy. They will represent Stuart Jensen and the Southeast District in the state finals at New Port Richey, January 24, 1981.

In the remaining three divisions Mike and John placed second and Patrick Brogan was third in his division. The contestants were excellent representatives of the lodge and this means that Stuart Jensen will have three of the six Southeast District's places in the Florida State Finals.

Flotilla elects PSL Couple

CWO William O'Neil USCG, commanding officer of the Fort Pierce Coast Guard Auxiliary recently installed Edward A. Christophers and Rebecca N. Christophers, of Port St. Lucie, as commander and vice commander of Flotilla 58, U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary.

The Christophers, elected by the Flotilla, will be in command of the Fort Pierce Coast Guard Auxiliary unit for the coming year.

Both officers have qualified as search and rescue operations duty officers, and as such assist the Coast Guard Station with a full watch in the operations center every Tuesday.

They have also qualified as boat crewman in the Coast Guard Coast Guard Auxiliary qualifications include seamanship, search and rescue, piloting, weather, administration, patrols and communications. Both officers successfully passed the elected officers administration course.

The Christophers joined the Coast Guard Auxiliary early in 1977 after sailing their boat from Lake Champlain in Vermont to Sandpiper Bay where they bought a home. He served as public education officer and Flotilla vice commander prior to his election as commander.

He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Maritime Academy and holds a current Masters License for Steam and Motor Vessels on any ocean, any tonnage.

Mrs. Christophers served as public relations officer, member training officer and materials officer for Division Five of the Auxiliary. She is a graduate of Elmira College and holds the rank of Advanced Pilot in the U.S. Power Squadron Aides.

Pinelake Village Christmas fairyland

Over 15 years of Christmas decorations have turned the Pinelake Village home of Don and Maybelle Ridgway into a Christmas fairyland.

Every conceivable nook and cranny of their home is packed with displays. In one corner, a wall is nearly covered with hand made Christmas stockings. On the opposite wall, miniatures are set in individual cases, each with a central theme. The livingroom tables all have their displays as well.

"I guess I live for Christmas," Mrs. Ridgway admitted.

"Although, I also decorate for all the other holidays, too."

She began her work (a pleasure, really,) when her children were born. "Each year, I just keep adding to it." Over 75 percent of the decorations and displays are hand made.

For all but two weeks of the year, the Christmas decorations are stored in large rubber trash cans and blanket boxes in the Ridgway's 8-by-10 foot shed. "Actually, they fill the entire shed," she said.

Don and Maybelle Ridgway retired to Pinelake Village three years ago from LaPlata, Maryland. "It is warm down here - it doesn't look like Christmas - so we make our own Christmas," she emphasized.

NOTICE

A public hearing will be conducted before the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie on January 13, 1981 at 9:00 A.M., City Hall, City Hall Plaza (Corner of Airoso and Port St. Lucie Boulevards) Port St. Lucie, Florida on the following proposed ordinance:

ORDINANCE 80 - 59

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING CHAPTER 5, ARTICLE X, PORT ST. LUCIE CITY CODE; PROVIDING FOR THE EXPANSION OF THE CONTRACTOR'S EXAMING BOARD; AMENDING THE PROCEDURES FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SUSPENSION OR REVOCATION OF CONTRACTOR'S COMPETENCY CARDS; PROVIDING AN EFFECTIVE DATE.

THE CITY OF PORT ST. LUCIE HERE BY ORDAINS:

Section 1. That Section 5-148(a) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(a) Created; members; terms. The City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie shall appoint a Contractor's Examining Board and such other examining boards as it deems necessary for the proper administration of this Article. The Contractor's Examining Board and any other board appointed under this Article shall consist of seven (7) members, and where feasible three (3) shall be licensed contractors, either general, builder or residential contractors, one (1) shall be a licensed electrician, one (1) shall be a licensed plumber, all of whom must possess a certificate of competency issued by the City of Port St. Lucie, one (1) shall be a licensed engineer or architect, and one (1) shall be a layman, not engaged in the construction industry, the City of Port St. Lucie Building Official and City Engineer shall serve as ex officio members and shall not vote.

The terms of office of each appointed member of the Board shall be for two (2) years, except for the first Board whose terms shall be as follows: Four (4) members shall be appointed for a two year term, and three (3) members shall be appointed for a one-year term. The City Council may remove any member of the Board without cause, notice or hearing. Members appointed to fill vacancies caused by death, resignation or removal shall serve during the unexpired term of their predecessors. The members of the Board, with the exception of the Building Official and City Engineer, shall serve without compensation.

Section 2. That Section 5-148(d) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(d) By-Laws; quorum. The Board shall have the authority to make such by-laws, rules and regulations governing its body as it may deem necessary; provided that the same do not conflict with other ordinances or regulations of the municipality of Port St. Lucie, or the Constitution or laws of the United States or the State of Florida. Four (4) members of the Board shall constitute a quorum at any meeting and a majority vote of those present shall be required to make any decision.

Section 3. That Section 5-149(c)(7) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(7) Receipt from the Building Official showing the fee of Fifty ($50.00) Dollars for the Certificate of Competency has been paid.

Section 4. That Section 5-150(b) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(b) Board to prescribe procedure. The Examining Board shall, by rule, prescribe the procedure for determining the qualifications of the applicant to show his degree of experience, his knowledge of building, safety, health and lien laws of the county, state and federal governments as may be applicable, and his knowledge of rudimentary administrative principles of the contracting business for which application is being made.

Section 5. That Section 5-150(c)(1) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(1) That the applicant, or if the applicant is a firm, then the qualified representative, has demonstrated to the Examining Board that he possesses the requisite skill, knowledge or experience necessary to engage in the type of contraction business for which the Certificate of Competency is sought.

Section 6. That Section 5-152 of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Subsequent to the Examining Board's determination that the applicant possesses the requisite skill, knowledge or experience and prior to the issuance of the Certificate of Competency, every party shall be required to furnish proof to the Board that the following requirements have been complied with:

(a) That the requirements of the "Workmen's Compensation Law" of the State of Florida have been met;

(b) That said party maintains in an insurance company authorized to do business in the State of Florida, public liability insurance within the minimum limits of not less than Twenty Five Thousand ($25,000.00) Dollars for one person and Fifty Thousand ($50,000.00) Dollars for more than one person in any one accident, and property damage insurance with a minimum limit of not less than Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars for any one accident;

(c) In the event of the cancellation of a policy or policies as required hereunder, the Certificate of Competency of such party shall be automatically revoked. Said Certificate of Competency may be reinstated when the Certificate holder has furnished proof to the appropriate board of compliance with the above insurance provisions.

Section 7. That Section 5-153(b) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(b) Negligence, incompetency or misconduct in the practice of contracting;

Section 8. That Section 5-153(f) of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

(f) Willful and deliberate disregard in violation of the regulations of the County of St. Lucie, or the City of Port St. Lucie, including but not limited to the building, electrical, plumbing and toning regulations of the County or the City, or the rules and regulations of the State Hotel Commission;

Section 9. That the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended by adding a Section to be numbered Section 5-153(i), which said Section reads as follows:

(i) Failing to actively supervise construction projects for which the contractor has applied for and obtained a building permit.

Section 10. That Section 5-154 of the Port St. Lucie City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5-154. Preferal of charges against certificate holder; hearing procedures; right of appeal.

(a) Any Person may prefer charges against the holder of a contractor's Certificate issued pursuant to the provisions of this Article. Such charges shall be made in writing and sworn to by the complainant and submitted to the secretary of the Board, who shall immediately notify the chairman of the receipt thereof. The secretary shall mail a copy of such charges to the accused within fifteen (15) days from the receipt thereof and shall serve notice upon the accused and upon all interested persons of the date fixed for hearing of such charges, before the Board. The accused shall have the right to appear personally and by counsel at any hearing and to produce witnesses and evidence in his defense. If, after hearing the evidence for and against the accused, the Board is of the opinion and shall determine that the charges against him are established by substantial and probative evidence, the Board may suspend or cancel the contractor's certificate. The Board may reissue a certificate to any contractor whose certificate has been revoked, provided four (4) or more members of the Board vote in favor of such reissuance.

(b) Any decision of the Board may be appealed to the City Council within fifteen (15) days of the date of the Board's decision, provided, however, that written notice of such appeal shall be filed with the City Clerk within such period of time. Such appeal may be taken either by the complainant or by the accused. The City Clerk shall notify all interested parties of the date fixed for hearing the appeal, which date shall be not less than ten (10) days after the date of the filing of the notice of appeal. The hearing on appeal shall be, to the extent possible, upon the record and shall not be a hearing de novo. The Council shall review the transcript of the hearing before the Examining Board, together with any tangible evidence considered by the Examining Board in arriving at its decision. The Council may also entertain any additional testimony or evidence offered by the accused or other interested party that was not brought out at the Examining Board hearing.

Section 11. This Ordinance shall become effective ten (10) days following its final adoption.

PASSED AND APPROVED ON FIRST READING by the City Council of the City of Port St. Lucie, Florida, this 23rd day of December, 1980.

Everglades class in plants and animals planned

A new course, "Plant and Animal Communities of the Florida Everglades," will be offered on Monday nights starting 7 pm, January 19 at the Environmental Studies Center. The class will be held weekly for 10 weeks and will include two weekend field trips.

Instructor for the course is Gary Pettit, biology department head of Fla Institute of Technology's Jensen Beach campus.

Through the media of lectures, films, color slides and actual on-site visits, the class will learn the history of the 'glades, the interrelationships of the plant and animal communities and the dependence of all on the seasonal flow of water through the system from Lake Okeechobee.

While the Everglades is known as river of grass, the system also includes numerous other communities such as slash pine woods, oak hammocks, cypress swamps, marle praries, mangrove forests and others. The animals indigenous to each are different as the plant communities which support them.

One field trip will take the class through the length of the Everglades National Park. A second trip is planned and may include a visit to the Loxahatchee Recreation Area and nearby water control structures.

Further information and registration is available by calling Jay Jarrett at 334-1263, office of the sponsoring Jensen Beach Community Education Center.

Ocean Breeze

Church Service every Christmas morning is a tradition of Ocean Breeze Park and long before dawn's early light, the PA system will awaken the folks, so they can be up and dressed for the 7:30 service in the club house.

Camera Club had a turnout of 75 or more at their meeting 7 p.m. Thursday, December 18 when Vice President 'Sparky' Garside took over in the absence of President Fran Gunn. Then, 'Sparky' put on his own slide show of Bermuda and Florida and his personal comments were vivid and interesting.

Secretary Freda Peterkin heads counting noses as folks come in the door, will also sign up new members, ask her. Last week she wrote up 5 new ones, and remember it's only $1.00 for as long as you live (in the park). Those few dollars here and there help defray some of the expenses and they are mounting (the $3.75 projection lamp now cost $10 to $20), so all you OBPers who enjoy the slide shows and are not members — how about it?

Shuffleers of Ocean Breeze Park did a little more winning. This time Guy Fusco came in third in the main event at the Traveler's Haven Mixed Doubles Open at Melbourne last week.

Indian River Standings are as follows: Ft. Pierce 35; ORP 31; Stuart 30; Spanish Lakes 29; Port St. Lucie 28; Vero Beach 22; Whispering Creek 16; Plantation Manor 13.

There is something doing every day at the shuffle courts and the schedule goes like this: Monday, Buckaroos, 9 a.m.; Monday, Head-A-Ners at 1:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Petticoaters, 9 a.m.; Wednesday, Beginner instruction, 9:30 a.m.; Thursday, League Games; Friday, Pot Luck, 6 p.m.; Saturday, Round Robin, 2 p.m.; Sunday, Round Robin, 2 p.m.

Golfers reported that turn out was smaller than usual as some had gone Connecticut mesomania and others had gone north to be with relatives over the holidays. But, they still had a nice turnout with Jim Brossart turning in the low score for the day and Sam Bono and Bill Kanack were the prize winners.

Bowlers haven't reported for a couple of weeks. If they have winners let us know, also if the league has folded, let us know also.

HOSPITAL

Doris Lihning, 1 Key Lime, is back home and counting the Saturdays until she can take the "Blue Bus" to a bench of rummage sales. Mildred Apler, 17 Indian River Dr. is back home and getting along quite well with the help of a companion friend from Pennsylvania.

Jerry Reagle, 14 NE Broad St. is expected home for Christmas and Jos Jensen is already home and sensing himself in the balmy Florida sunshine. Margret Johnson, cor. Pepper and Seventh, went to hospital by ambulance early Saturday morning.

Dorothy MacKenna, 21 SW 5th Ave., is out of the Boston Hospital and expected back here right after the first of the new year. Lillian Reid, after her husband Raymond died, has come back to her home at 6 Areca. Lillian is 97 years old, she'd be glad to see her old friends.

CARD WINNERS

Duplicate, Dec. 20: N-W, Mike Dryer and Ypi Wells, first; Dee and Iva Cross, second. E-W, Gladys Gilbert and Mildred Skinner, first; and Primus Mathey and Helen Rice, second.

Pinochle, Dec. 15: Pete Hillman 749; Bobbie Tucker 732; Frank Geserincks 714, Louis Dodge 692; Sam Bono 691.

Pinochle, Dec. 18: Gertrude Gartner 727; Ethel Willmot 727; Chip Hillman 718; Louis Dodge 717.

STATE SHUFFLEBOARD WINNERS Evelyn Hillman (l.) and Fran Runyon proudly display the Florida State Amateur Doubles plaque they won in the ladies division at Fort Pierce on December 5. The plaque will remain with the Ocean Breeze Club until next year, when it will be retired to the Hall of Fame. Their picture will also appear in "Shuffleboard Preview" magazine. Other Ocean Breeze club members who placed in the competition were Erma Fair and Evelyn Grover, third place; and Ines Bailets, fourth place.

Riverside Village

BY M. JOHNSON

Mary and Romeo Richer were in Lantana for the tree lighting and all th other goodies that go with tree lighting. While there they visited with their friends Warren and Mary Scarlet.

Mary and Gesry Vanderbeak were two of the passengers on the four buses that left Spanish Lakes for Fort Lauderdale to ride the Jungle Queen. They had a delightful day, wonderful food, wonderful weather and good friends. Elsie and Toby Deflegher to enjoy it with Mary didn't even mind getting to bed at 2:30 a.m. too much, now did you Mary? Sounded like it was worth it. Lots of fun.

Romeo had a birthday Sunday 30 and holding.

Betty Frantz and Vivian Walker won the cover all Tuesday night.

Merry Christmas and a Happy Safe New Year to all.

Charlie Rundlet has arrived back in the park. Watch out Golf courses here comes Charlie.

New residents on Second Street are Myrtle and Raymond Roberts of Tennessee. They had been living on First St. but Ruby and Rex are expected in soon so they had to move.

for the Party, featuring the Before Christmas" story in form arranged and directed by Lee DeBerry with the nce of Peggie Strandsberg who reading. (It was originally by Mildred Capanna, who had fourth at the death of her d.)

ene opens in the children's m with Leta Keith and Emmett the children, snugly tucked in eparate twin beds), and with John Vance; Mama, Ada and mouse, Loretta Kelley out the story with appropriate n and some very humorous ng. There were songs to linge stmas spirit and Papa Vance's ion of "Ain't Goin' To Get for Christmas" brought down e. (It was reported that at the rehearsal, they had to put on ial' for the Minister and for the school kids.)

Then, somewhere along the way, there was a lot of carol singing with Mae Swoope and Leta Keith at piano and organ and with Evelyn Millar leading the members, and some splendid Christmas readings by Emerly Smith.

Next, there was a "Ho Ho" and out came Santa with a belly shaking like a bowl of jelly (it was Boyd Smith!) to give each member a novel gift. Getting the 150 or more gifts packed and wrapped, "pretty-like for Christmas wasn't as easy as it looked, according to Lottie Lee DeBerry and Doris Case, who stuck with it until 2 a.m. the night before.

Of course, to end the most enjoyable affair, Agnes Berg and her helpers had a super-duper array of home baked cookies to go with the tea and coffee. Members loosen up like never before, there wasn't a single stranger to be found, all saying "Merry Christmas" to each other as they reluctantly drove away, echoing the cry, we should have something like this more often.

Then, as an added plus, John Vance reports that for the next two days he received many phone calls, saying what a nice group it was an volunteering their help when needed.

The Saga continues: (Ernie C's 3-a-week therapy trips to West Palm) as the interest has been amazing with many offers to drive him and many suggestions of good sloppy, easily swallowed diets from as far away as Maine and Texas. So, thank you all very much, you may get called on yet.

Mail comments were helpful, but one was thought provoking. It was, "I don't see why you dwell on such a gruesome, morbid subject." Therefore with just an answer to one question, I'll get on to something more interesting.

The question was, "Doesn't all that so-called vile-tasting stuff you eat set up a stomach rebellion?" The answer, it sure does, a great big sour ball, says loud and clear, you should have known that anything that tasted that bad, couldn't be good for you but no more saliva with its alkaline digestive juices, is the real culprit!)

Now, here's how that high-intensity radiation from that serpent's mouth does its stuff. The marked off areas are given a 45 second dose and any cancer cells lurking around are blasted out of existance. The radiation kills all cells by disrupting the molecule arrangement, but the normal good cells rebuild as good as new quickly, and the malignant ones are dead for good (hopefully). A large number of short exposures have been found more effective than one big blast, as it gives to good ones a chance to recover and gives the cancer cells another blast before they can get on their feet.

The next question as what happens to all the debris. The white corpuscles get busy and cart off all the dead cells in the usual manner. But, this time they've sure got their hands full, it's a tremendous job. And, the rebuilding process is something else again, the body has to go all out and can't quite keep up. So, Dr. Wirnbaum gives the patient a 2 week period for recouperation at the half way mark, so it can regain enough strength for 5 weeks more.

Ernie C. is just starting his 2 week 'holding time' and it came just in time. However, with eating very little quite often and doing very little only when necessary and heeding to the many helpful suggestions the ordeal probably isn't as bad as it sounds and well worth the results.

HOLIDAY REPAST—Members of the Veterans of World War I, Jensen Beach No. 854, exchanged christmas greetings during their annual party. The group meets monthly in the All Saints Episcopal Church in Jensen Beach.

Polish-american annual dance

The Polish-American Social Club will hold an annual dinner dance on Saturday, January 17th in the woman's club of Stuart 729 E. Carols, dancing highlight party

The Beau Rivage East Association's annual Christmas Party, Dec. 16, in Big Al's Restaurant on U. S. 1, was highlighted by carol singing and dancing to the music of Big Al's pianist.

Gift certificates, given by the club, and three beautiful chrysanthemum plants, donated by Phylis Rundel, were awarded as door prizes.

Peg, Ginny and Ruth wish all a Merry Christmas....with thanks

The Pavilion Church was attended by 143 on Sunday, Dec. 20th. Robt. Barton did the Lay Services. Rev. Clark Thompson officiated. Dee Brink, organist. Guests Tena C. in Reay sang for the offertory. Irene Hamm gave a violin solo for the anthem. Next Sunday we will have Emmett Kelly, tenor in United Methodist Church choir of Jensen Beach. Kelly has been in choral work for over 60 years — enjoying every year of it. His most memorable time was when he sang a solo for a Communion Service on the open deck of a troop ship crossing the Pacific. Kelly will sing "His Eye Is On The Sparrow" and "What If It Were Today" and the "Benediction" to the tune of "Edelweiss" from "Sound of Music." Irene will also be back with us.

The Annual Christmas Ball held December 18 at the Recreation Hall was a huge success. Nearly 100 guests danced to the music of the Fred Rodell Trio. Santa Claus arrived and gave a gift to the lucky winners at each table. The gifts were donated by the committee. Two door prizes, donated by Edwina and Earle Palmer were also awarded. Refreshments were enjoyed and the hall was decorated beautifully in the Christmas theme, dominated by a lighted tree. Ed & Bettie Lally chaired the affair and was assisted by Peg & Reg Turner, Carl & Helen Eury, Doris & Dick Nourse and Vernon May.

The directors meeting was held on Saturday, Dec. 19. About 50 persons attended. The next one will be Jan. 17.

Bingo on Friday night, 12-19, had 99 persons attended. Six lucky card holders won six five gifts. Winners were: bottle game, Robert (Scotty) Fair; first coverall, Henry Borsch; second coverall, Merrill Slegan. Winner take all, first, tied—Stan Light & Helen Woodin. Second place, Ethel Miller. Committee was Erma St. Louis, Martha Lewis, on refreshments, Edna Vanenat & Eunice Covitz, proving cards, Ross Burgess & Dick Nourse, as callers.

Our H.Out mixed bowling team, bowling at Jensen Lanes on Wednesday bowled positive night, they won one game only, but remained in first place.

Cards on Monday nights had six tables. First place was by Stephen Heller, 6138; second place Nell Swanson, 5480; third place Erma Barton, 5080; fourth place Rosie K. 4960; fifth place Ed Swanson.

At Holiday Out bowling for fun, everyone was feeling the Christmas slump. The bowling was off for everyone except Helen Woodin who saved the day with a 152 game. Come and join us after the holidays on Thursday, at the Jensen Lanes.

The host trip to Okeechobee on the Rip Tide was enjoyed Friday by V. Neugebauers, H. L. Smiths, B. T. Bennetts, A. Donnelys and Frank Haughtes. Irene Hamm treated her husband George, on his birthday to a boat ride, and June Carleton also was aboard the same day. They also were praising the lovely time on the boat.

Gordon & Margi McIntyre are having a joyous holiday with family after 12 years being separated, son, Dale, and Delores, and children Dagna & Dessee from Edmonton, Alberta, and daughter Bonnie from Rio de Janerio and granddaughter, Lianna, another daughter Gail & Ralph Davis and grandson Ralph Jr. from Okeechobee.

A note from Lashea & Art Smith. Lashea is well enough from her arm fracture to go to Ohio for Xmas.

Our own H.Outer, Howard Clugstone, president of the Ft. Pierce Shuffleboard Club and Clyde Mills of Musselwhite Club of Miami won first place in the Consolation event in the Gold Coast Men's & Ladies' Pro Doubles Tournament held at Hollywood Courts on December 6-10.

There was some joyful laughter coming from Dottie and Jack Smith's trailer Thursday night. There was quite a group and some realy pretty hors d'oeuvres.

Alice Perrault is getting to be a real card shark. She even beat Alan Pohl at cribbage a few times this week. Alan has a few smock to his credit this week, but for the most part fishing hasn't been too good as yet.

Earl & Edwina Palmer finally arrived from Maine this week. And to get the feel of Xmas drove Carol & Beryle Ray, Millie & Chuck Arrasmith around to see the Xmas displays in Sewall's Point and Jensen Beach.

More Late Arrivers — Mellotts, McFalls, Bischoffs, Andersons, Days, Meils, Kimes, Palmers, Krauses, Taylors, Greens, Biermans, Meiners, Labbes, Olivers, Barnards 135, Camerons, O'Conners a new owner 318, Howards, Levines, Extels, Schmuckmiers, Extons, Falks, another new owner 312, Baileys. A welcome to all.

Anniversaries Congratulations — Ethel & Jodie Miller 12-25, Bob & Mildred Ann Griffin 12-30.

I am sorry to tell of Wes Arbo, who is back in the hospital, also Merle Steele is recouperating in the hospital.

Happy Birthday Wishes to — Shirley Ozenghar 12-25, Stepfanie, Kiefaber, Elmer Dobson 12-26, John Madden; Francis Bilodeau 12-27, John Miller, Kevin O'Terl, Jean Smith, Dudley "Brownie" Brown 12-28, Nannette Barnard 12-29, Helen Steele, sassy Hare 12-30, Bertha Lamon 12-31.

Thank You

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Praxton of Toronto Canada wish to thank the many friends who showed such kindness during the bereavement of their daughter Nancy Jean Bird.

Ralph Weight wed in Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Weigt of Jensen Beach announce the marriage of their son Ralph to Colleen Towell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Varon Lutz of Philadelphia, Pa.

The couple were married December 6 in Philadelphia and will reside in Hobe Sound. The bridegroom is a member of H and D Painting, the family business, in Jensen Beach.

Creative work with glass adds art form to Jensen

The new etched tempered glass doors at Indian River Plantation's Porch and Inlet restaurants are, according to Pete Nebhut, general manager, drawing the most comment of all our improvements."

At the Admiral's Table, and Lit'l Bit of Beauty in Jensen, stained glass designs add to the decor of the businesses.

Skylights, doors and windows in private homes have found the stained glass effect a delight as colors change in the sunlight streaming through.

It is all the work of Jay and Jayne Petersen, operators of Stained Glass and Antiques by Jayne, on Commercial Street in Jensen Beach, two creative artists who are reviving an art form that is centuries old.

Opening their shop in 1978, the Petersens want a mood of the past, and created it with the addition of antiques to the vast display of stained glass articles they sell there.

"The studio is as nostalgic as the past, and we wanted that atmosphere there, relaxing and quiet. I like to have people who come in to feel comfortable," said Jayne. "It is so busy, and the pace is so fast in the outside world, we need something that will give peace of mind."

Often, customers who come to the shop stay to become students in the Tuesday and Wednesday classes for beginners and intermediates, taking on the work as a hobby, just as Jay and Jayne did ten years ago.

Jayne discovered stained glass in an art studio in Hendersonville, N. C. The mountains were inspiring there, and she slowly developed a strong feeling for the art form. Husband Jay was an oceanographic engineer, working for Continental Shelf in Tequesta, surveying the ocean floor for oil companies and doing research on the effects of oil platforms on the aquatic population.

Soon, Jay was just as interested in stained glass art, and when they spent two weeks vacationing in the Jensen Beach area, they decided to open their own shop here and make it their life.

The past two years have seen the company grow and prosper. Now, besides teaching and creating stained glass installations for commercial and private sectors, the Petersens have begun repair and restoration of stained glass for collectors.

The latest project of the Petersens is ten windows in a home in Melbourne Beach, and they just recently created etched glass doors that match the fabrics used in a Sewall's Point home.

Jane explained the process of creating stained glass art.

Glass is purchased from one of many factories in four by six-foot sheets. They make a design, and when the design is agreed upon, a full size design or pattern is made, in color. From that, the glass is selected.

Each step is equally important, as the glass changes colors every hour as the sunlight intensity changes. The pattern is sectioned so that each piece of glass can be cut.

"The glass is cut by hand, with a glass cutter, the same kind of cutter used by Louis Tiffany and those artists before him ," Jayne said.

Strips of lead are then laid on a work area and assembly begins.

"It is almost like putting together a jig-saw puzzle," she said.

Story and photos by Dick Campbell

The lead is stretched to add rigidity and the glass pieces are fitted into channels, with the meeting points soldered. Once the window is completed, it is "cemented" with a glazing compound to add strength and allow the expansion and contraction of the glass under varying temperatures.

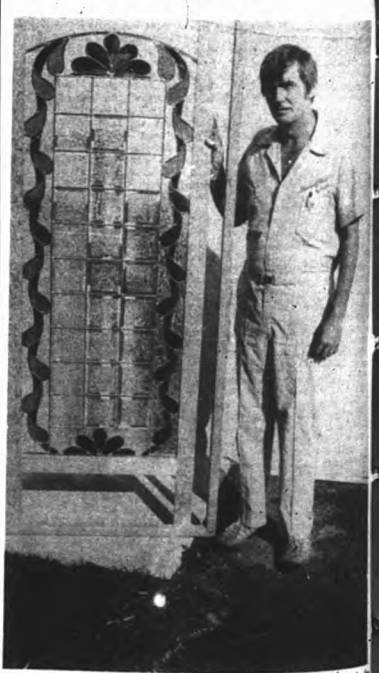
It is then cleansed and is ready for installation.

Each piece of art is signed and numbered, and never duplicated.

In their three years in Jensen Beach, the Petersens have been active in community work. Jay is a member of the Jensen Beach Kiwanis Club, the Jensen Chamber of Commerce. Jayne is now vice president of the Jensen Chamber and has been locally to clubs and organizations her art form. Both worked with the merchants to decorate their shopping center, winning the [illegible] decorating prize from the Chamber.

The shopping center may be commercially decorated for holiday shopping, but inside the store Christmas is nostalgia, with a stained glass Christmas tree a centerpiece for relaxation. A new art from the past

PUZZLE Hand cut pieces of glass are placed in position by Jay Petersen as he readies them to be joined by strips of soft lead.



FINISHED Jay Petersen showed finished stained glass window ready for installation.

Friday at Crane Creek

With a full bank of golf professional saxions to compete in a holiday tournament, Jay Fyle, head master at Crane Creek announced a last minute Pro Am tournament to be played at the Martin Downs course Friday, Dec. 26. Entries from amateurs and pros will be accepted by phone at the Crane Creek pro shop 286 2040.

With 27 professionals and like number of four man teams in action last Friday, Fyle, the host pro fashioned a low under par 66 scoring birdies on the final three holes to lead the parade of play for pay golfers. The low card earned Fyle $100 top prize while Drew Johnson and Ted Mier, a pair of Vero Beach unattached pros finished two-three with scores of 71 and 72 respectively. Three other pros, Miles Marusic, Ed Kehl and Jim Cochrane, all vacationing here during the winter season finished deadlocked in the next slot, with 73's while Ed Rubis another visitor and assistant Crane Creek pro Phil Campoli earned ranking with 74's.

In the two best of four ball Pro Am segment of the event, a recently turned pro Dave Dealling of Port St. Lucie paced his team to a winning 25-under par score of 118 and included amateurs Ed Beduhn of Port St. Lucie and the Aldrey brothers, Carl and Chuck of Stuart.

A team headed by Stuart's Dave Turner turned in a 22 under card of 120 for second slot honors and included amateurs attorney Paul Gaske, Stuart and the father-son combo of Cliff and Tom Harrell of Stuart.

FIRST CLUB ¶ It was in 1972 that Tom Falkenburg layed out the first tennis club in Martin County at Mariner Sands. Looking over the plans were Wally White, left, vice president of the St. Lucie Jupiter Corporation and Bill Parkhurst, president of the development firm

Tennis in Martin County:
Oughterson was the beginning

A TRICK Want to scare your opponent? Walk on the court carrying six tennis racquets, as Tom Falkenburg does here

BY TOM FALKENBURG

First in a series

And in the beginning there was one One tennis player and one tennis court. A dozen or so more played tennis, but T T Oughterson, the best player, had to travel to Palm Beach for a good game.

Bill Ritter, a school teacher in M C talked the County into having two clay courts built by Frank F. Reese & Co. They were the first clay courts in Stuart and Mr. Ritter was fastidious about maintaining them. He also was probably the first tennis teacher in Stuart. Not a registered pro, but wanting to get more people into tennis, he showed them how to play.

The Jupiter Island Club had four clay courts over 45 years ago. Jim Priestley, the pro, has been there over 30 years. The Reed family purchased the bankrupt facility and added one more court and then five more for a total of 10 Har-Tru courts today.

T T Oughterson, local attorney and father and grandfather of two of the better tennis players in M C today, Bill and Scott, remembers playing at the Jupiter Island Club and many private courts also on the Island. T T recalls that there were probably more tennis pros in M C 35 years ago than there are today. The reason is, tennis used to be a "King's sport" and many of the estates in Hobe Sound not only had private tennis courts, but also their own private tennis pro as well. This has dwindled in the past 25 years.

Now most of the residents play at the Club. This was true in many affluent areas in the U. S., the forerunner of the present pro-am's. People who could afford a tennis court and private pro played others who could also afford the same luxury.

Oughterson Sr. recalls the very first tennis court in Stuart in the 20's. It's at the corner of Palm Beach Blvd. and East Ocean. Take a look next time you drive by, its still there, in sad only.

Later on, the action, such as it was, moved to the old Sunrise Inn two court complex (now Bay Harbour Club). That's where I first played tennis in Stuart in 1976. My mother lives across the river on Seaglla Point, and I used to come across by boat every week-end for their marvelous seafood buffet.

One evening I strolled up by the courts and was asked if I played tennis, I said yes, then agreed to come over Saturday and play.

In the next month or so, I met the better tennis players in Martin County, Bill Oughterson and Jim Grossnickle. Then there was another group of avid enthusiasts who played at Bay Harbour and The St. Lucie Hilton (now Sandpiper-Bay) where they had 2 more courts down by the river, next to the Marina. They were torn out and replaced with a nice 11 court complex of light asphalt courts. Jensen Beach, (Langford Park), had 2 more public tennis courts where the regulars, Dagne Jochem and Linda Rinaldi impersonated tennis players. Dagne recalls wearing bermuda's, some sort of rubber shoe and balls that were six months old, and the rackets were something else.

There are many fond memories of tennis in the early 70's in Martin County. The couples, and some singles, used to get together every Wednesday evening. Around 1973 at Mariner Sands, the mixer was changed to Friday evening. We played, we drank, had coveredditch parties, and all went out in tennis clothes to a different restaurant every week. Some of the early fun group, (gasp) I hope I don't forget anyone) included the Oughterson's, DeSteiguer's, the John & Timer Power's, White's, Sr & Jr. Granger's, Carrolls, Arbogast's, Lacognina's, Billings, Fort, Hutchanson's, McCann's, Parkhurst's, Nelson's, Stemke's, Thurlow's, Rowe's, Rinaldi's, Evans, Potsdam's, Schadt's, Nancy Graham, Jean Gambee, St. Onge, Jerven's, Vogue, Schock's, and I'm sure a few more I have overlooked. Dick Campbell and the Ransom Tilton's were some of the first learners to join the group, and Dagne Jochem was my first paid lesson in Stuart.

Before 1976, T T Oughterson recalls 6 to 8 regulars on the tennis courts, including Jimmy Pressley, pro at Jupiter Island Club, George Aguilar, pro at Poinciana in Palm Beach, (George gave Connie lessons at the Westside T. C., Forest Hills when she was 7 years old) Ernie Clark, Mr. Reed's private pro, Rudy Noble, Mr. Vanderbilt's pro, and George Koneluh, another private pro. They all played at the Jupiter Island Club in Martin Co. along with many more pros who travelled. (Have racket, will travel)

The early Stuart players joined T. T. in the 20's and 30's to play league type matches with Ft. Pierce, Cocoa, and Titusville, plus a few small towns. But, most of the tennis activity was around Palm Beach, especially at the Breakers with Dr. Hugh Curry and Mr. Harris, where T. T. also played. But, T. T. admits that was nothing compared to the present growth, which started around 1970.

Open tennis came into its own in 1968, the first U. S. Open. Ironically won by an amateur, Arthur Ashe, who just accepted the job asCapt. of the U.S. Davis Cup Team. Arthur, wanting to keep his amateur standing, turned down the $15,000 first prize money. Tom Okker, the flying Dutchman, was glad to take it all as runner up. 1981 the U. S. Open prize money will be one million bucks!

Bobby Riggs, Margaret Court Smith, and Billie Jean King put another big shot in the tennis boom. But tennis didn't grow everywhere. Some areas boomed while others stayed the same. Indoor tennis in many of the big metropolitan areas grew too fast. Finally competition bankrupted many of the clubs. The 74 crunch gets few more.

In my travels, and they include coast to coast, plus 11 European countries just last year, I have not seen anything to equal Martin County tennis growth. Sure, some have much bigger facilities and more players, but in total growth and tennis players per capita, Martin Co. has to be near the top.

We have already covered par 1978. In 1979, I would guestimate that Martin County had about 6 public tennis courts, and maybe 28 private courts, four tennis players, and about 30 people who played tennis fairly regularly. My definition of a tennis player is at least a top A type player.

One of the prettiest private courts in Martin Co., is on the Dominerich estate. It's over 25 years old, clay, and has beautiful flowering vines growing all over the fences.

Post 1976, there are probably 50 new private courts on estates and homes. Another very nice court is on the McCarthy's estate, Har-Tru, wood fence and only 30 feet from the beautiful St. Lucie River. The Evinrudes also have a beautiful court looking down off the St. Lucie from a cliff, plus peacocks walking around watching the stokes of other folks. Another beautiful court is on the Russell estate, carved out in a heavy cluster of trees. The newest private court is in the front yard of the Pate's new home, also overlooking the St. Lucie River.

(Next week - The first tennis club) ll I want for Christmas is...

BY DICK LUNDIN

THE SEASON, there's no about it, so here's a great big y Christmas" to all of our read- d a few Christmas presents I'd receive:

turn of the bag king mackerel to the area and an equitable tion of the problem involving rs, riggers and commercial ed-liners.

salt water fishing license with 95 of the revenues channelled ltwater research and saltwater ries for smoak, channel bass, olution of the inshore commer- ting situation so that sport en get something close to an reak in both the surf and the Indian River where netters often move in to wipe out whole schools of fish just as soon as sport fishermen locate them.

A limit on the number of bluefish, channel bass (redfish), spotted seatrout and bottom fish that can be taken daily by sport fishermen.

A requirement that sport fishermen take out a commercial license if they intend to sell their catch.

A little more judgment on the part of the Central and Southern Flood Control District in dumping fresh water from Lake Okeechobee into the Indian River.

More contributions by area sports men to the Wildlife Alert Fund of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, and the cooperation of all in aiding the Commission's wildlife officers in apprehending violators of the state's game and fishing regulations. Call Wildlife Alert No. 1-800 432-2046 in West Palm Beach any time you see anything you think is unlawful on the part of a hunter or fisherman.

Improved freshwater and saltwater fishing in the area.

For all fishermen to keep only what they need for their table and release the rest of their catch. I years for the day when anglers will proudly boast of how many they've released, not how many they've caught!

For more and more sportsmen to use the Florida outdoors as a sacred trust.

For the state to come up with the funds for the Savannas in 1981.

To reach a 10 lb. Florida largemouth bass!

FL playoff spots are set:
olphins lose final to Jets

ME UP AND-DOWN Dolphins "down" again last Saturday on and lost for the sixth st time to their chief tormen- the New York Jets, 34-17. 1980 regular NFL season thus n a clean with the Jets winding 2 and Miami 8-8.

Finishing third in the AFC East, ne ahead of the 7-9 Baltimore e Dolphins play the first four in the NFC East and the second third-place teams in the AFC d and AFC West. In addition, of the 1981 Dolphins will play annual home-and-home series ach of the AFC East teams. e opponents for 1981 Jets, Buffalo, New England, Philadelphia, ston, N.Y. Jets, Philadelphia, gton, Pittsburgh, and the AFC runner-up (either San Diego or ad). Away: Buffalo, New England, Baltimore, N.Y. Jets, Dallas, St. Louis, Houston, Denver.

The Dolphins face a tough schedule in 1981 but seem to have the horses to cope with it, despite the disappointing loss to the Jets Saturday.

The 1980 NFL playoffs are all set now and the lineup looks like this: Buffalo is the AFC East champion, Cleveland the Central Division champ and either Oakland or San Diego the AFC West titleholder, depending on outcome of Monday night's game between San Diego and Pittsburgh. The Chargers won the division if they beat the Steelers, otherwise it's Oakland. The Wild Card teams in the AFC are Houston and either New England or San Diego — it's the Chargers if they beat the Steelers.

Over in the NFC, everything is determined. Philadelphia rules the East, Minnesota the Central and Atlanta the West. The two Wild Card teams from the NFC are Los Angeles and Dallas.

The playoff schedule is set forth below.

There's no use rehashing the gory details of Miami's letdown against the Jets. With promising back Woody Bennett out with a foot injury, Delvin Williams benched by Coach Don Shula, and Terry Robiskie out for the season with a back injury, the Dolphins went with running backs Steve Howell and Tony Nathan. The running game suffered accordingly, although Nathan showed flashes of brilliance and didn't fumble once! Rookie LSU quarterback David Woodley had a good but not outstanding game. He had four chances to put points on the board with deep Miami penetrations, but all Woodley could come up with was three points.

oliday bowl season in high gear

BY DICK LUNDIN

SE REBOUNDING Florida whipped the Maryland ns in the Tangerine Bowl ay night, 35-20, behind some onal passing by freshman rback David Peace and g by senior wide receiver Cris tworth.

Houston earlier taking the e of Navy, 35-0, in the Garden Bowl, and Brigham Young Southern Methodist with a ly incredible come-from-way- 45-45 win in the Holiday Bowl. day bowl season is under way really heat up starting Friday p.m. out in Tempe, Arizona Ohio State will meet Penn

, 27, there are three games Mississippi will play Nebraska Bowl at 12:30 p.m. Purdue off against Missouri at 2 the Liberty Bowl, and Tulane will take on Arkansas at 8 p.m. in the Hall of Fame Bowl.

On Dec. 29, South Carolina will lay it on the line against Pittsburgh at 9 p.m. in the Gator Bowl.

On Dec. 31, North Carolina goes against Texas at 8 p.m. in the Bluebonnet Bowl.

On Jan. 1, Florida State opposes Oklahoma at 8 p.m. in the Orange Bowl, Georgia meets Notre Dame at 2 p.m. in the Sugar Bowl, Michigan jousts with Washington at 5 p.m. in the Rose Bowl, and Baylor confronts Alabama at 2 p.m. in the Cotton Bowl.

On Jan. 2, it's Miami and Virginia Tech at 12:30 p.m. in the Peach Bowl.

Although there will undoubtedly be some great games in that bunch, the main attention of the college football world will be focused on the Orange and Sugar Bowls. If Buck Belue and Herschell Walker can lead the Georgia Bulldogs to a triumph over the Fighting Irish in the Sugar Bowl, they'll unquestionably nail down the national championship. If Notre Dame is the winner, on the other hand, and Jim Stenstrom and Coach Bobby Rowden are up to conquering those potent Oklahoma Sooners, the national title could go to Tallahassee this year.

How do I see the outcomes? Penn State should beat Ohio State; Mississippi State will edge Nebraska (sorry Neal); Purdue's Mark Herrmann will be too much for Missouri; Arkansas will overcome Tulane, George Rogers notwithstanding. Pittsburgh with Sammy Green will down South Carolina handily; North Carolina ought to edge Texas; Oklahoma will be a bit too much for Florida State; Georgia will defeat Notre Dame; Washington will upset Michigan; Baylor will score enough to sadden Alabama; and Miami will be much too much for Virginia Tech, the Gobblers' vaunted defense notwithstanding.

IRCC Itinerary

You've probably heard of "dabbling in the arts," but have you ever done any "dabbling in education?" That's right – you can enroll at Indian River Community College and take only those classes that specifically match your unique interests. Through the IRCC Continuing Education Division, you can find classes that will benefit you in many ways: classes that will save you money, improve your work skills, strengthen your relationships with others, provide challenges, and open your mind to new ideas.

Of course, if you are interested in building a foundation for transfer to an upper-level university, or if you would like to get the theoretical and practical training that will help you enter the work force, you will want to explore IRCC's dozens of degree programs.

The point is that at IRCC you are given a choice, a chance to extract precisely what you need from college. But, remember – the new Spring Term starts January 7, so the time for you to come in an register at the Main Campus Guidance Division or any branch campus is right now . . .

THE GREEN REVOLUTION

It's a principle so old that it dates back to the ancient Greeks, yet "agriculture," that is growing marine plants and animals in controlled environments, is just beginning to be used by scientists. With 75 per cent of our world consisting of water, imagine the implications of mariculture on fisheries science, technology, food supplies, and natural marine cycles. Beginning January 8, IRCC will offer a three-credit course in the "Fundamentals of Mariculture," which will take a close look at the natural environment as the place to grow natural marine species and which will also explore the technology, techniques, and future of mariculture as a science. This class will meet at the Coast Guard Classrooms in Fort Pierce. For specific information on the class schedule and on registering for the class, call the IRCC Guidance Office, ext. 323.

WEATHER FOR THE MARINER

Any person who depends upon the sea for a living must possess a degree of knowledge of weather and weather-related phenomena. Beginning January 8 at the Coast Guard Classrooms, IRCC will conduct a three-credit course in the basics of meteorology for people who have a maritime-related occupation or hobby. The course will cover such areas as the earth and its atmosphere, energy transfers taking place within this system, and short-range weather forecasting. This course is strongly recommended for students planning a career in the maritime industry.

SEAMANSHIP AND SMALL BOAT HANDLING OFFERED

This course is designed for students who are pursuing careers in the maritime industry, and who will be involved in the operation of small craft. Topics included in this three-credit class are small-boat-handling techniques, basic navigation and coastal piloting, and the rules of the road. To meet at the Coast Guard Classrooms, this class is highly recommended for any student who expects to have an opportunity to pilot small craft. For details, call the IRCC Guidance Office, ext. 323.

LEARN TO FLY AT IRCC

If the idea of learning to fly catches your imagination, you will surely want to register for the Private Pilot Ground School being offered by the Continuing Education Division. To begin January 12, the course will cover all information needed to pass the FAA written exam necessary for a private pilot certificate, as well as other facts that will make you a safe pilot. The class will be taught by a qualified FAA Ground Instructor who is authorized to sign students up for the FAA written exam. Classes will meet on the Main Campus each Monday from 8 to 10:30 p.m., and cost of the class is only $5, plus a fee for classroom supplies. For details, call the Guidance Office, ext. 323.

WHO WILL BE LITTLE MISS SANDY SHOES?

The IRCC Art Club is inviting St. Lucie County six-and seven-year olds to apply for the Little Miss and Mr. Sandy Shoes Pagent, to be held January 15 and 16 in conjunction with the Sandy Shoes Festival. The children will be judged on poise, personality, general appearance, and private and stage interviews. Both winners will receive a trophy, a banner, and a special gift. The pageant will take place at the IRCC McAlpin Fine Arts Center, with a sportswear competition on January 15, and a formal competition on the following evening. Those interested should register before January 4, and there is a $15 registration fee. Applications are available at the elementary schools, children's shops, and the IRCC Student Activities Office. For details, call the college, ext. 305.

TAKE A COURSE IN TV CIRCUITS

Anyone who has a television set probably knows that most TV's are now comprised of electronic circuits, and that people with the ability to build and repair these circuits are well-paid and in high demand. Beginning January 12, IRCC will offer a course covering the operation of black and white and color TV circuitry; the class will meet each Monday from 5:30 to 10:30 p.m., and will consist of three hours of lecture and two hours practice. If you are interested in this course or others in the electronics field, call the college, ext. 386.

ATTENTION, ELECTRICIANS, APPRENTICES, HELPERS, AND SUPPLIERS!

IRCC'S Continuing Education Division is offering a course just for you this Spring Term covering all article changes in the 1981 National Electrical Code (NEC). Some of these changes include wiring design and protection, wiring methods and materials, equipment for general use, special occupancies, special equipment, and special conditions. To meet from 8 to 10:30 p.m. each Monday beginning January 12, the class costs only $5 and the instructor is David Wojcieszak. The text used in class will be the 1981 NEC Code Book. Stay up to date in your field – sign up now at the IRCC Guidance Office.

PLANNING TO SEE PARIS NEXT SUMMER?

Well, never mind, you will still enjoy the class in Conversational French that is set to begin on January 8 at IRCC. To meet each Thursday from 5:30 to 8 p.m., the course will not only cover the French language, but will also feature other aspects of the French culture, including customs, culinary art, dress, and tips for visitors to the country. Mimi Appel Clerke, who was born in Paris and educated at the University of Paris, will teach the course. For more information, call Guidance, ext. 323.

GET READY FOR YOUR SPRING GARDEN

Have the best-looking yard on the block this Spring by learning how to plant and care for ornamental plants. To meet each Thursday from 8 to 10:30 p.m. on the Main Campus, the class will provide information on soil types, plant nutrition, propagation, cultivation, plant identification and characteristics, landscaping, insects, and plant diseases. The cost of the class is $5 plus supplies, and registration can be completed through the Guidance Office.

IF YOU WISH YOU HAD A GREEN THUMB

If you have ever wished that you had a "green thumb" so that you could keep houseplants alive and thriving, IRCC has just the class for you! "Houseplants and Their Care" is the title of a non-credit class being offered at the IRCC Mueller Center on Mondays from 8 to 10 p.m. beginning January 12, and the course will emphasize the techniques for growing healthy and attractive plants indoors. Lighting, fertilizing, disease, pests, propagation, and transplanting are only a few of the areas to be covered.

Diesel repair maintenance to be offered

"Basic Diesel Repair and Maintenance," a 10-week evening course for adults, will be conducted at the Selby Marine Science Building, Jensen Beach campus of the Florida Institute of Technology, from 6-9 p.m. every Wednesday beginning January 14.

The instructor will be Rudy Geering.

To register, contact or visit the Division of Continuing Education, Florida Institute of Technology, 1707 N.E. Indian River Drive, Jensen Beach. The phone number is 334-4200. Fee for the course is $200.

CHRISTMAS FRUIT COOKIES

1 Cup Brown Sugar
½ Cup Butter
1 Egg
1 Tsp. Vanilla
1 Cup Flour
1/8 Tsp. Salt
½ Tsp. Baking Soda
2 Cups Chopped, Pitted Dates
(or) 1 Cup Each Chopped, Prunes, Dates and Apricots
½ Cup Each Candied Cherries and Pineapple
½ Cup Each Chopped Pecans and Walnuts

Cream together Sugar and Butter till fluffy. Add Eggs and Vanilla. Mix Flour, Soda and Salt and stir into Creamed Mixture. Add Nuts and Fruits. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls onto greased cookie sheet. Bake approximately 10 minutes at 350 degrees.
Store in airtight container. Makes about 4 dozen cookies.

HOLIDAY CHEESE LOG

16 oz. cream cheese
8 oz. shredded sharp cheddar cheese
1 Tblsp. chopped pimento
1 Tblsp. chopped green pepper
1 Tblsp. finely chopped onion
2 Tblsp. chopped green pimento olives
2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. lemon juice
1 cup finely chopped pecans

Let cheeses stand at room temperature till soft then combine till well blended. Add all other ingredients except nuts. Mix well and shape into long log about 2 inches round and 10 inches long. Chill till firm then roll in chopped nuts and chill again. Serve with crackers.

"HIGH" PUMPKIN PIE

16 Oz. Can Pumpkin
1 Cup Brown Sugar
1 Tsp. Cinnamon
½ Tsp. Each Salt and Ginger
¼ Tsp. Each Cloves and Nutmeg
2 Beaten Eggs
13 Oz. Can Evaporated Milk
¼ Cup Bourbon or Brandy
1 Unbaked Pie Shell
1 Cup of Sweetened Whipped Cream
2 Tblsp. Brandy or Bourbon

Combine Pumpkin, Sugar, Salt and Spices. Blend in Eggs, Milk and Squeeze. Beat thoroughly. Pour into Pastry Shell. Bake 45 minutes at 400 degrees. Before serving add the 2 Tblsp. Liqueur to Whipped Cream and serve with pie.

B-1 ZONING

Located close to one of Stuart's major intersections. This nearly one and one-third acre parcel of land has many possibilities. And presently has a commercial building with fewer 5000 sq. ft. of floor space — plus a beautifully decorated 3 bedroom, 3 bath home and a 2 bedroom, 2 bath home. Ideal for an owner who wants an elegant home to live in and have his business in a portion, or in all of the commercial building - or the homes could be removed and a strip store or other commercial operation established. All buildings are in excellent condition with the whole area being beautifully landscaped. One of Stuart's fastest growing areas which will surely continue to be most desirable. $450,000. Last No. 110. Please call Joseph J. Bazzano, Broker-Salesman, for an appointment to receive further details. Aft. Hrs. 283-0805.

Martin Memorial Hospital

A VOLUNTARY NOT-FOR-PROFIT PATIENT CARE FACILITY

ANNUAL REPORT TO OUR COMMUNITY

Message from the Administration

Guy N. Cromwell
Administrator

The Eighties will be a decade with ever increasing attention being focused on health care services — and their availability and accessibility to the needs of a changing and growing population.

Martin Memorial Hospital has prepared itself to deal effectively with the various local, state and federal agencies and other accrediting or regulatory groups whose interests cover planning cost control, accreditation, licensure, quality assurance, review of professional standards, risk management and the safety of both patients and employees.

During a brief twelve months (October 1, 1979 - September 30, 1980), Martin Memorial Hospital has experienced (1) completion of a $1,000,000 Phase III construction and renovation program, (2) received a full two year approval by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals, (3) received approval for a Certificate of Need for 50 additional patient beds on the Sixth Floor, and (4) completed a comprehensive Long Range Plan.

With the Support of our 700 plus volunteers, a highly qualified Medical Staff of approximately 100 physicians, an aggressive Board of Directors, an active Advisory Council and our well trained and dedicated employees, we are confident of continuing to provide that high quality of service our patients have come to expect at Martin Memorial Hospital.

Guy N. Cromwell

Prescribed Exercise Programs

Recent years have seen increased awareness by the public and physicians of the need and benefits of improved physical fitness. If safely performed, an exercise program can improve endurance, physical functional capacity, and a greater sense of well-being. Exercise programs can be utilized by persons with physical impairments or by otherwise healthy persons to achieve these goals.

Exercise Stress Testing with measurement of maximum aerobic capacity, anaerobic threshold and other parameters has been found to be extremely valuable in several ways. It allows exact measurement of one's state of fitness. It helps diagnose the cause of a reduced exercise capacity and the reason for shortness of breath in particular individuals. Results are also used to formulate an exercise prescription specifically designed for each person. In addition, abnormalities in the cardiopulmonary system may be detected and appropriate instructions given so that exercise can be performed with safety.

For additional information on a prescribed wellness/exercise program on an individual basis, please consult your local physician.

New Out-Patient Facility

Completion of the Out-Patient Department in March, 1982 will enable the hospital staff to more effectively and efficiently serve the population within the present hospital service areas of Martin and south St. Lucie Counties.

Out-Patient service is a personalized, convenient and economical way to help achieve and maintain good health. The physician can send patients for prescribed tests and treatments on a one-visit basis. Meanwhile, the out-patient department will help conserve a scarce resource — the In-Patient bed — for those in need of hospitalization.

Many Laboratory, Cardiology, Pulmonary and X-Ray diagnostic services can be completed on an Out-Patient basis. Additionally, certain types of treatments including surgical procedures which do not require admission to the hospital could be completed. Chemotherapy agents can be administered on an Out-Patient basis, as well as some types of physical therapy.

Patients who do require hospitalization will be able to first complete necessary pre-admission tests as an Out-Patient, thereby reducing the time and expense required as an In-Patient.

Additional information will be available following approval of the Certificate of Need.

The Port St.Lucie Medical Complex

Completion of the proposed facility on the 35.5 acre site, situated at the northeast corner of U.S. #1 and Jennings Road in Port St. Lucie has been delayed pending the decision relative to our application for the Certificate of Need.

Currently, existing applications for a new hospital in Port St. Lucie have been denied by the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. That decision has now been appealed. A hearing to consider the existing appeals has been scheduled during the month of January, 1981, in Port St. Lucie City Hall.

Martin Memorial Hospital plans to provide a fifty-bed hospital with provisions for expansion, an ambulatory care facility and a physicians' office complex. The Port St. Lucie Medical Complex will share key staff and equipment with the hospital with the aim of providing the highest possible quality of health care services consistent with cost standards which are reasonable and justifiable to the public residing in the service area. The concept of shared services has proven to be an effective cost containment technique.

APPOINTED - Mike Bocchino will become recreation program director ford Park on January 5. He is replacing his father, Vincent Bocchino, who ng on the roof (l.) of the log cabin in the park. (Burgess photo)

occhino is ark director

Bocchino of Jensen Beach has ppointed recreation program of Langford Park in Jensen effective January 5, according tant Martin County Administ- oger Nichols.

replaces his father Vincent o, who recently resigned from b due to growth of his ction business.

who has a BS degree in l education from Florida State ity, "has a good background ," Nichols said. "He sort of p in it, helping his father with k for years."

ino will be responsible for ing sports events and use of the se, direction and supervision employees, conducting the youth program and assuring operation and use of park facilities. He will also study and recommend on the need for additional park facilities.

Bocchino, who has been working as a contractor for his father and as a substitute teacher, will no longer work for the elder Bocchino. He "will have flexible hours, and will work whatever hours are needed to do his job as recreation director," Nichols said.

"Most of my hours will be in the evening, plus weekends, until March. Then it begins to pick up. Summer is very busy with the baseball and soccer programs," Bocchino explained.

"Hopefully, the park will run the same as it has in the past. The biggest problem I foresee will be overcrowded fields. There will definitely be a need for a park someplace in the county in the future, because more and more people are coming to live here," Bocchino said.

Festival of the Arts moves

BY DICK CAMPBELL

Progress has been reported on the planned week-long "Festival of the Arts" in Jensen Beach. The event will be March 1-8 and will be sponsored by the Jensen Beach Chamber of Commerce and Florida Institute of Technology.

Reporting on the progress of the committee, Dr. Richard Q. Pesnick, chairman, indicated that events are planned for every day of the festival. He praised the cooperation of the Jensen Beach and Stuart Chambers of Commerce, the Arts Foundation of Martin County, F.I.T., the Art Associates of Jensen Beach and Martin County and the Martin County Musical Association in the effort to provide the first week-long cultural experience in the county history.

"The entire gamut of performing and graphic arts will be represented," Pesnick said. "Many forms of music, dance, drama, painting, sculpting, photography and handcrafts will be displayed during the week. All people will have many events to please their hunger for such a cultural event."

The week begins on Sunday, March 1 with religious music being featured. Thomas R. Zbender, pastor of Redeemer Lutheran Church, is soliciting the cooperation of all churches in the county to cooperate with their organs and choirs.

On Monday, choral groups will perform in the auditorium of F.I.T. Already approved are the children's choir at Redeemer and the Mixed Chorus of Spanish Lakes Park. Other choral groups are being contacted to serve.

On Tuesday, the Conservatory of Dance Arts will perform modern ballet and dance for enjoyment in the F.I.T. auditorium.

On Wednesday there will be a variety show at F.I.T. Local professional and amateur entertainers are being contacted to participate.

Thursday will feature an organ concert by Arlene Haskell, former dean, American Guild of Organists, Houston Chapter, at Redeemer.

On Friday, concert goers will have a choice of events, with the Martin County Performing Arts Society special cultural artists series being performed at First Methodist Church in Stuart and the artists concert series of the F.I.T. Lyceum Council at the auditorium.

On Saturday, the fifteenth annual Jensen Beach Art Festival will begin on the F.I.T. Campus, and a bluegrass festival will be held on campus also. It is hoped that the Barn Theatre will hold a play that night.

On Sunday the festival wraps up with the second day of arts and crafts at FIT.

Slashed tires are under investigation

The Martin County Sheriff's Department is investigating eight cases of vandalism which took place on Christmas Day.

In each case, car tires at the Holiday Inn Oceanside were slashed between 4 a.m. and 5 p.m. Some of the vehicles involved belonged to rental agencies, including Hertz, Avis and National.

Police say they have no suspects.

Vandalism and a fight involving three persons was reported at Cumberland Farms on Commercial Street and County Route 732 in Jensen Beach on Saturday, December 27. While the fight was in progress, a Coca Cola display was knocked over, resulting in $30 worth of broken bottles. No further action was taken on the case, although two of the participants are known to police.

Also on Saturday, a 1988 Buick and an Elgin pocket watch were reported stolen. The car was owned by Barbara Graff of 1508 Commercial Street, Jensen Beach. The incident was reported by Mrs. Graff, who said her son had picked up a hitchhiker earlier.

Her son, Tracy, dropped the man off, parked in the driveway, and apparently left the keys in the car. Police suspect that the hitchhiker simply returned and drove off in the car.

An Italian-made 308 rum automatic gun, without the clip and ammunition, and about $40 in cash were taken from an apartment at 1800 Commercial Street, Jensen Beach, on Sunday, December 28.

Thomas Guelig told the Martin County Sheriff's Department that the persons he suspects had looked at an apartment for rent next to his earlier in the day. The investigating officer found that entry had been forced to the next apartment, and the suspects had apparently gone up through a ceiling hatch in the bathroom, coming down through a similar hatch in Guelig's apartment. Police are still investigating the case.

Deverne Wright, 21, of Indiantown, was returned to jail on Monday, December 29, after her $1,053 bail was rescinded by the bondsman. She had been charged with possession of a controlled substance. When she was returned to jail, she was found to have over 20 grams of marijuana in her possession. Bail was set at $2327 for the second offense. A circuit court appearance was set for Friday, January 16 at 9:30 a.m. The arresting officer was Cpl. Morgan Sprott.

Haynes defends stance on building moratorium

County Commissioner Alex Haynes today defended his vote of approval for a proposed moratorium on reviewing new realty projects. The decision was 3-2 against at the December 23 county commission meeting.

A comprehensive development plan for the county must be enacted by July 1, 1981, according to a directive from the state department of Community Affairs.

The proposed moratorium was suggested so that planners would have time to work on the required comprehensive plan.

However, following three hours of discussion in front of a full house, it was decided that two or three months of valuable working time on the comprehensive plan would be wasted should the board decide to go ahead with the moratorium. Time requirements for setting a public hearing plus time needed to draft and then finalize the ordinance would waste far too much time, the commissioners decided.

Both opponents and proponents had their say during the meeting, with businessmen claiming that no construction would mean no employment, and residents countering that a moratorium is required to give the area time to increase services to match development.

In an interview following the meeting, Haynes said that "you can't get a comprehensive plan unless there is at least a partial moratorium," as discussed in the meeting. Any projects which come in are dependent on the comprehensive plan, which is the independent variable in this equation. Therefore, we can't just do business as usual.

Everyone raised a red herring at the meeting," Haynes declared. "They tried to say that people would be out of work if we stopped building. That's not true. It would only be for a short time, too short to affect current projects. We absolutely must buckle down and get to work. The people decided that last November."

Haynes emphasized that unemployment is due to economic conditions.

"If we keep going the way we have been going, we'll really be in trouble. We'll be back where we were 10 years ago. There just won't be enough services to support the growth and development. Not enough water, sewage disposal, and too much traffic."

Commission Chairman Maggie Hurchalla cast the other approving vote on the proposal. Against it were Commissioners Sherri King, John Holt and Tom Higgins, who carried the day.

Instead of a formal moratorium, the commissioners decided to go with an informal policy of denying applications for zoning changes and multi-family dwellings until the comprehensive plan is approved.

MIKE BOCCHINO - The new recreation program director unrolls a length of tarpaper for the log cabin roof as some of the men look on. Bocchino will be leaving this construction job when he begins his duties as director in January.

Trailer fire leaves three homeless

BY SUSAN BURGESS

A trailer in Cookies Trailer Park was completely gutted by fire Monday, December 29, leaving a couple and their 11-year-old daughter homeless.

Thomas Theiss, his wife, and child were at the Orange Bowl in Miami when a suspected malfunction in the electrical heating system set the trailer and several additional rooms behind it on fire.

The couple's son, Thomas Theiss Jr., 20, was returning from an evening out when he saw the flames. Theiss attempted to beat the fire out but failed, suffering second degree burns of the hand and forearm. He was treated at Martin Memorial Hospital.

The Martin County Fire Department arrived on the scene six minutes after the alarm was turned in, at 8:25 p.m., according to Fire Chief Ed Smith. Smith said the trailer was fully involved when his men arrived. "It took us about a half hour to beat the flames down," he said, "But we stayed until nearly midnight."

"We were hampered by lack of water. There are no hydrants," he explained. Also responding were fire departments from Rio, Jensen Beach, and Port St. Lucie. All sent pump trucks, because of the lack of water at the scene. "With adequate water, we could probably have handled it with our own department," Smith declared.

"On the east, 20 feet away, was Carpet Plus, south is Murphy's furniture, and there was another trailer on the west side of the burning one, only a few feet away," Smith said. "We saved all but the Theiss trailer."

Eyewitnesses said that from U.S. 1, flames appeared to be shooting out of the back of Carpet Plus. "It appeared to be very smoky and very intense," said Lin Morin of Jensen Beach.

Chief Smith said the family not only lost their home, but all their clothes and belongings as well. He asked that people "with anything to donate to these people please help them out. They slept in the back of their car last night, and desperately need food, clothing and shelter."

SUN BANK'S LEAD IN CONVENIENCE GROWS WITH INTEREST PAID ON CHECKING.

*Sun Checking Plus Interest is effective January 1, 1981.

Sun Bank became Florida's leader in convenience banking by offering the most 24-hour tellers and the most new branches. And now,* Sun Bank introduces another new convenience service called Sun Checking Plus Interest. It combines the benefits of saving and checking into a single, interest-paying checking account.

Sun Checking Plus Interest pays interest on checking funds and saves you checking charges.

The money in a Sun Checking Plus Interest account earns 5¼% interest. And you can enjoy no-service-charge checking, by keeping a minimum monthly balance of $1300, or an average monthly balance of $2000. Even if you're not used to keeping this much money in your checking account, it will now pay you to. One good way to raise your balance is to transfer in money from a savings account. The money will still earn interest. And the amount you save on service charges can be substantial. (The normal monthly service charge is $3.00 plus 25¢ per item paid.) Now instead of paying money for checking, your checking can pay money to you.

Sun Checking Plus Interest is as simple to use as a regular checking account.

You use regular Sun Bank checks and receive a regular monthly statement. The interest is figured on your average monthly balance and automatically added to your account at the end of the month.

Sun Checking Plus Interest works 24 hours a day.

No other account of this type gives you so much convenience. Sun Checking Plus Interest provides round-the-clock access to your money through over 100 SunBank 24 automated tellers statewide. That's far more than any other financial institution in Florida.

Sun Checking Plus Interest is backed by years of checking know-how.

You'll be seeing advertising for this type of account from other financial institutions, including savings and loans. And while all these accounts are designed to work in essentially the same way, they won't necessarily perform in the same way. Checking expertise has to be earned, not just advertised. And the savings and loans in Florida have never offered checking before. It's a complicated business. And Sun Bank has years of experience making it work.

Come in and discuss Sun Checking Plus Interest with your Sun Banker.

Sun Checking Plus Interest can be an exceptional value, depending on your checking situation. Your Sun Banker will help you determine how this exciting new Sun Bank service can work for you.

Sun Checking Plus Interest. One more reason why Sun Bank is Florida's leader in convenience.

The stability of Martin County

It certainly was a shame that the Martin County Commission showed a split vote on the decision not to proceed with an ordinance to place a moratorium on building. The vote should have been 5-0 in favor of abondoning the idea.

The vote did several things. First: it placed the county on notice that such a crazy idea can actually reach the talking stage, and that spells trouble in River City. That there were two votes for such an ordinance, by Chairwoman Maggie Hurchalla and Jensen District One Commissioner Alex Haynes, gives notice that there are two "no growth" votes on the board.

The issue grew out of the inability of the planning and zoning staff to get to work on the comprehensive plan, which must be completed by July. If the plan is not complete by then, the state will probably step in and do the job that the commissioners should have done over the past five years.

Planning and zoning board member Tom Kenny made a good point when he told the commissioners that his board shouldn't be dictated to by such an ordinance. Debate and delay on the ordinance would keep the staff from working on the plan. This was the first instance in which the people got to see some of what we will face in the next two years, and it didn't look good.

There was a time when the ultra-conservative, ultra-conservationist movement on the county commission made the name of Martin County a dirty word in financial circles. Even as far away as Wall Street the investment people were warned to stay away from the county.

Now, in one of the earliest meetings of the new commission, we find the warning flags going up. That the ordinance was voted down is not the issue. That it actually came up is.

From the tone of the debate, it is obvious that such an ordinance would have had the necessary support if some of the differences of opinion were resolved between the commissioners.

There must be some way to get the commissioners to begin thinking about something other than the "get-rich-quick developers who lurk in every corner trying to make Martin County another Ft. Lauderdale." There is no way that can happen.

The larger developments are planned unit developments, and are based on long term investment. The developers will be here for a long time.

Would the commission rather see the land subdivided into small lots and a thousand builders creating house after house without a plan for overall development being followed? That is what could happen.

We need the comprehensive plan, but it is nothing more than guidelines for growth that will change as time passes. It will not be etched in stone. And, we can use such guidelines until we get the plan.

We also need a stable community to present to those who would invest their dollars in this county, not a financial risk area that changes the rules on the whim of the commission.

We need to reassure the thousands of people who work in the construction industry. Their lives, their families and their incomes deserve an attitude of stability. They pay their way through taxes and community service. Their jobs should be free from political pressures and the uncertainty created by the county commission's actions.

We can have development without a crazy-quilt violation of good planning concepts. But development is people, not just money. And, such development should follow the rules of good planning so that the growth that is created will be good for the area.

There is no way that the people in power can build a fence around the county and stop people from coming in. commissioners can set the rules for living here, and make those rules fit what we hope the eventual county to be.

We have played political games with the comprehensive plan for too long. It should be completed as quickly as possible, but not at the price of stopping everything else.

Parking at the beach

Both the developers of Sailfish Point and the Martin County Commission are concerned with parking along MacArthur Boulevard at the entrance to the Mobil Oil development.

The commission was correct in refusing to put "no parking" signs along the stretch of road.

The area, known as "The Bathtub", is popular with families, as there is an offshore reef that offers excellent protection to bathers at that point on Hutchinson Island. While it is not good for fishing, makes an excellent place for children to swim.

Perhaps it is time for the commission to begin planning a fourth major bathing beach for the county, so that proper parking is provided for those who would use the beach, with shower and rest room facilities.

In that way, the beachgoers would have a place to park that is off the boulevard, and Martin County would provide a needed service.

Moratorium

Susan Burgess

The 9 a.m. 500

It was my first day of work at "The Mirror."

I sat at the intersection waiting for a chance to pull out. What appeared to be myriad maniacs flew north (and south on U.S. 1 as I waited.

It seemed like an eternity before I finally got the nerve to pull the station wagon across the northbound lane and turn south toward Jensen Beach.

I stepped on the accelerator trying to get my speed up to a level where I wouldn't be run over by some crazed driver who had mistaken Route 1 for the Daytona 500.

I was going 35 miles an hour as cars swerved crazily, passing me on the straightaway as though I were driving a bicycle car. Some would even creep right up to my bumper, blast the horn and then lean on it until long after they passed me.

I put on my blinker, waited until the coast was clear, and moved out into the left lane so I could make my turn onto Commercial Street.

Holding my breath, I tried to keep my speed up as I looked for the little turning lane.

Glancing in the mirror, I saw a whole bunch of cars [illegible]. Blinker signaling left, I [illegible] and pulled over, just in time to [illegible] reared on past as I waited for [illegible].

The green arrow came on, and I swung the car left, but a little [illegible] and nearly missed the [illegible] entrance to Commercial Street.

Righting the car, I breathed [illegible] and started off at about 40 miles an hour. Horrors! There were [illegible] passing me. I guessed the speed limit must be a little higher, so I [illegible] up. Then, I tried to catch up with cars zooming away ahead of me at 55 and decided that I'd had [illegible] volunteers behind me could [illegible] they wanted, but I was afraid to go faster.

I finally reached Skyline Drive where I had to make my left turn over to the office. I stopped and waited to make my turn. Behind me, horns blew and motors revved.

"Tough," I thought. "They can wait."

After a while a break in the traffic let me make my turn. I drove into the office, limp with relief. "How was you?" someone greeted me as I walked in. "Oh, fine," I said [illegible].

I walked upstairs, got a cup of coffee and sat down. I thought to myself one thing over. "If I can't drive, I won't work," I thought.

Each morning I would roll out of bed, get out to the car for the daily drive to work. As time went on, I began to [illegible] seem easier. Maybe I was just because I never got caught in rush hour traffic, or maybe it was because I figured out a new track on my way home one day. I approached the [illegible] going about 45 miles per hour in the right lane and stayed right behind [illegible] all the way home. This way, I kept the cars behind us right [illegible] leave us alone. It seemed to work. I drove home at a nice safe speed.

From then on, I looked for my turn going slowly and got right in [illegible].

Today, I actually drove around Stuart. Granted I had the steering wheel clutched in a death grip the whole time, but at least I made it, and I even missed my turns because people were pushing me down the road in front [illegible] twice.

Resolutions are coming

Every year I resolve not to make resolutions for the new year. Instead, I try to set goals for myself, and for the communities we serve.

It is a long process. For instance, last January, I swore that we would get the right-of-way for bike paths in Jensen Beach and have the path completed from the Sewall's Point line to the Causeway.

Well, we got the right-of-way. There are only a few pieces of bike path complete along Indian River Drive. The county has a long way to go to finish the job.

But, though not in my resolution, we did get some pretty important other pieces of bike path, including the one over the hill near the bowling alleys. An FIT student was killed riding a bike on that hill last year.

I also resolved to get the county to mark the bike paths we do have with signs so that they would be easy to follow for bikers. Few people know that you can ride a bike from downtown Jensen all the way to Tropical Acres on South Savanna Road on the bikepath-sidewalk system. That didn't get done either.

Another resolution that kinda stayed on hold for the year was the effort to get the Jensen Causeway bulkheading completed to halt erosion of the south shore of the park-picnic area. There has been much talk, little action, and a section of what was already bulkheaded has washed away and more erosion followed.

The Corps of Engineers took over the erosion control project there and did complete a section on the north side, but much more needs to be done on the south side, and the county commission will have to deal with that, starting with getting permits from the DER and DNR.

Trying to get a solution to the Commercial Street-Indian River Drive bottleneck is another item that has seen some progress and little action. The resolution was to get a ten to fifteen second left turn arrow for northbound traffic. The Department of Transportation studied the problem and took several surveys. The year before they did the same thing.

We did get the restriping of Ricou Blvd. so that cars were divided into right and left turn lanes heading east at Indian River Drive.

Signs on Hutchinson Island, removed during a repaving project a few years ago still have not been replaced. There used to be a "Jensen Beach" directional sign at the intersection of Causeway Blvd. and A-1-A. The county could probably get the DOT to return the signs if they wrote them a letter.

There were two major successes I feel great about during 1980. The first was fund-raising for the July 4 fireworks. It had always been a rough job for the Chamber of Commerce. Ransom Tilton suggested that we put together an appeal on an envelope that people could return with donations. He was right. We did it and the money came in from the great people who wanted to donate but didn't know how.

The other success was in getting the turtle watch into the right hands, the Naturalist Society of Florida Institute of Technology. Instead of several watches, the guys from FIT had them every weekend for four weeks. We learned a lot and even created a Jensen tee shirt that helped pay for the cost of running the watches.

We'll have an entire week of cultural events, concerts, ballet, bluegrass and an arts and crafts show. I have dreamed about this for many years, and now it looks like it is coming true, thanks to the organizational ability of Dr. Richard Penick, Jayne Petersen and Dr. Bill Hogan.

1981 resolutions are easy to make. I'm going to try to get those 1980 incompletes completed. I'll only add one very needed item: the reconstruction and repaving of the dangerous one-block long section of Candace Road between Sunview and Commercial Street, including the removal of the sawed-off poles that threaten every passing auto.

The simple pleasures

BELL GLADE
HERALD OBSERVER

Since moving to Florida some four months ago, and especially moving to LaBelle, I've been thrown into an entirely new environment with an entirely different breed of people in all respects.

If you've ever been thrown (or have ever thrown yourself) into this type of situation, you may understand what I'm about to write about. Now, understand the whole picture. I didn't know anyone in the state of Florida, I was unfamiliar not only with this area as a whole, but with specifics such as the landscape, the wildlife, the vegetation and the climate.

This type of situation gave me a whole new outlook on life. I've made it a part of my life now to remember all the little things that are slowly but surely making me a part of this country. I've been keeping a record of all the little things that have happened to me since moving down here and all the things and people I've run into.

Now, this isn't nearly as profound as I've been making it sound. But I thought I'd share with the Florida population a few of those things I've been logging that make me aware of my new surroundings and the new style of life around here. The simple pleasures of life since I moved here to what I call this living.

An electric blanket in an unheated apartment.

A lap-cat in the lefe of a single person.

A can of bug spray in the land of year-round ants, roaches and spiders.

Being knocked flat on your back at a football game and having the coach tell you that it was the best play of the game. Having your cannors and the company flash came out of the incident unscathed.

Being asked to take pictures and being then invited to indulge in a scrumptous turkey dinner.

Eating that scrumptous dinner and botching the pictures, but still being invited to another big dinner.

Finding that everyone in town knows you by name and face (your picture's in the paper every week) but you don't know anyone.

Getting a ride in an airboat but burning the skin off the top of your nose in the process.

Admiring the beautiful and foreign landscape along a well-traveled highway and a month later finding out how well patrolled that same highway is in the form of a yellow slip of paper.

Going back to school and finding out that fourth graders know more about alligators than you do.

Being educated about the two types of northerners, and finding that you're the most despicable of the two.

Learning that the favorite form of entertainment at the high school is for the principal to slap a creamy pie into a student's face.

Finding something to write about in this column every week when there's really nothing exciting happening in your life.

Well, working under these adverse conditions is nothing compared to the difficulty of just being the editor of a weekly newspaper. Recently I was sent somewhere from my mother in Wisconsin. I lugged it with the rest of my simple pleasures of life, even though it would probably best be logged in a separate category called "definitions." This is it:

Candid Comment — A small town is where they read the weekly paper to see if the editor got the news right. (Franklin P. Jones.)

I don't know who o' Franklin is, but I'm sure everyone in LaBELLE AGREES WITH HIM.

To The Editor:

We, the people in the United States and its possessions, should help to free the hostages in Iran. Met with armed force nor by paying the criminally inspired ransoms, but by showing that we as individuals are deeply concerned.

Very shortly, the Internal Revenue Service will be bulk mailing our 1040 Forms for the year 1980. These forms were printed months ago. I'm quite certain that our government printing office could do a rush print order for a small additional inclosure. Call it Form 1040 HR (Hostages Release).

The donation would be strictly voluntary and would be tax deductible.

With the IRS acting as the collection agency, there would be "no fingers in the pie."

I know that this method would never bring on the 25 billion dollars being asked for by these Iranian criminals, but it should bring in quite a few.

We, the private citizens, have always been there in a crisis whether an earthquake in Italy, starvation in Africa or a disaster any place in the world. Now it's time to take care of our own. Let our government use its statesmanship and bargaining, but let us as Americans show that we too can try to do our share.

'Fleet blessing' group names committees

An organizational meeting for the 1981 Blessing of the Fleet was recently held at the Anchor Line Yacht Club Clubhouse. Paul Goodel and Len Wenz, both of Anchor Line, and Blue Gavel, acted as co-chairmen.

A tentative date of April 4 was selected as the day for the event. The Blessing of the Fleet is one of the largest such events held in the United States. Last year, 381 boats and 12 yacht clubs participated. The event is open to all boat and yacht owners whether affiliated with a Yacht Club or not. Some committee chairmen were appointed, as follows: Safety Patrol - USCG Auxiliary, Treasurer - Dale Hudson, Judging coordinator, Les Weigh, Clergy - Lon Wear, Parade Planning - Ed Benedict, Awards - Paul Goodel, Dinner Dance - Capt. Don McLean, Tickets - Bill Wilson, Public Relations - Carl L. Waller. A secretary and General Chairman are yet to be decided upon.

Bird-studying is offered at IRCC

There is a difference between bird-watching and bird-studying; says Mrs. Ida Cantwell, instructor for IRCC's Continuing Education Florida Ornithology class. Class time is spent studying and learning to recognize birds via color slides, and bus trips are taken on weekends to observe the birds in their natural habitat.

In Fort Pierce, Mrs. Cantwell will conduct classes at the main campus on Tuesdays from 5:30 to 8 p.m. in Room R-133 beginning January 13. In Stuart, classes will meet at the Roschman Site each Wednesday from 9:30 to 11 a.m. beginning January 14; and on January 15, classes will begin meeting each Thursday in ORA, Nettles Island from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

Also, the Basic Florida Ornithology class will be taught at the Mueller Center in Vero Beach each Monday from 2 to 4:30 p.m. beginning January 12.

HOPE FOR HEALTH

Patients of the Webb Clinic are appraised of the importance of Preventive Health Care to avoid the consequences of a major or acute physical episode. Our health maintenance program relives muscle tensions and daily distresses associated with our modern cultures. A relaxed, healthy and straight body and spinal column functions better and is more capable of dealing with stress and strain.

One of the most common symptoms of muscle tension is headaches, associated with "tightness" of muscles in the neck and shoulder areas. Where a person's work keeps him confined to a desk for many hours everyday, it is almost impossible to avoid this tension without chiropractic treatments to maintain the spinal column in a straight line. Fatigue and slouching are the common accompaniment of the misaligned spine.

These and other aggravating symptoms can be relieved through a program of preventive maintenance chiropractic care.

Sparkling waters of the Indian River are great to be near

Maybe the skies were not bright and sunny all day, but it sure is great to look out on the sparkling waters of the Indian River after hearing on TV that the northern rivers were frozen over and bridges closed to traffic because of the icy conditions. It's too bad the young holiday visitors can't see more of our really wonderful weather, however, many braved the chilly breezes and took a dip in the warm ocean water.

Folks out on a bargain hunt or exchange expedition reported that the day after Christmas the traffic and parking were at their worst. One gal had such a problem finding spot, that she circled and circled many time before she was lucky to get in just as someone pulled out. Then, after an endless wait in check out line, she rushed out to her car... and couldn't find it. She'd circled until lost. Finally, an ex-policeman noting her plight, offered to help. So, with tag number and car description he went up and down the rows until it was found, and was Lets grateful.

There wasn't a returnee list at the office this week, if OBPers hadn't gotten here yet, they'd wait until after the holidays, however it was noted that Ed and Ethel Hemeld had opened up their place at 8 NE 10th. Also, there was a lot of family around, especially the grandchildren, so it behooves us regulars to watch out as we drive or bike around the park, as many of the young uns are darting here and there not realizing that some grandpas and grandmas aren't quite as spry as they were fifty years ago. Let's not mar their visit with even a very minor accident.

Some visitors are dumbfounded and scared witless when perfect strangers greet them with a cheery, hello; sheer amazement is portrayed as they stare straight ahead, trying to ignore such vulgarity). Give them a few days of this treatment and they'll have pleasant reply for you.

Your reporter has a "therapy" problem and for the next few weeks won't get around as of yore, so submitted items on park events will be greatly appreciated.

The park was buzzing with activities last week, even if the Carol Singers did get washed out, as leader Bernice O'Neil had to admit that the Sunday night deluge was too much for them. Better luck next year, Bernie.

The Christmas Party, Tuesday, was great and the newcomers had a chance to get acquainted during some of the mixer dances. Also, the Stimastic bunch had a chance to show off some of their new steps in the 'line' dances. And, of course, there were refreshments and Santa helped with the exchange of gifts.

Christmas is really for the kids and did they enjoy their party Wednesday noon. Odee Ecklund who has directed the refreshments for 28 years, had the Elfinettes for helpers this year, and Ida Wisser as usual trimmed the luncheon table. There were games and Santa had gifts for the 26 kids who were photographed like celebrities by proud grandparents.

There was no question about there being a church service Christmas morning, as the PA system got the OBPers up and ready in time for the 7:30 service. The usual large crowd enjoyed the service and although they missed Ralph Ortt as hymnleader, Ed Pettit did splendidly.

That's most of the Christmas story, except for one most important item, the Christmas dinner. Many had it at home inviting some lonely widow or widower in to share the meal with them, helping to make the holiday happy. Then, many others went out to eat, and in about every local restaurant, OBPer met OBPer, and exchanged greetings with a warning "Don't eat too much", which of course was completely ignored. Camera Club resumes it's regular Thursday night meetings, 7 p.m. Jan. 8, with Ed Pettit showing pictures taken last summer in Italy, Germany and at the Passion Play.

Shuffleers took it easy over the holidays as the league games were not scheduled and there were no East Coast Division Tournaments. But, the Buckaroos will have a 'Pay Day' (whatever that is) Mon., Dec. 29, and the Battle of the Sexes is even now being arranged and it isn't until March 9 and 10.

Bowlers heeded the 'dig' of last week and came up with news for the past three weeks, and here are some of the top items:

Dec. 9: High Score, Glean Corniels 215; Terry Losier 156. Both Kay and Marty Miller had 5 7 10, same game, same frame, most unusual.

Dec. 16: High Score, Herb Leuffgen 204. Evelyn Dandy 169.

Dec. 23: High Score, Glenn Gegan 175. Terry Losier 154. Team standings: Doodles and Yankees tied for first; Dandy's second; Snow Birds and Tall Ends tied for third.

HOSPITAL & OBITUARY

Jerry Beagle, 14 NE Broad; Margret Johnson, Pepper & Seventh; Ed Heinold, 6 NE 10th; Irene Burgess, 20 SW 6th, are back home recouperating! But, Floyd Prowell, 40 SW 5th and Mrs. Cammack, 2 Hibiscus are still in hospital.

Mrs. Anna Schmidt, 11 Kumquat, and Mr. John Faust, 16 Key Lime, died last week.

Sickness and death make much of the news where seniors live in groups, so how about a cheerful 'birth' item for a change. Rhonda Cumpsty was born right here in the park 23 years ago and she is visiting her parents Ronald and Catherine Cumpsty of Broad St. Rhonda after finishing her college education is employed in Dublin, Georgia. (Let's hear about other kids who were born in the park.)

Tuesday evening Dec. 30, 14 friends of Jean and Ralph Taylor enjoyed the annual Christmas Party on the Taylor's patio. Gifts are exchanged and many goodies served.

Pat Kime of N. Sailfish Drive was spending the holidays at Holiday Out with his many friends. He was taken ill and was taken to Martin Memorial Hospital. He is doing nicely now.

Ellen & J. C. Freeman celebrated Christmas Eve with the Paul Hinchbergers.

Lena and Bob Black had the Vinebergs, Bus & Norma, former visitors of Holiday Out, now at Pine Lake Village, also their brother and sister-in-law, David & Margaret Vineberg. They enjoyed a buffet supper and games.

Harold & Jean Messier enjoyed Christmas dinner with friends at Monlery Apts.

Al and Peg Ray went to Hialeah for Christmas to be with their son, Bob and his family.

Tess and Bill Miller are enjoying a visit of Son, Brent and Fran, and children Chad and Brian from Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas. They will be here for about two weeks.

daughter Jenny and husband John Rawe of Lewisburg, Tennessee were visitors for Christmas.

Late, late arrivals: Figgs, Weavers, Veglers, Hallers, Youngs, Bronats, Studebakers, Butts, Dubions, Falors, Evans of lot 77, Evans of 154, Shepards.

Anniversaries Congratulations: Camille and Loraine Lavoie 1-3, Jean and Mac McCabe 1-4, Art and Mary Wenlover 1-5.

Most of chapter activities are in a holiday lull but the Golden Eagle Bulletin goes on regardless. Assembly day is the first Thursday of the month. New Years day, and who wants to work on that day. So Boyd Smith got in touch with Mike Bocchino, Superintendent of Langford Park, and arranged to have the Field House for 10 a.m. Friday Jan 2. Therefore all you bulletin folder and stuffers, get yourself over to Langford for 10 a.m. Better bring your brown bag lunch. For information call Boyd 334-2244.

Last week there was a very nice memorial service at the Jensen Beach Community Church for Chapter Director, Wendal Morris, who died suddenly last fall. There were a number of AARP and MCCA officials present to show Wendy's three boys, who came down for the service, that he was extremely well liked for the many senior services that he had sponsored.

Exchange bulletins are handy for chapter items when it is between times, so here are a few things of interest from the North Palm Beach Chapter's publication.

They serve cake and coffee at their social get-togethers, members just bring a sandwich (an affair much like our monthly picnics). Then the next item "Dues are DUE" ($1.00). So, they've found a way to supply refreshments and keep dues low (we better investigate?).

They mention the workshop seminars that are coming up soon and point out that starting this year, not just the officials, but everybody is invited (John Vance emphasized that at our last meeting).

There was an item asking the members to be on the lookout for prospective advertisers. According to Editor Boyd Smith, we have a problem filling in the advertisers and at times have a waiting list. Remember, we got a good start years ago, by putting out something that was readable, full of items on senior activities and it was being delivered right into the homes of up to 1000 of the most active seniors. Interested advertisers call 334-2244 for rates.

Here's an item that might be well for us to incorporate. It's the listing of the names of the new members. We might expand the listing to cover their hobbies and interests, so committee chairmen could know of possible volunteers and members of like interests could get acquainted (a little while ago members interested in Genealogy got together this way).

Venture Three

BY VIRGINIA SHINSKI

We extend to all our Venture Three neighbors and friends Very Special Joys and a Wonderful bright New Year. Virginia and Leonard Shinski.

Robert Capizan 21 new phone of Pat and Larry Bell injured in an accident while at work last week is improving after some surgery but is still in the hospital in the intensive care unit.

We of Venture Three extend our deepest and heartfelt sympathy to the families of Bill Mizell and Russ Lindeman.

From Indianapolis Indiana Mr. and Mrs. Eddie McKinney in their eighties spent Christmas and much of December with their daughter Jackie Kirkbride. They traveled to Ft. Myers this week to spend the balance of the winter with their son Arthur.

Here for two weeks vacation over the Holidays, visiting her parents Guy and Jane Birkdale is daughter Suzan and her husband Manny Lizalgias with their daughter Jennifer 11 and Henry 11. They will be stopping to see Disney World over the New Year before returning to their home in Somerville New Jersey. Another daughter of the Birkdales, Jane and husband George Sigler of Orlando joined the family here at Venture Three for a short visit before going on to Disney World.

An Eckerd College student, Eddie Kirkbride, came in Sunday to Christmas for his three weeks holiday break. He has been busy visiting with his grandparents, the Mckinneys and his mother Jackie Kirkbride and all his cochlear chums from Ft. Pierce Westwood High School. He returns to school the first week after New Years. Eddie will be anticipating his winter term project. A group from college will be taking 2 sailboats a 28 footer and a 41 footer for two weeks on a biology expedition to the Dry Tortugas in the Gulf of Mexico on a research project. About a dozen young men and women will be participating in this venture and each person will have his own individual line of research to accomplish.

Welcome the following Snowbirds from the North Beatrice and Kenneth Prickett. The Montalbanos Elizabeth and Pete Costie, Emelie and Lee Perrault from Quebec and Mr. and Mrs. Walsh on the Eisenhard side.

A practice Bunko Game will be held Tuesday, January 6 at 7:30 P.M. with a regular game following two days later on Thursday at 7:30 PM. Each night everyone is to bring cookies for four people. The practice game is gratis and the regular has a $.50 donation. As the ticket sale is limited get them early from the following, Pat Bell, Tony DePaula or Tom Ostrom chairman.

Were happy they had hired such great guys and girls.

When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
Dick sets down his scotch to see what's the matter.

We threw open the window, the one that does work
And saw a sight or was it a quark.

What to our wondering eyes should appear
But a silver Porsche, not any reindeer.

Mary crawled out and said with a smile
"I'll drink to that every once in a while!"

Jeanie was happy
Rose bore a smile
Peggy just said "Oh God, that's my child!"

On Rosie, on Jeanie, on Marcia & Peg
On John, on Lois, on Charlie & Sue
On Nina, on Lundin, on Salli too!

From the top of the headliners to the classified ad
Our paper was done & we weren't it but sad.

You could hear Dick exclaim as he drove out of sight,
Hell of a party, let's do it again next Tuesday night!

CONDO CONVERSION TWIST

ESTION: There is a building availwhich I think is ideally suited for nversion to condominium owner-
. It is very well located and sists of eight apartments. The blem is that the lady who owns it s in one of the apartments. It is a utiful unit and, although she is d of running the building, she is y hesitant about selling and ving. Because of this she has priced property at a level which makes it nomical to convert to condomin-
. Any ideas?

SWER: You might try this.
ause it appears that she is "in love"
h the unit in which she resides, sider granting her a life estate in unit. That way, you can negotiate reduced purchase price and grant r the right to remain in the unit for rest of her life.

You can then proceed with the nversion, retaining title to the unit which she is living and deeding out other seven units. To produce ome from her unit, you may be able purchase an annuity for her which ll pay the equivalent of rent each nth for as long as she resides there.
cost of this annuity may be less n your savings from her current ated asking price.

Another possibility to consider is to ply purchase the property from and then sell her apartment back her in conjunction with the

Men's Garden Club to view slides of Russia

James Foster, former owner of Peruvian Landscape Company, will present the Men's Garden Club of Martin County with outstanding slide scenes of his recent 7,300-mile trip through Russia on the Trans-Siberian Railroad. Foster, who is a dedicated world traveler, also visited the Philippine Islands on a scuba diving adventure in recent months.

Newly-elected president Herb Cary will preside at the meeting, replacing John Nairn, 1980 president of the club.

Three new [illegible] were announced. They are: William B. Boone, Hugh O. Lalor and Ralph C. Morgan, all of Jensen Beach.

The sixteenth annual Christmas party held in December brought out about 150 members and their wives.

Held at the Elks Club dinner consisted of prime ribs with all the trimmings, salad bar, dessert and coffee. Enthusiastic Christmas carol singing to a four-piece orchestra followed.

Several awards were given out by committeeman George Ewing. Receiving individually engraved hand crafted plaques were: Grant Morse, for dedicated service in publishing the newsletter; Larry Biddle, for service in arranging weekly trains for the past seven years; Pat Patterson for "all the great devoted service rendered to the club."

After the ceremonies, members, wives and guests enjoyed dancing to the music of the orchestra.

Hospital awards go to volunteers

The Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary awards will be presented at the January 5 meeting at 1:30 p.m. The following awards will be presented: 1000 hour pin, Theodosia Frampton; 500 hour pin, Virginia Cale, Alice Kelly; 300 hour pin, Carmela DeBeun, Betty Fordham, Rosemary Kaufman, Pamela Martin, Doris Lehsing, Marie Pebler, Etiene Smither, Fran Swerney, and Selma Stowe; 50 hour emblems, Florence Bedell, Richard Champin, Antoinette Hebert, Frieda Kerstetter, Ann Palmer, Cecelia Reiling, Catherine Sineo, Kitty shira, Ruth Siegenthaler, Barbara Trimble, Adelaide Ward, Victor J. Fucigna and Lucille Ricks.

Katie Tyner awards chairman announced that 456 members worked a total number of 7354 hours, of these totals 69 Anchormen worked 1173 hours.

Adelines induct two

The Sailfish Chapter of Sweet Adelines inducted 2 new members last month. They are Peggy Lyon of North River Shores in Stuart, and Landa Maxwell of Sandra Dr. in Jensen Beach. The new initiates will be joining the 30 member chorus for its Christmas Engagements.

This month's prospective members who have just passed their auditions are Alice Cassel, Regina Sloan, and Lois Wtulich.

The chorus is still interested in adding 5 new voices before its show in March. All interested women should call 334-7761 or 287-4238.

License your pet

Dog and cat owners are reminded to license their pets in 1981.

The licenses are issued by Martin County veterinarians with the annual receives its rabies shot each year. There is no special month when pet licenses are due.

According to Assistant County Administrator Roger Nichols, owners of animals without tags are liable for a special fee if their pet is impounded for any reason.

Nichols also noted that the county commission may consider a leash law in the near future in response to complaints about animals running loose.

Martin County trial term set

A two-week trial term will begin in Martin County Circuit Court, Criminal Division, on Friday, January 16. Starting on February, trial terms will be held for three weeks each month.

Plea days will be held every other week, starting Friday, January 9. Motion days are every Friday also beginning on Friday, January 9.

Capruso out of intensive care

Robert Capruso, 21, of Jensen Beach, in critical condition following the cave-in of a drainage ditch last week, is now out of intensive care and in a private room following surgery at Martin Memorial hospital spokeswoman said today.

Capruso was trapped up to the waist in 12 tons of wet cement at a construction site in Indiantown. Two other men, Russell Lademan, 33, of Port St. Lucie and Bill Mizell, 55, of Jensen Beach, were killed.

Surgery was done to repair damage to the legs, pelvis and lower torso. Involved were his pelvis, spine and internal organs.

Capruso was rescued after [illegible] hours of intensive work by scores of rescue workers. A special pair of rubberized trousers kept him from going into shock after he was extricated.

Local artist exhibits work

Eleanor Green Feinberg, who signs herself simply Eleanor, will have a showing of her art work on the mezzanine at the main office of First Federal Savings of Ft. Pierce, Orange Avenue and Second Street, for the months of January and February.

Eleanor, a resident of Golf Village, Spanish Lakes, is a graduate of Washington Irving High School. She attended Cooper Union, Manhattan College, The New School and Brooklyn Academy of Arts and Sciences at the Brooklyn Museum. She has studied with such fine artists as Moses, Soyer, Paul Mommer, Reinhartz and portrait artist Paul Honigsberg. Though adept with such media as water colors, pastels and pen and ink drawings, Eleanor enjoys working in oils. While she is perfectly at home doing florals, scenes and still life, she prefers painting portraits.

Mrs. Feinberg has exhibited in New York City and on Long Island, where she resided until her recent move to Port. St. Lucie.

NFL conference semifinals set

BY DICK LUNDIN

The Dallas Cowboys and Oakland Raiders having knocked the Los Angeles Rams and the Houston Oilers out of the NFL playoffs in Wild Card playoff games played last Sunday, the playoff action heats up next Saturday and Sunday when the NFC and AFC conference semifinals will be played.

In the American Conference, Buffalo, the AFC East champions, will meet the San Diego Chargers, AFC West titleholders, at San Diego with kickoff time 4 p.m., Saturday. On Sunday, it will be the Oakland Raiders playing the Browns in Cleveland. The Raiders, a wild card team, will be seeking to stay alive in the sudden death playoffs with a win over the AFC Central champion Browns.

In the national conference, the Minnesota Vikings, rulers of the NFC Central Division, will invade Philadelphia for a go against the NFC East champion Eagles. Kickoff time, at 12:30 p.m. on Saturday. On Sunday, the Wild Card Dallas Cowboys from the NFC East will take on the homestanding NFC East champion Atlanta Falcons. Kickoff time at 4 p.m.

Saturday and Sunday's winners in each conference will meet on the following Sunday, for the conference championships and the right to play in Super Bowl XV in New Orleans on Jan. 15, 1981.

Both Oakland and Dallas were impressive in their outings last weekend, and must be considered definite possibilities to stay alive this weekend. Dallas thrashed Los Angeles 34-13 and Oakland routed Houston, 27-7. In each case, the home team was the winner.

Those home fields could be the key to this weekend's games too. Buffalo might be the favorite at home but should find the Chargers too much out in San Diego. Minnesota will give the Eagles all they can any grace ever in Philadelphia but if Wilbert Montgomery and Ron Jaworski are sound, the hometowners should prevail. The Oakland-Cleveland game promises to be the widest of the four. The Raiders are tough against the run, as they proved against Houston, but the Browns live by the pass more than the run and that could prove to be the difference. The Browns figure to win this one, possibly in overtime. Unless Atlanta can slow down Tony Dorsett, it could be a long day per chime way, but these Falcons and Zeke Bartkowski have been tough at home and ought to corral the Cowboys after a struggle.

Anyway you look at it, there'll be a lot of great pro football on the tube Saturday and Sunday.

BRIDGE FISHING—Some fish and some watch. This fishing scene depicts an afternoon alongside the Frank Wacha Bridge on the Jensen Causeway, with the wooden span in the background and two anglers and two onlookers in the foreground. The fisherman at the channel is unidentified. The other one is Mike Anderson, watchers are Mike's grandfather, Michael Gelorma and father, Tom Anderson. They said they were staying Indian River Plantation while enjoying the natural and fishing potential of the Jensen-Hutchinson Island

Best action now is for bluefish in the surf and St. Lucie Inlet

BY DICK LUNDIN

THAT STIFF BLOW and attendant chilly weather has just about put the kibosh on all-area fishing, but hardy bluefish have been doing well by those brave souls able to withstand the bodily torments associated with fishing when half frozen stiff.

The blues are scattered up and down the Hutchinson Island surf from the Normandy Beach access road just south of the power plant on down to the Martin County Park N-Fish access road south of the Jensen Causeway, and in the St. Lucie River from Marker 19 to the Crossroads to the mouth of the St. Lucie Inlet.

They are hitting Krocodile spoons and cut bait mackerel and mullet, and providing the most action in the late afternoon when the tide's high and at night in the river.

It ain't a hot spot you want, get a boat and fish the inlet on the south side at the edge of the fast water with cut mackerel or Krocs around a high tide in the afternoon. Also, if you can take the cold, use cut mackerel and chunk to fish for blues while anchored in the St. Lucie from Marker 19 to the Crossroads at night.

When you've said blues, you've said it all. The cold weather has sent the seatrout and snook into semi-hibernation and bottom fishing from area bridges is slow, slow, slow.

With signs that the offshore situation is letting up, this could be a good time to do some offshore bottom fishing from the two area party boats, the Miss Fort Pierce and Lady Stuart, or some trolling for sailfish, wahoo, dolphin or king mackerel. The fish are out there if you can make it through the inlet safely — really a neat trick this past week.

FROM THE MISS FORT PIERCE (464-4838): Rita Fasano: "We've been back in operation for over a week now, Dick. The news media really blew that little hole in our hull way out of proportion. It was unfortunate. There was never any real danger, and most of our people kept right on fishing throughout. Fishing was real good until this blow, especially for gray grouper and even some genuine red snappers. Now that the wind's died down, the fishing should pick up. Once a month now, we're running a long trip from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., going out longer and often farther. Our normal fee is $25 plus $3 for a rod, with senior citizens and children paying $16. On the long trip, it's $30 for all. We go every day from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., with no night fishing right now. Happy New Year."

TOM STEWART from the Snook Nook in Jensen: "Fishing's very poor. There aren't any live shrimp and no matter how hard we try, we just can't come up with any. When it's this cold, the big ones dig in and all the netters can come up with are some small ones that we take, even though we don't really want them. Fishermen can use frozen shrimp and do pretty well, however, and shouldn't give up fishing just because live shrimp aren't available. We have plenty of fresh mullet and mackerel, but clams are in short supply, too, because of the cold. There is good bluefishing in the surf from Normandy Beach down to the Park N-Fish, and excellent action on blues in the inlet on the south side near the fast water. A good time to fish the surf Thursday would be from 2-5 p.m. Use Krocs, spoons or cut bait. You may find a school of channel bass with the blues in the inlet. Fro the bridges not much is being caught, but there are some blues around the Evans Crary, 10 cent Bridge. Seatrout are in the deep holes and hard to catch. The whiting have slowed in the surf. Spanish mackerel have moved down off the Palm Beaches. Dick, we'll be closed on New Year's Day to watch the Bowl games."

The Nook's log: Bill Reuthol and Ed King, 10 blues on cut mackerel in the surf; Bill Maley, 6 blues, same; Harold Edwards, 8 blues, same; Roger Cares, 8-4 blues, same; Leo Clark, 4 blues, same; Irv Fisher, 3 blues, Creek Chub popper, south of the Ernest Lyons (25 cent) Bridge; Joel Kalman, 13 channel bass to 7-8, 7 lbs 8 oz.; Krocs, St. Inlet; Lester and Tom Whipple, 8 blues, Krocs, inlet; Bill Martinelli, 13-0 snook, red tail hawk feathered jig; Frank Wacha Bridge.

STEWART lamented: "I forgot that he said he had received from Fort Pierce to the effect that nearly 2 million pounds of Spanish mackerel had been received by one fish house there in December. Dick, if we don't stop this soon, we may not have any Spanish mackerel around any more, like the kingfish over on the west coast of Florida. It's time they put on some controls, like stopping netters from stretching their nets right off the beach and cleaning out everything that's there. Our fishery resource won't last forever. We need to do something soon."

FROM THE BAIT BOX IN JENSEN: Chuck Shepherd: "It's been too rough offshore. The surf is all messed up. There are no live shrimp now. Chuck's log: Randy Richardson a 4-0 channel bass, live shrimp, Jensen Causeway; Bill Sadusky, 5 seatrout to 4-8, 7 Mil and 21 mirrolures, wading near the power plant."

J.D. SACHS from Manatee Bait and Tackle: "There are some dolphin out there starting in about 85 ft. of water. The sailies are plentiful but deep, like beyond 180 ft. We had a nice run of big wahoo last week. There are plenty of bonito and kings, with the kings ranging over the three reefs from 75 to 125 ft. To catch the kings, use a deep spoon or trolled mullet. Get it down to 30-50 ft. below the boat with wireline with a long cigar sinker on it. Run out a good length of 100 lb. monofilament leader behind it and have a small wire leader up front. The inlet's been a terror this week with unusually high ground seas. The Spanish mackerel are off the Loran tower near Hobe Sound. Blues are good in the inlet, at the Crossroads and around Marker 19. Fish for them in the late afternoon on a falling tide or at night when the fishing's the best. Anchor up, set up a chum line and go to fishing with your cut bait. The blues flock to the stern of your boat."

Fort Pierce Jai Alai opens

The Fort Pierce Jai Alai Fronton will open on Friday, Jan. 2 with an All-Star roster of players. The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. with free champagne being offered early arrivals while the supply lasts, "to help toast a successful season."

There will be evening performances every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday, and a matinee every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday. New this year will be a policy admitting persons 60 and over free to all matinees.

Chobee moratorium on netting

THOSE HARRIED SPECKLED PERCHover at Lake Okeechobee will get a two-month reprieve from commercial netters from Jan. 1 through Feb. 28 when the legal commercial harvest of game fish at the big lake will be prohibited, according to the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"A closed season will be imposed on the use of trawl and haul seines and on the harvest and sale of scale fish during that time span. The only exception will be the sale of scale fish tagged prior to Jan. 1, which may be sold continuously," Dennis Hammond, section leader of commercial fisheries with the Commission, said.

This the third straight season that the Commission has limited commercial fishing on the lake.

"Closed seasons serve two purposes. They protect the fisheries resource being harvested and also work to enhance better relationships between sport and commercial fishing interests," Hammond explained.

The purpose of the Commission's Melbourne decision earlier this month, according to Hammond, was to maximize returns to the anglers of harvestable black crappies (specks) presently in the 450,000-acre lake. He pointed out that the average size of specks harvested will be up an inch to an inch and a half over last year's harvest. Last year, the average size of this sportfish was 9.5 inches.

The very best speck fishing at Chobee and other area lakes is in January, February and March when the tasty black crappies go to spawning and can be taken readily on live Missouri minnows and tiny jigs.

HUNTERS interested in the special hunts scheduled for the Tosohatchee and Hillsborough Wildlife Management areas will be interested to learn that applicants successful at a Dec. 20 random drawing in Tallahassee will be notified soon, according to Robert B. Butler, administrative assistant with the Division of Wildlife, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Butler said that 804 persons were selected for the Tosohatchee hunts and 756 chosen for those at Hillsborough. "Those selected will be receiving their validated permits within the next few days," Butler said at Christmas time. A hunt map and regulations governing the hunts will also be received by successful applicants, so watch your mail if you had your name in the hat for the Dec. 20 drawing.

If you didn't make it, you'll be so advised shortly after Jan. 1, Butler added.

The third phase of the statewide dove season and deer hunting in almost all areas of the state will end on Jan. 4, according to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"Hunters should be careful to note Jan. 4 on their calendars as the last day for hunting deer and turkey except in the Northwest Region," Fred W. Stanberry, director of the Division of Wildlife for the Commission, said.

On that date deer season will end in the Northeast, Central, South and Everglades Regions. Deer hunting will be permitted through Jan. 25 in the Northwest Region except that portion generally occupied by the Escambia River Swamp (boundaries of the area are posted).

Also closing on that date will be the wild hog season in Palm Beach and Alachua Counties and those portions of Collier, Dade and Monroe Counties opened in November.

The bear season will also close in Baker and Columbia Counties.

The turkey season will end on Jan. 4 in all regions of the state, except for the Northwest where gobblers only may be taken in Leon, Gadsden, Jefferson and Wakulla Counties through Jan. 25.

Quail and squirrel season will continue to be open statewide through March 1.

Opening and closing dates of specific wildlife management areas may differ from general hunting season dates and hunters are reminded to contact their area Commission field office (West Palm Beach) for details.

Counties in the Northwest Region are Escambia, Santa Rosa, Okaloosa, Walton, Holmes, Jackson, Bay, Calhoun, Gulf, Liberty, Franklin, Wakulla, Leon, Gadsden and Jefferson.

ennis in Martin County;
Iariner Sands was the first

BY TOM FALKENBURG
Second in a series

I talked with the principals of Loxe Jupiter Development Corp. They had just purchased Martyn's Yard and Country Stuart; and 2000 feet along the River plus the new Mariner and Mariner Cay.

wanted someone to build and their proposed tennis facilities. ...e I was working five days a ...ilding condo's in Boca and Del ... playing tennis about four ...month and golf twice a month. ...t immediately saw a chance to ... I really liked all the time and ...for it too. Pre 1970, a tennis ... a second class citizen who ...through the rear gate, and ate ... kitchen, at many clubs. I ...er playing at the Boca Hotel ...arren Woodcock the Pro, and ... away in his new Cadillac ...ible, in 1970, so I knew things ...anging regarding tennis pros ...

We got together, then I took the exam and became a certified U.S.P.T.A. tennis pro and moved to Stuart.

Best move I ever made. Unfortunately the '74 crunch put Mariner Sands on hold for several years until the new owners took it over. I was the first person on that golf course, playing it and watching the grass grow months before a flag was ever put on a green. Chasing the rattlesnakes off the tennis courts was also an unusual experience during the growing years.

The crunch stopped a lot of development, but somehow tennis just kept on growing. As late as 1974, I had the John Carroll High School tennis team traveling to Stuart for lessons. Then I traveled to Tequesta to help get the Rivers Edge T.C. going, after a year of having 50 people coming up to Stuart for lessons.

That was a fun time as well, with so many really nice people. After the Club was finished, I drove down two mornings a week to teach 90 ladies how to play tennis.

Another day, at the Y.C.C.S., a couple of afternoons at Miles Grant, another morning at the Hutchinson House Condo, two afternoons at Green Turtle Cove and Holiday Inn, one morning at Conquistador. Late evenings at Twin Lakes where we lived, plus several private homes, qualifies me to be a 'circuit rider.' Oh, I almost forgot a few hours at the Bay Harbour Club.

In my spare time, I laid out, designed, consulted, supervised and/or built most of these courts. I also designed and supervised the Eastpoint C.C. where I was the Director of Tennis but had several assistants. I still had a little free time, so two nights a week I traveled to Indiantown to give clinics to over 100 kids, parents, and grandparents. One Sunday afternoon I squeezed in a clinic for 100 people at the Martin County High School to show three other pros how to handle more than six people on a court.

Then I slowly helped other pros take over most of these teaching areas, so that I could concentrate on building a few more courts. I have been involved with over 50 courts in M.C.

Mariner Sands, the really first tennis club in the Stuart area, and the first professional pro shop with all the services, was the real beginning of tennis in Martin County. I gave Frank DeStefano several lessons, but certainly don't want credit for any of his strokes. They're his own.

I worked with Danny Rinaldi Jr. and Tina, and one day a ball flew over the fence, and little five year old Kathy put her doll down to fetch the ball. When she threw the ball over the 10' fence like a ball player, I said she is ready now to start lessons. I worked with Kathy for a couple of years. When she was eight she played an exhibition at Miles Grant with my mother who was 75. When she was nine, she played the finals of a 12 and under in Ft. Pierce, and I was playing the finals of the 50 and over on the adjoining court. We both won despite watching each other the whole time. One of my mementos is a drawing Kathy did in the first or second grade for me.

Two other young ladies who had lots of potential, working twice a week, were Brenda and Gail Grossnickle. When Brenda was 12, she asked me to show her how to do an American twist serve. She learned it in only one week and I have never seen any 12 year-old girl serve better.

Dr. Witta of Jupiter-Tequesta brought his whole family for lessons, which took an afternoon. One day another stray ball caught Brian Witta's eye, and he threw a zinger back over the fence. So what's strange about that? He was just 3½ and didn't talk very much.

Needless to say, I got him on the court when I finished big brother, and he took to it like a duck to water. The next week when they came back, I had an old racket shaved down to a 2¼ inch handle and Brian was hitting off the Ball Machine.

Kids are great, but I get as much satisfaction out of teaching older folks because it is much tougher. A 6 year old starts hitting pretty well in a month, while a 60 year old who has never played tennis may go six months before making it look easy or natural. I have worked with over 500 retirees, many for the very first time.

Some say, "yes I have played, but it's been about 40 years." Several have had heart attacks, and one that I know of has a pacemaker. Many have some kind of a handicap.

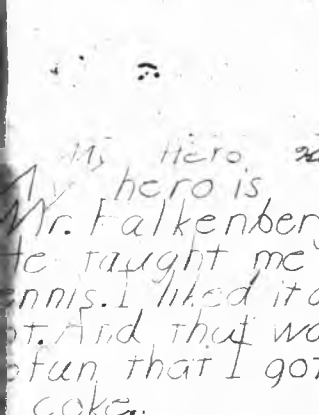
I remember Baird Tuckahery saying I sure would like to play, but my knees are just too bad, and I'm 68. I said it's easy, just swing at what you can, holler "yours" if you can't reach it, and say "good shot" if it goes by.

Lelia Oughterson had mixed emotions when she asked me one day, "do you think you could get Scott to beat Bill?". I said yes, in ten lessons. Bill didn't know whether to be happy or sad when he lost to Scott the first time.

Tennis in Martin County

The Florida Tennis Association recently reported that Martin County has grown from two courts in 1970 to 170 in 1980, and from a handful of players to 5,000 now. The growth was attributed to Tom Falkenburg, tennis pro at Indian River Plantation. Falkenburg, writing exclusively for The Mirror on tennis, has prepared his story on the history of tennis in this area. It will be in three installments.

COMPANIONS—Four local pros worked closely together to promote tennis in this area, often enjoying competition with each other on the courts. Left to right in this 1979 photo are Bob Grossman, Crane Creek; Gavin Ford, North River Shores; Tom Falkenburg, Indian River Plantation, and Mario Obando, Mariner Sands.



NOTE—One of Tom Falkenburg's treasured mementoes is this note by Kathy Rinaldi when she was seven. Last year, Rinaldi won the grand slam tournaments, to win top ranking in 14-year-olds in the country.

Free tennis clinic planned at Martin Downs

There will be a free tennis clinic on Thursday, January 8 at the Racquet Club in Martin Downs.

Two sessions will be held, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon, and one from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. for beginners.

Persons interested in learning tennis can make reservations by calling Bob Grossman at 283-4416. Racquets and balls will be furnished and there is no charge for courts and instruction.

Crane Creek New Year's Invitational

Crane Creek Racquet at Martin Downs announces a New Year's Invitational Tennis Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, December 3 & 4, 1981.

The invitational will "include men and women's singles and doubles divisions. Trophies will be awarded to all winners and runner's up in each singles and doubles category.

The entry fee is $6.00 for singles and $4.00 per person for doubles. For more information contact Bob Grossman, Crane Creek tennis tournament director at 288-4416.

All entries must be received no later than Thursday, January 1, 6:00 p.m. Players may call after 12:00 noon on Friday, January 2 for starting times.

Sandpiper Bay woman's golf

Rain halted play of the Sandpiper Bay Woman's Golf Association last Tuesday. The tournament of the day "Low Net in Flights" was cut to nine holes using ½ handicap. Helen Osborne had the low round of the day a 33. Flight winners and their net scores for nine holes were:

First Flight: Jan Werges 35½, Millie Cosentino and Nancy Horsley 36, Mary Wilson 37.

Second Flight: Joan Oliver and Dorie Beckman tied at 34½, Pearl Gratzer 37, and Sally Lesher 38.

Third Flight: Helen Osborne 33, Betty Nardone 35, Sylva Barnwell 37, Jane Harper 37½.

Fourth Flight: June Johns and Marian Brandeen tied at 38½, Doris Muller 39, Monty Miller 40½.

Fifth Flight: Marge Thomas 28, Kay LaFlair 38½, Inez Bowman 42½, Eleanor Flanagan and Myrtle Fleming tied at 43.

Semi-finals of the match play "President's Cup" was halted after 8 holes.

PUMPING—Fill for the Indian River Plantation tennis courts was pumped into place in 1977.

Hospital Aux to meet Jan 5

The Martin Memorial Hospital Auxiliary will hold a monthly meeting January 5, at 1:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Parish hall on East Ocean Boulevard in Stuart.

Dr. Daniel S. Dennison who specializes in hematology and oncology will address the group. We invite all to attend and do bring a guest. Refreshments will be served by hostesses Bertha Morris, Marge Smith and Helen Krivak under the direction of Bev. McAlister.

Arts and craft show Jan. 9 & 10

Entries for the annual Arts and Crafts Festival, scheduled for Jan. 9 & and 10 at Stuart's Monterey Plaza, have been coming in from all parts of Florida and from as far away as Ohio and Canada.

The festival is sponsored each January by the Monterey Plaza Merchants' Association. The public will benefit by being able to view and purchase a wide range of original works.

To date artists working in oil, acrylic, water, German Paper Cutting and Chinese painting have entered. The craft booths will display examples of wood crafts, shell creations, porcelain birds, copper creations, ceramics, wood toys, weaving, stained glass, hats, pottery, hand painted china, sculpture, unique footstools, sand dollar clocks, and cypress crafts.

The artists and craftsmen will be in attendance from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days. Monterey Plaza, with its arched porticos and covered promenades, is considered an ideal setting for an arts and crafts festival by both the artists and viewing public.

Round table top service officials

The inaugural program of Palm Beach Round Table's 1981 series, scheduled Jan. 6, will feature the Secretary of the Navy, the Vice Chief of Staff of the Army and the former commander in chief of the Air Force's vital Strategic Air Command, Frank Strigus, Executive Director of Round Table, announced today.

The guests, each an expert and a highly influential person in articulating the nation's military needs, are:

The Honorable Edward Hidalgo, Secretary of the Navy;

General John W. Vessey, Jr., Vice Chief of Staff, U. S. Army; and

General Russell E. Dougherty, USAF (Ret), former Commander in Chief, Strategic Air Command.

These three outstanding Americans, all powerful spokesmen for our armed forces, will discuss the security and defense of the United States. Their topic and appearance here could not be more timely for Round Table.

Wright said, especially as the face of the unprecedented escalation of the Soviet Union's military might and the continuing crises in Poland and the Middle East.

The opening program Jan. 8 will be at 1 p.m. at the Royal Poinciana Chapel, 60 Coconut Row, Palm Beach. This program will usher in Palm Beach Round Table's 49th consecutive season, and the series of eight events, every other Thursday, always at 1, will continue through April 16.

Season round seating is open for the for the eight programs are available from the Round Table, 715 South Flagler Dr., W.P.B. Telephone info at 833-2886. The membership at $120, plus guest invitations to all non-social events, including the Opening Palm Beach Ball.

BEFORE THE CITY COMMISSION
CITY OF STUART, FLORIDA
RESOLUTION NO 65-80
NOTIFYING THE PUBLIC THAT THE CITY WILL NOT FURNISH WATER TO SOUTHERN GULF UTILITIES, INC. FOR USE BY NEW PROJECTS ON HUTCHINSON ISLAND, ST LUCIE COUNTY, FLORIDA, WITHOUT SPECIFIC AUTHORIZATION THEREOF BY THE CITY COMMISSION

WHEREAS, the City of Stuart on January 1, 1964, entered into an Agreement with Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc., concerning the sale of water by the City to Southern Gulf; and

WHEREAS, the City of Stuart does not wish an expansion of the service area covered by such agreement; and

WHEREAS, further expansion to serve additional areas on Hutchinson Island, St Lucie County, Florida, would seriously tax the City's ability to provide water to its existing users.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF STUART, FLORIDA

1. That the City of Stuart will not provide any water to Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc. for use by any new projects on Hutchinson Island, St Lucie County, Florida, without specific authorization thereof by the City Commission.

2. That the Clerk shall send a certified copy of this resolution to Southern Gulf Utilities, Inc., shall record a certified copy in the public records of St Lucie County, at Fort Pierce, Florida, and shall cause a copy of this resolution to be published once in the PORT ST LUCIE MIRROR

LEGAL NOTICE

December 22, 1980

Dear Customer:

On December 12, 1980, the Florida Public Service Commission approved an increase in water and sewer connection charges for General Development Utilities, Inc.

These new rates are effective on an interim basis and are subject to refund based upon the final decision of the Florida Public Service Commission. The increases apply only to new connections and, therefore, do not affect existing customers.

The effective date of the increases will be February 1, 1981, and are as follows:

	PRESENT	INTERIM EFFECTIVE February 1, 1981
Water
Plant Capacity	$ .36 per GPD	$ .50 per GPD
Line Extension	$ 2.19 per foot	$ 3.00 per foot
Meter 1½" meter	$75.00	$100.00
Sewer
Plant Capacity	$ .36 per GPD	$ .75 per GPD
Line Extension	$ 4.54 per foot	$ 8.45 per foot

The effect on a single family residential unit with a ¾" water meter and 80 feet fronting on the water and sewer mains, for example, is as follows:

	PRESENT	INTERIM EFFECTIVE February 1, 1981
Water	$274.20	$315.00
Sewer	$469.20	$938.00

The increases are consistent with our current construction loans for both utility lines and treatment plants to meet existing regulatory requirements. Approval of these charges is expected after a public hearing has been held. The time and location of the hearing will be published in the local newspapers.

Very truly yours,
GENERAL DEVELOPMENT UTILITIES, INC.

B-1 ZONING
Located close to one of Stuart's major intersections. This nearly one and one-third acre parcel of land has many possibilities. And presently has a commercial building with over 3000 sq. ft. of floor space — plus a beautifully decorated 3 bedroom, 3 bath home, and a 3 bedroom, 2 bath home. Ideal for an owner who wants an elegant home to live in and have his business in a portion, or in all, of the commercial building — or the homes could be removed and a strip store or other commercial operation established. All buildings are in excellent condition with the whole area being beautifully landscaped. One of Stuart's fastest growing areas which will surely continue to be most desirable. $550,000. Last No. 116. Please call Joseph J. Bazzano, Broker-Salesman, for an appointment to receive further details. Aft. Hrs. 283-0808.

Now there is a truly distinctive country club community

Stuart is now the place to be in South Florida. And Mariner Sands in Stuart has already established itself as the truly distinctive country club community. We have transformed 720 acres of natural woodlands, winding creeks and sparkling lakes into the Mariner Sands Country Club Community ... with its 6,800 yard championship golf course and 5 lighted Har-Tru competition tennis courts.

Then we built an elegantly appointed Clubhouse to provide the finest dining, entertainment and pro shop facilities. And, as you would expect, membership in the Country Club is contingent upon approval.

Add to this beautifully designed single-family homes, golf cottages, condominium townhomes and villas – and you begin to see the distinctive quality of life that is Mariner Sands.

For further information, please call (305) 283-7500. Or drive 6 miles south of Stuart on U.S. 1 for a personally conducted tour.

IRCC Itinerary

New Year, New Beginnings

IRCC invites you to begin 1981 with us. There is a wealth of offerings available to you — courses to help you recover from the holidays, college credit classes to lead you to your New Year's goals, Continuing Education courses to assist you with conserving money and energy, television classes for college credit right in your own home, and much, much more. Make a New Year's promise to yourself that you will discover what IRCC has to offer in 1981.

FEEL THE STRESS OF THE HOLIDAYS?

Begin 1981 by relieving the stress accumulated in 1980. The Women's Program offers "Stress Management for Men and Women," from January 15 through February 26. To be held Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon, this class emphasizes relaxation techniques, exercise, and positive ways to channel your stress. Nurses are reminded that this class, as well as many other IRCC classes, is recognized for CEU credits. The Institutional credit registration fee is $9.00. Call Guidance, extension 323, for further information.

BECOME A NURSING ASSISTANT IN /&—/

If your New Year's resolution is to become a Nursing Assistant, you will want to sign up for the IRCC course which prepares you for this career opportunity. The 240 hour program runs January 13 through April 30, meeting on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 6 to 10:00 p.m., and Saturdays from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Registration fee for this Adult Continuing Education course is $5.00, with additional expenses for lab, textbook, insurance and uniform. Upon successful completion, the student will receive a certificate as verification of the training and as a ticket for job hunting. Interviews and registration will be held Friday, January 9 in J-139, the Health Education Office. The 15 student for this session will be selected at that time, so plan to be there. Call the Health Education office at extension 760 for additional information.

DEPLETED CLOTHING BUDGET FROM THE HOLIDAYS?

IRCC offers a variety of sewing classes so you can make up for the clothing funds you spent during the holidays. To know how to operate your sewing machine, you can take "Learning to Use Your Sewing Machine," offered by the Home Economics Department. Instructor Karen Bancroft will teach you the basic and decorative stitches and the attachments on your machine. Or use a college machine if yours is not portable. To begin Wednesday, January 14, this six week course will meet in E 207 from 6:30 to 9:00 p.m. Registration fee is $5.00. Call Guidance for additional information.

Two sewing courses, to be taught by Vera Traversa, are scheduled for the Rosehman Site in Stuart. Beginning Thursday, January 8, you can learn to sew attractive knit tops at 9:00 a.m., and lingerie and bathing suits at 1:00 p.m. Take one or both, at the cost of $5.00 each. Call 283-6550 for further information.

For the person experienced in sewing, the Home Economics Department offers "Advanced Clothing Construction." Available for college or vocational credit, the class focuses on [illegible] construction skills as well as [illegible] sewing techniques. Skills [illegible] for working as an alterationist or [illegible] industrial machine operator will be [illegible] ered, with practice on the college's [illegible] new industrial machines. The class will meet Tuesdays, Thursdays, and alternate Fridays from 12 [illegible] a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Call extension [illegible] for details.

AND DON'T FORGET

Registration for Spring Semester is January 5 and 6, with classes beginning January 7. Guidance Office on campus, campus and the site offices will be open 8:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. for your convenience. Get a good start on the New Year by discovering your community college.

Leslie Szakacs teaches IRCC art

If you enjoy art and would like to try your hand at painting, you will not want to miss the complete art instruction available through the IRCC Continuing Education Division. Leslie Szakacs, a recognized local artist will teach evening classes for both beginners and professionals.

For details and registration information on any of these classes, call the Guidance Office, ext. 323, or stop by the IRCC Public Information Office to pick up a Spring Continuing Education schedule.

Yoga exercise class planned

The Hatha Yoga approach to [illegible] health will be explored in two classes held on Monday and Wednesday mornings at the Environmental Studies Center. Both will be held from 9:30 to 11:30 am for 10 weeks starting January 19 and 21 respectively.

Pat Thuman will instruct [illegible] classes which include pranayama, a preparatory breathing exercise, asanas, the static positions which [illegible] the body and help discipline the mind, and savasana techniques for relaxing all body organs.

The class is open to men and women of all ages. Registration for either class may be accomplished on the first class meeting or in advance by calling Jay Jarrett at 334-1383 weekdays after January 4. Enrollees should wear attire suitable for exercising and may wish to bring a mat.

·SPRING SPORTS·

The Indian River Community College swim teams are off and kicking to another fine start this season. The men, defending National Junior College champions, Asian team championships, are setting new records in nearly every meet as are the Pioneer women. Both teams are gearing up for the approaching National meet which will be held early in March in Rochester, New York. Both squads have good shots to win the National title.

Mike Easom and the IRCC baseball team will start their baseball season on January 30. The Pioneers, 34-20 last year, posted three members of last year's team on the all-state squad. This year, Indian River is out to capture the state title, just as they did in 1979. Abbie Scoggins, a sophomore outfielder from John Carroll High School, is one of IRCC's top hitting prospects. Jeff Lowe and Jim Taylor are a pair of pitchers from Fort Pierce who will try and pitch the Pioneers into next spring's state championship. Port St. Lucie native Jimmie Kemp, Charles Shay of Fort Pierce, and Vero Beachers Ed Nicolaos and Tim Ward will also play key roles in Pioneer baseball this spring.

The Indian River women's tennis team, under the coaching of Dell Grove, will try and top last year's 12-7 record. With several returning sophomores from last year's squad as well as promising freshmen, IRCC will have a strong shot at reaching the Florida state championships.

Men's tennis also appears headed upward after a disappointing season last year. Freshmen Billy McDonald and sophomore Gerald Jon-T-Joe appear to be IRCC's strongest players for the coming season.

WOJNA SIGNS WITH PHILLIES

Ed Wojna, one of Indian River Community College's top baseball pitchers, recently signed a professional baseball contract with the Philadelphia Phillies. The terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Wojna, a 20-year-old sophomore from Monroe, Connecticut, was the top returning pitcher from last year's 30-24 squad. A right-hander, Wojna compiled a 7-3 record with an ERA of 3.14.

On losing his star pitcher, Mike Easom, IRCC's sixth year baseball coach, commented: "Ed could have just put his arm out on the mound and easily won 11 or 12 games this spring."

Wojna was first drafted by the Baltimore Orioles in the sixth round of the January, 1980 draft; Philadelphia tabbed him in the fifth round of the secondary phase of the June, 1980 draft. Wojna signed with Phillie scout Andy Seminick.

Ron Baillargeon

Eric Carithers

·BASKETBALL·

The Indian River Community College basketball Pioneers have been exciting Fort Pierce area fans with their hot shooting, run and gun style of play! The Pioneers are averaging 104 points per home game with a high of 117 in a 117-97 win over Daytona Beach. Indian River's scoring power is being supplied by some great local players as well as recruits from other parts of Florida and the United States. Ed Bagley of Vero Beach, IRCC's 6-3 forward, is the sixth leading scorer in Florida with a 22.4 scoring average. Bagley is also one of the top rebounders among junior college players. Former Fort Pierce Westwood High School Eric Carithers is IRCC's second leading scorer as well as the best free throw shooter in the state. Carithers has yet to miss a foul shot this season.

Ron Baillargeon, a 6-8 center from Lafayette, Louisiana, is IRCC's big man in the middle with a 10 points per game average. Sophomore guard Amp Bush from DeLand, Florida and freshman forward Harry Coles of E. Orange, New Jersey are combining for nearly 36 points a game. Jaynes Culmer for Freeport, Bahamas and Bill Haas, a sophomore guard, are the sparks that pick up the Pioneers when the starting five begin to fade.

Pioneer head coach Mike Leatherwood is about ready to hit the coveted 200 win mark for his 11-year coaching career at Indian River. At this printing, Leatherwood had a 197-106 career record with just three games left before Christmas. IRCC opens the spring semester with four straight home games so Leatherwood is virtually assured of his 200th win by January 15.

Pioneer basketball is exciting and fun with free meals, beach towels, special Christmas gifts and other prizes being given out at every home game. Make sure you get a chance to come out and see the exciting Pioneers in action. You won't be sorry!

IRCC: dimensions in education

Dimensions in education are of a different sort, after all. education deals not in objects and things, but in people, in aspirations and hopes, challenges and goals. The kind of dimensions that concern Indian River Community College are of a human nature: people using education to build higher standards and better lives, people broadening their experience and enlarging their existence through learning, people deepening their understanding and enriching themselves with knowledge. The dimensions, height, breadth, and depth, measure quality of education, the kind of quality education that inspires people to reach new heights, explore broader horizons, and deepen the meaning of their lives, the kind of quality education available at IRCC.

Through its academic and vocational programs, IRCC equips people with the tools to build their own ladders as high as their ideas will take them. For the climb up the career ladder, IRCC offers courses in almost every field aimed toward nearly every vocation. For the climb toward higher education, IRCC offers two-year transfer programs that provide a firm foundation for upper-level studies. Time and again, it has been shown that students who spend their first two years at IRCC go on to higher levels of academic achievement than the average university student. IRCC prepares people for success and motivates them to aim for the very best from themselves. In the truest sense, IRCC means higher education.

Education at IRCC also means a broadening of experience. It is a vehicle that carries people beyond the confines of their daily lives. With its diversity of courses and programs, through its opportunities for lifelong learning and continuing education, in its cultural events and athletic involvements, IRCC provides personal growth and places value on the well-rounded individual. For those who wish to view outer space or explore inner space, listen to experts or become experts, discover new ideas or refresh their skills, IRCC means broader education.

All people benefit from a deeper understanding of themselves and of the world in which they live. As employers and employees, as consumers and conservationists, as parents and children, citizens and friends, as components of a fast paced society and as individuals, all people have many roles to fill. Through special seminars and presentations, discussions, exchanges, community involvement, give and take, IRCC means a richer, fuller life and a deeper understanding of themselves and others.

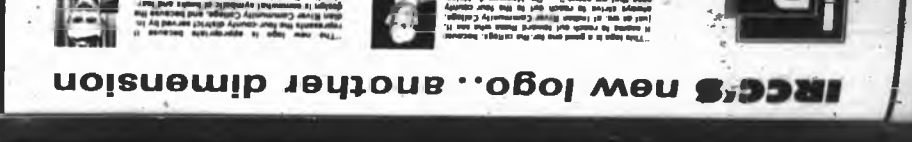
IRCC's new logo.. another dimension



"The new logo is a proud one for Indian River Community College. It represents the fine community college that we are. It represents the high standards that we have set for ourselves and for our students. It represents the quality of the programs we offer. It represents the quality of the faculty and staff of IRCC. It represents the pride we have in IRCC and in the service we provide to the community. The logo is a symbol of excellence, and I am very proud of it." — Dr. Joseph E. Kenny, Chairman, Board of Trustees

"I like the logo. I think it's striking." — Dr. David L. Armstrong, Dean of Students

"The logo is a symbol of IRCC to be sure, but it is also a symbol of the people who have made IRCC what it is today. It represents the many graduates who have gone on to successful careers in their chosen fields. It represents the many students who have benefited from the quality education offered at IRCC. It represents the many citizens who have given their support to the IRCC dream. The logo is a symbol of pride in IRCC for everyone who has ever been associated with the college." — Dr. Edwin A. Massey, Assistant Dean of Instruction

"The logo is a symbol of IRCC as a college of opportunity. It represents the many students who have come to IRCC to prepare themselves for a career. It represents the many students who have transferred to four-year colleges and universities after completing their studies at IRCC. It represents the many students who have returned to IRCC to upgrade their skills. It represents the many students who have come to IRCC to learn for the sheer joy of learning. It represents the many students who have come to IRCC to enrich their lives. It represents the many students who have come to IRCC to broaden their horizons. It represents the many students who have come to IRCC to deepen the meaning of their lives." — Dr. Joseph E. Kenny, Chairman, Board of Trustees
